The New Search for the Holy Grail

Glastonbury Abbey, Somersetshire, England, in the Historic Ruins of Which the Holy Grail Is Being Sought by Engineers in a Scientific Effort to End the Ages-Old Quest.

THE ages-old quest for the Holy Grail has been renewed. The search for the sacred chalice which caught the last drops of blood from the crucified body of the Saviour has been taken up again with all the ardor that animated the guileless Parsifal and those gallant knights of Arthurian legend.

But these modern searchers are not armed with sword, spear and amulet, but with chart, transit and derrick. Their search is being conducted not in the Holy Lands, but amid the ruins of Glastonbury Abbey, in Somersetshire, England. The project is first and last an engineering enterprise, and is being carried out in a practical spirit. It is admitted, however, that the inspiration for this search is a mere legend—a body of folk tales which for nearly two thousand years has associated Glastonbury with the Grail.

According to this story Joseph of Arimathea stood at the foot of the cross while the Roman soldiers were putting the Saviour through his last agonies. When Longinus, the Centurion, drove a spear into His side, Joseph took the cup of the Last Supper and caught the dripping blood. This chalice became the Holy Grail.

Driven from Jerusalem by persecutions Joseph came to England and one of the early Briton Kings—supposed to be Aviagus—gave him sanctuary on a little island bordering his kingdom, an island called Avalon.

Though Aviagus was not a Christian he respected Joseph and his followers because of their sufferings. It is further related that being inspired by a vision Joseph built an edifice to his God—an edifice that was to become known as Glastonbury Abbey, and the first Christian church in England. It was beneath this abbey that Joseph is supposed to have buried the Holy Grail.

The abbey was destroyed by fire, but was rebuilt under the supervision of Henry II. in about the year 1160. It remained one of the most beautiful pieces of architecture in England until the Roundhead rebellion, when it was almost totally destroyed by Cromwell's men. All that remains of the abbey are small patches here and there. It is among these ruins that engineers are now seeking the Holy Grail.

It appears from the numerous folk-tales with which the place is saturated that Glastonbury rests on reclaimed sea land which was once surrounded by swamps and seas that have since vanished. It was then known as Ynyswytrin, the Glassy Island, and it was there that King Arthur and Guinivere and St. Patrick as well, were buried.

The Glastonbury country, as it now exists, is a valley surrounded by three hills, the chief of which is Glastonbury Tor. The northern spur of the Tor is called Chalice Hill. There are the ruins of the abbey and there, supposedly, the Holy Grail is hidden.

Though it is freely admitted that the body of tradition associated with Glastonbury has been greatly embroidered during the passage of the years the archaeologists responsible for the Grail search are firmly convinced that it has a basis of truth. Ralph Adams Cram, the architect in charge of the excavation, points out that tradition is not mere fancy. It is something vital in spirit, he says, though corrupted, perhaps, in the telling. In this respect, the concealment of the sacred chalice may have been made even more effectual by literature built around it as a motif. James Russell Lowell, for instance, in his "Vision of Sir Launfal," discourages physical search for it by defining the Grail as an allegorical something.

And already two other Glastonbury traditions have materialized in the discovery of Edgar chapel and Loretto chapel, both marvelously wrought places of early Briton worship, about 1908. For that reason these practical engineers have a definite hope of finding this cup made from a wonderful stone called exillis—the communion goblet of the Lord's Last Supper, the Holy Grail.

DOMINION VETS WANT ECONOMIC CONFERENCE

Veterans' Alliance Will Place Several Constructive Suggestions Before Parliamentary Committee.

OTHER MATTERS.

OTTAWA, April 15.—(Canadian Press.)—A National Economic Conference to be called by the Federal Government and inclusive of representatives of Provincial Governments and all nationally organized interests, is the unanimous suggestion to be advanced by the Dominion Veterans' Alliance as a necessary step to achieve harmonious co-operation towards readjustment to business and industrial conditions. This, together with a large number of constructive proposals, willl be placed before the Parliamentary Committee on Pensions, insurance and re-establishment, as a result of deliberations of the Legislative Committee of the Alliance here yesterday. The members recognized that while a large percentage of those affected by unemployment conditions were ex-service men, it should be impracticable to attempt steps towards their relief without including the greater group of such economic casualties. The opinion was expressed that such a conference would facilitate Provincial and Community organization for the regulation of employment and improve statistical knowledge necessary for proportionate national development, harmonize pending economic readjustment and restore, in a greater measure, Canadian optimism.

The whole question of general re-establishment of Canadian ex-service men was discussed at length and while it was unanimously agreed that number of suggested amendments to ery man had been placed in relatively the same circumstances he would have occupied but for war service, the means of bringing this about were not arrived at, the question being deferred until the next session to-morrow.

The land settlement scheme for ex-service men was thoroughly discussed and a resolution passed calling for an investigation into the Soldier Settlement Act, the administration thereof under the present system, and the conditions of settlers generally, with a view to bringing about such alterations that may be found necessary to provide for the soldier settler the greatest possible opportunity for improvement and ultimate permanent success. A large number of suggested aendments to the act were agreed upon.

It was agreed to ask for an extension of the time for applications under the Returned Soldiers' Insurance Act from the present period of two years to five years, and the maximum aount of policy be raised fro $5,000 to $10,000. Other minor changes were proposed.

A discussion of the disposal of the Canadian Canteen Funds ensued and will be continued to-day.

The proposals to be advanced to the Parlaimentary Committee are the result of co-ordinating the Legislative programmes of the five principal veterans' organizations in Canada—The Great War Veterans' Association of Canada; The Army and Navy Veterans in Canada; The Grand Army United Veterans, The Imperial Veterans in Canada, and the Tuberculous Veterans' Association.

C. Grant MacNeil, Dominion Secretary of the G.W.V.A., is presiding at the sessions as Chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Dominion Veterans' Alliance.

THE CHURCH'S EASTER MESSAGE

There is a floral meaning to Easter.

And a musical meaning.

And an artistic meaning.

Yet all these are mere echoes and types of the spiritual meaning of the great day which will be kept tomorrow.

Easter is the anniversary of the Resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead.

Church attendance is greater on Easter than on any other day of the year. Some persons will go to church tomorrow who have not done so for months.

The music and the flowers are partly responsible for this; yet we are persuaded that the deep spiritual significance of the day is really the underlying reason. A hunger for the Resurrection note in their lives draws men and women within sound of the Easter message.

These weekly display advertisements have been setting forth that which the Church offers to the world. We have been trying to enumerate some of the valid reasons why men and women should attend church.

But yesterday and tomorrow suggest the loftiest, deepest and most conclusive reason.

GOOD FRIDAY AND EASTER—THE CROSS AND THE OPEN TOMB—ARE THE HEART OF HEARTS OF THE CHURCH'S PLEA, AND OF HER VERY EXISTENCE.

They stand for her message of redemption and life.

> I am the Resurrection and the Life; he that believeth in Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live; and whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die.—John, XI.; 25, 26.

By the Cross and the Tomb the Church is differentiated from all other institutions and organizations. They are the symbols of her divine nature and mission.

The Church's Easter message is Life—freer, fairer, fuller Life. She hears the word of her Lord, "I am come that they might have life, and might have it more abundantly."

Many of us are impoverished of life. Our souls are starved. We lack spirit-vitality. Instead of joyous, buoyant, overflowing lives, we are merely dragging out an existence.

To us all, the Church brings at Easter a message of

A NEW LIFE.
A RISEN LIFE.
A DIVINE LIFE.

Easter is the day of the Eternal Hope. It brings to memory our beloved dead; or most of all, the Redeemer who broke death's power and assures us of a Resurrection.

In every church tomorrow, whatever its name or usage, one may hear, in Scripture, in sermon, and in song, the Message of Life—of the risen life that is lived by Christ's power.

To the hearing of this message we summon the reader, promising him a welcome and an uplift.

THE MEANING OF EASTER IS FOUND ONLY IN THE EASTER MESSAGE.

> Now is Christ risen from the dead and become the first fruits of them that slept. For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead. For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive.—Corinthians, XV.; 20-22.

FROM MILLBROOK AND THE DISTRICT.

Rev. A. I. Snyder Gave a Lecture in the Methodist Church.

MILLBROOK, April 15—The lecture, "The Fun of Being an Irishman," given by Rev. A. I. Snyder, of Brantford, in the Methodist Church on Wednesday evening, was only fairly well attended, the bad roads and stormy weather keeping many away. Rev. S. T. Tucker occupied the chair, and an opening song, "April Showers," by Jean Burnham, Kathleen Freelove and Marjorie Sayles, was much enjoyed, as were also two cornet solos by Mr. G. E. Burnham. The Chairman then introduced the lecturer, who entered at once upon his subject, and for an hour and a half kept his audience both interested and amused.

The Turk, the speaker stated, is of his best when he is murdering his enemy; the negro when devouring a watermelon; the Englishman when eating roast beef and plum pudding; the Scotchman with his plate of porridge, and playing those "infernal things," the bagpipes; the Canadian when going over the top and "giving the Kaiser what's coming to him"; but the Irishman—well, his best contribution to the world's wealth is his inimitable humor, for a hearty laugh unconsciously brings health to soul and mind and body. What is wit? What the fragrance is to the rose, what the bells are to the sleighing party, what children are to the home centre, what the sunshine is to the summer, wit is to society.

God placed, at creation, three kinds of life in the world—plant, animal and human. When He saw grass growing on the new ground, the trees in the new forests and flowers in the new gardens, He said, "It is good"; when He saw the animals roving in the new forests, the birds flying in the new air and the fishes swimming in the new waters, again He said, "It is good"; but when God saw the first man, He said, "It is very good"; and that first man was an Irishman. How do I prove this? When God came suddenly and asked, "Adam, where art thou?" Adam answered at once, "I'm here." An Englishman would have said, "I really cawn't say, don't you know"; a Scotchman wouldn't have thought up a reply till the middle of next week; only an Irishman could have answered so readily.

England is famous for having the largest city in the world; in London you will find the greatest wealth and the greatest poverty, the greatest intelligence and the greatest ignorance. Scotland is famous for her high mountains and deep valleys, for her people, with their love of creed and of the Sabbath day (but they love themselves best of all). Japan has the most active people in the world; you never see any one standing still in Japan, and there are no beggars in that land. The Chinese are the most industrious of all peoples, tilling the soil right up to the very doorsteps; China will be heard from yet. Canada's fame lies in her magnificent wheat fields. The speaker stated that he had travelled through Saskatchewan and Alberta when they were one great harvest field, 1,000 miles long and 300 miles wide. But Ireland has been busy growing men—the greatest asset any country can have. She has provided more than 5,000,000 of these who have left her shores for other lands (there are 1,000,000 in Canada today), and has received none in return. Wherever you look you may see Irishmen at the head of affairs, whether as statesmen, orators or in mercantile life. The late Timothy Eaton was an Irishman and Henry Ford's father was born in Ireland. There are 12,500,000 cars in the world—500,000 of these are in Canada—but if there were no Henry Ford, how many would there be?

The fun of being an Irishman consists in his ability to see wealth where it is and to enjoy it now; also in their supreme dignity, for though they have the poorest country in the world, yet they are rich in themselves. These points the speaker cleverly illustrated by several humorous stories, covering the pulpit, the war, school, the bench, etc. More is expected from the Irish people than from any other. Supposing the title of this lecture had been announced as "The Fun of Being an Englishman," an Indian, a Chinaman or an Italian, how many of you would have come out this stormy night to hear it?

Irish wit is the only wit in the world that won't hurt you; without a sting, balmy, smooth, "awee bit of oil in it." If God hasn't given you the gift of humor, you can't get it; if He has, you can't lose it. The concluding portion of his address Mr.. Synder devoted to the story of an investment made in the Master's name by Stephen Merritt, an Irish millionaire and philanthropist of New York, with whom he had personal acquaintance in the life of a man, once a prominent lawyer but down and out through drink. This investment has paid a one hundred per cent. dividend in the reclamation of the life to usefulness and success of his profession, and through him many others have been helped to break away from the appetite which enslaved and was leading to ruin both of family and business life.

The singing of the National Anthem brought the evening to a close.

UNSIGHTLY PIMPLES AND FACE ERUPTIONS

In the Spring Most People Need a Tonic Medicine

One of the surest signs that the blood is out of order is the pimples unsightly eruptions and eczema that come frequently with the change from winter to spring. These prove that the long indoor life of winter has had its effect upon the blood, and that a tonic medicine is needed to put it right. Indeed, there are few people who do not need a tonic at this season. Bad blood does not merely show itself in disfiguring eruptions. To this same condition is due attacks of rheumatism and lumbago; the sharp stabbing pains of sciatic and neuralgia; poor appetite and a desire to avoid exertion. You cannot get rid of these troubles by use of purgative medicines—you need a tonic, and a tonic only, and among all medicines there is none can equal Dr.. UNABLE TO WALK FOR A YEAR

Paralysis Entirely Relieved by "Fruit-a-tives"

The Wonderful Fruit Medicine

Paralysis is a break-down of the Nervous System and affects the victim in various ways. Sometimes, nervousness makes itself known by hysteria, insomnia, constant headaches, or it may be so bad that one is partially or completely helpless in some part of the body, just as Mrs. Heacock was.

SAULT STE MARIE, ONT.

"When I was twenty-eight years of age, my doctor advised me to have an operation, which I did and it proved very serious, leaving me weak and unable to walk for a year. Seeing your "Fruit-a-tives" advertised in the papers, I decided to try them. I continued to use them regularly, and today I am able to go about my home duties and care for my family".

MRS. J. W. HEACOCK.

Any form of Nervousness is often caused by, and is always aggravated by, Constipation, which poisons the blood, irritates the kidneys and inflames the nerves. "Fruit-a-tives" stimulates the action of liver and bowels, kidneys and skin—tones and sweetens the stomach—keeps the blood pure, and builds up the entire nervous system.

In a word, "Fruit-a-tives" has proved that it is the most scientific and effective remedy in the world for Nervousness or a disordered condition of the nervous system.

50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At dealers or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

THERE WAS A GHOST.

NEW YORK, April 15.— (Canadian Press.) — There really was a ghost in Antigonish, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle declared yesterday.

Mary Ellen was not the ghost, but the medium of a ghost, which was that, Sir Arthur believes, of some naughty boy, whom even death could not cure of his mischievousness.

Concerning them. Mrs. Saluste Pelletier, St. Dumas, Que., writes:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets for the past ten years and am never without them in the house. They have always given the greatest satisfaction and I glady recommend them to all mothers of little ones." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or direct by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SPECIAL SERVICE FOR GOOD FRIDAY.

Annual Protestant Community Service Was Well Attended.

The annual Protestant Community Service, to commemorate the Great Sacrifice of Good Friday, was held yesterday afternoon at the Murray street Baptist church, under the auspices of the Ministerial Associaton of this city. Murray street church members being hosts on this occasion, the pastor took no part in the services, which were conducted by Rev. R. B. Grobb, assisted by Rev. McGergor Fraser, of Gilmour Memorial Church, and Rev. Mr. Malott.

The services were of an hour and a quarter's duration, occupied entirely with the subject of the Crucifixion, the speakers being Rev. J. A. Mackenzie and Rev. W. R. Courage. Mrs. Dorthy Allan Park sang very sweetly, "Just as I Am."

GOOD MUSIC AT ALL SAINT'S

Last evening the choir of All Saints' Anglican Church gave a delightful rendering of Stainer's "Crucifixion." This music had not been given for two years, but last night both music and text came out with renewed freshness, and it is doubtful if better music has been written to suit the solemnity of the subject. The choir was at nearly full strength, although there were some unavoidable absentees. The work of the choir isters was very finished and full, and it was evident that they thoroughly knew the music, and were led at the entire will of the conductor through its various intricacies—in fact, it was chorally a musical treat.

The soloists were all members of the choir, and without exception sang their various roles to the entire enjoyment of the large congregation. The soloists were: Tenors, Mr. Geo. E. Chandler and Mr. R. Brown; basses, Mr. T. H. Boddy, Mr. George East, Mr. W. Gatfield, and Mr. W. Cooper.

Mrs. Percy Hooper was the assisting violinist, and gave a splendid rendering of "Ave Maria," also assisting through the choral numbers.

During the offertory, Miss Doris Rathbone sang "He Was Despised," from Handel's "Messiah," with great feeling and in beautiful voice. This number, with violin and organ accompaniment, was a fitting finish to a beautiful devotional service.

Rev. R. B. Grobb read the lesson and prayers before the service. Mrs. Logan ably presided at the organ, and the choir was conducted in a very efficient manner by the choirmaster, Mr. George E. Chandler, who must hav been proud of the work of the choir last night.

A NOTED PREACHER ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

The Rev. L. S. Chafer, D.D. of Philadelphia, the distinguished Bible teacher, will preach at both services in St Paul's on Sunday. Mr. Chafer has conducted two series of Bible Conferences in St. Paul's in the past and on both occasions with great acceptance. He devotes himself nearly altogether to the work of Bible teaching. He is also an author whose works are in wide circulaton. He has just published a new volume on the subject of "Grace." Mr. Chafer is in the city especially at the invitation of the Interdenominational Bible Class which has been meeting each Tuesday evening and which is taught by the Rev. Mr. Doner. This large class which is composed of members of all the churches, came into existence as a result of Mr. Chafer's last visit to Peterboro.

He will also speak on Monday and Tuesday evening in Bethany Tabernacle. As he stands firmly on the great fundamental doctrines of the Bible, no lover of Bible truth should miss hearing him.

Seasoning doubles the strength of green wood.

W.M.S, ST. JAMES METHODIST CHURCH

A beautiful Easter service, held on Wednesday evening, closed a very successful year for the W. M. S. of St. James' Methodist Church. The President, Mrs. J. F. Chapman, presided with her usual grace, and, notwithstanding the rainy weather, a large numbor were in attendance.

The programme, all in keeping with Eastertide, opened with singing and prayer, and was followed with a responsive Easter service, in which all took part. Miss Shearer, missionary on furlough from China, in her interesting address, gave very vivid glimpses of the work being accomplished among the women and girls in the training schools, in her special field of labor—Kongmoon.

The beautiful duet given by Miss Margaret Wright and Mr. E. Rowe was very much enjoyed. A touching thankoffering story was ably told by Mrs. T. Browne.

Rev. Mr. Chapman closed the meeting with prayer.

At an earlier hour the business meeting of the W. M. S. had been held, and the following executive elected: President, Mrs. Rev. J. F. Chapman; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. Sollitt; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. Welbourne; Recording Secretary, Miss M. Kidd; Cor. Secretary, Mrs. Rowe; Treasurer, Mrs. Brown; Secretary Strangers' Committee, Miss A. Emerson; Secretary Christian Stewardship, Mrs. W. Rose; Mission Band Leader, Mrs. Barton; Pianist, Mrs. Sollitt; Auditors, Mrs. Rose and Mrs. Wagar; Delegate to Branch Meeting, Mrs. Rowe.

The Salvation Army Temple

To-night and all day to-morrow there will be very special services in the Salvation Army Temple, conducted by Envoys Burditt and Allward. The Envoys have travelled a great deal throughout the Army world, and much good has been accomplished.

Envoy George Burditt has seen service in India. In the early days of pioneering he was one of the officers chosen by General Booth for the purpose of carrying the message of the Gospel to the dark benighted heathen. On his return from India he was transferred to Canada, where he commanded many Corps, and, as a divisional officer and Provincial officer for Western Canada, he put in a good foundation for God and the Army, a foundation that his successors have been building on ever since his farewell from that command some years ago. The Envoy is a very able preacher, and if you will come to any one of our services you will be thrilled with the message.

Envoy Allward has been an officer for the last thirty years or more. In this country he has toiled day and night for the purpose of saving the souls of men and women. The Envoy is a big man with a big heart, and is ever ready for service. He will deliver a message at one of the services this week-end. Both of the Envoys were stationed at Peterborough some years ago. Special music has been arranged for all services by the Band and Songsters. At 11 a.m. we have a dedication ceremony. Songster Leader and Mrs. Wilson are having their little child dedicated to God and the Army. Enrollment of recruits at 3 p.m. To the public we say welcome.

At 6.30 to-morrow morning the Band, Songsters and Local Corps will meet at the Temple for the early morning march. 7 a.m., Knee drill. Come.

THIS MAN GOULD NOT WALK A MILE

WILLIAM GRAHAM SHOUTS THE PRAISES OF DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Hurt in 1919 He Searched in Vain for the Remedy He Needed Till He Started to Use Dodd's Didney Pills.

LINDSAY, Ont., April 14.—(Special.)— Mr. William Graham, who lives at 162 Queen street here, is shouting the praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills. And when he tells the reason why the story is truly wonderful.

"I was hurt in 1919, Mr. Graham states, "the nerves in my left leg and arm were paralyzed. I was in such shape I could not walk a mile. I could not go out at night as I would be sure to fall over.

"I tried eleven doctors and used different liniments but got no benefit. Then I started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills and they did me a lot of good. Now I can walk fifteen miles. I recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to all sufferers."

Dodd's Kidney Pills put the kidneys in shape to strain all the impurities out of the blood. That means pure blood. Pure blood means good circulation and that means new strength carried to all parts of the body.

Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills do not make strong, healthy kidneys.

LIVESTOCK OF LOW GRADE

Kansas City Star: Strictly speaking, there are a few farm animals left in the United States that have not had the benefit of some improvement in breeding, and on the whole we have taken long steps toward the grading up of our farm stock. But a survey of the situation will convince anyone that the average grade of American livestock is lamentably low. Only a fraction of a per cent. of our animals are pure bred and, unfortunately, in most cases only a small per cent of the sires used are of this class.

"THE DARKEST HOUR" BY ST. JOHN'S CHOIR.

Effective Presentation of New Dramatic Production.

St. John's Good Friday services ended with a very impressive presentation of Harold Moore's composition, "The Darkest Hour," by the choir last night. A large congregation asembled to hear a dramatic reproduction of the world's greatest tragedy, sung for the first time in this city. The singing of the choir was very fine, and hearty congratulations were extended to the choristers and to Mr. R. J. Devey after the service. St. John's Choir is purely voluntary, and all the solo parts were commendably interpreted by regular members. The most exacting part of "Jesus" was effectively sung by Mr. Deely Jones, baritone; "Pilate," by Mr. H. W. Morphet, tenor; "Caiaphas," by Mr. Fred Johnson, bass; Narrators, Mrs. Ryerson Ritchie and Mrs. A. L. Amys. One of the most beautiful numbers in the work was finely sung by Mrs. W. G. Perks, soprano, and Mr. F. C. Roberts, tenor, with subdued choral accompaniment. The chorus of men gave a good account of their part, especially in the trial scene, and the softly sung "And Now Beloved Lord, Thy Soul Resigning."

Mr. R. J. Devey ably presided at the organ. Rev. Dr. Blagrave conducted the introductory service, and pronounced the benediction, also thanking the choir in the vestry for their excellent work. The hymns, "When I Survey," "In the Lord's Atoning Grief," and "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," were sung by choir and congregation.

Previous works given by St. John's Choir on Good Friday night in former years were Stainer's "Crucifixion," and Maunder's" Olivet to Calvary." "The Darkest Hour" has a magnificent chorus, "The Royal Banners Forward Go," which amply repaid the choristers for the time spent on its preparation alone.

A collection for the choir fund was taken up.

DECLINES THE OFFER.

REGINA, April 15. — (Canadian Press).—Premier Dunning has announced that Saskatchewan has declined to accept Premier King's offer to return natural resources to the Province on the basis of "ignoring the transactions of the past." With reference to the alternative suggestion that an accounting be made by an independent tribunal, he said this would be acceptable, provided accounting took into consideration the compensation for all lands alienated for the advantage of the Dominion.

Experts "Knock" Women's Food Sense

Experts say women choose foods for "filling quality," for "appearance," that "they will not listen when told refined cereals and white flour are devitalized, and should be compensated by whole grain cereals to make up for deficiencies"—and that "then they wonder why their children are undersized, over fat, pale, have poor teeth, adenoids, tonsilitis, constant colds, colonic catarrh and appendicitis."

Roman Meal, designed by a physician to compensate deficiencies in modern diet, contains three whole grains. It is very rich in protains, minerals and vitamines, the essential growth principles. Roman Meal makes delicious porridge, muffins, pancakes, puddings, etc. Used some way, every day, it prevents indigestion and positively relieves constipation. Just try it. At grocers. 87

How I Earn $15 to $25 a week at home in my SPARE TIME

By Wm. S. Coulthard

I needed more money.

I had a lot of time on my hands in the evenings, Saturday afternoon, etc.—for I had no hobby—and besides my expenses had been mounting fast—so you will see the receptive mood I was in when I saw your little ad. "MAKE MONEY AT HOME."

I sent for your free booklet.

I read it.

Your plan looked good to me—your guarantee so liberal—and on investigation I found you were reliable, so I accepted your offer. If others could make money by your plan, I could.

That was less than a year ago.

Now I am earning $15.00 to $25.00 a week, each week, writing show cards in my spare time. In addition to this, I still hold my regular job, and my salary has been increased there, too. I believe my spare time work has made me better satisfied with life, and so I'm doing my regular work better.

I have been offered positions writing show cards, but I am not interested, as my present position is perfectly satisfactory, but I certainly am glad I enrolled in your school—my spare time money is exceedingly attractive. Besides, I find show card writing an interesting occupation that fills in those evening hours that used to drag so. In fact, it is really a hobby now with me—and a profitable one, as you can well imagine. Only last week I received a check from your school for $70.00 for work done over the last three desks. Of course, you'd have paid me regularly each week if I'd bothered about it, but I was too busy to tell you the amount of work I'd finished.

There are times, however, that I feel show card writing by your simple method is almost too good a thing—that's when I have so many orders ahead that I cannot see my way clear to finish them—and have to turn down work.

Your system of supplying work to your students has certainly helped me, but sometimes you send too much—I'm only working at it in my spare time, you know. Please note this, and don't try to overload me too much.

By the way, I think you'll be interested to know that previous to enrolling in your school I had never tried my hand at any work of this nature.

I'm glad to thank you for what you've done for me—and you can certainly use my name and tell prospective students, for I'll be doing anyone a real good turn if I can help them get started in this profitable work.

Yours sincerely,
WM. S. COULTHARD.

NOTE:—The above is the story of Mr. Coulthard. It tells of facts, for Show Card Writing offers a marvellous opportunity to both men and women, either for spare time or full time work. What Mr. Coulthard has done and is doing, you can do. Colbran, Dusenberry, Wendt, Blade, Penison, Charles, Wright, Babicz and many other men have proved it. Mrs. Litherdale, Mrs. Lush, Mrs. Le Moine and dozens of housewives have added to the family income in this way. Girls like Misses MacDonald, Clegg, Bordreau and Hoyle are but a few of those who have bettered their positions in this pleasant way. All these owe their success to the American Show Card School method of training—the old established school which has trained hundreds to make money in SHOW CARDS. The American Show Card School will gladly send you full particulars if you but send your name and address to them. Use this Coupon.

The story goes that the origin of the saying, "Hay foot, straw foot," arose out of the difficulty experienced by a sergeant with a bunch of raw recruits from the farm, who were slow in distinguishing between "right foot, left foot." They were ordered, therefore, to tie a bunch of hay to one foot and of straw to the other, to facilitate matters. In the army, so it is said, one advances the left foot first in all manoeuvres, and perhaps then that might be called "hay foot." At any rate, the point of the story is this, that when you walk, you lift the right foot in an entirely different way to its mate. If an enquiring observer wishes to look into the matter closely, let him go down to the Grand Trunk Station, say, some evening, and watch the people advancing up the dark platform with the light behind them. The right foot swings forward from the hip in a most decided, straightforward manner in most cases, while the left comes along in much slower fashion, with the upward spring describing a sort of half circle in the air before it finally lands with a more hesitating tread.

JESUS' ATTITUDE TOWARD WOMEN.

An article in the Y. W. C. A. Monthly for March of this year, written by A. Maude Royden, England's brilliant woman lecturer and social worker, entitled "The Goal of the World's Womanhood," comments on the originality of Jesus' attitude to women. According to the writer, the attitude of Christ toward womanhood was the one commanding exception in an age-old attitude of society, in considering them as secondary and subservient to men. Miss Royden says:

"Our Lord said nothing about women. He never told us what virtues we should practice, what ideals we should aim at, or what sphere we should occupy. He spoke neither of motherhood, wifehood nor the home; He commended neither chastity nor meekness nor obedience to one sex more than to another. On one occasion He, being challenged, replied with evident disgust at the challengers by demanding an equal standard of morals from both sexes. On another He rebuked a woman for being too much absorbed in domestic work. He gave the loftiest spiritual teaching to men and women so impartially that it is impossible to divine the sex of his interlocutor unless one is familiar with the context."

A recent visitor to Peterborough, a layman speaking on "The Empty Tomb," of the first Easter morn, remarked on the fidelity of the women who believed in Christ's assertion that He would rise. While His apostles and disciples slept, the women waited in the early morning, and the angel, this man asserted, was placed at the tomb to reward their faithfulness with word of the risen Lord.

LADIES WORKING FOR MOTOR SHOW.

Ladies' organisations have done much in past years to further the success of the annual Motor Show, and this year they are not failing in their efforts. The Business Girls' Club has taken charge of the candy counter, the 57th Chapter, I.O.D.E., have the sale of flowers, with the Peter Robinson Chapter looking after the dance hall, and the Otonabee Chapter supervising the tearoom. The King's Daughters will conduct a novelty "orange tree," and sell fancy work; ice-cream will be dispensed by the Thursday Club; and coffee and doughnuts by the Catholic Women's League. Sale of sundry articles will be in charge of Mrs. C. G. Graham.

Besides the usual attractions of orchestra and concert, there will be a minstrel show on hand this year, and a wireless radio concert every evening, if circumstances permit. There will also be a nightly demonstration and explanation of the principles of the wireless telephone.

EASTER.

Hail the bright and blessed day,
When at morn's first roseate ray
From the solemn, silent gloom
Of the rock-hewn, seal set tomb
Jesus, from death's cold sleep woke,
Those fetters that had bound Him broke
And burst from that dark prison free,
To life and immortality!

Death and the grave combined in vain
Captive their Conqueror to detain.
He rose triumphant and holds sway
In Heaven and earth, a King for aye.
His rising, pledge and proof supplies
That we, too, from the dust shall rise;
First-fruit of that great harvest He,
Which some glad day for us shall be.

Praise, honor, blessing let us give
To Him Who died that we might live;
And from the dead arose again
That we might follow in His strain.
Earth, which so long has prostrate lain
'Neath shrouding snows, revives again,
Spring's myriad voices tell abroad
The resurrection power of God.

Sunshine, soft showers and balmy air,
Sweet flowers, verdue everywhere--
All Nature sings in joyful strain,
That Christ the Lord is risen again.

MRS. W. R. MORRIS IS LADY DELEGATE.

The local Ladies' Auxiliary to the G.W.V.A. will have the honour next week of sending its honorary president, Mrs. W. R. Morris, as the only lady delegate to the convention of the Ontario Provincial Command of the G.W.V.A., which takes place in Ottawa on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of next week.

Mrs. Morris is Provincial President of the Ladies Auxiliary to the G.W.V.A., of which Peterborough has a thriving branch society, and has been invited to address the convention on Thursday next, on the subject of "The Ladies' Auxiliary."

The weekly news letter which records veterans' affairs in Canada, in the section devoted to "The Ladies' Auxiliaries," says:

"Mrs. W. R. Morris, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the G.W.V.A. in Ontario, has reported an increase in the number of branch auxiliaries from 53 to 65. Among the places where auxiliaries have recently been organised in connection with G.W.V.A. branches are Amigari, Fort Erie, Sudbury, Kitchener, Richmond Hill, and North Bay.

"The work accomplished by the women's organisations has been described as one of the vitalising factors of the G.W.V.A. Mrs. Morris emphasised this point in her recent report when she stated: 'Cordial relations between G.W.V.A. branches and the branch auxiliaries must increase the usefulness of both bodies. The women of the auxiliaries are learning at first hand of the efforts being made by the G.W.V.A. to help all veterans and feel honoured in being asked to assist in this work.'"

The opening meeting of the Ottawa Convention will be addressed by the Hon. W. L. Mackenzie-King and the Hon. E. C. Drury. Just five years ago, the first Ontario convention was held in Ottawa, with 27 delegates present, all of whom had been returned to Canada as unfit for further active service.

EASTER BONNETS.

So now we come to Easter,
When Lenten days have fled,
And everyone's a feaster
At Spring's delightful spread;
When we greet one another
In joyous, friendly chat
And—take a look at mother
In her
new, spring
hat!

Oh there's a fluff of lace,
A sheen of smoothest silk
And lots of lovely faces
And skins as white as milk;
Bright eyes are all aglister,
We love to gaze thereat,
And—take a look at sister
In her
new,
hat!

In dresses rather scanty
Here comes a natty pair—
They're grandmamma and auntie
Dolled up to take the air.
Then, bright and smart as may be,
There's Jimmy, wearing spats,
And little Sue and Baby
In their new,
hats!

But—who's this dowdy creature
That's shambling in the rear,
This person, glum of feature,
Who seems ill-suited here?
Let's throw him out!—Oh bother,
We really can't do that
For that is dear old father
In his last

CHINK SEAMEN ASK FOR AN INCREMENT.

Last November the Chinese Seamen's Union, under the leadership of P. S. Cham, a former waiter on one of the trans-Pacific liners, asked for an increase of 30 per cent. in wages for all men earning over $30.00, and a 40 per cent. increase for those receiving under $30.00. The strike spread from the seamen to wharf workers, and in March was reported to have brought in other organisations. The wording of the notice which the Hong Kong men sent to all masters when the crews were taken off, reads:

"To the Captain, Dear Sir.—We, seamen, serving on board various steamers in view of the high cost of living, have respectedly written to our boss requesting them to favour us with an increment. Not having been able to arrive at satisfactory result, we have at last turned our tendency to seeking of some other profession within 24 hours from above date."

BLIND.

The spring blew trumpets of color;

I heard a blind man groping
"Tap-tap" with his cane;

I pitied him in his blindness;
But can I boast, "I see"?
Perhaps there walks a spirit
Close by, who pities me—

A spirit who hears me tapping
The five-sense cane of mind
Amid such unguessed glories—
That I was worse than blind.

Household Suggestions

STERILIZER.

The tea kettle can be an efficient sterilizer for baby's water, if the mouth of the spout is closed with a cork. This keeps the steam inside so it will react on the water.

FURNITURE.

Whenever you get a disinterested neutral feeling about the home, try changing the furniture around. A change in the setting often renews vigor and interest in the household.

WALL PAPER.

Persons who "don't know what ails them" may find a cure in the choice of a wall paper that suits their tastes. It has been proven that wall paper can produce nervousness and irritability, if its tone clashes with the feelings of anyone in the house.

DAMP TOWELS.

Never throw damp towels down a clothes chute. If left there for several days they will become mouldy.

COOK BOOK MARKS.

If there are favorite recipes in your cook book, mark them with small book marks. Turning back the pages soon wears the corners off.

SAVES TROUBLE.

A small piece of screen will save a lot of trouble if placed over the sink drain when you are pouring refuse into the sink. It will catch most of the refuse and let the water run through.

STARCH.

It is best to wash out a starch pan as soon as you are through using the starch. Otherwise the starch sticks to the sides and makes it much more difficult to clean.

CANNED FRUIT.

With the canning season drawing close it is well to remember to keep canned goods in a dark room. They will keep much better this way.

PIMPLES ON FACE
DIDN'T LIKE TO GO OUT

Those nasty little pimples that break out on the face and other parts of the body are simply indications that the blood is out of order and requires purifying.

There is only one way to get rid of this obnoxious skin trouble, and that is by giving the blood a thorough cleansing which can best be done by that old reliable blood medicine, and when the blood is purified the pimples will vanish and you will have a clear, healthy complexion.

Miss Mary E. Flangan, R. R. No. 3, Stella, Ont., writes: "I have suffered for about two years with pimples and blotches breaking out on my face. The doctor said it was caused by bad blood. My face was so bad I didn't like to go out among a crowd of people. One day I was talking to a friend, and she advised me to get a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and try it. I took three bottles, and there was not a blotch or pimple of any kind left. Some of my friends asked me what I had used and I said, "Burdock Blood Bitters chased them."

SCOPE OF HYDRO ENQUIRY DEFINED.

TORONTO, April 15. Canadian Press. — The question of salaries of W. D. Gregory and his colleagues on the Royal Commisson to probe the Chippawa development scheme, has not been settled by the Drury Government.

It is understood that the arrangement between the government and the commission is simply that they will accept at the conclusion of the investigation what the government deems a fair remuneration for their services.

Hon. Manning Doherty stated yesterday that although powers givers given the commission provide a wide scope there is no intention to have the commission delve into Hydro administration generally.

TORTURED BY PILES FOR YEARS; RELIEVED BY INTERNAL BATHS

If you are troubled with piles, constipation or biliousness, don't begin taking drugs.

If you bathe internally with the J. B. L. Cascade you will find yourself always bright, confident and capable. Poisonous waste in the lower intestine is the cause to which a score of common ailments may be traced.

Mr. A. M. Steele, Cupar, Sask., writes: "I had been troubled with my stomach, Piles and Constipation for years until I had become very thin and looked 20 years older. A leading doctor in Regina told me that the main canal was badly ulcered. I gradually became worse, until one day, when purchasing a threshing outfit from Mr. Russell, of Regina, Mr. Russell noticed my condition and said: 'I can cure you. Get a J. B. L. Cascade.' Well, I did so, and the first night I used it I slept all night for the first time in weeks, and in a short time felt quite myself again. It also cured my piles, which had troubled me for years."

The Internal Bath is a simple and easy treatment, by the application of warm water. It should be available in every home.

The J. B. L. Cascade is the only perfected appliance for Internal Bathing. It is shown and explained at Warne Drug Company, Peterborough.

BITTEN BY VICOUS DOG.

ive-Year Old Boy Attacked When He Tried to Order the Animal Away.

Mrs. George Palmer, of 483 Albert street, has complained to the police that her little five year old son was bitten three times on the face on Thursday by a dog that is owned in the neighborhood. The dog, which had become quite vicious of late, had attached itself to the Palmer family and when Mr. and Mrs. Palmer tried to shoo it away the dog turned, snapping at them. On Thursday the little boy ordered the dog off the verandah and it immediately sprang at him, biting him through the nose and lip. To-day the injuries which were dressed by Dr. Hervey, did not look to be as serious as when first examined. In the meantime the police have ordered the dog to be locked up for ten days for observation purposes.

PETERBOROUGH'S FINEST ORCHESTRA

AT THE THEATRES

GRAND—Saturday, April 15.—Kibbel's stupendous production, "Uncle Tom's Cabin.

CAPITOL—Wm. Fox's super-special production, "The Last Trail, and balance of a super-class of film features.

ROYAL—Special first run production of Norma Talmadge in "The Wonderful Thing; also other features and comedy.

REGENT—J. Warren Kerrigan in the "House of Whispers", and Miss Dupont in the "Golden Gallows".

AT THE ROYAL.

OUR NEW SERVICE.

The Royal Theatre, as a result of several weeks' endeavor, has succeeded in securing an exclusive franchise for Peterborough for first run pictures of the celebrated First National Film Co. This means that the Royal's programme will not only include the best class of pictures in the world, but we will present the most noted actors and actresses of filmdom. Amongst these actors are included the leading high-class stars who work for this company alone.

Our record attendance on Saturday proved that the public appreciated the appearance of our first First National Co. picture, with Norma Talmadge in the leading role. As our patrons are our judges, we feel confident that this new addition to our attractions will meet with general approval. For Monday we present Hope Hampton in 'Stardust,' a powerful story of how a young woman from the Middle States makes a great name and wins success on the New York stage. This is a First National great play with gripping interest. Then we have a six-reel Herald feature called "Discontented Wives," with J. P. McGowan in the leading role. This is a virile drama of the East and the West, wherein a wife grows weary of eternal hardships and self-sacrifice. The husband is blind to everything but the lure of gold, which did not satisfy his wife. The Western scenes are taken in the California mountains, and are wonderfully artistic. The Royal has also secured the local production of first run Pathe pictures. The word Pathe is too well-known for excellence in pictures to require further comment. For Monday we have a Pathe hunting adventure called "Catching a Coon Alive," that is most interesting. Last but not least, for Monday, we have another of the irresistibly funny Toonerville comedies called "A Toonerville Tangle." This shows the funny old skipper in new and ludicrous situations. With such a programme as this our patrons are assured of entertainment that cannot be excelled at any theatre in Canada, no matter what you pay. However, our prices remain the same.

AT THE REGENT.

THE STORY OF MILESTONES.

The charming story is told in three episodes, showing the characters first in the year 1860, then in 1885 and finally in 1910, thus giving exceptional opportunity for period costumes as well as quaint settings, features which make a strong appeal to almost all persons interested in motion pictures and especially to women.

The aim of the authors is to show the bitter opposition of the older generation against the more modern ideas, progress and romance of the younger generation. This is done by tracing through three periods the fortunes of the Rhead and Sibley families. In each of the first two episodes the older generation succeeds to a great extent in discouraging and blocking the progressive trend of the new generation and in controlling the romantic destinies of the young men and women. But in the modern episode both modern progress and romance are triumphant and John Rhead, now an old man, is forced to bow before the inevitable and admit his defeat.

But a mere rehearsal of the plot can give no idea of the beautiful simplicity and quaint appeal of this story as it unfolds in the picture—that appeal which, as a play, won for it hundreds of thousands of enthusiastic admirers.

"IDOLS OF CLAY" NEW FITZMAURICE FILM

Picturesque Backgrounds for Thrilling Picture-Story By Ouida Bergere.

The langorous South Sea Islands mingle with London's Limehouse slums in George Fitzmaurice's latest production, "Idols of Clay," which will have its first local showing at the Regent Theatre netx Monday. Mae Murray and David Powell are the featured players. The story was written by Ouida Bergere.

The central characters are Faith Merrill, a pretty, innocent creature living with her father, Jim Merrill, a derelict, and his dissolute partner, Blinky, on an obscure South Sea Island. Merrill and Blinky sell illicit rum to the natives in return for smuggled pearls. To the island comes Dion Holme, a young sculptor, who is drifting around the world in the effort to forget an unfortunate affair with a Lady Cray, in London. Faith picks him up half-conscious on the beach, and under her care not only his health, but his considerable talent for working in clay returns. Later, Jim Merrill is killed in a drunken brawl and Dion, completely restored, returns to London to take up his career again.

The exciting adventures that befall Faith when she attempts to follow him form the remainder of the action.

Capitol Entertainment

First anniversary week of Peterboro's Theatre Beautiful, a special programme has been selected for this week. For the first three days the feature picture presentation will be a William Fox production, "Footfalls" an eight-reel super-special—Snub Pollard comedy, Pathe News, Topics of the Day, "White Eagle"-fourth episode, added attraction By special request, Flora Shaw, Torontos favorite soprano, in classic songs and popular ballads.

A distinct photoplay novelty is promised in "Footfalls" the William Fox super-special which will begin a three day run, starting next Monday. New York reviewers and audiences hailed the production as a notable motion picture achievement.

Those who have read the story of "Footfalls" by Wilbur Daniel Steele, which was awarded first prize as the best short story published in America in 1920, by the O. Henry Committee, of the Society of Arts and Sciences, will wonder how it could be presented faithfully as a picture play, for the central idea hinges upon sound and hearing. It is said, however, that William Fox and Director Charles J. Brabin, by means of a number of ingenious devices, have achieved a sort of screen miracle in this regard, giving a vivid impression of the sound and hearing of footfalls throughout.

"Footfalls" is declared to be a gripping and thrilling mystery photoplay, a cinedrama of an entirely new type. It deals with the experiences of a blind cobbler in a little New England fishing village. Hiram Scudder developed an extremely acute sense of hearing and a faculty which enables him not only to recognize any resident of the village by the sound of his or her footfalls, but to sense the state of mind of his intimates in the same way. The footfalls the blind man listens for most earnestly are those of an assassin whom he feels sure will return some day to the scene of this crime.

The cast includes Tyrone Power in the role of the blind cobbler, Estelle Taylor, Tom Douglas and Gladden James.

AT THE CAPITOL.

The screen production of Zane Grey's western story, "The Last Traill," is at the Capitol for the last time this evening, one of the most interesting Western films shown here in some time. The romance and mystery, the restless action, the quick-firing, hard-riding atmosphere of Zane Grey's novels are reproduced faithfully in the screen version of "The Last Traill," with the bronzed, yellow-haired, temperamental heroine. The element of mystery adds spice to the picture.

Is John King the "Night Hawk," who plunders stage coaches, and kills guards in wild night hours, or is the girl's fiance the ruthless, daring bandit? The mystery remains unsolved through scenes that include a wild ride on the calico pony, Cyanide, away from a lynching party, an interval in the Caitina del Toro, with the Spanish dancing girl, a fight on top of the huge dam's retaining wall, and the final dynamiting of the dam itself, when the black flood pours out in a cascade of tumbling, leaping waters that carry everything before them. There is a final humorous ending, with Chiquita demanding the rescue of her dog by her enamored swain, the head of the lynching bee, and the lovers conversing on a floating house-top, companioned by one lone fowl and a restless goat.

There is an excellent comedy with this feature, a Nick Carter story, and Miss Flora Shaw sings two pretty soprano numbers in fine voice.

AT THE GRAND.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN" THIS EVENING.

William H. Kibble's production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will appear at the Grand Theatre to-night. Mr. Kibble has successfulyl solved the problem of combining the old and new "Uncle Tom's Cabin" into a big spectacular play that leaves out nothing worth retaining of either the straight method or the circus method. All the worthy features of the old landmarks are retained while the thread of the story has been cleverly reconstructed, making it more coherent; this, with the introduction of a host of high-class specialties thoroughly in keeping with the piece, goes far toward forming an evening's entertainment. It will be a real loss to miss witnessing this production, which is just a little better than one you thought the best.

FINE COMPANY IN PRETTY PLAY.

Of the "Rose of Washington Square," which comes to the Grand Theatre on Easter Monday, matinee and night, the London Free Press says it made a decidedly favourable impression in London, and proved to be an entertaining musical show, hardly to be called a musical comedy, for music does not predominate.

The paper then goes on to say:

"The presentation is really a comedy drama, with any amount of comedy, an occasional throb, and a well-developed plot. The musical numbers are merely incidental, although they are catchy and tuneful and there is an attractive chorus which is adequate to all the demands made upon it. Scenery and costumes are good, and the production as a whole is very pleasing.

"Pretty musical numbers with a decidedly whistleable lilt are "She Loves Me—She Loves Me Not," "Eyes I Love," "Caroli Na," and "Our Litle Nest." The ensemble work is good, and altogether the production is worthy of patronage."

ANNIVERSARY OF THE OPENING OF CAPITOL THEATRE

Successful Year's Work to the Credit of the Management—The Policy.

Next week, the Capitol Theatre is celebrating the first anniversary of its opening in Peterborough, with a very successful year to its credit.

The policy announced by the management when the theatre was opened, that of offering the very best and newest of screen productions to Peterborough audiences at prices within the reach of all, has been rigidly adhered to. During the twelve months just finished, the "movie" goers of the city have enjoyed lengthy and well-balanced programmes at the Capitol Theatre, with the latest spice of Screen News and Topics of the Day, comedies by master fun-makers, serials that abound in thrills and mystifying situations, and features that, with few exceptions, have drawn large audiences for three and, in some cases, six-day runs. The notables of the screen, both men and women, famed alike in drama and comedy, from the sweetness of Mary Pickford in "Little Lord Fauntleroy," to the dramatic powers of Lillian Gish in "Way Down East," and the humor of Charlie Chaplin in "The Kid," have sparkled on the silver screen at the Capitol, which has reflected to its Peterborough audiences the mimic art, the laughter and tears, scenes of many people and many lands during the year just past.

Added to these have been the vaudeville offerings, in one, two and three acts, the special attractions, the amateur nights for Peterborough talent, which make the evenings spent in this theatre house of solid enjoyment. Whether one patronizes the luxurious wicker chairs or the comfortable leather-cushioned sections, in a theatre which is cool in summer and warm in winter, one is sure of a pleasant evening. With every detail of comfort watched by the management and courteous attendants, with a matron on hand on Saturdays to look after the children, with an orchestra that interprets with precision the screen offerings, there is little left undone for the comfort and convenience of its patrons at the moderately-priced Capitol Theatre.

The management have arranged for future showing a series of super-special productions from the Paramount and Fox studios, and for their anniversary next week, are offering two special feature pictures, with the usual good comedies and a Toronto lady vocalist as an added attraction.

FRIDAY'S LOCAL SOCCER RESULTS

The interest in football locally was demonstrated yesterday when King Edward Park was the mecca of old country people and Canadians who have become enthusiastic footballers. In spite of the rains the field was in good condition. At 10:30 the Owls played the Canadian Woollens, losing by the narrowest possible margin, 1 to nil, and in the afternoon C.G.E. defeated the Canadian Packers to 0.

The morning's game was hard-fought and it was touch and go throughout. The Woollens secured their winning goal off a scrimmage, following a corner kick. The C.P.C. showed in afternoon's game that they have good stuff and before the season is over the C. G. E. will find them a harder nut to crack. Alex. McKinley was the referee in this engagement, while H Andrews, a new referee, looked after the morning affair.

The Comrades who have had hard luck in lining up a team are faring better and are holding a practice at the Exhibition grounds, Tuesday night. They want all their players on hand.

Seeing that Lindsay is now affiliated with the O. F. A., the way is clear for a Peterboro - Lindsay match. It should be a good drawing card for a Saturday crowd.

Lincoln Life Team New Bowling Champs

"A team of money bowlers." That is the reputation of the Lincoln Life bowling team of Fort Wayne, Ind., new world's champions.

At the recent bowling tournament held at Toledo, the Lincoln Life quinetet won first honors with a score of 2,998.

Starting out with 1,067, the Fort Wayne bowlers dropped to 940 in the second game. That seemed to put them out of the running. They came back, however, in strong style with a 991.

The team was organized five years ago and has been cutting a wide swath in bowling circles ever since. In 1919 they finished third and in 1920 fourth in the national tournament.

THEY'RE OFF AGAIN

By BERTON BRALEY

Behind the bat the catcher stands and maketh signals with his hands,
The pitcher windeth up with many motions;
The batter swings his bat in air, while here and there and everywhere
The baseball rooters open their devotions.
Comes then the umpire's raucous call—he gives his ancient shout, "Play Ball!"
And all the crowd grows tense and happy-hearted;
The ball goes whizzing to the plate. And thus we may asseverate
Another baseball season's nicely started!

The boys with peanuts and with pop are once again upon the hop,
The red-hot dogs are delicately frying;
Small boys, with energy immense, are digging holes beneath the fence,
Which makes policemen's duties rather trying.
The ball thuds in the catcher's glove—each young man tells his lady-love
Just what is going on and what's the reason;
Of course she doesn't understand, but still she thinks it's "simple grand!"
And thus we've opened up another season!

Here comes a slugger to bat; wow! Say that bozo murdered that!
Gee, hear the roar from all these yelling creatures;
A millionaire skips like a kid while someone pounds him on the lid,
And there's a burst of frenzy from the bleachers.
The benches yawp, the coachers howl—oh gosh, the blooming thing's a foul!
Well, anyhow, he sent the horsehide spinning;
And, after all, it's lots of fun to be here sitting in the sun
And know another season is beginning!"

LACROSSE

City lacrosse league affairs will be handled henceforth by a committee composed of one representative from each of the four teams with Dr. Sutton as chairman. This was the decision of Saturday night's general meeting. The team representatives are J. Ward, Stratheonas; Bert Todd, Athletics; J. Sutherland, Riversides; and V. O'Connell, Crescents.

Athletics will practice on Tuesday at the Exhibition grounds. They were out at King Edward park this after noon, but expect to obtain permission from the Fair Board to work out in the east end of Exhibition Park

Four fields in the south end of the city were occupied with football, baseball and lacrosse yesterday. In the afternoon C. G. E. played C. P. C., the Canadian Packing Company's team in a football league game on King Edward park before a big crowd, several baseball games were under way on the King Edward school grounds, one of them was a girl's game; the Athletics lacrosse practiced on the east half of Exhibition Park and further east on the same ground a group of boys were playing baseball; while in front of the grandstand a scratch ball game was in progress. At the same time the Crescent lacrosse recruits were limbering up on the grounds of the church of the Sacred Heart.

And all this recreation was apart from the morning sports. The vacant ground was well occupied, and before long it will be all needed when the various teams in formation for one game or another, get down to business. Expansive visions of the utility of all this open space are apparently about to be realized in full.

The Athletics picked up a couple of new men yesterday who happened along and are expected to stay with the club. They also attracted several beginners, who want to learn the game, and bunch of juveniles had a lively session. George Mein and Bert Todd believe they will have intermediate, juvenile and midget teams before long.

The Athletics are going at things in earnest and so far appear to have the best financial standing. The boys are chipping in a small sum each week throughout the season, which with the money they have now in their treasury and a few other donations in sight should meet their requirements.

SPORT GOSSIP

Officers of the Peterborough Baseball Club have signed an agreement with the Peterborough A.A.A. for the use of Riverside Park by the Central Ontario League team. The ball situation is now back to normal.

The personnel of the Executive of the ball club leaves nothing to be desired. Officers of high calibre will conduct the affairs of the club, and with the players doing their part, the season should be one of much success.

The City Baseball League will likely drop out of the O. B. A. A. series, and make it a fight for city honors only. This move would be of great help to the Central League team and the City League alike, as the players would be able to play in both leagues.

A decision such as this would help to solve the problem of playing dates for the City Leaguers. Under the schedule of the Central Ontario League, the locals have Saturday dates at home up to and including the third Saturday in June.

The City League will have four well-balanced teams in the Canadian Generals, Raybestos Co., Classics, and Bohunks; and four strong teams are available for the Junior division. The Juvenile loop will be brought along this season.

Easter Schedule.

LONDON, April 15.— (Canadian Press.)— The football programme for the Easter holiday, when teams in the four divisions of the English league will play Saturday and Monday, with a number of games scheduled for Easter Tuesday, contains many interesting features. In the north all eyes are turned to to-day's Cup final rehearsal at Preston, but Londoners are mainly concerned over Woolwich Arsenal's probable relegation to the second division and West Ham's choice of promotion to the first. The Arsenal's doom appears to be sealed unless it can gather at least four points from the holiday fixtures. It is singular that their closest neighbors, Tottenham Hotspurs, may decide the former's fate, as there is only a very remote chance that the Arsenal will defeat West Bromwich Albion at home and away.

Oldham Athletic's visit to Tottenham is fraught with danger, as the Lancashire team is also in the running for relegation. Several changes will be made in the 'Spurs' line-up, chief of which will be Cantrell's return after an absence of three months. The Everton-Huddersfield game will also have a bearing on the relegation problem.

In the Second Division the leading clubs will clash on several occasions. On their usual form Stoke and Notts Forest should secure promotion, but a slip by either of these teams may let West Ham into the picture.

Other important games include the Army Cup Final at Aldershot on Monday between the Second Welsh Fusiliers and the First Wiltshire. The King and Queen, Princess Mary, Viscountess Lascelles and Viscount Lascelles and other members of the Royal Family are expected to attend.

There is also an extensive Rugby programme. Many English sides are touring Wales. The British and French Army teams will meet in Paris on Monday, while the Royal Navy fifteen are also in France.

What Billy Evans Says

In baseball batters have their slumps, which usually are impossible of explanation.

In football teams trained to the minute for a most important game immediately fall off in their play after that game.

Champion boxers in a no-decision bout often look like second-raters in some contest in which their opponent is a very ordinary fighter.

It is the same in golf, even the very best of the professionals and amateurs are off their game occasionally. Very often in trying to discover why their game is so badly off they press it and develop new faults.

Going golf stale is a condition that is very often overlooked when some player slumps badly in his game. He is simply over-golfed and doesn't realize it. Often a rest of a week or two at such a time will immediately restore a player to his old-time form.

Golf Players Go Stale Without Realizing the Fact.

Golfing, however, gets such a hold on lovers of the game that staleness is the very last thing a golfer thinks about when his game goes bad. He tries to attribute it to any number of other faults. He doesn't want to admit he is golf stale, simply because he gets so much enjoyment out of playing the game.

All of which leads up to the question as to what is the proper number of holes for a golfer to play in a day.

One often hears a player boast how he has played 45 holes. Occasionally you hear some one insist he covered 54 holes. However, it is best to accept such a statement with the belief that possibly the golfer got a bit mixed on his count.

I recall a player of considerable ability who went south last winter for a month and came back boasting that he had played 36 holes every day while on his vacation. He didn't brag about his score, however, admitting that he was playing a poorer game when he left the south than when he started.

Best Golfers Agree That 18 Holes Make Ideal Match.

The best golfers seem agreed that 18 holes is the ideal day's play. Often a player goes out to his club early in the morning to spend the day. He easily plays 18 holes in the morning. After a bit of luncheon and a slight rest he is usually anxious for 18 more holes of competition.

It would be much better for the golfer's game if instead of engaging in competition he would do a little practicing on the shots in which he was deficient during the morning's play.

It is always possible to overdo a good thing. The golf glutton who does 45 holes a day shoud draw censure instead of being complimented. It is stupidity rather than achievement.

In baseball, football and boxing a decided slump can more often be traced to staleness than any other cause.

THIRD DEFEAT FOR ENGLISH LACROSSE MEN

Hard Fought Battle is Won By Swarthmore College With Lead of But One Goal.

SCORE 9 TO 8.

SWARTHMORE, Pa., April 15.—(Canadian Press)—Swathmore College Thursday defeated the Oxford-Cambridge lacrosse team in a hotly contested game, nine goals to eight. It was the third defeat for the Englishmen in their American invasion.

At the end of the first half Swathmore led, seven to six. Both teams appeared to weaken in the second half and scored only two oals each. Captain Hopkins and Heylan starred for the visitors, who were somewhat weakened by the loss of Morley, one of their strongst defense men. Morley suffered a sprained knee in the recent game against Pennsylvania.

A Query a Day

Q. Where a ball lies in such a position that the player cannot positively identify it as his own, is it permissible to pick it up and examine it?

A. Yes, the ball may be lifted without penalty for the purpose of identification, with the consent of the opponent, but must be carefully replaced.

Q. Who won the low qualifying medal in the 1920 National Amateur Championship and what was the score?

A. Bobby Jones of Atlanta and Fred J. Wright, Jr. of Boston tied at 154. The tie was settled in subsequent match play. Jones defeated Wright in the third round of match play, becoming the medalist.

Q. Please advise me what is the proper procedure where a player's ball is displaced on the putting green by his opponent's ball in single matches, also in four-ball matches.

A. In singles, the player whose ball is displaced can take his choice on replacing the ball; or letting it lie where it was knocked, but must replace, if he chooses to do so, before his opponent plays another stroke. In four-ball matches, the ball must be replaced.

Q. Will you kindly tell me just is meant by the provision for loss of "stroke and distance" in certain of the rules of golf?

A. This means that you lose the distance your stroke, which was penalized, covered, and also another penalty stroke to be added to the count for the hole. You, of course, have to count the stroke that led to a penalty, as for instance, out-of-bounds.

Q. Has there been any case reported of a player in a championship using a ball that did not meet the standard specifications?

A. None has come to the writer's attention.

IDOL OF FANS

BY BILLY EVANS

How is Christy Mathewson getting along?

That question is put to me more often than any other one relating to baseball.

There never was a greater baseball idol than Christy Mathewson. He is beloved by fans the country over.

Now that Matty is making a stern fight against the great white plague at Saranac Lake, every bit of news relative to his condition is of much interest.

From time to time the wires have carried various bits of news about his progress. One would say that he was gradually recovering his health. A few weeks later another report would have him sinking rapidly.

Recently I attended the Block S dinner given in honor of the star athletes at Syracuse University. It was my very great pleasure to talk before the student body on baseball and athlerics in general. Incidentally I had the honor of conferring the college letter on each winner of the much prized S.

At the dinner were many of the old grads. Among them was Dr. Edward M. Packard. Dr. Packard was captain and stroke of one of the greatest crews Syracuse ever turned out.

Dr. Packard is now a practising physician at Saranac Lake. He is the personal physician to Mathewson.

After the introduction, the first thing I said to Dr. Packard was:

"How is Matty getting along?"

"It seems as if everyone is interested in Matty," replied Dr. Packard. "So many people have asked me that question this evening that I 'phoned Mr. Mathewson a short time ago and asked him if I might make a public announcement of his condition, and he consented.

MATTY IS GETTING WELL

"Mathewson is on the road to a permanent recovery. It may take several years before he can venture away from Saranac for any great lentgh of time. It will also be necessary that he spend part of each year in the Adirondack mountains.

"Matty has been at death's door three or four times. Twice I have despaired of his recovery.

"I am told there nveer was a gamer pitcher than Matty. From personal observation I can believe that statement.

"It was in the pinch that he fought hardest for his life. He simply refused to think that he was about to die. His great courage more than anything else won the fight.

"Mathewson weighs 190 pounds today, which was his weight when in the best of pitching condition. He looks as well as he ever did, but, of course, lacks the old-time strength.

"After a consultation of doctors we collapsed the right lung. That is not uncommon, however, and one can get along just as well with one lung.

"In all probability Matty will be able to pay the Polo Grounds a visit some time during the summer for a short stay. I know that is one ambition he cherishes."

Dr. Packard's statement of Mathewson's real condition was very interesting to me. I am sure it will prove the same to every fan that ever read a box score.

BASEBALL

Carl Mays continues to be the storm-center of the American League.

His latest escapade involves the throwing of the ball over the grandstand in an exhibition game in the south.

Peeved, because Manager Huggins saw fit to remove him from the box because the Brooklyn club was hitting his offerings all over the field, Mays a la kid fashion threw the ball over the grand stand

Fortunately, major league clubs have plenty of baseballs in stock, so the action of Mays did not break up the ball game, as he probably hoped it would.

Manager Huggins, in order to maitain discipline, fined Mays $200 for his child-like tactics.

Whereupon Mays threatened to quit the team. Some of his teammates prevailed upon him not to do so. Now he says he will stay with the club until the first pay day, and if the $200 is missing from his check he is through.

For a number of years Mays has kept the American League in constant turmoil.

On July 15, 1919, Mays quit the Boston club in the middle of a game at Chicago. Disgusted with the way the club was going Mays said he was through with baseball unless sold to a club up in the race.

He was later sold to the New York club. President Johnson then suspended him. The New York club took the case to court and got a permanent injunction restraining President Johnson from interfering with the pitching of Mays for the New York club.

It was a lang drawn out court affair that split the American League into factions. Five clubs remained loyal to President Johnson. This prevented New York, Chicago and Boston from ousting him from the presidency, as was their intent.

Mays later was unfortunate enough to kill Ray Chapman of the Cleveland club with a pitched ball It was alleged, by the players, that Mays was in the habit of throwing the 'bean ball'. At one time it looked as if all the American League Clubs would go on strike over the incident.

These are just a few of the high spots in a score of affairs in which Mays has played the central figure.

The Mays case is turning out to be a complete vindication for the attitude taken by President Johnson who ruled Mays should play with Boston or stand suspended when he jumped that team.

The New York club which went the limit in May's behalf, is feeling the pangs of retribution.

ARRESTED ON A SERIOUS CHARGE

On Thursday afternoon Harold Montgomery, of Buckhorn, 20 years of age, appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley on a serious charge and was remanded until Tuesday. Word was received Thursday that Montgomery was driving into town, and P. C. Bromley went out beyond the city limits and arrested the youth. He was charged that afternoon, Joseph Wearing representing him. The police say the case is a serious one. Montgomery is a son of Constable Montgomery, and the case should have been looked after by the county authorities, the city police say.

OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS.

W. J. Post, Cobalt, Ontario, 15 years' experience in Northern Ontario prospecting and developing, President and Managing-Director.

W. L. Hayden, New York City, Estate Trustee. Family to four generations in steel manufacturing and mine operating, 1st Vice-President.

Chas. Mickle, Gravenhurst, Ontario, Manufacturer, Senior Member of Mickle, Dyment & Sons. 2nd Vice-President.

G. W. Dixon, Engineer, Cobalt, Ontario. Ten years' experience in mining field engineering in Northern Ontario. Secretary-Treasurer.

Dr. G. A. Schmidt—G. L. Brewer, Contractor—Gordon Cameron, Mining Contractor—all of Cobalt.

You know these men, at at least some of them. They are all earnest and trustworthy, worthy of the confidence you place in them when you invest money at their discretion in such a property as Lebel Lode, in a proven producing field—a combination that assures a real, honest run for your money.

Propetry is situated two miles east of the Tough-Oakes on the strike of the great central zone that has already paid over $1,000,000 in dividends, produced more gold last year than the Yukon Territories, Nova Scotia, Quebec, Manitoba, and Alberta combined. If you have any doubts about Kirkland Lake ore, its future importance, strike of zones, high values, consistency and permanency, consult the Ontario Department of Mines and Statistics. Kirkland Camp to-day is only in its infancy, has barely discovered itself, but is the second highest gold producer on the Continent.

You have missed Hollinger, Dome and McIntyre of Porcupine, Lake Shore, Wright-Hargreaves of Kirkland, and the other big ones when their stock, like ours now, was within your reach. Who could blame you? You did not know gold mining could be a commercial success in Ontario. Gold mining in Ontario is to-day the outstanding industry, conducted with Peerless Profits. Prospects of yesterday are our dividend payers of to-day. To-day's prospects well promoted, intelligently conducted, if properly located, will return hundreds per cent. on prices of early financing issues. Lebel Lode, Limited, is located exactly right, has demonstrated nine gold-bearing veins and promoted and conducted conscientiously. It is in the best of hands, assuring use of every dollar to the best advantage. No money paid for property. All money goes into mine-making—your mine and ours. Vendors took all stock for their valuable property and are holding this stock for dividends—with you.

Our engineers say:

"The limited amount of work done since incorporation has proved the existence of a system of fracturing the porphyry for a distance of between 700 and 800 feet....This occurs in red and grey porphyries intruding the Timiskaming Sediments. While the outcrop cannot be traced continuously, due to overburden, the location and general characteristics of the deposit, together with the strike of the fracturing, indicate that this is the same big break that traverses the producing field of Kirkland Lake.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE.

The purpose of this issue is to conclude surface development and equipment, housing, etc., placing of plant sufficient to operate five drills and the sinking of a two-compartment shaft, complete, to 425 feet this year and such further development or purpose as is deemed advisable to your Directors in the best interests of your company.

Apply Head Office, or nearest Director or Officer, for Prospectus and Information. Make application for stock direct to Head Office, or remit it to any duly authorized Officer or Representative.

Officers reserve the right to refuse any application as well as applications in excess of authorized issue of 300,000 shares.

This Issue will positively Close May 1st.

Dizziness Impairs Mental Capacity

Weekly Health Talk No. 15
By A. P. Rogers, D.C.

Without in any sense, losing his mental ability to think and exercise judgment, the victim of dizziness and impaired eliminative functions is mentally incapacitated. He has a brain, but he cannot use it. He suffers a loss of time. He suffers a period of genuine misery.

Uncle Ben Says:
Provided there's health, old people have sweet memories and young folks pleasant anticipations, and that is what makes life wonderful.

HEALTH FOLLOWS
CHIROPRACTIC CORRECTS PRESSURE ON SPINAL NERVES IN DISEASES OF THE FOLLOWING ORGANS:

THE LOWER NERVE UNDER THE MAGNIFYING GLASS IS PINCHED BY A MISALIGNED JOINT. PINCHED NERVES CANNOT TRANSMIT HEALTHFUL IMPULSES. CHIROPRACTIC ADJUSTING REMOVES THE PRESSURE. THE UPPER NERVE IS FREE AS NATURE INTENDS.

Dizziness may have any one of a number of causes, but the most common cause is due to an inactive liver. Bowel wastes are retained. The victim feels dull and feverish, and on rising everything is black for an instant and there is dizziness. The dizziness, otherwise known as vertigo, is not so commonly suffered. Victims of vertigo are in danger of falling whenever they attempt to walk. Chiropractic spinal adjustments remove the cause of dizziness, whether it be due to retained wastes or is the result of vertigo.

DIZZINESS WAS AFTER-EFFECT OF THE "FLU."

"After a very severe attack of influenza in 1918 I suffered severely with dizziness. After trying many methods without relief I turned to chiropractic. After the second adjustment there was a change for the better. After others I became entirely well. It is now three years since I have taken any adjustments and these three years have been spent under a heavy mental strain. I am a Methodist preacher serving a charge of seven churches."—Rev. J. C. Williams, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1313H.

Raiders Fired at Collins

Head of the Provisional Government Had Narrow Escape—One Captured.

IRISH SITUATION.

DUBLIN, April 17 (United Press)—An atempt by Republican rebels to assassinate Michael Collins early to-day and insurgent attacks on Free State posts in various parts of Dublin, ushered in "Black Monday," the aniversary of the 1916 Easter rebellion.

The head of the Provisional Government was fired upon by the assailants, who rushed from a branch of the insurgent headquarters, but he escaped, and himself captured one of the assassins.

Beggars' Bush Barracks was attacked by rebels at midnight.

The assault was repulsed by the Free State troops, who made the barracks their headquarters.

Free State lorries, carrying soldiers on patrol, were fired upon in various parts of the city.

The Provisional Government's civic guard headquarters at Ballsbridge, a suburb, withstood an attack.

An official communique issued to-day said:

"A party of armed men, some of them armed with rifles, attacked a party, in which was Michael Collins, head of the Provisional Government of the Irish Free State. Collins' party returned the fire and captured one of their assailants, who carried a bomb in addition to arms.

"During the attack a Free State armoured car in the vicinity was disabled by rifle fire, and captured by the rebels.

"Collins' automobile was halted at Vaughan's Hotel, when his assailants rushed from a nearby branch of the rebel headquarters, opening fire, which lasted three minutes.

Automobile Riddled.

"Michael Collins and others returned the fire, and Collins, rushing from his automobile, captured and disarmed one of the rebel riflemen with his own hands.

"The automobile, in which the Free State party was returning from mass, was riddled with bullets."

After an Easter Sunday of comparative calm, apprehensions for "Black Monday" proved justified when firing broke out in various parts of Dublin at midnight.

Sounds of shooting from many quarters of the city brought Free State troops in force.

Armoured lorries rumbled through the streets, and the civilians were ordered indoors.

The principal rebel attack was directed against Dublin's most important barracks, those at Beggar Bush, recently taken over from the British by loyal troops.

A considerable insurgent force made an attempt to capture the barracks, but as they approached their rush was broken by heavy rifle fire from outposts. The rebels withdrew.

Simultaneously, indicating the presence of a considerable insurgent force, attacks occurred at Ballbridge, and in Dublin Streets.

Free State patrols were fired poun from ambush, and in several instances bold, open attacks were made by Extremist bands.

With the dawn it was found that the outbreak had everywhere been quelled by the loyal forces, and that the Collins Government held the upper hand.

Plot Frustrated.

Arthur Griffith, who went to Sligo, which had been turned into an armed camp by the rebels, successfully carried out his speaking programme on behalf of the Free State.

Navigation Opens On Otonabee River

The Steamer Geneva owned by Capt. Wilbert Harris of Gore's Landing braved the high water in Rice Lake and the Otonabee River, Saturday when it made the first trip of the year with passengers and freight from river points. The ice left Rice Lake last week but the upper lakes are not open yet and won't be for another week, Capt. F. G. Young, of the Stoney Lake Navigation company said to-day. Capt. Young stated that the river is unusually high, and persons out walking yesterday remarked that the water was within a foot of George street wharf.

JOHN CRANE NEW LEADER FOR ROTARY

Annual Meeting of Local Club Held Today and Featured by Reports From Committees.

NEW OFFICERS

Reports from the chairmen of the various committees on the activities carried on during the year, and the approval of the Nominating committee's slate of officers for the next twelve months, featured the annual meeting of the Peterborough Rotary Club at the Empress at noon to-day. Despite the bad weather and the fact that the notices had not been delivered, there was a large attendance. President Fred L. Roy was in the chair, and was given a hearty reception, Rotarian W. R. Morris expressing the pleasure of the members of the club at Mr. Roy's recovery from his recent illness.

The new oficers, who will be installed at the next meeting, are:

President—John Crane.
Vice-President—V. J. McElderry.
Secretary—Douglas Lawrie.
Treasurer—Frank Linton.
Directors— C. H. Rogers and J. W. McDermid.

Reports of committee were presented by the various chairmen as follows:

Public Affairs Committee— S. R. Armstrong.
Boys' Work Committee — C. G. Graham.
Inter-city Relations Committee — W. R. Morris.
Attendance Committee — J. W. McDermid.
Boys' Work Committee — C. H. Rogers.
On to Los Angeles Committee — Dr. M. A. Morrison.
Music Committee—Jack McHardy.
Classification Committee— J. H. Seels.
Crippled Children's Committee—W. K. Breyfogle.

The reports indicated that a large amount or work has been accomplished during the initial year of Peterborough Rotary and the foundation laid for still more effective activity in the months that lie ahead.

President Roy presented the figures in regard to attendance, which showed that J. W. McDermid had the best record among the charter members of the club.

Among the guests to-day was Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P., K.C., Deputy-Speaker of the House of Commons, who in a short speech eulogized the Rotarians upon the splendid community work they were carrying on. As a citizen of Peterborough who viewed their work from the outside, he was sure that their activities were more generally recognized and appreciated than the member who viewed the Rotary operations from the inside realized.

"For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" was lustily sung by the Rotarians in honour of Mr. Gordon.

Rotarian Reg. H. Thrner was given a warm reception on his return from the West Indies, where he was a member of the party of Canadian manufacturers who visited that section of the globe. Rotarian Turner, who had with him as his guest, Mr. A. H. Stratton, another member of the West Indian party, promised to give at a future meeting a synopsis of the trip and read some verses that proved that the "home town is the best town, after all."

Rotarian S. R. Armstrong gave some details in connection with the visit of the Scots Guards Band under Rotary auspices on May 6th. The concert will be held in the Armouries and it is expected that a crowded house will welcome the famous military organization.

MR. POGUE DECLINES OFFER FROM DETROIT

In an interview to-day regarding a humor that connected Rev. R. Pogue, of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, this city, with a proposal to accept the pastorate of a prominent Detroit church, Mr. Pogue said he had definitely declined the Detroit pastorate. Last fall Mr. Pogue was invited to preach in the Central Presbyterian Church, Detroit, but declined the invitation. This invitation was repeated about one month ago, and, without committing himself, Mr. Pogue decided to visit Detroit a week ago Sunday. After looking carefully into the situation, Mr. Pogue decided to withdraw his name from the Detroit pastorate, and has written the church authorities to that effect. It is understood that the salary offered was double that of the Peterborough pastorate.

Heavy Spring Rains Having Disastrous Effect on Roads

Farmers Have Had Enough and Would Like to Get a Chance at Their Spring Seeding—Contracts Are Held Up.

Folks in the city woke up again this morning to find an ominous sky overhead and every sign of more rain coming. It came just about the time business people began scurrying away to offices and shops. Umbrellas were hurriedly looked up, raincoats commandeered, and for a while the street cars did a rushing business. As if determined to put a damper on any business that might be experienced on Easter Monday, Jupiter Pluvius settled down to make a day of it. From whatever view one regarded it, it was a dull day, and the merchants regarded it as a real "blue" Monday.

Shopkeepers always ready to catch the trade set out umbrellas, raincoats and oil skins, but there were few people on the streets to notice them.

The roads just as they were drying up nicely, are again inundated, and motorists will find it hard to keep the glistening appearance to their cars they so desire. According to one who saw, no less than 15 automobiles became submerged in the muddy clay at the top of Armour's Hill, on Saturday and Sunday. A motorist to-day declared he had to help two out. Autoists are viewing with alarm the exceedingly heavy rains.

To-day's downpour held up the grading being carried on on Armour's Hill by the Western Clock Company and the city. Street Commissioner Harry Evans said this morning the men has just nicely got started when up came the rain clouds. After attempting to carry on, the job had to be abandoned, and the Western Clock gang had to quit also, it was stated.

Construction jobs in all parts of the city were held up and the builders are getting "fed up" on the continued showers, too.

As a matter of fact, old J.P. had no one to-day who would say a good word for him. Only one farmer was of the opinion that the rain would do good in the country. He, however, admitted he was afraid of any more. Other farmers declared the rain was holding up their spring work; the fields are already well moistured and they would be very pleased if they could have a few days of sunshine.

To-night a great many dances and parties are being held in this district and if the rain keeps up there will be a derogatory effect on the attendance. School boys and college youths warming up for the baseball and lacrosse season did not regard the raindrops to-day in a kindly light, and the public school youngsters see a week of dull rain-filled days stretching ahead until school reopens again on Monday next. All the wonderful things they planned for the holidays will never be realized unless the probs change.

In all the world there is only one welcome for the warm sweet showers. Out under the matting of the leaves in the wood, tiny hepaticas are struggling toward the light and the rain helps them to grow strong and break a way through the encompassing leaves.

THE ARCHDEACON AT ST. JOHN'S YESTERDAY

Rev. J. C. Davidson Conducted Easter Morning Service--Capacity Congregation.

The Anglican observance of Easter was consistently reflected at St. John's Church yesterday in a large attendance at all services, especially that at 11 o'clock in the morning, when a capacity congregation assembled. This service, the great outstanding festival and communion celebration of Easter Sunday, was conducted by the Rector (although now non-resident) Archdeacon J. C. Davidson, of Peterborough, assisted by the Vicar, Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave, and Canon Forneri, the latter now retired and resident here. Both the service itself and sermon by Dr. Blagrave were fittingly reminiscent of that first Easter morn, when Mary Magdalene and Mary, the mother of Jesus, with other weeping women found the crucified Christ's tomb empty, and learned of that resurrection which is the foundation, hope and comfort of Christendom.

For many old and warm friends the gladsome spirit of Easter was enhanced by meeting Archdeacon Davidson, for over thirty years rector of this ancient church-like church, a connecting link between Peterborough's pioneer days and its present status as a progressive city in an age of progress. The Archdeacon, whose special work in Toronto diocese is the spiritual continuation of the Anglican Forward Movement, could not stay to preach at the evening service, as by a misunderstanding previously announced. He reached town Saturday afternoon, and left yesterday afternoon via the C.P.R. 3.40 train for Blackstock, where he was due to conduct the evening service. He has recently conducted very gratifying Forward Movement continuation campaigns at Cobourg and Islington, and after Easter will launch others in Streetsville, Beaton and Cannington.

Commended Motor Show.

Dr. Blagrave, in his announcements yesterday, took occasion to warmly commend this week's Motor Show as worthy of generous patronage in support of the excellent community work which is assumed by the local Health Association.

He also announced that the Bishop of Toronto will administer confirmation in St. John's next Wednesday evening.

Excellent Music.

The music for the "Queen of Festivals was finely led by the choir. At the high celebration "Jesus Christ is Risen To-day" was followed by the Easter anthem, "Christ Our Passover." The offire was from Woodward and Simper; the anthem from Stainer's cantata, "Daughter of Jarius," "Awake Thou That Sleepest." At the children's Easter service ,the singing was bright. Evensong was fully choral, including the traditional plain song chant, "Tonus Peregrinus" to "In Exitu Israel"; Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis to Winchester's setting. The anthem, "Awake Thou That Sleepest," by F. C. Maker, was splendidly sung. The festival services of Easter Day concluded with the recessional hymn, "Alleluia! Hearts to Heaven and Voices Raise," and a postlude on the organ by Mr. Cyril H. Devey, "The Trumpet Shall Sound."

Accused Assault Upon Little Girl

Charged with an assault upon a ten year old girl, Vincent Heenan, was taken into custody by Detective William Meagher and P. C. Bromley Saturday evening and is now in the lock-up awaiting trial. On account of to-day being a legal holiday, Police Magistrate O. A. Langley did not sit so the case will not come up until to-morrow. The little girl is said to have been invited by Heenan into the place where he was employed between five and six o'clock, Saturday, when it was closed. Heenan is alleged to have conducted himself improperly but the little girl escaped to her home. Her parents promptly laid the complaint against accused.

LOCAL POLICE ACCUSED THEFT OF A PRISONER

An unusual charge "of stealing a prisoner" is alleged against the local upolicse by MHigh County local police by High County Constable A. R. Moore in connection with the case of Harold Montgomery son of Constable Montgomery, of Buckhorn, who is being held by the local police, charged with the rape of a sixteen year old girl at Buckhorn. The intervention of the local police was only because of the tardiness of the county constable, the police say. At four o'clock, Thursday afternoon about two hours after he was notified it is said the county constable appeared at the station.

"Is there anything new in that case?" he said.

"We've got the man locked up now" he was told. Constable Moore then charged the police "with stealing his prisoner". Montgomery comes up before Magistrate O. A. Langley to-morrow morning. Whether the county constable will make his unusual charge in court or not remains to be seen.

Wild Geese Rest on Way Northward

The sight of flocks of wild geese, flying overhead with much honking or resting in peace upon one of the many ponds that dot the landscape in the county now, is a common one, west of the city, a North Monaghan resident declared today. Almost every day for the last three weeks he said there had been wild geese about the place. This morning while coming into the city he saw a large flock going through military formation on the broad surface of the pond that lies about four miles from the city, a triangle between the Gravel Road and the Loop line. Wild ducks keep nearer the river he said and are not such an imposing spectacle as the geese. It is impossible to approach near the flocks, however, sleepy they may seem, every attempt on the part of farmers to capture one of the birds to inject a strain of wildness into their flocks having failed, he said.

Member Replies Censure

Says He Will Not Be Dictated to By Anybody Outside of the Riding

HAS NO APOLOGY

Mr. T. Tooms, M.P.P., for West Peterboro, makes the following comment in connection with the Independent Labor Party's recent move to censure three members of the Labour group including Mr. Tooms, the local representative replies as follows:

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Sir, — With reference to the articles in the press regarding the censure of three labor members of the legislature, one of whom was myself; I wish to say that as the representative of West Peterboro I will not take dictation as to my action from London or Toronto, with regard to Radial Railways. Peterboro is not particularly interested in Radials like the larger cities of Toronto and the West; at the present me. I never will sanction West Peterboro having to pay up "indirectly perhaps" for Hydro Radials. They are only local in their benefits to the Western Ontario cities.. If these cities have such faith in the financial success of the enterprise. Why try to saddle the responsibility upon disterested parts of the Province. My action of appearing upon a Liberal platform is purely a local question for which I have no apology to make, but to congratulate the successful candidate upon his splendid showing.

I am going to represent West Peterboro and the Province in the Ontario Legislature without prejudice, and can take dictation from no one outside of my riding. I may mention I was not upon the carpet in person, as newspaper heading terms the affair. I had something of more material benefit to the movement I represent; at St. Thomas on Friday both of which the public and the press evidenly approved of in that district.

The three members censured by Simpson, Mould et al, have done in the labor group as much for the benefit of the people as any three men in the Legisature. They do not always agree with the Jimmy Simpson system of doing things.

Labor had fourteen planks in their platform in 1919 to-day six of them are upon the statute book through sane and cautious action.

Like all other sincere men working for the people they may well express the words, Ingratitude did I ever offend thee; but we think of the day and we think of the deed.

THOS. TOOMS,
West Peterboro.

MRS. EDWARDS IS SAID TO HAVE BEEN LAST PERSON TO SEE THE DECEASED ALIVE

Edwards Was Lying on His Back in the Barnyard With One Knee Drawn Up—Funeral on Saturday.

STORY OF QUARREL.

That Mrs. Emma Jane Edwards was the last person who saw her son Ernest alive is an assumption from her reported statement that she had seen him lying in the barn yard at home on the 9th line of Dummer township last Monday afternoon, where has was found dead on Wednesday afternoon by John Williamson of Norwood.

This information was given the Examiner on Saturday by Constable Isaac Puffer of Norwood, who said he had obtained it in an interview with the eldest daughter of the Edwards' family since the inquest was opened here on Thursday into the cause of Ernest Edwards' death.

The girl appeared to Mr. Puffer to be about fourteen years old. According to her statement she told the constable that her mother had mentioned having seen Ernest lying on his back in the sun. One knee was drawn up, and Mrs. Edwards said she saw him move his leg. Because it was a warm, bright afternoon, Mrs. Edwards thought Ernest was sunning himself, and she thought no more about it.

Didn't See Him Again.

At the opening session of the inquest before Coroner Dr. Greer, Constable Puffer testified that Mrs. Edwards had told him that she left home on Monday after dinner and went to Russell Hill's to sew for Mrs. Hill and that she didn't see Ernest again. When she returned on Wednesday evening the body had been taken in charge by the undertaker, Mr. Peacock of Norwood, and the mother did not see it then.

There are may be no discrepancy in these statements, but the report that Mrs. Edwards saw her son almost in the same position in which he was found dead two days later is an interesting but apparently not a material development in the mystery surrounding the death of Ernest Edwards, who was buried on Saturday afternoon from his brother's home at Norwood.

Mr. Puffer in his testimony before the coroner's jury said that the body had been face downwards in the barn yard, his hands folded beneath him and his cap, right side up, nearby.

Mr. Puffer also told the Examiner that in his interview with the daughter she had told him Ernest appeared to be in full normal health at noon on Monday, and had nailed a heel on her boot before she went to school.

Resented Filion's Presence.

To the coroner's jury Mr. Puffer reported that Mrs. Edwards had volunteered the explanation at her home Wednesday night that she had been away all day Sunday and returned that night about 10.30 or 11 o'clock. The constable added that he had learned she was accompanied by a man named Filion.

To the Examiner on Saturday Mr. Puffer offered a little further information as to what took place at the Edwards' home that Sunday night. In her statement, he said, the daugh-

CAPT. L. KLINGNER HAD SISTER HERE

Mrs. J. H. Renwick Receives News of the Death of Her Brother in Mesopotamia.

News of the tragic death of Capt. Louis W. Klingner, M.C., C.E., A.M.C.E.I., a brother of Mrs. J. H. Renwick, of this city, who has been serving in Mesopotamia for two years, has been received by the family. Capt. Klingner had been connected with the Iraq Irrigation Commission as officer in charge of surveys for Mesopotamia, with headquarters at Amara, on the Tigris River. On April 2nd, preparatory to coming home, he was in Bagdad on business. With a party of officers he was proceeding to the Serai headquarters by motor boat, and owing to the Tigris being in flood, the launch was driven against the Maude Bridge. It sank in 20 minutes, and, with two other officers, Capt. Klingner lost his life.

The following message received by the mother of the deceased advised her of the tragic death of her son:

Ottawa, Ont., April 8, 1922.

Mrs. L. M. Klingner,
410 Dovercourt Rd., Toronto, Ont.

Deeply regret to inform you that the Secretary of State for the Colonies has telegraphed to the Governor-General that your son, Louis Klingner, of the Iraq Irrigation Department, was drowned on Monday, April 2nd. Motor boat with seven officers on board came into collision with Maude Bridge, Bagdad, and sank in 20 minutes. Klingner and two other officers never reached the shore, and their bodies have not yet been recovered. His Majesty's Government desires to express their deep sympathy, and Their Excellencies have requested me also to express their profound regret and sympathy in your bereavement.

A. F. Sladen, Private Secretary.

Deceased was born in 1886 and educated at Harbord Collegiate Institute and Toronto University, graduating in 1907 from the school of practical science, was connected in an engineering capacity with the C.P.R. for a number of years, also with the Dominion Construction Company, and for two years held a prominent post on the building of the N.Y.C. terminus, New York City.

In September, 1914, he enlisted with the Canadian Engineers, receiving his commission as lieutenant in the 10th Field Company, doing good work at Exhibition Camp and Niagara. His unit was also at Ottawa for some months before going overseas, and he was present in the various engagements of Vimy Ridge, Somme, Paschendaele, etc., with the 4th Division, and was promoted captain during one of the engagements. He also received the Military Cross for conspicuous gallantry the end of 1916, and was latterly, during the close of the war, staff-captain to his brigade. He was a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers and Canadian Engineers' Institute, and a member of the A. F. and A. M. Westport Lodge.

He is also survived by two brothers, Dr. Harold Klingner, of Sydney, Australia, and F. V. Klingner, of Ottawa, and four sisters, Mrs. J. P. Shearer, Long Island, New York; Mrs. B. T. Jenkins, London, England, Mrs. J. H. Renwick, Peterborough, Ont., and Miss G. M. Klingner, of Detroit, Mich.

Diplomacy Mysteries

No. 8.—WHO MURDERED CAMPBELL OF GLENURE?

All who have read Robert Louis Stevenson's "Kidnapped" are familiar with the scene in which the messenger on horseback comes galloping across the highlands of Scotland at breakneck speed, shouting that "Campbell of Glenure has been shot" and the remark of James Stewart: "Whoever did it, I am the man that will hang for it." So much of the mystery is detailed by the master novelist, but neither he nor any of the other who sought to tear aside the shroud of secrecy has been successful.

When Glenure rode forth on that fateful day in May from Fort William to his home in Appin, he was well aware that all along the route the Camerons of Lochaber lurked with their guns among the brushwood and behind the rocks. But either Glenure's daring or the fact that the courage of the would-be assassins failed them at the crucial moment saved the horseman's life until he had passed the Ballachulish Ferry and was almost within sight of his home. Then suddenly a flash of light shot from the brush beside the road and Campbell of Glenure dropped from his horse, with two bullets in his body. But who was the mysterious assasin? Who was the owner of the gun which was found, years later, in a hollow tree near the scene of the crime?

James Stewart was correct in his prediction that he would be accused of the murder, for he had often, when drinking, expressed a desire to have a shot at Glenure, the factor for the Government over the forfeited estates of Ardshiel of Lochiel and of Gallart, estates formerly managed by Stewart himself. But, for that matter, Allan Breck, Stewart's ward, had also expressed the same desire and Breck had far more opportunity than had Stewart. As the evidence showed, he had gone to Stewart's cottage, changed his clothes for a suit belonging to his guardian and had gone fishing up Ballachulish Burn. It was the opinion of the prosecution that Breck, who had left home without a gun, had secured one en route from some accomplice—presumably Stewart—and that he was more than likely the one who had fired the two fatal shots.

On the evening of the murder it was shown that Stewart had gone to the spot when Glenure's corpse lay and, following an examination of the body, had instructed his servants to hide the arms which were in his cottage—four swords, a long Spanish gun and a shorter gun. This, however, was shown to be only a natural precaution against unwarranted suspicion, for it was proved that the shots which killed Glenure had not been fired from either of Stewart's weapons.

Meanwhile, Allen Breck had been seen at dusk near Ballachulish House. When he heard of the crime he declared his innocence, but, acting on the advice of friends, determined to flee the country, for he was a deserter from the Hanoverian army and a possible suspect in connection with the murder. That he did not carry out his intention of escaping was laid to the fact that he was without funds, but, after the prosecution had brought true bills against both Stewart and himself, Breck finally disappeared and his guardian alone was tried for the crime.

Try as they might, the prosecution could bring to light no final proof against Stewart, but the trial was held in the Campbell country before a jury of Campbells, who returned an almost immediate verdict against the defendant. Stewart contented himself with a brief speech in which he declared his innocence before God and added that his chief regret was that "succeeding ages should think me guilty of such a barbarous murder." Only a short time later he was duly hanged, and left hanging, on the little knoll above the sea ferry, close to the Ballachulish Hotel.

But who was the real murderer of Campbell of Glenure? Was it Stewart? Was it Breck? Or was it the man who, according to the statements of a number of supposedly reliable witnesses, desired to give himself up on the day of the execution, only to be told by his kinsmen that it would be useless and that he would not be able to save the life of James Stewart? It is upon these points that history is silent, leaving the mystery which surrounds the assassination of the Government factor as deep and as impenetrable as on the day that the crime occurred.

PRICE THREE CENTS — PETERBOROUGH, MONDAY, APRIL 17, 1922 — PRICE THREE CENTS

ENGLAND CELEBRATES THE EASTER SEASON WITH OLD TIME POMP AND CEREMONY—LARGE CONGREGATIONS

Picturesque Church Parade of the Yeomen Warders Held in the Historic Little Church of St. Peter ad Vincula in the Old Tower of London.

LONDON, April 17.—(Canadian Press.)—The Easter holiday season in London has been attended by uncertain weather with intermittent sunshine and rain. While thousands of Londoners made haste from the great city to the country, the seaside and even to the continent, there was on the other hand a considerable influx of folk inward from the big towns if the North of England. Some of the hotels have done quite good business during the holiday; the recent reductions in their tariff have doubtless helped to this.

As usual there was an immense congregation at St. Paul's yester? day morning, where Dean Inge was the preacher. The services at Westminster Abbey, at the Temple Church, at Southwark Cathedral, and the Westminster Catholic Cathedral were also thronged.

One of the most picturesque church parades ever held takes place at such seasons as Easter and Whitsuntide, and yet, though attendance is quite open to all who desire it, this interesting event almost entirely escapes notice.. In the grey and grim old Tower of London, there is the little church of St. Peter and Vincula. Macaulay described this church as "the saddest spot on earth," for in the centuries that are past it was the custom to bring here, from the neighbouring Tower Green, the bleeding, headless corpses of those who had just suffered at the hands of the executionr... Lady Jane Grey's mortal remains were thus treated. The last offices in like manner were roughly administered to a score of others as highly born. Not a dozen yards from the church door is the railed plot of the execution ground. Under the pavement of the church there are the bones of patriots, prelates, statesmen adventurers in lost causes who themselves tasted the bitterness of the block.

St. Peter ad Vincula is a Royal Chapel. Here, on such festivals as Easter, there comes in full state the Major and Governor of the Tower as representative of the King. The Yeomen Warders, in their quaint impressive dress, form up on Tower Green. The Chief Warder carries the Tower Mace. Then there appears the Governor of the Tower Gold epaulettes, cocked hat and feathers, and all the full trappings of his rank, Major General Sir Henry Pipon, gallant soldier and gentleman, strides across from his quarters. He is almost as virile as when he made the march to Kandahar with Roberts. The Governor goes round the ranks of the warders, all of them, like himself, military veterans, extending greetings to each. The Chaplain of St. Peter's—which besides being a Chapel-Royal is also garrison church for the Tower—joins the gathering on Tower Green. The Tower Warders escort the Governor into the Church where the soldiers from the Tower Barracks (it is always one of the regiments of Guards which are stationed at the Tower) are already seated.. The service is one the lines of those any garrison church, but those who attend it for first time are likely long to remember it.

Outside of London not many training camps for the Territorial Army have been established this Easter, most units being content o get through musketry courses, etc., in their own districts. The First London Territorial Division, however, will be attached to Regular units during the present holidays. he artillery will use the horses and guns of the units to which they are affiliated, and undertake a considerable amount of field work, and infantry will be put through minor factical enterprises. Eighteen of the units will receive this training at Aldershot, the Engineers, go to Maresfield, two London battalions join the rifle depot at Winchester and the transport companiees of the 9th London Battalion will be attached to the 3rd Rifle Brigade at Portsmouth. A similar scheme of holiday training has been organized for the Second London Division.

DALLAS, Texas, April 17.—Canadian Press.—Captain G. S. Little and Sergeant James L. Johnson, army fliers from Kelly Field, San Antonio, were killed here yesterday when the aeroplane in which they were riding went into a nose dive at a height of about 100 feet.

THE PREMIER ENTERTAINED OVER EASTER

AN OVATION.

GENOA, April 17. Canadian Press. —David Lloyd George, the British Prime Minister, and his wife and daughter, attended Easter Service in the English church yesterday morning. Later they went with Signor Schanzer, the Italian Foreign Minister, to the Cathedral. A large crowd recognized Mr. Lloyd George as he was leaving the Cathedral and gave him an ovation. Dr. Wirth, the German Chancellor, also attended the services in the Cathedral.

After church Mr. Lloyd George and his family and several members of the British delegation to the Economic Conference, went with Signor Schanzer to the Royal Palace, where Signor Schanzer, his wife and two daughters, entertained them at Easter dinner.

FLAMES SWEEP BUILDING OCCUPIED BY THE PRINCE

Members of Staff of Prince of Wales Lose Personal Effects in Blaze Which Destroyed the Imperial Hotel, Where They Were Quartered in Tokio.

TOKIO, April 17 (Canadian Press). — Fire yesterday completely destroyed the older portion of the famous Imperial Hotel, and damaged hte temporary annex to the hotel. Three hundred persons, mostly members of the staff of the Prince of Wales and visitors who came to Tokio from various parts of Japan in connection with the visit of the Prince, were rendered homeless. Their effects were partly destroyed.

One person is known to have been killed.

When the fire broke out at ten minutes after three o'clock yesterday afternoon, the Prince of Wales was just entering the Shinjuju Gardens, three miles from Tokio, accompanied by the Regent, the Empress, and some three thousand invited guests for a garden party. Consequently he knew nothing of the disaster until his return to the city.

The flames swept rapidly through the hotel building under the strong wind that was blowing, and the hotel was quickly enveloped.

The annex also was considerably damaged, and the new hotel, which is under construction at a cost of seven million yen, was endangered.

Some twenty or thirty members of the suite of the Prince of Wales, and officers of the cruiser Renown, were attending the Imperial garden party with the Prince during the fire, and were heavy losers.

Captain P. Leigh lost presents he had received during the visit of the Prince of Wales to India and Japan, and which he had intended to ship home by way of the United States. Some of the Prince's staff officers lost their entire kits.

The newspaper reporters and photographers attached to the Prince's staff also lost everything they had left behind in the hotel.

DE VALERA SPEAKS.

TULLAMORE, Ireland, April 17 Canadian Press). — Speaking here yesterday, Eamonn DeValera said if the electorate in Ireland accepted the Anglo-Irish Treaty, the people would be in a position they were never in before, as the Government in Ireland would have to use its power against any section of the people which rose to achieve the country's freedom.

"If there is another Easter Week," DeValera added, "it won't be against a Maxwell (Major-General Sir John Grenfell Maxwell, former commander of the British forces in Ireland) and foreign soldiers. The people would be fighting against Irish soldiers."

A hailstorm raged while Mr. DeValera was speaking.

GRIFFITH AT SLIGO.

BELFAST, April 17 (Canadian Press). — A report reached Belfast last night that the meeting at Sligo adressed by Arthur Griffith was held yesterday. The discordant factions had instructions not to fire, but at one point during the meeting a party of Free Staters did fire, wounding about half a dozen Republicans.

These were the entire casualties.

BIG PROGRAMME.

LONDON, Ont., April 17.—(Canadian Press)—London extended a hearty welcome to Lord and Lady Byng Saturday on the occasion of their first visit to the city. Following a parade and a civic welcome in Victoria Park where His Excellency reviewed the war veterans, the party proceeded to the new site of the Western University where Lord Byng turned the first sod for the buildings on which work will start at once. Later he officially opened the new children's hospital. Saturday night his train was moved into the country where on account of Lady Byng's health a quiet Sunday was passed. The party left this morning for St. Thomas.

Saturday they visited Woodstock and Ingersoll.

EXAMPLES FOR PETERBOROUGH.

Several items which appeared in The Examiner's news colmns from district correspondents on Saturday serve to show that all the civic enterprise and public spirit are not cornered by the city of Peterborough, but that sometimes we can go over to some of the smaller places in the neighbourhood for suggestions. For example, we find in the Hastings news that the Hastings Horticultural Society has been given permission by the village Council to plant trees on Bridge Street as a memorial to the Hastings men who gave up their lives in the Great War. That is a splendid plan, and one that could be adopted to advantage by many other communities.

Again, from Warkworth we are informed that the Warkworth Athletic Club is to transform the "old swimming hole" into a modern swimming pool. An even bottom is to be made, the creek is to be deepened, the edge of the pool is to be planted with willows, and dressing-rooms are to be provided. Warkworth is setting a rapid pace for us in that respect. True Peterborough has made some progress along this line in the past three or four years, but we have nothing that sounds so good as the Warkworth plan.

Here are two undertakings in which we can probably learn from Hastings and Warkworth.

CO-ORDINATION AT LAST.

The work of the special Parliamentary committee that is to consider the problems in connection with the pensions, insurance, and re-establishment generally of Canada's veterans should be greatly simplified by reason of the fact that the five principal organisations representative of the returned soldiers have agreed upon a co-ordinated legislative programme which will be pressed before the committee. Hitherto lack of unity among the ex-soldiers has interfered with re-establishment plans. It was difficult for the Parliamentary committees appointed at other sessions of Parliament to decide among the varied demands presented by the different veteran organisations which particular policy was desired by the majority of returned men nor which course was the best in the interests of the soldiers themselves and of the country. It is unfortunate that the veterans could not have presented a united front before this comparatively late date, for with the co-ordination that has now been achieved, it is likely that some at least of the difficulties of re-establishment would have been removed. Much harm was done to the cause of returned soldiers by the agitators, who set up before them the temptation of cash bonuses and other impossibilities of the same kind. Many of the men who fought were lured away from the real problems of re-establishment, and as a result the efforts of those who were striving for needed reforms in connection with pensions and problem cases were hindered and interfered with. The coming together of the five veteran organisations on this occasion should be welcomed by all friends of the returned soldiers.

THE 21ST BATTALION MEMORIAL.

Peterborough's interest in the 21st Battalion, in which so many of her soldier sons fought, should be second only to that of Kingston, where the famous Eastern Ontario unit was organised and received its preliminary training before departing for overseas, so that the announcement that a memorial is to be erected in Kingston in honour of the officers and men of the 21st who made the supreme sacrifice should be heard with pleasure by local friends of the battalion. Peterborough contributed a splendid quota to the original 21st Battalion, and during the long and glorious career of the unit in France, many other Peterborough soldiers were sent to take the places of those who had given up their lives or the more fortunate who had been wounded and invalided home.

From the organisation of the battalion in November, 1914, until the unit was demobilised in Kingston in the spring of 1919, there were always Peterborough men on the roster, and the fortunes of the 21st were followed always with the keenest interest by the whole city. A similar interest will doubtless be shown in the movement to commemorate the names of the 830 officers and men who fell, and there should at the same time be a feeling of regret and something akin to shame that it is only former members of the battalion who are being asked to furnish the funds for carrying out the splendid project. They, of course, are anxious that the memory of their comrades shall be honoured, but it scarcely seems fair that the burden should be laid only upon their shoulders. The communities from which the members of the 21st Battalion were recruited should be willing to do their share.

WHAT IS TO FOLLOW.

The brightening prospects in regard to outdoor work this summer are welcome because they mean that employment will be available to many of those who have been for some time unable to earn steady wages, or, in many cases, any wages at all. At the same time the situation warrants, as the Examiner pointed out the other day, a straight forward declaration from the City Council, that so far as they are concerned, the dole system of unemployment relief will not be renewed next winter. That may seem harsh and drastic, but nevertheless such an ultimatum is needed if the development of a class of professional loafers is to be avoided. It would be folly to allow the impression to be formed that all those who are out of work next winter will be given municipal assistance along the lines in force for the past two winters, and unless a definite announcement is made to the contrary, it is to be feared that just such an impression will become general. On the other hand the knowledge that the winter of 1922-23 may be a lean one for those who have not prepared for it may have a tonic effect upon many who have become more or less demoralized by the relief system that had to be adopted last year, and repeated during the winter that has just closed. It will teach the lesson that in times of stress one cannot be too particular as to what class of work he follows, and the more important truth that a little money laid by for a rainy day is more desirable than unemployment doles.

THE COAL STRIKE.

Our indifference to the coal strike in progress in the United States is wholly unjustified, points out the Ottawa Journal. In the ups and downs of anthracite prices we are more concerned than are the Americans themselves. We are absolutely dependent on the United States for our chief domestic fuel, and shall for all time to come unless the Research Council succeeds in making a satisfactory substitute from the low-grade Alberta lignite and at a figure which will permit distribution throughout Ontario at least. We should pray for the triumph of such efforts. In the meantime it should interest us very vitally to know that if the strikers win, our hard coal is likely to cost us $3 more a ton. The mine operators make that assertion very positively, and support it by the usual array of statistical data.

As likely as not, this announcement will be met by a flat denial from the miners, and they, too, will quote chapter and verse. That is one of the difficulties in this whole controversy. It is practically impossible to ascertain the absolute truth. Two things, however, are beyond doubt: First, that there are too many miners in the coal fields, or the business of mining is carried on most unscientifically; for while wages are unquestionably high, the work proceeds so irregularly that the men in the pits realize a rather low sum for the whole year. That should be curable, and it would be cured, if there were one-quarter of the regulative attention applied to the mining industry that controls the railways. Second, no matter which way the decision goes, the consumer will still be the real sufferer. If the miners lose, the producers will hold up the price of coal to pay the cost of the strike. If the miners win, and it annually means $3 more per ton at the mines, the extra cost may be about $5 before it reaches the ultimate user.

"INTO THE AIR."

London Daily News: Out of the welter of expert confusion as to what will be the exact trend of naval warfare in the future, one fact clearly emerges—that in these circumstances to build two monster battleships at nine millions apiece, will be a reckless gamble. Admiral Sir Percy Scott, whose authority on naval matters is unchallenged, declares with contemptuous downrightness that one man in an aeroplane with one bomb, could at this present moment send the whole nine millions' worth to the bottom of the sea. Mr. Amery, speaking for the Admiralty in the House of Commons, so far supported Sir Percy Scott's view as to admit that the Admiralty's policy was "more and more to get the navy out of the water into the air." We find it difficult to understand how this policy is to be pursued consistently by putting in the water at enormous cost two ships either one of which, in the judgment of a great seasman, could be sunk in five minutes at a cost not exceeding that of the weekly upkeep of a single admiral.

IS IT BETTER THAN CHAOS.

London Daily Chronicle: It had already been agreed that the Greeks were to evacuateAsia Minor, and in accepting the armistice terms they have expressed their willingness to conform. But they are to be left in possession of the Gallipoli Peninsula, though it seems that the Turks will control the south side of the Dardanelles—an arrangement which would obviously give them the power to deny the passage of the Straits. The Turks will regain certain territory in Thrace, but the demand hitherto backed by the French—that they should enter Adrianapole—will not be granted. We fear that little immediate relief is offered to Armenia, for the conference is content to ask for the cooperation of the League of Nations in giving effect to Armenian aspirations. The settlement is by no means ideal, but if strong clauses are inserted for the protection of subject Christians it will be far better than the prolongation of the present chaos.

ARE THEY ON THEIR HIND LEGS.

New Orleans Times-Picayune: When a man gets so beside himself that he wants to lick the mayor and all other city officials, shoot up Main Street, and set fire to the town, you can put it down that he knows he has met his finish. There was a note of this desperation in Trotsky's challenge the other day, and he only indicated this loss of faith in the Government he represents when he threatened Europe with a scourge of Communism, apparently the most horrible thing he could call to mind. When the Soviet chieftains get to snapping and splashing at the Universe in general they must realize that they are on their last legs.

STILL HOPING.

NAVIGATION ON GREAT LAKES IS OPEN FOR YEAR

Steamer Conneaut Makes First Successful Detour With Load of Coal and Returned.

TO LIME ISLAND.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., April 17. — (Canadian Press). — The steamer Conneaut, with coal for the Valley Camp Coal Company at Detour, arrived at that port Saturday evening, was unloaded during the night and left Detour yesterday morning for southern lakes.. The steamer Jenkins, up to six o'clock last evening, had not been reported at Detour, but was expected to arrive there some time last night. She will proceed up the river to Lime Island, where she will unload her cargo of coal. It is not expected the Jenkins will have much trouble making the island, in which case navigation through the river will practically be open as the heaviest ice is usually encountered below Lime Island. Reports from above indicate little difficulty will be met from the Soo to Lake Superior.

The windrows which extend across Whitefish Bay are very wide apart in contrast to other years where they were heavily packed together so that steamers should have little trouble breaking through.

While the weather has tightened up the last few days the change has had little effect on the ice. Steamers are awaiting the results of the Jenkins' efforts to get through as it is expected she will proceed up the river after discharging her coal cargo at Lime Island.

Apsley Sawmills Had a Narrow Escape — Logs Swept Away.

APSLEY, April 17.—On Wednesday about noon a S.O.S. call w... out from McColl's saw mill, which was in danger of being swept bodily away by the tremendous flood of water that was pouring over the dam. The sluice was not large enough to accommodate the volume of water, the surplus being deflected into the mill with such force that the underpinning was in danger of being demolished. The call was promptly responded to by all the available male help, and happily the catastrophe was averted. The sudden flood could hardly be accounted for by the melting of the snow and Tuesday's rainfall, which amounted to a little over an inch and a half, and it was thought the old dam at Eel's Creek had burst. It was reported intact, however. Eel's creek has not been flooded to such an extent for years. It has subsided now, but during its short but wild spring revel it did considerable damage, several bridges being reported swept away, and a considerable number of logs that were on the banks waiting for the spring cut, conveyed miles away. The owners will have a difficult time in locating them and getting them salvaged. The sudden raising of the water seems to have been general. Hawkes' mill being reported as in danger of being wrecked while word has been received that the new substantial concrete ... Creek bridge, at Purdy's, built last year, is considerably damaged. The report is not verified at time of writing.

Mr. Wilson was a life-long resident of Apsley and was highly respected for his upright character by all who knew him. His death will be a distinct loss to the community.

Special Service.

The lantern service at St. George's church on Good Friday evening drew a large congregation. About 300 scenes depicting Christ's Last Day were thrown on the screen, after the usual service had been conducted by the Rev. C. Spence. The lantern was kindly lent by the Rev. W. Hall, whose son manipulated it, while he himself took the reading. The whole service was very impressive, and reverent attention was given by the big crowd present.

Dear Sirs:-

Having been consistent users of daily newspaper space in our advertising for many years, it affords us pleasure to say that we have found the results very gratifying.

In our opinion two of the main points of effectiveness in daily newspaper advertising lie in its directness and the means it affords of launching a selling campaign with the least possible delay.

The advertising of musical products in the main must be addressed to a public with the widest diversity of taste. In reaching this public with maximum selling force we have at all times found satisfaction in the employment of the daily press.

Canada is fortunate indeed in being served by daily newspapers which are clean, wholesome and progressive.

Yours very truly,

CANADIAN MANAGER.

AEL/OIC

This company has found the daily newspaper a constant, practical force in distribution, and a swift-striking ally in taking timely advantage of a notable event in local music. No other advertising in the world can be changed when how and as quickly as such a business house requires. No other can reach many diverse tastes through the one which all men have in common, hunger for the news of the day.

Issued by The Canadian Daily Newspapers Association, Head Office, Toronto.

"Our First Year"

(By a Bride.)

START THIS TO-DAY—

Five girl friends of the bride accept her invitation to lunch. They are eager to learn how she and her husband are faring in their odd endeavors to keep marriage from interfering with their indivdual freedom.

Chapter XIII—Flappers to the Front.

"I tell my husband everything!" announced Mary Smith as sweetly as briefly.

"Consequently you believe he tells you everything," queried Jeanne.

"Of course he does!" Mary's kind of positiveness is possible only to those whose opinions are rooted in convention.

"How perfectly pathetic!" exclaimed Bonny, incorrigble flapper. That child! Daring to imply that Mary's faith in her husband was pathetic!

"I want to say to you, Peg, as the only other married girl present, that it's best to tell your husband everything!" Mary continued. "It's the only way!"

"The only way—if it works both ways!" commented Jeanne. "If he tells, too!"

"How perfectly hectic!" Our blase flapper turned to me. "Peg! You'll make Jack utterly conceited if you let him dream that ol' Friend Bart is a stranger to you—just because you're married! Don't! Don't let your husband fancy he's the only man you ever look at! Keep him guessing—if you want to keep him at all!"

"'If I want to keep him at all?'" I repeated. "Why suggest as soon that there's a chance I may lose him?"

"Don't flare up, Mrs. Madison!" drawled Bonny. "And do quit playing Miss Innocence! That's last century stuff! Don't you read? Don't you go to the movies? And to shows? Lose him! Why blind yourself to Fate?"

Jeanne, then, to Bonny:

"Peg knows! Else why should she and Jack start out to reform marriage"

"But we haven't!" I protested. "Jack and I don't want to reform anybody! We simply claim our right to live our own lives in our own way! I want to be myself! Jack wants to be himself! So we have agreed not to hamper each other. He's free! I'm free! And that's all!"

"Goodness! That's all the people in the divorce suits want!" put in Bonny.

Then Mary Smith, as always when we girls get excited, applied a cooling compound:

"Why should Peg, or anybody else, want to reform marriage?" Mary speaks slowly and distinctly as if her ideas are always too valuable to waste on careless ears. "Isn't marriage good enough as it is?"

Verily that was no conundrum. We knew the answer so well that any reply seemed superfluous. Nobody spoke for along time. Finally Jeanne Alison laughed:

"Since no one objects, I think we may conclude that marriage is good enough—as is!"

"Marriage is all right!" Bonny was positive. 'You girls think I'm precocious. You're always wanting to say, 'Little girls should be seen and not heard!'

"But I know a few things. I've found out heaps about love. Girls ought to know. And if I loved as every girl wants to love and if I were loved as every girl wants to be loved, do you think I'd look at any man but my own man —forever? Monogamy would be Paradise!"

AND nobody laughed at Bonny this time.

FUGITIVE JUMPED IN HAMILTON BAY.

HAMILTON, April 17 (Canadian Press). — In trying to avoid the policeman who sought to arrest him for fighting yesterday, Alex. Volnivruk jumped off the dock into the bay. When he was going down for the third time he yelled for help, and the officer who sought him, Constable Sharp, plunged in after him, and after a hard struggle brought him to safety.

A CONFESSION.

PARIS, April 17 (Canadian Press) —Commenting on the Genoa Conference, the Temps says:

"Let's confess that the Genoa Conerence is war, and the first phase has ended to the advantage of the Bolsheviki.

"In less than a week," the newspaper continues, "face to face with the Allies under the command of Lloyd-George himself, they have obtained three important results. They have been admitted to the Conference upon an equality which is practically equivalent to official recignition; they have kept intact all their claims without signing or conceding anything, and their decisive success has been that the outcome of the Conference now depends upon Moscow."

IRELAND IS VERY QUIET FOR EASTER

Some Disturbances Are Reported Saturday, But Easter Sunday Passed Very Peacefully.

GRIFFITH SPEAKS.

BELFAST, April 17 (Canadian Press). — Notwithstanding the wild rumours of impending trouble in Belfast on Easter Sunday, not a single casualty had been reported up to eleven o'clock last night.

An unusually large number of hold-ups, carried out by armed men, took place in the streets of Belfast on Saturday night, but no big amounts were secured by the highwaymen.

Complete quiet prevailed on Saturday night and yesterday along the Fermanagh border.

There was continuous firing in the North Side of Dublin on Saturday night. Considerable alarm prevailed among the residents in the neighbourhood of the Broadstone Station and Mountjoy Prison.

According to one account received here, the Republicans endeavoured to seize Mountjoy Prison, which was guarded by Irish Republican Army Regulars.

Broadstone is the station from which Arthur Griffith started for Sligo. Mr. Griffith took a bold course. Instead of smuggling himself into Sligo, he travelled in state on the Midland and Great Western Railroad, and with a guard of honour of Free State troops.

At all the stations crowds waited to give the Dail Eireann president a cordial reception. Handshaking was the order of the day at . . . while at Longford the local Republican Army members rendered honours, and the inevitable . . . played national airs.

In an interview at Longford, Mr. Griffith said he was not afraid to speak in Sligo, as he knew the people there, as well as in every county in Ireland, were behind him.

It is reported here that the Kilmainham Prison has been taken over by the Irish Republican Army, but the report does not say whether by Republicans or Regulars.

The Kilmainham Prison is situated near the former residence of the British military commander in Ireland. It has not ben used for prison purposes for some time.

Not Her Fault

But why not keep teeth white?

Does your dentist ever show you the film-coats on your teeth? His vigorous polishing is largely done to remove them.

Millions find that these film-coats form despite the daily brushing. But now there's a way to combat that film, and we offer you a test.

What film does

Film starts as a viscous coat. You can feel it now. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays.

It absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. It forms the basis of tartar. Thus the luster of the teeth is kept dimmed.

Film holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed in film, and they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film. They are due to the fact that old ways of brushing do not effectively combat it.

The new-day way

Dental science, after long research, has found two ways to fight film. Careful tests have amply proved them. Now leading dentists, here and abroad, advise their daily use.

Both are embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent—a scientific tooth paste. To millions of people it is bringing whiter, cleaner, safer teeth.

Five benefits

Pepsodent brings other desired effects. It multiplies the salivary flow. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is to digest the starch deposits which may otherwise cling and form acids.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is Nature's agent to neutralize acids, the cause of tooth decay.

In these natural and effective ways, Pepsodent combats twice daily the great enemies of teeth.

Watch it act

The results are quick and apparent. You can see and feel them.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

The test will be a revelation. It has brought to millions a new era in teeth cleaning. Learn what it means to you.

MRS. MARY A. SPENCER, of Watertown, N. Y., aged 75, who declares she gained 15 pounds on Tanlac, and feels just fine all the time. Was in badly run-down condition.

Just think of it — at seventy-five years of age to be made well and strong again and gain 12 pounds in weight, but this is exactly what I did after taking Tanlac Not only that, I feel years younger," said Mrs. Mary A. Spencer, East St., life-long resident of Watertown, N. Y.

"For over a year I was in a terribly run-down condition and I was so nervous and restless that many a night I would hear the clock strike every hour. I was able to eat very little and lost strength right along, finally becoming so weak I could hardly walk from one room to another.

"On account of my age I thought my declining health was natural but Tanlac has proved that I was mistaken. I can do all my own housework now, I sleep all night long, wake up in the morning feeling refreshed and just feel fine all the day long. Tanlac can't be praised too much."

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by the Warne Drug Co., Ltd. and by leading druggists everywhere.

Three delegates were then appointed to attend the Co-operative Shippers Convention to be held in the U.F.O. rooms, Peterboro, on Tuesday next.

Wheat and Clover Fine

The fall wheat and clover have wintered well in this district. The recent rains and continued favorable weather have made the earth solid and covered up the bare roots so that there is every prospect for a good crop if the fine weather continues for a short time. Some farmers have already started to plough sod ground It is expected in about a week's time general seeding will be carried on.

The stock throughout the vicinity are coming out in splendid condition, although the feed is very scarce, and it is hoped that early pasture will be available to help out the situation.

Muskrats Plentiful

The trappers around Rice Lake are muskrats plentiful. There are a number trapping and they find it difficult to get around to their traps the ice has not left the lake yet. ice is about five inches in depth but recent strong winds that have been blowing, has driven it out quite a distance from the head of the lake, but owing to its present thickness it will need some very strong western winds yet to drive it away completely and clear the lake.

Maple Syrup Season

There has been a large quantity of maple syrup made in South Monaghan this Spring. In some sugar bushes there have been as many as two hundred trees tapped. There has been quite a lot of maple syrup sold, but most people have kept the syrup for their home use

Quite a sensation was caused last Saturday afternoon, among the villagers, when Albert Smoke, marathon runner, passed through, running from Bewdley to Peterboro'. He was making good time.

IN KIRKLAND LAKE GOLD AREA

Offers for Public Subscription 300,000 Treasury Shares at 15 cents per share.

Head Office, 8 Silver Street, Cobalt, Ont., P.O. Box 271, Cobalt, Ont. Authorized Capital, $2,000,000. Divided into 2,000,000 shares, $1.00 Par Value. Issued for Property and Promotion, 500,000.

A FEW YEARS AGO

Lake Shore was down about 200 feet, but had not yet encountered the big ore-system; about this time the writer overheard—while passing by on the stage—one wise (?) mining man (?) remark to another: "It's a pity 'Harry' doesn't take a tumble to himself that there's nothing there and quit throwing his money away." This mine has since proven to be the richest Quartz-Gold mine on the Continent, of its size, has paid all expenditure back in dividends and has ore-reserves above the 600ft. level variously estimated up to $18,000,000.

All of which goes to show what may lie beneath a very meagre showing in Kirkland Lake area, if and when located on the great central zone of enrichment.

1,000 PER CENT. PROFITS

Shares acquired early in Lake Shore, at present market value, show an advance on original investment of over 1,000 per cent., other well selected gold shares show equal profits on money paid for them—all well promoted, properly located, well administered companies have the same opportunity, and many will do equally as well.

MINES ARE MADE—NOT DISCOVERED

True, the essentials include the prospector's discovery—but most include, beyond an atom of doubt, proper geological conditions and location governs this—and if to be successful, must have honest and intelligent promotion and administration—Nature has always been, and is, kind, but some of the people are neither.

GREEDY PROMOTION

Makings of scores of good mines lie dormant to-day mired in the muck of GREEDY PROMOTION and unintelligent administration—their shares practically worthless; though traded in on the exchanges—only ruthless reorganization, refinancing and sound administration can ever pull those chestnuts out of the fire, and in any case their mistakes are a tax against their future.

LEBEL LODE OPPORTUNITIES

Lebel Lode offers participation in a property with proven surface values—persistent fracturing, located on a proven producing zone in one of the most important gold-fields—Has ideal geological condition—Transportation negligiable, property owned outright with perfect title held under Crown Patent—All this backed by an executive that commands your respect and trust, covering as it does all phases, prospecting, development, engineering, mining and business ability. The project is opportune, roads are built, surface of property explored, pioneering uncertainities have passed on to successes west and east, and last but not least, economical conditions for labor and commodities.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE

This purpose of this issue is to conclude surface development and equipment, housing, etc., placing of plant sufficient to operate five drills and the sinking of a two-compartment shaft, complete, to 425 feet this year and such further development or purpose as is deemed advisable to your Directors in the best interests of your company.

Apply Head Office, or nearest Director or Officer, for Prospectus and Information. Make application for stock direct to Head Office, or remit it to any duly authorized Officer or Representative.

The ultimate economy of concrete is the big reason for its adoption

No so-called economy is real economy unless it can justify itself in the ultimate cost. This applies with particular force to Roads.

Experience has shown how costly some roads are. There is no longer the shadow of an excuse for disregarding "ultimate economy" when planning our highways. If a road costs little to build but much to maintain, it must give way to a type of pavement which—although costing more to build—involves minimum maintenance charges.

Experience is showing that Concrete has those qualities of permanence which render it "cheapest in the long run." We cannot afford to build our roads of any less permanent material.

Faced with the imperative need of providing those hard surfaces capable of withstanding such increased strain as the increasing use of the Motor Truck inevitably represents, we must surely recognize that real economy calls for the adoption of the higher type of paving which Concrete makes possible.

IF BACK HURTS USE SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

EAT LESS MEAT IF KIDNEYS FEEL LIKE LEAD OR BLADDER BOTHERS.

Most folks forget that the kidneys like the bowels get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing ocasionally, else we would have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment that you feel an ache or a pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few mornings and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

COLLINS' SPEECH.

DUBLIN, April 17 (Canadian Press). — In his speech at Naas, County Kildare, yesterday, Michael Collins charged opponents of the Free State with setting barriers against the onward march of the nation, and declared that DeValera had adopted "methods of anarchy" because the people were not willing to allow him to decide treaty questions for them.

Speaking here last night at the celebration of the Easter rebellion, DeValera reiterated his hostility to the treaty, and told his audience that they could have stable government and unity behind the volunteers who stood for the Republic.

MRS. EDWARDS

ter had told him that her brother, Ernest, was very angry at the presence of Filion, who is said to have stayed all night and went away on Monday morning.

Had Quarreled.

"The girl told me that when Ernest said things to Filion he didn't answer back but just hung his head," Constable Puffer related to the Examiner. "But when he talked to his mother she would quarrel with him. The girl said she herself was mad against Filion, and I also understand another brother had tried to make his mother straighten up and keep away from Filion. The girl also says that when she told her mother on Wednesday night that Ernest was dead, Mrs. Edwards said: "He went and poisoned himself."

It is not clear when the daughter learned that her brother was dead, but it was she who conveyed the news to the mother, who was then at the home of Russell Hill several miles away. The girl got a neighbor named Lee to drive her to Hill's, and when Mrs. Edwards arrived home the undertaker and Mr. Puffer were about to leave for Norwood with the body.

Strychnine Gone.

As reported on Saturday, Mrs. Edwards in an interview with the Examiner at the home of her son Roland at Norwood shortly before the funeral, said that a small bottle of strychnine that had been kept in a trunk in Ernest's room was missing. After her return home she had searched for this bottle which her husband, who died several years ago, had bought at Tanner's drug store in Lakefield seven years ago when the family was living near Buckhorn. She asked whether any report of the post-mortem examination had been received, and said that if Ernest had taken poison she knew no reason why he had done so.

Son Cross at Times.

"He kept things to himself," Mrs. Edwards said, "and he didn't tell me much about himself. He was cross at times, and last Saturday (April 8) he was angry because I wouldn't give him two dollars out of my Mothers' Pension money. I thought I was doing fairly well keeping him without giving him money which he would have spent in Norwood.

Went Away For Peace.

That is why I thought on Monday morning that if I went away for a few days he might forget it. So I baked some pies and things and left enough for a few days. Mrs. Hill wanted me to do some sewing, and I thought I'd go over there. I left his sister with him to wash the dishes and look after the house. He had been talking of going to work for a farmer, and when my daughter came home from school and didn't find him she thought he had gone out to work, so she went to Whigmore's."

Mrs. Edwards said her son had not been the same since he came back from the United States, where he had enlisted in the army and was attached to a camp in Georgia.

Automobile club of Rochester was organized originally 21 years ago, as a fad.

If the car misses regularly in one or more cylinders, the miss is due to faulty ignition.

BETTER GARDEN TIPS

BY LUTHER BURBANK

MRS. LUTHER BURBANK ILLUSTRATES HER HUSBAND'S GARDEN TIPS.

CARDEN SEEDS.

Many of the common mistakes of the beginner are made in planting. A few suggestions may help materially in avoiding them:

BURBANK

First of all—GET GOOD SEEDS! Like all good things they are cheaper in the end.

If flowers are to be grown the beginner is likely to have the best success with "hardy annuals," such flowers as zinnias or marigolds — but in the event that other plants are desired the amateur would do well to start his seed in boxes.

To prepare the boxes use leaf mold in mixing the earth and provide holes in the bottom for the drainage of water. Put the boxes in sheltered places, protecting them from direct sunlight. When the seedlings appear — and particularly when the fourth leaf has appeared—transplant them, either in another box or the garden. When well up thin the plants according to the variety.

Covering seeds too deeply is a common mistake and should be avoided, particularly in the case of flowers. When boxes are used and precautions taken very little earth is needed over the seeds and, in some cases, practically none. This will be later referred to.

But, at all events, do not make careless seed purchases if you wish the full benefit of your time and trouble.

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. A touch stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. HALF A CENTURY ON THE SAME JOB

CINCINNATI, O., April 17. — Half a century at the same job and not a bit tired of it!

The honor goes to the Ridder sisters, Dora and Carrie, who have been making caps at the Tobias cap factory here.

Dora started at her present job 51 years ago when she was 25. Carrie began her work a short time later.

Grant Was President.

Their present employer's grandfather, Henry Tobias, was their boss then. Grant was president. The Civil War was still being felt as the World War is to-day in high prices, unemployment and specail taxes. Women were just beginning to abandon hoopskirts.

With the passing years came changes. Henry Tobias died and left his establishment to his sons, Charles and Morris. These gave way to the present owners —the third generation of Tobias.

Presidents came and went. The war was being forgotten. Skirts were getting shorter.

Never Miss a Day.

But Dora and Carrie remained at their first jobs, unmindful of the changes that were going on about them. The machines at which they worked were discarded for new and better models. New faces appeared, became familiar and disappeared. Only the Ridder sisters remained.

They are white-haired now. They still work at their machines. They never miss a day.

Easter Music in All the Churches Highly Commended—Floral Decorations Were Profuse.

PERSONAL MENTION.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 17.—The weather yesterday was ideal and the Easter services in all the churches were most largely attended. Special music of a most pleasing and uplifting nature was rendered by large choirs. Easter, without flowers would be unthinkable and in all the churches decorations included Easter lilies, carnations and spring flowers of every variety. The flowers, Easter lilies and carnations, in the Methodist church were particularly beautiful, having been sent from Windsor by Miss Dorothy Health, (a former member of the church), in memory of her brother David, who made the supreme sacifice in Flander's fields. Here special Easter music was rendered by the large choir, which in the evening was assisted by a three piece orchestra, which added greatly to the musical part of the service.

At Christ Church the choir was ably assisted by Master Kenneth McCannan, boy soloist of Peterboro, who sang very sweetly at both morning and evening services.

At St. Andrews, at the evening services the cantata "Resurrection Light" by Mrs. E. L. Ashland, was exceptionally well rendered and reflects much credit upon the choir leaders and organist, Miss Hawley, as well as upon the choir. Mrs. (Rev.) McIntosh rendered most sweetly, "O Divine Redeemer" from Handel's Messiah, and Mr. W. Henson's "Surely He Has Borne Our Griefs" (from the Good Shepherd), was thoroughly enjoyed. The soloist in the cantata were Miss E. Meiklejohn, Mrs. (Rev.) McIntosh, and Miss M. Burleigh, sopranos, Mrs. Thos Free, contralto, Mr. C. R. Dodge, baritone, Mr. W. Henson, bass, quartettes, Mrs. Thos. Free, Miss M. Burleigh, Messrs. W.. and E. Henson.

Mrs. Wragg's dramatic rendition of the "Old Old Story" as the limelight views of the journey "Olive to Calvary" were screened was a rare treat, and was thoroughly enjoyed by the large audience present.

Miss Clark of Kingston Mills, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Walter G. Davidson.

HEARTBURN A SEVERE CASE

Many people are troubled with heartburn who really do not realize just what it is.

In cases of this trouble there is a gnawing and burning pain in the stomach attended by disturbed appetite. It is generally caused by great acidity of the stomach, and whenever too much food is taken, it is liable to ferment and becomes extremely sour, causing heartburn. In such cases vomiting often occurs, and what is thrown up is sour and sometimes bitter.

The way to get rid of heartburn is to keep your liver active by using and you will have no heartburn or other liver troubles such as constipation, jaundice, water brash, floating specks before the eyes, coated tongue, foul breath, etc.

Miss Agnes Cutting, Shallow Lake, Ont., writes:—"I have had heartburn for a long time. There were gnawing and burning pains in my stomach, and then when I vomited there was a sour and bitter taste. I used two vials of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and they have cleared me of my heartburn. I don't think they can be beaten by any other medicine."

Price, 25c. a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt price by The T. Milburn., Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

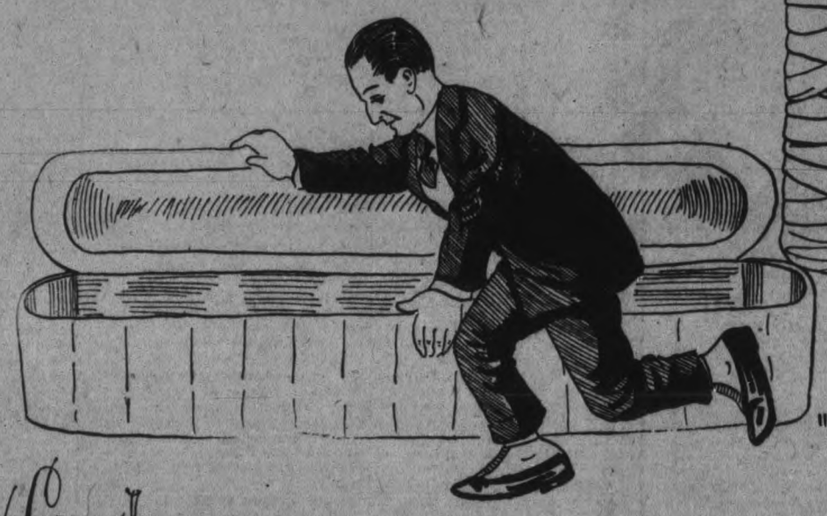
The International Exploits Of Christopher Poe.

A SERIES OF 10 THRILLING DETECTIVE STORIES By ROBERT CARLTON BROWN.

A CLUE AND A CONNOISSEUR.



"Hello, find something?" asked the Englishman----

Irvin Collins Jr.

HELLO, is this Christopher Poe?"

The New York banker's eyes lighted as he pressed the receiver to his ear and answered, "yes is this you, Arthur?"

"Yes, can you come over to my office within an hour?"

"I have a directors' meeting at 2 o'clock, but I am free until then."

"Better put off that directors' meeting, Chris. This is something very important."

"All right, I'll be there in half an hour."

Christopher Poe hung up the receiver and catching up a light coat and a straw hat he ran lightly down the stairs and walked across to Broadway where he hailed a taxi and ordered the driver to take him to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

As he whizzed up town he rapidly ran over in his mind the various services he had rendered to Sir Arthur Hornsby. Ten years ago he had assisted in running to ground a clever Parisian syndicate of curio dealers who had systematically stolen many of the valuable coins in the museum collection. After that he had worked on a substitute bronze which had been procured by the art gallery and was through his efforts that a great fraud had been exposed.

Alighting in front of the spacious gallery he went through the side door and knocked at a suite of rooms given over to the active manager of the museum.

A large boney Englishman with drooping mustache rose from his desk quickly as Poe entered and extended his hand in greeting.

"What is it?" asked Poe anxiously.

"It's about the 'The Morning Mist,' you remember that we bought it five years ago from an obscure dealer right here in New York?"

"Yes the price was $40,000. I remember there was quite a little newspaper comment at the time concerning the price and the manner in which it was procured."

"Yes," answered Sir Arthur Hornsby, "there was some doubt as to whether or not it was a genuine canvas."

"You got that picture through Spoods the Fifth Avenue dealer didn't you," asked the New York banker, who also had time to follow all the art acquisitions at the Metropolitan.

"Yes, he guaranteed it as a genuine Turner and the only thing that made us suspicious was the low price."

"Well, what hapened to it?"

"Stolen."

"When?"

"We just discovered it this morning."

"And you have no clew?"

"No, nothing at all, and the only evidence there is that the picture was stolen last night is that the door between the Turner room and the Egyptian room was found tampered with today."

"Was the picture cut out of the frame?" asked Poe, "or was it removed without injury."

"A clever substitute was put into the frame. If it weren't for the brilliancy of the paint the substitute might be easily taken for the original."

"Have you closed the Turner room to visitors this morning?" asked Poe.

"No, not yet," the manager of the museum pressed a button on his desk and both sat silent several moments until an attendant appeared and Sir Hornsby said, "will you see that the Turner room is locked up and that no one is allowed to enter."

"You had better close the Egyptian room until we have a chance to look the ground over thoroughly," put in the banker-detective.

"All right, sir," answered the attendant withdrawing.

Christopher Poe picked up a diagram of the Metropolitan from the directors' desk and turned quickly to diagram showing the arrangements of the room. He marked the chamber containing the Egyptian display, mostly mummies and quaint clay vessels and put a check mark against the small art gallery where half a dozen of Turner's masterpieces were displayed. Then he pointed with his pencil to the door between the two rooms and asked, "that is fitted with the regular locks the same as is on this door here."

"Yes," answered Sir Arthur. "The doors are not so hard to open. The question is, how any man or any person could conceal himself in the Egyption room. There is a rigid examination every night before lock-up time and it does not seem possible that any person could contrive to have themselves locked in all night in any of the rooms."

"Well, let us go to work immediately," suggested Poe. "I infer that there has been no publicity given out on this?"

"Of course not. It would be foolish to scare away the thief. He would doubtless take flight to some foreign cuntry if the newspapers published the story about it."

Sir Arthur Hornsby arose and held the door open for his friend. They passed through a series of corridors until they came to a small door which an attendant unlocked for them. As soon as they had entered the room Christopher Poe stepped to the place where "The Morning Mist" had been hung. He was surprised to find that the frame was in its usual position and that the picture within the frame looked startlingly like the original but as the director had suggested the paint seemed, fresher, the colors more vivid and the work gave the impression of a clever imitation.

"I suppose the public would never find out that a substitution had been made," remarked Christopher Poe, as he stepped close to the picture and examined it critically. "The brush work is certainly that of Turners. The colors are his, too." He lifted the frame from the wall and carefully examined the back of the picture. The canvas had been newly tacked on and there were slight scratches where the hammer had slipped.

"You see," said Sir Arthur Hornsby, "the work was doubtless done by a man very familiar with pictures.

"The thing that puzzles me," said Christopher Poe slowly, "is that this canvas is really very old."

"That's an old trick. This substitute picture is probably painted over an original by some minor artist of a hundred years ago."

"But the paint, in spite of its brilliancy," said Poe, "seems to have been on the canvas for a good many years, too. The whole thing seems puzzling. I can't see how it would benefit anybody to steal "The Morning Mist" and put in its place a picture which would pass as its equal to the average public and probably to most experts. I don't believe we'll find anything more here; let's look at the connecting door and then glance around the Egptian room."

The New York banker opened the door which had been tampered with and carefully examined the lock. Marks on the metal part about the knob showed that no expert hand had been engaged in the business.

"The man who did this was surely an amateur cracksman, but a professional picture man," remarked Poe, turning away from the door after a superficial examination.

He stepped to the middle of the large room containing mummies and strange tables of stone scrawled over with Egyptian hieroglyphics "You take this half of the room and examine it thoroughly for signs for anyone having spent the night here, and I'll do the same over here with the mummy cases."

Christopher Poe started at a dim corner of the room where a number of highly painted, grotesque wooden boxes leaned against the wall, and opened each one as he came to it, blowing off a bit of dust here and scratching with his nail at almost invisible stains.

Suddenly he stooped down and made a more thorough examination of a case lying at full length on the floor; an open crack through the middle riveted his attention. He carefully lifted the lid and took from one edge of the cover a metalic object which glistened as he held it up to Sir Arthur Hornsby.

"Hello, find something?" asked the pompous Englishman standing up with his face red from the exertion of the search which he had been conducting in his part of the room.

"Yes,. something interesting. Can you recognize it from there?"

"A diminishing glass!" cried Sir Arthur.

"Yes; a good one, too."

The Englishman stepped over to his friend and together they examined the small hand glass. "It's a French diminisher," remarked Poe. "That man Spoods had a French artist working for him on those fake Betticellis didn't he?"

"I believe he did. But why do you connect Spoods with this affair?"

"Oh, I don't; except that the man who did the job is evidently an artist;" remarked Poe. "I wonder if you could send to me the attendant who usually has charge of the Turner room?"

"Yes, I can get him right now if you are through with your examination here," offered Sir Arthur Hornsby.

Christopher Poe glanced about the room and then slipped the diminishing glass into his pocket. "I guess there is nothing more to be learned here. It's evident that the fellow who stole the picture hid himself away in this quaint old casket and by some amaturish method or other gained admittance to the Turner room and with a canvas stretcher removed the original and put in its place this picture which is supposed to be an imitation.

Together they returned to the director's office and when the attendant was summoned Poe asked him, "I suppose you have some very peculiar people who come regularly to your room and stand for some time before their favorite pictures."

"Yes, there's a lot of queer folks come here every day. One old lady looks like a sparrow and she stands in front of that woodland picture that looks like a green salad and eats it with her eyes. Then there's art students who can't seem to get enough of them tiresome pictures what look like the Hudson River on a foggy day."

"Tell me about these different art students," requested Poe with interest.

"Well, there is one young fellow who looks like one of them old Dutch pictures in the South room and he always stands off at about ten feet from that big picture in the middle of the room and makes motions with his hands as though he were going through with the same work that the painter did. He talks aloud to himself and sometimes stays so late that I have to tell him it is closing time and even then he doesn't want to go."

"But isn't there some man or woman that you remember who takes a particular interest in that picture called "The Morning Mist?" asked Poe.

"Yes, there is one old fellow, pretty near as old as I am, who has been coming off and on now for five years. He's got one of those little artist glasses and he stands way at the other side of the room and looks through it sometimes for pretty near an hour; you'd think from the way he enjoys it he was looking at a movin' picture show."

Poe cut him off short by holding up the diminishing glass which he had found in the Egyptian room.

"Do you recognize this?" he asked.

The gray-haired attendant took the tiny glass in his hand and looked through it, then he carefully inspected the handle and smiled, "yes, that's it; I know it by the place here where the brass is worn through."

Poe turned quickly to Sir Hornsby.

"I believe we made a mistake in closing up that Turner room. A murderer always returns to the scene of his crime and I suppose in a lesser degree that's also true of a thief. Suppose we throw the room open now and instruct this man to keep watch and let us know as soon as this fellow who evidently owns the diminishing glass appears." The banker detective turned to the attendant and querried, "Has he been here often during the last month."

"Yes, most every day, I guess."

"What time does he generally come?"

"Well, he's here just before noon as a rule. I guess he gets his lunch before he comes, or else he just feasts off that favorite picture of his."

"Good. Then we haven't any time to lose. Go on duty at once and send somebody here to the office as soon as the man with the diminishing glass appears. Wait a minute. I think it would be a good scheme if you would take this glass and put it below the picture on the floor, in a careless position. No, I'll arrange that."

Christopher Poe stood up and followed the attendant to the door and as soon as he was in the Turner room he placed the diminishing glass on the floor directly beneath "The Morning Mist" picture in such a position that anyone looking at the substitute masterpiece could not fail to see it. Then he sauntered about the room idly and watched the various sight-seers as they entered and walked about the room.

About an hour later, Christopher Poe's interest in art having gotten the better of his interest in detection he stood lost in a day dream before a magnificent Turner seascape. Then the attendant stepped up and touched his arm covertly. As Poe's thoughts returned instantly to the stolen masterpiece he noted that the attendant seemed agitated and kept motioning in a clownish manner toward a short man who stood before "The Morning Mist" fumbling nervously in his pocket.

Poe motioned to the attendant to return to his stand and be silent. While he watched out of the corners of his eyes the strange little man who seemed to be very much excited.

A minute later the banker-detective noticed that the old man had discovered the diminishing glass lying on the floor beneath the picture. As the strange little fellow turned quickly with the slyness of a cat and looked around the room to make sure that he was not observed, Poe glanced innocently at a picture and stood in a tremor of expectation.

Evidently assured that he was perfectly safe the short man approached the picture and began to advance his feet toward the diminishing glass on the floor, His manner was so wary that Poe became convinced that he must be the thief he sought. As he watched he saw the broad toe of the man's shoe touch the glass, pass it and suddenly shove it toward the railing. In a flash the man stooped, picked up the glass and slipped it into his pocket; then he sauntered into the middle of the room and unconsciously began groping for the diminisher. Christopher Poe turned abruptly away for fear of frightening his quarry, looked at his watch found it was almost two o'clock and walked rapidly to Sir Arthur Hornsby's office.

"Well," queried the director of art, "have you learned anything?"

"Yes, a little. I found the fellow who changed the picture. But I really can't believe that he has stolen it. I have got to get to that directors' meeting now and I think the best thing we can do is for you to get somebody in the office, here, someone who has had a little experience at shadowing to follow our man when he gets through looking at the picture. There is no doubt but that he is an artist, and he looks like a mild little vegetarian who wouldn't harm a fly. Have you such a person in the office?"

"Yes. I'll send somebody in there at once and I suppose the man at the door can point out your artist."

"First instruct the man you send to shadow him to follow him no further than his home, but have him make sure where the artist lives, then give him my 'phone number and tell him to call me up immediately. I'll attend to the rest and keep you posted. You'll be in the office until five o'clock, I presume?"

"Yes, and after that I'll be at home. I am anxiously awaiting any news you can give me."

"I have found nothing yet but a clue and a connoisseur," smiled Christopher Poe, shaking his friend's hand and leaving the room.

Hailing a Fifth Avenue bus he mounted to the top and rode as far as Thirty-fifth street where he got down and leisurely strolled to a large banking institution of which he was a director. For over an hour he sat in consultation with a group of the shrewdest financiers, having utterly dismissed from his mind all thought of the stolen masterpiece.

When the meeting was over he turned again to his thoughts of the picture and called up his apartment, where his man informed him that no telephone message had been received. Poe then walked down Fifth Avenue to Eighteenth street where he entered the fascinating shop of Spoods. He bowed to the dealer and asked, idly, "have you anything new of the British school?"

"Only some Whistler etchings, a newly found Reynolds portrait, that Gainsborough you have seen, I guess that's all. Were you looking for anything in particular?" asked Spoods.

"No. I haven't any idea of buying, I only wanted to look around."

Spoods, a sprightly little man who affected a very French manner conducted Christopher Poe through his gallery and pointed out with pride his newest acquisition.

"I think I would buy a Turner," remarked Poe casually, "that is if I could find a real bargain."

"I haven't had one in the shop since that 'Morning Mist,' is sold to the Metropolitan, you remember."

"Yes, that sold cheaply, too."

The little dealer looked so shrewly and finding the banker's face impassive, answered, "yes, that was considered a pretty low price, but all I could do was give my personal guarantee that the picture was genuine, and I believe, that experts have sustained me in my opinion."

Christopher Poe nodded his head and passed on to other pictures finally leaving at about four o'clock. He entered a public telephone booth and called up his house again to ask if he had received a telephne message about which he was becoming anxious.

A gentleman called up not ten minutes ago," said his man. "He didn't give his name, but said that the address that you want is Stephen Bridge, 45 Washington Square South, top floor."

"Good!" exclaimed Christopher Poe hanging up the receiver.

Fifteen minutes later Christopher Poe got a street car and hurried across to the number on Washington Square. There he was admitted by a little old maid who seemed quite excited that any person of Christopher Poe's aristocratic bearing should call at her humble lodgings.

Poe passed through a narrow dark hall way and up a long flight of stairs till he came out on a landing from which three doors opened.

"It's another flight up!" cried the landlady in a shrill tone from below.

Poe made out the second stairway in the dim end of another long passage and on reaching the top rapped at a single door in front of him.

There was a stir in the room and suddenly the little bespectacled man Poe recognized from having seen him in the Turner room popped his head through the door and, evidently as astonished as his landlady had been, asked, "what can I do for you, sir?"

"Mr. Spoods, the art dealer, suggested that I come to you in regard to a Turner, "answered Christopher Poe entering the room and glancing about at the stacks of canvasses their faces to the wall, the floor littered with magazines and illustrations.

"Spoods!" cried the little artist, "I haven't done any work for him for five years."

"Then you did do something for Spoods at that time?" asked Poe taking a seat on a carpeted model stand in a corner lighted by a skylight.

"Why, yes!" cried Mr. Bridge, in confusion.

"He paid you well, I presume? I should think it would take a great deal to tempt an artist of your evident temperament to turn out spurious old masters?"

The little artist went pale, tried to speak, and then sat down in a low, broken Dutch rocker, his head in his hands.

"You don't seem happy," remarked Poe. "Whatever made you do it?"

"There are worse things than copying great pictures," answered Bridge raising his head slowly and looking with defiance at the banker.

"Oh yes, I suppose stealing pictures, or substituting false ones for originals would be worse?" said Christopher Poe calmly.

The artist glanced up sharply and his hands which had been folded trembled with emotion. "Yes, I suppose that would be worse, but what brought it to your mind?"

"Well, I saw you looking at 'The Morning Mist' at the Metropolitan this noon. You seemed to have some personal interest in the picture, I wondered if by any chance you were aware of the fact that last night someone acquainted with great pictures concealed himself in the Egyptian room at the Metropolitan and sometime before morning removed from the frame Turner's great picture?"

Bridge stood up and walked back and forth slowly, evading the interested gaze of the other. He seemed strangely perturbed. Poe followed his every movement and was on his guard lest the little artist give way to violence on finding that his secret had been surprised.

"Sit down, Mr. Bridge," requested Poe. "I want to talk to you a minute. I believe in the short time I have been studying you that you are not a bad man, that your motive in substituting the picture which at present hangs in the Turner gallery is not the one which would generally be accepted if it were known that you hid in the museum last night picked a door like a common thief, and made a lightning change of canvasses."

Instead of sitting down the little artist came to an abrupt stop before Poe and looked at him with wide, pained eyes.

"You guessed my story then. How did you do it?"

"Well, said Christopher Poe thoughtfully, looking into the other's eyes, "I had a good look at you this morning, before that I had examined the two rooms where you worked last night and I had formed a sort of a theory that the man who went to the trouble of doing this thing secretly had some motive beside gain. You see, I knew before I saw you that you were an absent-minded, temperamental fellow, from the very fact that you left your diminishing glass holding up the lid of the casket in which you hid to avoid the usual search of the attendant before locking up. A practiced thief would have done differently, besides a professinal would not have been carrying a diminishing glass.

"Then when I had a look at you I knew that you couldn't do anything criminal. You don't come up to the specifications of criminology. Your eyes are too honest, you have a gentle philosophic dreamer's look."

As he spoke the artist's eyes became dim with tears; he reached out a long slender hand falteringly toward Poe. "How did you guess it?" he cried.

"You see, I knew Spoods," said Poe, "when the Metropolitan bought that picture five years ago I was in great doubt as to its being genuine, but I did not have time to investigate the thing thoroughly. All that I found out was that you were making copies of masterpieces for Spoods at that time. I did not believe that you or any ordinary painter was equal to the task of reproducing a Turner. But you did it, and I want to congratulate you on deceiving the whole art public for the five years that your copy of Turner has hung in the Metropolitan and has been passed upon by competent critics as a very wonderful work of art."

Bridge sat as though he were stupified at having his secret surprised. "How long have you known that the picture hanging in the Metropolitan is not the original?"

"I have just found out this minute," exclaimed the detective. "This is a very unusual case. I am glad to find, Mr. Bridge, that you ever managed to procure the original Turner which you substituted for your imitation last night? It must have cost you a great deal of money."

"It did," answered the artist. "But it was well worth it. My professional pride, although flattered by having my feeble attempt accepted as the work of a master, would not let me continued the deceit. Spoods paid me $500 for that picture and he got about forty thousand dollars for it from the Metropolitan. At that time I actually needed the money and since then I have lived and worked to scrape together enough money to buy the original.

"You see, the original has always been in the possession of an old lady living right here in New York with whom I became acquainted with through Spoods. None but he knew of the original and she being very eccentric, did not wish anybody to know that she had it. But she allowed me, under the guise of an art student to reproduce it for Spoods. I managed to continue my acquaintance with her and finally she agreed to sell me the original for twenty thousand dollars. I painted portraits, did magazine illustrating, and actually went without food to buy it back. Only last week I managed to get it, and last night I replaced it in the museum where it belongs."

"And your copy which has hung so long in the Metropolitan?" asked Poe. "Where is that?" What are you going to do with it?"

"Oh, I shall burn it up. I don't suppose I have more than five or six years of life left and I will spend that time making enough money to pay off what I still owe this woman for the original Turner."

"Then you haven't entirely paid for 'The Morning Mist'"? asked Poe.

"No, I have six thousand dollars still to pay. But it is worth it." A misty, far away look in the old artist's eyes aroused Poe.

He extended his hand, saying, "Will you sell me that copy you made? I would just as lief have that as the original. Come, what's your price?"

"Oh, I wouldn't sell it! I would only be continuing the work of deception which I decided to stop forever five long years ago," he said, with a tremble in his voice.

"I'll give you ten thousand dollars for it," said Christopher Poe taking a neat little check book from his pocket and holding his fountain pen ready for the artist's acceptance.

"But it isn't worth it!" cried the old artist tremulously.

"Possibly not, but your struggle should be recognized. With the ten thousand dollars you can pay the last installment on the original and have left enough to go abroad for a year or two to study. Possibly now that your ideals are reformed you will be able to do some great original work for yourself."

Christpher Poe filled out the check and placed it in the protesting hand of the artist. Bridge silently stepped to a corner of the room and drew out a canvas, his copy of the Turner, and gave it to Poe without a word.

The banker-detective with a smile of satisfaction on his lips clasped the artist's hand firmly and made his way through the dim hall down the stairs.

Story No. 10 will appear in this paper in the near future. Look for it.

CLEVELAND AND ST. LOUIS LEADING IN BASEBALL RACE

Resume of First Week of Season Shows Standings of Various Teams in the Different Leagues.

LAST YEAR.

NEW YORK, April 17—(Canadian Press.)—The major leagues' baseball season is still very young and some of the teams apparently haven't hit their stride, but at the end of the first week's schedule yesterday Cleveland in the American and St.. Louis in the National League held undisputed possession of first place. St. Louis and Philadelphia were tied for second place in the junior circuit, while the Giants and Philadelphia occupied second and third positions in the National.

Last year in the National League the Giants, the Brooklyns and the Pirates had things to themselves, the St. Louis Cardinals bobbing up in winning form too late in the season to be considered seriously.

This year, however, the Cardinals seem to be in the race from the start with good pitching, heavy clouting and sensational all-around play. The Pirates have made a poor start, but their pitching staff is good and their bludgeon-wielders many.

The Phillies give promise of making things interesting and the Cubs are not to be despised.

Notwithstanding their three defeats by the base hit-crazy Giants, Wilbert Robertson's Dodgers are something of clouters themselves and with better work from the pitchers will go amicely. Sherrod Smith and his new underhand style gives promise of good things for Robbie. The Giants look beat of all, but they cannot afford to loaf.

The big surprise in the American is the early good work of the Athletics. Connie may have gathered another great organization of youngsters. And the Browns, not to be outdone by the Cardinals, have hug out a danger signal.. They have pitchers—and always have had wallopers. The Washington Senators are well organized; there is Speaker's Indians, who will always be in the running; indeed his men seem the most likely of the lot.

The Yankees haven't been hitting any too well, but with a squad of pitching aces, they'll go better in warmer weaher. Ty Cobb's outfit, the White Sox and the Red Sox got away slowly and the season is too young to pass judgment on them.

74 ENTRIES FOR BOSTON MARATHON

Albert Smoke of This City is Now the Only Canadian Entered — McAuley Was Injured.

5 FORMER WINNERS.

BOSTON, April 17. —(Canadian Press.)— The American marathon, the country's classic long distance running event, will be renewed over the 25-mile course from Ashland to this city next Wednesday with a field of runners that ranks with the highest in the quarter-century history of the event. In the entry list of 74 athletes announced by the Boston A.A. yesterday are five winners of other years.

This group includes rank T. Zuna, of the Paulist A.C., New York, who set a new record of 2 hours, 18 minutes, 57 3-5 seconds last year.

A secondary group includes Kontorgiros Vasilios, of Greece, who seeks to have the laurels for the feat which had its origin in the run of Pheidippes on the plains of Marathon again conferred on a native Greek, and Charles Morton of Detroit.

Albert Smoke, of Peterborough, Ontario, is the only prospective Canadian contender. "Vic" McAuley, of Nova Scotia, is unable to run on account of injuries received in an auto accident.

KILBANE WILLING TO MEET CRIQUI.

PARIS, April 17 (Canadian Press) —Johnny Kilbane, of Cleveland, the world's champion featherweight pugilist, announced on Saturday night to a group of French sportsmen that he was willing to meet Eugene Criqui, French bantamweight champion, at any time. Their enthusiasm over the proposed meeting vanished, however, when Kilbane reminded the sportsmen that boxing was his profession, and that he had received for his last fight the equivalent of 70,000 francs, an amount nearly double the total gate receipts of the biggest recent French fights.

EASTERN CANADA LACROSSE ASSN. HOLDS MEETING

All Players Must Register With and Have Cards of the A. A. U. of Canada.

60-MINUTE GAME.

MONTREAL, April 17.—(Canadian Press.)—At the annual meeting of the Eastern Canada Amateur Lacrosse Association held here Saturday afternoon, it was decided to make it compulsory for all players in the league to be registered with and to have amateur cards of the A.A.U. of Canada. Two other amendments dealt with playing regulations. One definitely set the time of a game at sixty minutes, divided into four periods of fifteen minutes each, with the teams to change over at the end of the first and third periods without a rest, and a ten minute interval allotted at half time. The other brings the coaches of the teams under the jurisdiction of the referee.

W. E. Hastie and Captain Potvin, of the Gunners A.A.A., of Ottawa, appeared as delegates at the meeting and announced that their organization had taken over the franchise of the Ottawa Lacrosse Club. Quebec was not represented and it is not expected that they will operate a team this season.

Cornwall, which dropped from the league the middle of last season, will be back in the field and along with the gunners, of Ottawa, Shamrocks, M.A.A., and Nationals of this city, will comprise the five team league.

M. Forget, Nationals, was elected President for 1922 to succeed F. J. Herans, the retiring chief officer of the league. Other officers include: Hon. Presidents, J. A. Chisholm, Cornwall, and Mayor Plante, Ottala; Second Vice-President, J. R. Simpson, Cornwall; Executive Committee: W. C. Burns, Cornwall; W. E. Hastie, Ottawa.

SMOKE EAGER FOR BOSTON MARATHON

Albert Smoke, accompanied by his trainer, Scholes, and his manager, Art Johnston, of the Windsor hotel, left on Saturday night for Boston, where he will run in the Boston Marathon race on Wednesday. The Indian said he was fit to go the route of twenty-six miles. The course is said to be actually between twenty-three and twenty-four miles. He declared he would give the other entrants a battle for first place. Saturday he did a five mile spring in 27.03, finishing a full minute in front of Scholes.

The cup hunters left on the 9 p.m. G.T.R. by way of Port Hope. Smoke was champing at the bit and impatient to get away, "rearin' to go." He put on and took off his coat about fifteen times in the hour or so before he left the hotel, and kept watching the imperceptibly moving minute hand of the clock as if fascinated by its very tardiness.

"It takes that train a long time to get here," said Smoke with rather childishly querulous, and his friends remarked that this mood would stay with him until the starter's gun shoots the field of contestants away on Wednesday.

BASEBALL

The management of the Grand Trunk C. O. B. League team announced the arrival in town of a pitcher, Frank Williams by name, a south-paw. Williams hails from Verona, is going to work here and will be given a try-out with the team.

They also announced that all the talk about Tommy Wilson, of Perth, coming here was wrong. Wilson would have perhaps liked to have come but for family reasons decided not to move here—Belleville Ontario.

Congratulations to Mr. Jake Solomon in being re-elected to a position of Councillor for the Ontario Amateur Baseball Association. Jake is a worthy baseball exponent and disciple of the good old game. He has done a great deal in Central Ontario to put baseball on the map.—Lindsay Warder.

Apparently Lindsay and Port Hope will have to dig down deep into their jeans if they are to compete with other clubs in the Central League. Talk about Bowmanville being the weak team. Huch, say it in a whisper! The rubber town has been out after players — this Lindsay knows for a fact—and good positions are being offered for ball players. About the only job Lindsay can offer is one at the Provincial Plowing Match, and that does not come off

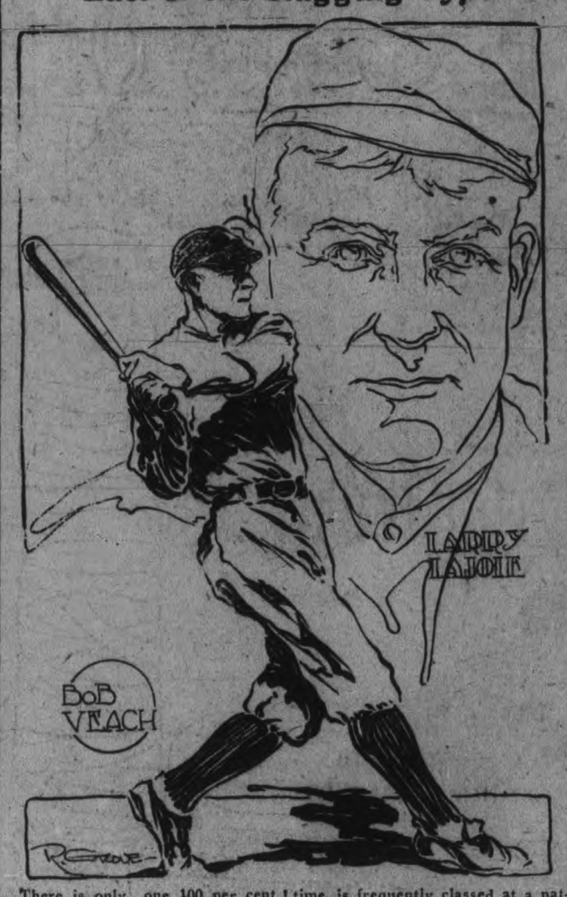
DONATE A CUP

Another week will probably see the formation of what may be known as the Manvers Baseball League. A meeting will be held the last week in April, at which plans will be discussed. It is understood that S. S. Staples, M.P.P. for Durham, will donate a cup for competition in the League.

Last of the Slugging Type



There is only one 100 per cent. natural hitter, or free swinger, in the American League and he is Bob Veach, left fielder of the Detroit Tigers.

Since Napoleon Lajoie led the batsmen, free swingers have become about as removed from baseball as the dodo from this earth.

Lajoie was a natural batsman, probably the greatest that ever faced a pitcher, Lajoie's success prompted batsmen to accept the free swing as the proper method at bat.

Lajoie passed and in his place came Tyrus Raymond Cobb, the game's greatest scientific batsman. Cobb never has been a natural batsman, never a free swinger. He is a chop batter, meeting the ball in front with a chop stroke.

His success brought about a change in batting style and the newcomers followed his example. The great batsmen that strung along with Cobb, This Speaker, George Sisler, Eddie Collins and others are all exponents of the chop stroke all scientific hitters.

The natural batter "takes a nasty cut at the ball," in the parlance of that sport. "He swings from the ear with a perfect follow through." Veach is the only man in the American League that does this to-day. No matter what pitcher he opposes, what situation he happens to find himself in, Veach always swings with the same motion, always takes a long cut, "from the ear."

Babe Ruth, greatest slugger of all time, is frequently classed at a natural batsman. Ruth is a free swinger more than anything else, but not a 100 per cent. free swinger.

Not infrequently Ruth changes his batting style, slapping the ball, which is another form of the chop stroke. Most of the time, though, Ruth takes the nastiest cut in all history.

List of the Sluggers.

Harry Heilmann, batting champion of the American League for 1921, is an almost perfect free swinger, but occasionally he switches to the chop stroke.

New York has several players classed as free swingers, Bob Meusel, Wally Pipp, Frank Baker and Wallie Schang.

Larry Gardner and Steve O'Neill are Cleveland's candidates, while Billy Falk and Johnny Mostil are the Chicago members.

St. Louis, with its array of heavy sluggers, can list but two, Williams and Collins.

Washington has Walter Johnson and Howard Shanks. Boston can point to Mike Menoskey, George Burns and Elmer Smith, and Philadelphia claims "Tillie" Walker, Jimmy Dykes and Welsh.

The so-called free swingers are very much in the minority but in this small list the only one that is simon-pure free swinger is the swarthy Veach, who goes on, season after season, swinging in the same old fashion without change or thought of change.

SCOTTISH CUP TO GREENOCK BY ONE GOAL

Greenock Morton Spring a Surprise By Winning With One Goal to Nil.

THE ARSENAL.

LONDON, April 17.—(Canadian Press).— Greenock Norton's capture of the Scottish Association foot ball Cup on Saturday by one goal to nil was the great surprise of the day and their performance was all the more noteworthy for the reason that they lacked the services of French, their recent forward.

There were many upheavals in League matches with little definitely settled regarding promotion or relegation.. The defeat of Manchester United makes their retention of their position in the first division hopeless, while arsenal's doom is now considered to be sealed. Southern football enthusiasts generally sympathize with Arsenal in their trouble. They were pioneers in professionalism in the south and their career has been one of ups and downs. The Arsenals never shaped like winners in Saturday's game which was watched by 42,000 spectators. The Spurs were got long in taking the lead, as a result of a fine and very remarkable shooting effort by Arthur Grimsdel. The Spurs' captain got the ball not very far away from the half-way line and beat Williamson with a terrific drive which must have travelled something like forty yards from ball to net.

A great rehearsal of the English Cup final was staged in the game between Preston and Huddersfield and drew thirty thousand on-lookers. A number of the best players on both sides were absent and Preston had re-arranged the side owing to an injury to Speak. According ly the game gives no line on the final cup tie result.

They meet in a return match next Saturday.

High winds prevailing over Great Britam led to remarkable incidents The goal kick on Chelsea's ground, by Hampton, went straight across the Sunderland goal line, while at Bramhall Lane a mighty clearance by Towns, sent the ball clean out of the ground.

TWO WORLD'S TRACK RECORDS ARE SMASHED

Johnny Weessmuller Lowers His Own Previous Records in Two Events.

40-YARD POOL.

CULVER, Ind., April 17.—(Canadian Press.)— Two more world's swimming records were added to his collection here Saturday by Johnny Weissmuller, of the Illinois A. C. In the 200-metre distance Weissmuller lowered his former record by two and one-fifth seconds when he went the distance in two minutes and 16 seconds. Later he swam the hundred yards in fifty-three and three-fifths seconds, a new world's record for a forty yard pool, but three-fifhts of a second slower than his record in a seventy-five foot pool.

MAY STAGE BOUT FOR JACK DEMPSEY

LONDON, April 17.—(Canadian Press). — Syndicate has engaged Crystal Palace which seats one hundred thousand people and hopes to stage two bouts during stay of Jack Dempsey in England. It is proposed that Champion undertake to finish Joe Beckett in six rounds and Jack Blumenfeld in four.

FOOTBALL ENTHUSIASM.

LINDSAY, April 17.—Football is being taken up here with considerable enthusiasm, and prospects for an active summer here are bright. Regular teams will be selected in a few days, there is prospects of another town club and several district villages have organized promising teams.

LOCAL BOXERS ENTER TOURNEY

P. A. A. Entries in Ontario Boxing Championships at Toronto.

Peterborough will be represented at the Ontario boxing championships at Toronto on Thursday and Friday of this week, the local athletic association having decided to send several entries. The tournament will be held at the Arena Gardens. The selections by the boxing committee of the association include Eddie Dugan and Alex. Armstrong, lightweight and bantamweight respectively, both of whom are certainties for the competitions. Two other P. A. A. A. boxers will compete if they can make arrangements to get away. Boxing Instructor Jones will accompany the boxers.

With Albert Smoke running in the Boston Marathon on Wednesday, local boxers taking part in the Ontario championships, Jake Solomon bringing along a good ball team for summer pastiming, and city boxing and wrestling championships for the first part of next week, the Electric City is doing very nicely.

An oddity of the Boston Marathon will be the entries of George and Edgar McAlpine, father and son. The senior McAlpine, an old-time athlete, is well past the two score mark, while McAlpine, junior, has just reached voting age.

A lot of credit is due the old stalwarts of the lacrosse game. Meetings come and go without any let-up in enthusiasm and efforts to bring back the national game. These enthusiasts certainly deserve success, and one of the beacon lights along the way is the support they are receiving from the youngsters. A dozen or more of these lads sat through a meeting of two hours' duration the other night while their elders discussed ways and means of promoting the game. The meetings of the Lacrosse Club have been featured by the presence of youngsters who want to play the game.

Spring is making its last kick, in consequence of which Riverside Park is enjoying a bath. At the week-end, water was in evidence over a large area of the ball lot, and right now prospects for the immediate use of the park are not very bright.

GRENADIER GUARDS WILL BE ON GUARD.

MONTREAL, April 17.—(Canadian Press).—In connection with the Association football game beween Grenadier Guards and Nomads set for Saturday afternoon which was postponed owing to wet grounds, the Guards issued the following statement:

"It has come to our notice, according to reports, that Guards players will be 'looked' after on the field in a manner not according to rules. We therefore give ample notice that if any of our men suffer from an unwarrantable attack, a warrant for the arrest of the assailant will be secured without any delay.

JUDGE'S DECISION AGAINST WELSH.

NEW YORK, April 17.—(Canadian Press).—Freddie Welsh, former lightweight champion of the world, was defeated Saturday night in a ten round contest by Archie Walker, former amateur titleholder, at 135 pounds. Welsh was slow and his punches lacked power. Walker received the judges' decision.

QUAKER OATS WON FIXTURE

Defeated Lakefield in a League Game -- Soccer Notes.

Before a large crowd, these teams met in a league match at King Edward Park Saturday afternoon and supplied plenty of thrills. Although the play was of the robust order, it was not intentionally rough. Hard knocks were given and taken in a friendly manner. Half time arrived with no score. 15 minutes after the start of the second period Redpath (the Collegiate rugby and hockey star) scored for Lakefield. Shortly after J. Willshaw equalized, and a few minutes from time the same player scored again. Final score, Quaker Oats 2, Lakefield 1.

Both teams are greatly improved since their last appearance.

Quaker Oats—Goal, G. Griffin; backs, Young, R. Willshaw; halfbacks, Hepburn, Clarke, Chandler; forwards, Honour, Duffrey, J. Willshaw, Gandy and Foster.

Lakefield — Goal, Aitken; backs, White, Crawford; half-backs, Trude, Graham, Charlton; forwards, Redpath, Sanderson, Simmons, Waldon and Darling.

Referee—G. Howarth.

Sommer Notes.

The Comrades' secretary was busy Saturday with registration forms. There will be quite a lot of Caledonian Comrades this year.

The Owls had their eyes open, landing a player who only landed here Friday. Are they looking for forwards?

Another Query: Does the player, who plays in rubber boots, know that he is breaking the rules by so doing? This should be taken notice of by referees.

By the time the Gordon Cup games come along all teams will be at full strength.

It is as well to remember that it is not too late for any other team to enter this or the Charity Cup. Come along G.W.V.A. and others.

DANNY LEE WINS.

NEW YORK, April 17.—(Canadian Press.) — Danny Lee, of New York won the judges' decision in a 12-round bout Saturday night with Young Montreal of Providence, R.I., at the Commonwealth Sporting Club. The men are bantamweights.

HOW I IRON OUT CHILDREN'S MORAL ILLS

MISS EMMA REIMAN.

Miss Emma Reiman is supervisor of Arkansas' only parental school, located at Little Rock, where children, sentenced by the juvenile court, are permitted to remain in their homes at night, thus escaping the institutional taint.

Her job is to iron out the moral ills and mental defects of the entire Little Rock student body. She is a friend of the delinquent and the incorrigible. She tells how she handles these children and "adjusts them."

BY EMMA REIMAN.

As a "mental engineer" who is to build up the life of a child I endeavor first of all to get an accurate and scientific knowledge of the material with which I am going to build.

The child is first examined from top to toe by a corps of specialists and needed physical adjustments are made as quickly as possible.

Then come the psychological tests. I test and study for five things in the mental equipment of the child.

First, I test for mental age, that is, the general intelligence.

Second, I test for his special abilities and disabilities, because many children are manual-minded, instead of book-minded, and so much better with problems involving concrete material than with problems of abstract thinking.

Third, I test and study for dynamic force, or will power, and the way in which he attacks the problems of daily life.

Fourth, I study the personality of the child and size up the traits that predominate. A mild, amiable child would not be handled like an aggressive bully.

Fifth, I study the mental content, as well as the family history, is essential to arriving at a solution of the individual's interests, ideals and ambitions.

Schooling recommendations are of his individual problem.

A thorough study of the child's environment and background, as case. then made to fit each individual

Capitol Entertainment

First anniversary week of the Capitol, Peterborough's most beautiful theatre. A programme that excells all others has been arranged for this week. For the first three days the feature picture production will be a William Fox production, "Footfalls." Short reels of quality an added attraction. By special request, Flora Shaw, Toronto's favorite soprano in classic songs and popular ballads. A special musical programme has been arranged for this week, under the able leadership of Mrs. Foster.

THIS FILM TALE GRIPS LIKE VISE

Clever Devices by William Fox Forces Show Sounds in Pictures.

It is not strange that a motion picture producer who achieved success by driving enterprise and daring innovations should jump at the chance to obtain the picture rights to a work of fiction hailed by a responsible committee as the greatest short story of the year; yet many persons were surprised when they learned that William Fox had purchased the screen rights to "Footfalls." Predictions were made that no visualization of the story ever would be shown on the silver screen.

The pessimists were wrong, however, for "Footfalls" was pictured, and enjoyed a sensational hit at a prominent Broadway, New York, theatre before its release to this country.

The difficulties in the way of filming "Footfalls" lay in the fact that the story is based upon the extremely acute sense of hearing developed by a blind cobbler, who listens year after year for the sound of the footfalls of a murderer returning to the scene of his crime.

How could a story based upon sound and hearing be presented effectively as a silent drama? William Fox and Director Brabin solved the problem.

The story is by Wilbur Daniel Steele, and won the prize offered by the O. Henry Commitee for the year 1920. The scenario was prepared by Charles J. Brabin, who directed the production. With the preparations for performing a miracle of the screen completed, a cast was selected, consisting of Tyrone Power in the role of the blind cobbler, Tom Douglas as his son Tommy, Estelle Taylor as Tommy's sweetheart, and Gladden James as the object of the youth's jealousy.

Advertising for the New York City premier engagement announced the photoplay as "An absolutely new kind of cine-drama which will grip you in the vise of suspense." Reviewers in New York newspapers agreed that the designation was justified. It is a truly remarkable production.

AT THE GRAND.

ROSE OF WASHINGTON SQUARE.

The public is getting very keen about the merits of a play, and it has a mind of its own which is far removed from that of the professional reviewer. There appears to be some widespread underground system of communication which reaches pretty nearly every one and informs them whether a play is likely to please them or not.

"Rose of Washington Square," the Astor Producing Company's presentation of the Hardin, Edwards, & Myers success, which will make its first bid for local patronage at the Grand Theatre to-night (Easter Monday, seems to have universal appeal. In no other way can the unprecedented advance sales be accounted for. It is very seldom the "board" is not sold clean before the doors of the theatre open the night of its appearance.

It is the musical comedy success of the decade.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."

The old favorite, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," attracted a good crowd on Saturday evening, and the Grand Opera House was packed in the afternoon with an excited crowd of children, who admired Little Eva, and sorrowed over her affecting death, applauded Uncle Tom and stared with horror at the villainy of Simon Legree. This latter gentleman was played in realistic fashion, with a regular "Blue Grass" accent and a busy snake-like whip, Eva was the conventional yellow-haired beauty, and Uncle Tom, a grey-haired old darky, forgiving and amiable to the end. A couple of wicked-looking hounds added a final touch to the ice scene, with Eliza fleeing for her life.

Specialties in negro melodies and some exceptionally good step-dancing added to the enjoyment of a very well-staged version of the old play.

AT THE REGENT.

Mae Murray and David Powell in George Fitzmaurice's Production, "Idols of Clay," a Paramount Picture.

All the keen sense for colourful effects and knowledge of what constitutes the really thrilling and dramatic which George Fitzmaurice displayed in "On With the Dance" and "The Right to Love," is said to be contained in redoubled measure in his latest production, "Idols of Clay." The story, a romance of two widely divergent worlds, was written by Ouida Bergere, and no expense, either of money or artistic effort, has been spared in making it one of the most lavishly produced and spectacular pictures of the current season.

Mae Murray and David Powell are again the featured players. Miss Murray has the role of a pretty English girl, brought up in innocence on a remote South Sea island, despite the fact that her father, a recluse, is a pearl smuggler and, with his disreputable partner, guilty of almost every crime on the calendar. To the island comes Dion Holme, a young English sculptor, played by David Powell. Holme is trying to forget an unfortunate love affair that has virtually wrecked his career. Through the South Sea miss, his faith in his work and in women is restored, and their romance leads from the tropics to the resorts of London society and thence to the shadowy dens of the Limehouse water front.

Improvements in Automobile Wiring

Another step to make these easier for the motorist will be taken if recommendations made recently before the Society of Automotive Engineers are followed.

That concerns improvements in the automatic wiring system.

First among the plans to improve the wiring system is that of making the instruments on the dash more accessible.

That can be done, it is suggested, by lengthening the wires leading to these instruments, so that the instrument board might be hinged and turned down to allow easy access to the wires.

Slightly longer wires on the switch, ammeter, fuse block, and other electric attachments on the dash would mean a large saving of time and effort for the mechanic. As it is now the mechanic has trouble getting behind the instrument board.

Another improvement is that of coloring the various wire insulations, a specific color for each circuit, so that on every make of car the same circuit could be identified readily. This could be standardized by rule of the S. A. E., so that all automobile manufacturers would follow the same system of coloring.

As a result there would be little necessity for wiring diagrams. If a mechanic knew that all black wires, for instance, meant the starting motor circuit; red wires, the ignition; green wires, the lamp circuit, and so on, he would have little difficulty in going ahead with his job.

Some makers are using colored insulation on the wires for the various circuits, but no attempt has yet been made to standardize the colors for all cars.

Rev. Harold W. Young gave a very pleasant talk to the mothers on "The Spiritual Life of the Child"; the mothers themselves rendered a pretty Easter chorus; and the children had several dainty numbers; a "Bunny" piece, a cunning drill about falling spring rain, done in costume with tiny parasols; Easter songs, and recitations by Margaret Walker, Gordon Gumsolus and Arthur Stinson. Mrs. E. V. Warne acted as accompanist, with Rev. S. Cruikshank in the chair.

The tea-tables, in charge of the officers of the society — Mrs. Geo. Robertson, superintendent, Mrs. Harris, secretary, and Mrs. C. Staunton, treasurer — were charmingly arranged in the cradle roll colors of green and white, with baskets of varicolored Easter eggs, and were presided over by Mrs. H. Long and Mrs. T. Mark. Ten little girls, the "Little Mothers" of the class, served the children.

INDOOR BASEBALL

The Girls' Indoor Baseball League at the armouries on Saturdoy provided a lot of amusement for the contestants. Four games in all were played and there was lots of excitement in a couple of the fixtures.

The "Y" Tigers set up the record score of the season when they walloped the Quaker Oats girls by 55 to 2. The Y crew scored no fewer than 28 runs in the 4th innings.

The King George school girls also piled up a big total beating the Prince of Wales team by 42 to 4.

The Bonner-Worth girls defeated the C.G.E. by 34 to 1, the score by innings being as follows:

Bonner-Worth.. .. ..231483067—34
C. G. E. .. ..110111140—10

The P. C. I. Junior-Jolly Junior game resulted in a win for the former by 18 to 12. The score:

NEW FIVE-TEAM BASEBALL LEAGUE.

Includes Hastings, Norwood, Havelock, Keene and Warkworth.

HASTINGS, April 17.—A new League of Baseball teams is under consideration and there is no doubt that it will create a great deal of of new interest in the game. A meeting is called for next Wednesday evening at 7.30 o'clock in the Council Chamber when representatives will be here from Norwood, Havelock, Keene, Warkworth and our own town.

This will make a five league team and will be very stimulating to the sport.

Warkworth is right into baseball this year, having two teams in the field.

Hastings has some good fast material and under the managership of Dr. J. H. Hess, should win the district, and it is up to the people of Hastings to support the boys and help them do so.

NURSE H. DALBY IS BURIED WITH MILITARY HONOR

Known in Peterborough, Where She Assisted in Organization of Nicholls' Hospital.

The late Nurse Hanna Dalby, who assisted in the organization of Nicholls Hospital here in 1889, where she remained as matron for five years, passed away at Elora, where she was buried with military honors on Good Friday. As a tribute to her labors during the war as secretary of the Women's Patriotic League, the casket was covered with the Union Jack and borne by eight veterans of the great war. The service was in charge of the Rector of St. John's Anglican Church, Rev. Canon Naftal.

The late Miss Dalby was born at Richmond Hill, York County, October 17, 1848. She was one of a class of three who graduated from the General and Marine Hospital, St. Catharines, August 5, 1879, the first graduates from a Canadian nurses' training school. The patroness of the school, H.R.H. Princess Louise, presented and signed the diplomas. Nurse Dalby's diploma specified also that she was a fully qualified British Red Cross nurse. Following her graduation she took a course in surgical nursing under the famous surgeon, Dr. Hamilton, of New York City.

She was matron of the Hospital of the Good Samaritan at Portland, Oregon, from 1883 to 1886.

In 1900 the Board of Directors of the General and Marine Hospital at Collingwood chose her from among many applicants as superintendent of that hospital. She held this position until a decline in her health forced her to resign in 1903.

With the exception of a brief period spent in Vancouver she had made Elora her home since, it being the place of residence of the family connection.

REGULAR MEETING OF MOTHERS' CLUB.

Rev. Harold Young Gave An Address — A Good Programme.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Mothers' Club of George Street Methodist Church, which took the form of an Easter party for the Mothers' Club and the Cradle Roll, was held in the Sunday School Hall of the church last Thursday afternoon, with an attendance of over 150 of the mothers and children of the church. A very jolly afternoon was spent by the assembled ladies any tiny tots, opening with the Doxology, and a quaint little ceremony of welcome to the mothers, by cradle roll babies, represented by small Maudie McLaughlin, Gordon Thompson and Jackie Rogers.

The room was beautifully decorated with palms and Easter lilies, with the front of the hall arranged most effectively in the real spring-time manner, tiny simulated birds flying through miniature trees, and jaunty

At the ROYAL—To-night, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

OUR NEW SERVICE, FIRST NATIONAL, TODAY

To-day the Royal begins its weekly service for which we have the exclusive local franchise, of the celebrated First National Pictures Incorporated. This means that we show the specially selected first run pictures of that company which include the leading Thespian stars of the world.. This means not only best pictures procurable but a great additional expense. However, our patrons get the benefit of this new arrangement without an extra cent for admission. To-night we present the First National feature picture called "Stardust" with Hope Hampton in the leading role of Lily Becker. Lily Becker, a country girl marries a country bred lad named Albert Penny and is badly used by him and his family. Lily, who has a good voice, runs away and lands up in New York. She finds her voice requires training for Grand Opera work but cannot afford to pay for tuition. A chorus girl, she meets, gets her a place in the chorus of an Opera Company. The "Angel" or backer of the Opera Company forces attentions on Lily, which she spurns and thus loses her job. She becomes despondent through consequent starvation and contemplates suicide. She meets a young musical composer in an equally despondent mood. They spend their combined money on what was to be a final meal when "lady luck" enters the restaurant. The story of how good fortune waited on them ends happily, what otherwise might have been a tragedy. Then we have a Playgoer's feature called "Discontented Wives" with J. P. McGowan in the leading role. A drama of the East and the West, "Discontended Wives" contrasts the culture and luxury of civilization with the ruggedness and barrenness of primitive life in the gold regions of California's hills. It also presents an interesting character study —the wife grown discontented under the strain of continual hardships and sacrifices. The program also includes a Pathe two reeler called "Catching a Saloon Alive" and another of the Toonerville comedies, which fairly scintillates fun and laughter.

THE MARKETS

NEW YORK April 17.—(Canadian Press. — Fully 5,000,000 shares were bought and sold in first hours trading on Stock Exchange to-day, establishing record for that period in many years. Volume of business was swollen to this enormous total by accumulation of buying orders received over week end from interior centres.

On business of forenoon roughly estimated at millon shares, full session promised to surpass all records in point of activitiy for at least two years. Further momentum was given to early advance by free offerings of call money which dropped from 4 to 3 1-2 per cent. soon after 11 o'clock. Oils continued to overshadow list but before noon they were supersed to considerable extent by metals and rails. Gains of one to almost two points were made by Anaconda, Chino and Utah Coppers and Canadian Pacific St.. Paul and Chesapeake and Ohio. Shippings also strengthened but motors and equipments reacted moderately to realizing sales.

Commission Houses were prominent in movement which soon registered general advances over last Saturday's final quotations. Oils and rails were in forefront with Coppers, Sinclair, Royal Dutch Middle States and Standard Oil of New Jersey, Ancondia, Utah, Atchison, Northern Pacific and Reading were higher by fractions to one point.

Oils and Steels bore burden of noon reaction, declining one to four points. List showed strong recuperative qualities, however, most loss es being largely recovered under lead of investment rails at one o'clock. Sales to that period approximated 1,400,000 shares.

Corn and oats were lifted in value by strength of wheat, fer opening 1-4 to 3-4 higher July 65 1-4 to 65 1-2; Corn market eased off little but hardened again later Oats started 1-8 to 1-2 higher July 41 1-4 to 41 1-2 and then made slight further upturns.

IN MEMORIAM.

COURSEY.—In loving memory of dear mother, who died April 16th, 1920:

But they little know the sorrow
That's concealed behind that smile.

POULTRY MEN OUT FOR 1000 MEMBERS

New Interest Infused Into Meetings Which Are Being Large y Attended.

The Peterborough Poultry Association held their regular monthly meeting on April 12th.

Although the night was stormy and wet the meeting was one of the best the association has ever held in Peterboro. The entertainment committee had a big list of surprises ready for the members and visitors, consisting of coffee, cake and sandwiches, and smokes, finishing up with a euchre party.

During the evening an exhibition Buff Wyandotte Cockerel was judged and drawn for, and won by one of the visitors.

At the next monthfy meeting the entertainment committee are putting on a crowing contest, the bird crowing the most number of times in 30 minutes will win for his owner a box of Bachelor cigars. Open to everybody, members or non-members. Everybody welcome. Bring along your birds and try for the cigars. A black board sketch was given by Mr. Lush of how to rear baby chicks; also an information box was introduced during the evening for the benefit of amateur poultrymen who do not like to ask questions during the meeting. All they have to do is to write their questions on a piece of paper signing no name and it is taken up under the heading of good and welfare. Mayor Taylor was present, and gave an address on the good work the poultry association was doing and through their efforts the farmers of to-day were breeding a better class of standard fowl, and both eggs and poultry offered at the local market was of a better quality then in former years. He also made mention of the fact that the good work the members were carrying on should be liberally patronized by the citizens of Peterboro and surrounding districts.

The members are putting on a special drive to sell a thousand membership tickets this year and will solicit every citizen in Peterboro.

Dig down and help the boys make this one of the largest poultry and pet stock shows in this district and with the valuable help they always have had from the Peterboro Examiner and citizens they are are quite sure of a successful campaign in this city.

HIGH-CLASS MUSIC WITH SCOTS GUARDS.

Famous Band Will Play Here on May 6th.

The Band, Pipers and Dancers, of H. M. Scots Guards, who by royal permission are coming to Peterboro to give a concert on May 6th for the Great War Veterans, and under the auspices of the Rotary Club, under Dr. Charles Harriss's direction, must be familiar to many of our returned soldiers, for the Band had the honour of playing for the Canadian Divisional Troops at Poperinghe, in 1916. Leave of absence has been granted the men for a period of fifty one days from the date of their departure from and return to England. The senior musical director of the Brigade of Guards, Lt. F. Wood will accompany them, and a real military musical feast may surely be expected. Lt. F. Wood has been conductor of the Band for the last 22 years, during which time he has raised it to a position of preeminence in the musical world. A glance at the programme to be performed here are on a parity with music seldom rendered other than by the greatest orchestras, embracing such composers as Beethoven, Wagner, Weber, Tschaikowsky, Berlioz, Sibelius, Bizet, Elgar, Bach, Saint-Saens, Greig, Delibes Schubert, Lugini, Puccini, and Holst. A perusal of the music to be rendered shows a high plane.

TREATY SIGNED BY RUSSIA ENDANGERS THE GENOA CONFERENCE

CONFERENCE IMPOSSIBLE SAY FRENCH

Exception Taken to Russia Signing a Special Treaty With Germany —May Withdraw.

NATIONS OBJECT

(Special Cable to The Examiner.

PARIS, April 18.—"Russia and Germany, by signing a treaty at Rapallo, have rendered the Genoa Economic Conference impossiblt," an official statement from the Quai D'Orsay, the French Foreign Office said to-day.

GENOA, April 18. — (United Press.)—France will take no further part in conferences at Genoa with either Russia or Germany, Louis Barthou, head of the French delegation, declared to-day, if the treaty signed at Rapallo by Tchitcherin and Rathenau is not immediately abrogated.

Allied leaders met at 11 o'clock. Other meetings were cancelled in view of the importance of the decision to be taken regarding the Russo-German pact.

Well-informed observers declared the Allied leaders considered the treaty of Rapallo jeopardizes the success of the entire conference.

When the heads of the Allied delegations went into conference, Barthou was armed with instructions from this Government declaring the agreement signed by Rapallo to be in direct violation of the Treaty of Versailles.

A statement from Lloyd George was eagerly awaited. The British Premier promised France that existing treaties should not be abrogated by any action at Genoa. The French look to the British Premier to call upon Germany and Russia to renounce the treaty of Rapallo.

Italy, which hitherto has backed Lloyd George against the French, is openly opposed to permitting the Russo-German treaty.

DRAFTING A NOTE.

PARIS, April 18. — (Canadian Press.) — A Havas despatch from Genoa this afternoon says the Allies are drafting a note to the Germans and Russians notifying them it will be impossible for Germans and Russias to continue to partcipate in sessions of Russian affairs commission of conference if they persist in maintaining the Russo-German treaty.

It was stated after full discussion of the treaty at Lloyd George's villa that it was "difficult to imagine an excuse for the action of the Germans." Some of the younger members of the French delegation urge exclusion of Russia and Germany from the conference and in the opinion of Italian delegation nothing better than the treaty could have been devised to support the French attitude toward Russia and Germany, while the German delegation expresses surprise that the Allies should resent what they called a per.

BRIEFS FROM WIRES

RIGA, April 18. — (Canadian Press).—A plot among Russian monarchists in Central and Eastern Europe to kill Nicolai Lenine if he dares to go outside Russia, is said by secret service men here to have more or less bearing on the fact that Lenine has not started for the Genoa Conference.

LONDON, April 18 (Canadian Press Cable). — General Bramwell Booth, of the Salvation Army, to-day stated that the British Government ought to do more than it is doing to relieve the unemployment situation, particularly in the way of emigration. Only 1 per cent. of a hundred thousand sent to Canada failed to make good, he said.

RECORD ATTENDANCE.

TORONTO, April 18 (Canadian Press). — Indications point to a record attendance at the sixty-first annual session of the Ontario Educational Association, which opens to-day at the University of Toronto.

Registration of teachers and trustees from all sections of the Province commences before noon. To-night a formal opening takes place, and adresses of welcome will be delivered by Premier Drury and Sir Robert Falconer of the University.

THE WEATHER

Yesterday's downpour was the third heavy rain this month, and gave a total of 1 inch and 1-10. Heavy thunder and vivid flashes of lightning last night threatened more but little fell, (.03.) The total for the month is already 4½ inches, and the month is but little more than half over.—W.P.

RUNNING FOR SENATE

MRS. PETER OLESEN.

CLOQUET, Minn., April 18. — Child welfare!

That's the main plank in the platform of Mrs. Peter Olesen, who was recently nominated for United States Senator by the Minnesota Democratic party.

"The fight for woman suffrage has ended," says Mrs. Olesen. "We must now devote ourselves to the welfare of the children. That is the big thing from now on."

And that is why Mrs. Olesen believes that women should have seats in the United States Senate.

"The woman can be mother to the nation just as she is mother in the home," says she. "While men are interested in children, after all, the child is more in the province of the mother."

Mrs. Olesen's husband is superintendent of schools at Cloquet. They have one daughter.

KIWANIANS VISIT THE NEW PLANT

Club Will Erect a Dining Hall at Jackson Park for the Peterboro Health Association.

TODAY'S LUNCHEON

The Kiwanis Club to-day, although it dashed off its business in record time, took an important step in deciding to erect, at a cost estimated at $400.00, a dining-hall at Jackson Park for the Peterborough Health Association in connection with its summer camp.

The executive, at a meeting before the noon luncheon, decided to ask the approval of the club of the project, and this approval was given in a generous, whole-hearted manner.

Secretary George Henderson suggested that on 24th May a "bee" be held after the material has been purchased, and the idea was commended on all sides.

On the motion of Dr. H. M. Yelland and J. W. Worth, the club approved of the executive's recommendation.

Secretary Henderson said the dining-hall had been the objective of the Association for two years.

The programme of the luncheon was varied to-day. After Ross Dobbin, Superintendent of the Waterworks, had given an outline of the process of filtration at the new plant, the Kiwanians set out to see if what he said was true. They found the trip a worth-while one, and an interesting variation to the regular programme. Mr. Dobbin, in his explanation to the club, discussed the machinery of the plant in a brief manner. He said they were getting good results, and hoped to get better. While in some parts of the city the water was poor, that was due, he said, to the pipes being dirty, a condition to be remedied as soon as practicable.

To-day on the occasion of his first luncheon with the Kiwanians since his appointment as Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, Kiwanian G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., was given a rousing ovation.

Vice-president C. R. Widdifield, who presided, pointed out to the club the importance and honour that surrounds the office. "By his appointment," he said, "he has not only brought honour to this club, but to the county and city of Peterborough."

Mr. Gordon made a modest reply, saying that he hoped Kiwanians would visit him at the Capital, and he assured them if they were interested in the proceedings on Parliament Hill, he would find them the best seat in the House.

Two Vacancies.

Two vacancies that have come about on the executive through the resignations of J. J. Duffus and Martin Roche, were filled, on the motion of C. S. Cummer, seconded by Jack McNabb, Lloyd Hamilton and Dr. Ed. Wood being appointed.

J. I. Allen was appointed District Trustee, on the motion of Dr. I. I. Middleton and Edgar Burnham. This office was vacant through the death of Kiwanian Norman Barclay.

The booster to-day was Roy H. Parsons, city engineer. The fortunates who won the prizes were C. R. Widdifield, J. W. Meyers, and Dr. Graham McDougall.

In addition to Ross Dobbin, the guests were J. H. C. Waite, mining engineer, of this city, and W. Eyre, of Toronto.

The Ontario School Teachers Lost Chance to Interview the President

Harding Wanted to Meet a Representation of the Seven Hundred Ontario Teachers but Dr. J. L. Hughes Declined—The Teachers Lost Out in Sight-seeing Trip.

WASHINGTON, D.C., April 18 —(United Press)—President Harding is to be denied an interview with the Ontario School teachers. That may seem like putting the car before the horse, but never the less it is the fact. Dr. James L. Hughes, pilot of the party of 700, sticks to his decision against picking a chosen few out of his host to meet the man from Marion, Ohio, and the presidential reception is off.

But not so with the British Ambassador, Sir Auckland Geddes, he received the conditions to-day in the great Pan-American Union Hall where the disarmament conference was held, and he spoke to them briefly. The Embassy was not large enough for the reception of the 700 so Sir Auckland sought and obtained the use of the Pan-American Building.

All has not been as smooth as it might be for the sightseers. A motor bus company used Dr. Hughes' name without authority to park its cars for a sightseeing tour of the public buildings, museums and monuments, but the teachers found it a mistake to stray from their shepherd. They saw about half of what was promised them. They had been promised entry to the White House but this was denied as it was Easter Monday. One resourceful girl teacher marched into the Senate Offices hunted up Senator Newberry's office, asked for a pass to see the White House for herself and friends and got it. And it acted like magic on the chief usher at the Executive mansion. But few of the tourists thought of this strategy.

BROKE GROUND NEW RECTORY

Start Work This Morning on Handsome Structure in Sacred Heart Parish

Richard Sheehy & Sons, broke ground this morning for the new Sacred Heart Church Rectory, which it is said is to cost in the neighborhood of $25,000.

The structure will be a two story building, faced with rug brick and cut gray stone. Situated just east of the church, on Romaine street, its architectural design will be in keeping with that of the sacred edifice, built by Richard Sheehy twelve years ago.

When this new rectory is completed by December first Sacred Heart parish will be one of the finest equipped in the Roman Catholic diocese of Peterborough. Rev. Father J. J. O'Brien is in charge of this progressive parish.

NEW FISH INSPECTORS REPORTED AT WORK

Newly appointed fish overseers have taken up their work in the Trent district according to information from members of the Peterborough Hunters' Fish and Game Protective Association. Their names are being kept secret in order that they may have the best possible chance to perform their temporary duties during the spawning season. Several infractions of the game law have already been registered by Overseer Woodcock, and it is reported that another case is to be dealt with this week. This charge is said, to be against a members of the Protective Association, and if it is proved he will be drummed out of the membership.

SUCCESSFUL DANCE IS HELD AT KEENE

One of the most successful dances held in Keene in recent years took place last night and the hall was crowded to capacity. The Peterborough Versatile Orchestra, under the direction of W. F. Leader, were specially engaged for this occasion. The dance was the most enjoyable of the season and encore after encore was demanded and generously responded to by the orchestra, the comments of those present were in highest praise of the efficiency and high musical qualities of the orchestra.

DR. BARKER TO LECTURE HERE

Will Give Three Addresses Under the Auspices of Peterboro Rotary Club

The local Rotary Club has made arrangements to bring Dr. Charles E. Barker, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, to Peterborough on May 5 to give three of his famous lectures. For more than a year and a half Dr. Barker has, under the auspices of the Rotary Clubs, been delivering his addresses throughout the United States. His subjects include, "A Mother's Responsibility to Her Daughter," "A Father's Responsibility to His Son" and "How to Make the Most Out of Life." It is expected that one of his addresses will be given to the boys and girls of the Collegiate Institute. Dr. Barker is not a medical practitioner, but has been granted University degrees as a doctor of Hygiene and Physical Culture. Before deciding to work under the auspices of Rotary he devoted his winters to lecturing to the general public on health for the International Committee of the Y. M.C.A.'s and in the summer months he was on the Redpath Chautauqua platform and became their leading health lecturer. During these years he addressed over 1,500,000 people. It should be understood that his lectures here will be entirely free, this expense being borne by the Rotary Club as a contribution to the welfare of the city. There will be no admission fee and no collection at any of the meetings.

RIVER RISES NEARING THE HIGH RECORD

Reached 16 Ft. 2 In. Below Peterborough Lock on Monday But High Mark at That Point Was 17 Ft. 1 In. For 1917.

RAINS UPSET SCHEDULE.

The water below the Peterboro lock (south-east of the city) this morning registered 16 feet 7 inches, an increase of 5 inches since Monday morning. This level is equal to the high mark in the spring of 1912, but is still 6 inches under the record of 17 feet 1 inch made in 1917. The guage at Hastings this morning was simply at the normal summer level.

So high is the water it has backed up in the sewer at the foot of Lock street, and is discharging out of the manhole at the corner of King George street near the Rye boat house stop, and has worn a shallow channel across the road to one of the little lakes that have formed around the street railway loop.

The George street wharf is partly inundated, and this afternoon the water was slowly encroaching halfway up the lawn.

Little Lake's level apears to be within a couple of feet from the top of the cribwork, and below the locks the Otonabee is suggestive of the delta of the Mississippi

The summer shore line is fathoms deep beneath the flood, and the front "stoops" of several cottages further down the river are washed by the water which was whipped up into foamy whitecaps by the fresh April breeze blowing across it to-day.

The rising tide of the spring freshets as measured below the Peterborough lock seemed to be reaching out for a new record yesterday afternoon. Instead of the normal summer flow of approximately 1,200 cubic feet per second spilling over the dam below the locks bridge the volume was more than eight times that amount and something in excess of 10,000 cubic feet per second.

The height of water below the locks yesterday afternoon was 16 feet 2 inches, an increase of two inches over the first reported measurement in the morning. There was still a gap of slightly less than a foot between the day's registration and the record level at that point of 17 feet 1 inch taken in 1913. The high mark of 16 feet 7 inches for 1912 appeared to be safely fixed in second position, but Monday's rain has to be reckoned with and the canal department expects a continued ascension before this year's peak is passed.

Otonabee Gathers Head.

A further reference to statistics shows that the difference between the water levels just above the Hastings dam and below the Peterborough lock, which is normally nine inches in summer, was six feet five inches yesterday. In other words the Otonabee through this stretch of its stream is gathering up sufficient head to sweep along its excess volume.

The foregoing official figures may serve to correct popular estimates of the river's rise.

"It's right up to the grandstand at Riverside Park and you could paddle a canoe all over the field," said a dweller in East City who takes the Barber air line in his cross-town trips.

"I've seen it higher than that," asserted another who recalled a spring, not so long ago, "that had this beat."

The freshets are still going strong and yesterday's rain has to be reckoned with. The water is all coming in and only a fraction of it is going out, but it is rapidly gathering head and force.

No Water Holiday.

Easter Monday was a government holiday, but the surging water refused to down tools on the day. Its gain of ewo inches was proof of spurting activity and probably anticipating an increasing accumulation in most sections of the Trent course. Mr. A. L. Killaly, superintendent of the canal, stayed close to his desk, his charts and his telephone all day following the water advance alohg the Trent front.

"Everything was going smoothly and the water was moving out almost on schedule until these rains," said Mr. Killaly in reply to the Examiner's request for information. Last Tuesday and Friday it rained and this to-day (Monday), looks bad. Everything's out so we can't do anything more."

Recent Rise.

Indicating the record of 1913, Mr. Killally pointed out that the water was now considerably under the highest mark. The level below the Peterborough lock, south-east of the city, was 9 ft. 2 inches at the low-

Highest Chimney in the World Collapsed

The collapse of "Tennant's Stalk," at one time the highest chimney in the world, which was being demolished in Glasgow, Scotland, recently, and suddenly buckled outwards and fell, instantly killing four men and severely injuring two others, has a local interest for Peterboro people, owing to the fact that Mrs. Alex. McLeod, of 440 Water Street, this city, is a daughter of Mr. George Campbell, the oldest steeplejack in Scotland, who twelve years ago removed the first fifty feet from the monster chimney.

The famous Glasgow landmark, "Tennant's Stalk," erected in 1843, was originally 435 feet high, and when it collapsed, had been reduced from its original height to about 100 feet. To make the work of demolition more safe, it had been girded by iron bands, but one of these, about 50 feet from the ground, was seen to burst, and the next moment the whole of the 5 ft. 6 in. outer sheet of the "stalk" buckled outwards and fell, crashing on top of the sheds of the Alkali Company, to whom the chimney belonged, and splintering them into matchwood. The sheds were deserted at the time, but eight workmen were buried under the debris, four dying, and two severely injured. At the time of erection of the stalk, 80 years ago, the chemical works were owned by Sir Charles Tennant, Mrs. Margot Asquith's father.

JOHN DUIGNAN'S BODY RECOVERED

Was Taken From Little Lake at Nine O'clock This Morning.

This morning, the body of John Duignan, missing lumber merchant, was found by James Hatcher ,139 Stewart street, and Arthur Bongard, 341 Downie street, floating in Little Lake close to the shore, about 50 yards east of the mouth of the canal. The police were notified immediately, Detective W. Meagher and P. C. Bromley reaching the scene in a few minutes in the police car. The body was removed by the officerse and men from the water and taken to McFaddne's Undertaking Parlours.

Searchers employed by the family had been looking for the body for several weeks. The river had been dragged and the shores examined. It was thought to-day by those who believe in certain influences of nature that the sharp thunder storm last night may have brought the body to the surface, and as the lake was rolling heavy to-day it would soon be washed inshore. The current in the lake sweeps in an eddy where the body was found and it is recalled that the body of a man who ended his life by drowning several years ago was found near the same spot.

Mr. Duignan disappeared Friday night, March 3rd. He had not been in good health and had been despondent over business matters. The family believed he retired early, but late at night it was found he was not in his room. Next morning James, the younger son, found his father's overcoat upon the C. P. R. bridge and it was assumed he had ended his life in the river.

Mr. Duignan had been connected with the lumber business from boyhood. He was 64 years of age and was born in Peterborough. For many years he was manager of the Alfred McDonald Estate Lumber Company.

RELIEF FOR UNEMPLOYED NOT NEEDED

Applicants Few of Late As End of Specified Period Drew Near—Many Are Working.

Peterboro's unemployment relief ended on Saturday night, and will not be renewed, unless the Council decides otherwise to-night.

The total sum disbursed and the city's allotment of it have not yet been determined, but members of the special committee have expressed the opnion that the council has amply fulfilled the service which it undertook as an obligation to those who were unable to secure work during the past winter. With building operations getting under way, and other branches of industry offering means of earning money it is felt that the distribution of doles should be discontinued at once.

Relief Officer F. W. Miller reports that the applications for assistance have been steadily declining —only a few were made to him on Saturday, and only one yesterday, and that one was refused. Some of those persons who had shared the public's aid went to work as soon as they could get it, evidently glad of the escape from living at the city's expense, which means the expense of the taxpayers. Others, probably less fortunate or less energetic, kept their names on the list to the end. It may be that they found the system to their relish, and of the effect of the charity doles on that group Mr. Miller believes they were content to take the handouts of food and clothing, and would have been quite satisfied with that programme to the end of their days.

"Shocking, shocking," is Mr. Miller's comment on the general effect of the doles system. "It may take Peterboro ten years to recover from the effects of the distribution of relief during the last two winters."

He evidently meant that those persons who held the view that the "state" had to keep them had confirmed their theory and found it to their liking. This is the class that lay nothing by for the future, that spend their earnings as fast as they get them, and take no heed of tomorrow. If they feel assured that the community, the property owners, will keep them next winter if they are idle, they are not likely to give much thought to the family budget this summer, and possibly may be indifferent to whether they work or not when December comes again.

These are perhaps the patrons of the relief system to whom Mr. Miller had reference, and whom he believes will not be easily weaned from public aid. If some of the taxpayers have their way next winter, however, there will be no distribution of largess with the city, and the federal and provincial governments, each bearing one third of the cost. Soup kitchens perhaps, if relief must be given, but nothing more. A few of those who had been drawing charity from the public treasury attempted of late to get from the Reief Officer even winter underwear probably with an eye to next winter's rigours. They represent the type of whose ideals and propensities Mr. Miller speaks as "shocking."

Of the other citizens who couldn't obtain work of any kind, and especially at their own trades, they no doubt hope that they will never again be reduced to the extremity of appealing to public charity for themselves and their children.

RUSSO-GERMAN TREATY MAY TERMINATE WORK OF GENO CONFERENCE

Act of Contracting Nations is Considered a Disloyal Act and an Infringement of the Genoa Agenda.

THE TREATY.

GENOA, April 18 (Canadian Press). — The signing of a treaty between Germany and Russia, which nullifies the Brest-Litovsk Treaty and re-establishes full diplomatic relations between these two countries on a basis of equality has caused profound astonishment and resentment among the Allied delegations.

The Ministers of the Powers which convened the Conference decided at a meeting held last night to have a committee of experts examine this treaty to-day to determine whether it conflicts with the Cannes resolutions or the Treaty of Versailles.

Subsequently the convening Powers will meet with Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Roumania, and Jugo-Slavia to ascertain the views of the lesser Powers and deal with the report of the experts.

The British and French delegates declared last night that they considered the signature of the treaty a disloyal act. Apparently it may imperil the conference.

It is stated that the signing of the treaty, which took place at Rapallo on Sunday, was unknown to the Allied leaders, when Lloyd-George, Barthou, Schanzer, and Theunys met yesterday afternoon to consider the reply which the Russians might make to the conditions imposed on that country, but as soon as the delegates learned of the treaty, their programme was changed, and the situation, which is considered extremely grave, fully discussed.

M. Barthou, head of the French delegation, is seeking further instructions from his Government at Paris, and declared that he would not sit beside Russians in semi-official meetings, while M. Colrat, the French Under-Secretary of State, speaking to the correspondents, said:

"I have taken all necessary measures to cancel the meeting of the third commission, over which I preside, as the members of the present one do not want to sit on the same commission as the Germans and the Russians."

The action of the Germans and Russians, on first announcement, had an almost stunning effect on the Allies.

Premier Lloyd-George said he knew these countries had been negotiating for months, but was not aware they had signed a treaty until late yesterday afternoon.

The situation is so critical that the most prominent delegates are reserving their opinions until after the experts examine the new document, which is generally regarded in Allied circles as an infringement of the Genoa agenda, because it has to do with reparations and affects existing treaties. The French have insisted that neither of these things should be done. Clearly there are stormy times ahead.

The treaty provides for renunciation of war expenses, damages, and expenditures incurred through war prisoners, and renunciation, also, of all claims of German individuals or of the State itself against the Soviet Republic. Resumption of consular and diplomatic relations is to take place immediately; commercial relations are to be regulated on the most favoured national principle, and the rights of the nationals of both countries in the territory of the other are to be conserved.

The two Governments will assist each other in their economic difficulties, and the German Government declares itself ready to facilitate economic contracts between private enterprises in the two countries.

Ten Killed In Tornado

LAFAYETTE, Ind., April 18. —(Canadian Press).—Ten persons are known to have been killed and at least 100 are reported seriously injured in a tornado at Hedrick and Sloan, Ind., some 12 miles west of Williamsport. Much property damage was also done.

U. N. B. WILL NOT JOIN WITH OTHER EAST COLLEGES

University at Fredericton Does Not Approve of Proposal That It Move to Halifax.

CARNEGIE FUND.

FREDERICTON, N. B., April 18. —(Canadian Press).—The Carnegie Foundation proposal that all the colleges in the Maritime Provinces be amalgamated in one university at Halifax, N. S., to which the Carnegie Foundation would donate $3,000,000, has not been accepted by the University of New Brunswick, it is said here. No representatives of the U. N. B. attended the recent meeting of some other Maritime college presidents held in New York at the invitation of the Carnegie Foundation.

Some time ago the Senate and various other organizations of the University of New Brunswick considered the proposal of the Carnegie Foundation and decided not to accept it on the ground that the University of New Brunswick, being a State institution, could not expect to receive further Provincial aid if either its control or location were allowed to pass outside the Province.

MISSIONARY IS ON WAY HOME AFTER 38 YEARS IN FIELD.

EDMONTON, April 18.—(Canadian Press).—Father Jean Marie, 65 years of age, but still able to do a 500-mile snow-shoe trip, arrived in Edmonton yesterday after being in the Far North for 38 years as a missionary to the Indians. He is returning to his native home in Brittany, France, for the first time since 1884. The Rev. Father is going to France to attend a re-union with his four brothers, but will return to Canada in the autumn, and once more take up his work among the Indians at Fort Providence.

BIG STRIKE SILVER ORE IN YUKON

Vein is Found From Three to Six Feet in Width and Yielding 500 Ounces to the Ton.

AT KENO HILL.

DAWSON, Y. T., April 18.—(Canadian Press).—An important new silver strike has been made at Keno Hill, arrivals from that promising field report. The new find is on Erickson Gulch, and on the Crossus Claim, and the vein averages three to six feet in width, with the ore yields assaying five hundred ounces to the ton on an average. As much as six thousand ounces have been taken from a ton of ore, the highest of any found on the hill.

The claim is near the foot of the Hill, while the original claims are on top.

The Yukon Gold Company has shipped 3,300 tons or ore to Mayo Landing so far this winter and driven several hundred feet of new tunnel.

THREE POWER RESOLUTION TO BE PRESENTED

The British, French and Belgian Delegates to the Genoa Conference Prepare a Resolution on Transports.

THE RESOLUTION.

GENOA, April 18.—(Canadian Press).—The British, French and Belgian delegates have prepared a resolution for presentation to the conference, declaring that the system of international transports should be determined, not by political considerations, but by commercial and technical conditions.

Article 1 of the resolution says assistance should be given countries not possessing the resources necessary for the restoration of their transport systems. Articles 2, 3 and 4 emphasize the desirability of the ratification and application of the decisions of the Barcelona and Porto Rosa conventions of 1921, and also of the other conventions which have dealt with railroad traffic. Article 5 says:

"The problems and difficulties upon which an accord was reached at Porto Rosa equally effect other European States, and it is desirable that those States should hold an international conference or experts without delay to examine their problems of transport."

The Porto Rosa convention was made by the States which succeeded the Austro-Hungarian Empire.

REMARKABLE ESCAPADE OF YOUNG LADY

Slept Three Nights in the Snow and Waded in Ice Cold Water to Her Armpits But is None the Worse.

NO EXPLANATION.

OTTAWA, April 18.—(Canadian Press).—Declaring to friends at Maniwaki, Que., with whom she was visiting that she felt faint and was going out for a breath of air, a young woman, under 30 years of age, whose family lives in the Gatineau Valley, disappeared on Wednesday evening, and although numerous search parties, accompanied by Indian trailers, scoured the Gatineau district for her night and day, succeeded in eluding them until Saturday afternoon. The young lady was clad only in a night gown, a light coat, a pair of stockings and light pumps.

The Indian guides state that in following her trail, more than once they were led to streams of ice cold water, through which she must have waded with the water up to her armpits.

Doctors claim that the girl, whose name is being withheld, is quite sane, and although after sleeping in the snow for three nights, appears none the worse of her experience, except that her feet are badly torn, the flesh being completely off in places.

She refuses to give any explanation of her adventure.

WOMAN CLAIMS LOST HER VOICE IN CAR ACCIDENT

Mrs. Charles Barber Gives Evidence in a Whisper. Company Says She is Malingering.

OTHER EVIDENCE.

ST. CATHARINES, April 18. — A jury in the spring assizes is endeavoring to decide if Mrs. Charles Barker of Merriton lost her voice when two cars bumped together at Merriton last June, or whether she is feigning that condition in order to secure a verdict from them in an action for $5,000.

Mrs. Barker gave her testimony yesterday in a low whisper, and her lawyer, James Phelan of Toronto, had to repeat her testimony to the jury.

Ben Anderson, investigator for the railway, testified yesterday afternoon that Mrs. Barker spoke in a natural voice when he called at her house and asked to see Mrs. Sarah Kennedy of Toronto, who was boarding there. Mrs. H. Kennedy, who admitted that she was in the employ of a private detective agency, had boarded at the Barker house for two weeks. She stated that Mrs. Barker had used her regular voice during that time.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ashley of Toronto, who at Mrs. Kennedy's invitation had called upon her at Mrs. Barkers house, also gave evidence that she heard the natural voice.

Dr. MacDonald of this city who attended the woman stated that such a condition might arise from the accident; the woman might have have lost a connection between her physical and will power.

Dr. Perry Goldsmith, in charge of the ear and throat department of the Toronto General Hospital, said he had known of persons having ost their voices for six or eight months but when he saw Mrs. Barker he was convinced she had the power to speak but that she was malingering.

A VERDICT OF DROWNING IN RACINE CASE

Dr. Derome, Who Made Autopsy, Says That the Injuries on Head Were Made After Death.

CORONER DISAGREES.

MONTREAL, April 18. Canadian Press. — Joseph Racine, 39 years old, a well known notary of Casselman, Ont., whose body was found in Lake Leamy, near Hull, last week, after he had disappeared on December 5th, 1920, died by drowning, according to the statement of Dr. Wilfrid Derome of Montreal, autopist, who performed a post mortem last Friday on the body.

Dr. Derome stated yesterday that that he had made a complete autopsy on the body and gave it as his opinion that death was due to drowning, the injuries to the head being caused after his death.

OTTAWA, April 18. Canadian Press.—"I disagree with Dr. Derome entirely," said Coroner T. B Davies, of Hull, when acquainted with the contents of a despatch from Montreal quoting Dr Derome as saying that Joseph Racine died from drowning.

"In the stand I take I am supported by Dr. Joseph Isabelle, the medical health officer, who made an examination of the remains of Racine with me. Dr. Derome does not know Leamy Lake like I do, and I am confident that the injuries to the skull of the dead man were not done while the body was in the lake. Furthermore, unless Dr. Derome submits the report of the autopsy to the jury at the inquest it certainly cannot be used as evidence. Both Dr. Isabelle and myself intend to give our medical findings as to the cause of death and the jury will be asked to base its verdict upon this and any other evidence which may be placed before them."

SNOW STOPS SEEDING ON THE PRAIRIE

Edmonton District Snowbound But Favorable Reports Are Received From Saskatchewan.

NEED WHEAT BOARD.

EDMONTON, April 18 (Canadian Press). — General seeding operations in the Edmonton district have been indefinitely postponed by reason of a heavy snowstorm which commenced on Easter Sunday afternoon.

Heavy, wet snow fell until late in the evening, a total fall of seven inches being recorded. The thermometer dropped in the evening to 12 below zero, and the streets are covered by a heavy coating of ice.

There have been isolated cases of seeding in Edmonton district, and the demand for farm help is steady, the Labour Bureau handling about fifty applications daily.

REGINA, April 18 (Canadian Press). — Farmers interviewed yesterday stated that a week or ten days of fine, warm weather is required before the land in the Regina district will be in condition for seeding.

SASKATOON, April 18 (Canadian Press). — Now that the snow has all disappeared from this district, wheat seeding is in preparation. At the end of last week several farmers to the east of the city are reported to have commenced work on stubble land.

The seed wheat supply is plentiful, but the wheat acreage is dependent upon the creation of the Federal Wheat Board for 1922.

A 20 per cent. decrease in fall ploughing is reported, due to bad weather and delayed harvesting operations last year. Weather at present is cold.

Farm wages are based on a standardised rate of $35.00 per month, with board, $40.00 and $45.00 for experienced help.

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., April 18 (Canadian Press). — Present indications are that it will be a week before the snow is all gone, and it is possible to work on the land in Southern Alberta. In the Foremost district the snow is 15 inches deep on the level.

PROBABILITIES.

Fresh to strong south-west to north-west winds, local showers, but partly fair and becoming cooler.

The Boy Who Started to Town With a Hundred Dollars

The advice they gave him for getting on in the world was simple and familiar enough: "Keep what you have, and build on it. Be careful what you do and it will grow into more."

It's a safe rule—with money or health, but a good many overlook the rule with health, until they have lost what they had. Then it's hard to get a new supply.

Postum is a splendid help in saving health from the very common losses through the drug elements of tea and coffee—whose effects on the nervous system any doctor can tell you.

Thousands of people who think it wise to be as careful of their health as they are of their dollars are users of Postum. They find this famous cereal beverage a delightful drink with any meal, and it's free from any disturbing element.

You can begin with Postum today, with an order to your grocer. The road to health is a good road for anybody to follow. "Save what you have, and build on it," is sound policy for everybody.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes. Sold by all grocers.

A WISE PRECAUTION.

The decision of the Federal Department of Immigration that any alien immigrant landing in Canada from Europe must carry the vise of a Canadian immigration official stationed on the European Continent, is a precaution that has been frequently urged and that should have been adopted years ago. To many people it has seemed not only folly, but cruelty to defer inspection until the immigrant reached this side of the Atlantic. People were brought across the ocean who were unfit for different reasons to be admitted into this country, and they were of necessity turned back when they reached a Canadian port. They could have been spared the expense and annoyance of that useless voyage if a system of inspection overseas had been in force, and the new system should do much to prevent disappointments as well to ensure a good class of immigrants for Canada. The new ruling does not apply to British subjects. Perhaps it would be as well if in their case, too, inspection could take place in the British Isles. If there are reasons why they might be rejected on arrival in Canada, then it does seem consistent that those reasons should be pointed out to them on the other side of the Atlantic. It would be the most sensible course of action. However, much good will follow the application of the system to European immigrants.

IT IS UP TO THE PUBLIC.

The Examiner has devoted considerable space, editorially and otherwise, to the Peterborough Motor Show because the importance of the success of that event in relation to the activities of the Peterborough Health Association warrants all the support that can be given. It cannot be too often pointed out that the Health Association, whose work needs no introduction, depends to a very large extent for funds upon the Motor Show, which, under the direction of the Red Cross Society, represents a community effort on behalf of one of Peterborough's most useful organizations. Too much credit cannot be given to the committee in charge or to those who have been working with them in planning for the success of the event. They have left no stone unturned to ensure a record-breaking show, and the issue is now squarely up to the general public. The citizens of Peterborough have not failed in the past to do their whole duty by the Motor Show, and The Examiner has little fear that they will not again rise to the occasion. At the same time, it will do no harm to emphasize two things, both of which should have the effect of swelling the attendance to larger proportions than the hitherto banner year of the Motor Show—first, that the 1922 show will be the biggest both in point of exhibits and attractions that has been held here, and secondly, that the needs of the Health Association are greater than ever, and on that account a larger surplus will be necessary. Citizens of Peterborough generally should not fail to visit the Armouries, have an enjoyable evening and help to finance a work that is a blessing to many residents of the city.

THE DAWN OF A NEW ERA.

Although Peterborough is situated close to some of the most beautiful lakes and finest camping grounds in Canada, many of the boys of this city have never been able to enjoy a holiday in the great outdoors. They might as well have been living a thousand miles away, so limited have been their opportunities to get away from their city surroundings. Thanks, however, to the Rotary Club and the co-operation of other organizations, and the generous assistance of individual citizens, a new day seems to be dawning for the underprivileged boys of Peterborough. The summer camp at Clear Lake, where the Rotarians have purchased a camp site of eleven acres, will provide the youngsters who have hitherto been deprived of a chance to indulge in camp life with at least two weeks with nothing to do but fish and swim and paddle and row—and eat and sleep, of course. There will be, in fact, if present plans are carried through to maturity, no fewer than five different camps located at the Rotary camp site next summer. In the first place, Rotary will carry on a two weeks' camp under its own direction at which some fifty boys will be accommodated. During the rest of the summer the camp will be loaned by Rotary to four other organizations—the Y.M.C.A., the Mentors' Club, the Boy Scouts and the Holy Name Society—all of which are expected to carry on two weeks' camp, so that altogether the camp will be open for ten weeks and provide an unique opportunity for the boys of Peterborough. With this splendid movement functioning and the Peterborough Health Association's summer camp at Jackson Park operating for the benefit of children whose health is below normal, the summer of 1922 should be a memorable one for young Peterborough.

A NUISANCE INSPECTOR—WHY NO?

The official dog-catcher's application for a straight salary instead of the piece-work method of remuneration now in force opens the way for the Council to institute something that Peterborough badly needs. Why not give the O.D.C. the salary he wants and make him inspector of nuisances? Give him a roving commission to check up stray dogs and flat-wheeled street cars, give him authority to deal with the cats who make the night air hideous and the delivery boy who walks across the lawn. Ask him to keep an ear open for motor cars with the cut-out open and for budding saxaphone players who insist on practising in the wee sma' hours. In general, set him on the trail of all the nuisances which combine to take the joy out of life. There is a wide field of usefulness for such an official, and in some cases the sawed-off shot-gun method introduced by the present incumbent of the dog-catcher's office might be revived with excellent effect. The suggestion is passed on to the Council for what it is worth. There would be little objection to a substantial salary for an official who would undertake the duties enumerated and make an honest effort to carry them out. The Examiner would be glad to furnish him with a list of the most prominent nuisances upon which he could make a start. It is a wonderful opportunity for the right man—if he is not afraid to work.

THE PROBLEM OF CANADA'S GROWTH.

Just now there is a great deal of discussion over the question of immigration into Canada, says The Brockville Recorder and Times. Some are chiefly concerned with numbers, but it is pretty generally agreed by all those who are following the question closely that what Canada needs for some years is quality, not quantity. The late Sir Wilfrid Laurier was accustomed to say that, as the nineteenth century belonged to the United States by reason of its vast development, so the twentieth century belongs to Canada, and would be marked by phenomenal growth on the part of the Dominion.

In view of this, it is interesting to note the comparative growth of the two countries in the first two decades of the respective centuries. The comparative census figures are as follows:

Canada.—1901, 5,371,315; 1911, 7,206,43; 1921, 8,769,489.

United States.—1800, 5,308,483; 1810, 7,239,881; 1820, 9,638,453.

These comparative statistics indicate that in the first decade Canada holds its own in growth, but that in the second there is a decided decline in the increase of population in favor of the United States. The reason for this, however, is not far to seek. For the last seven years of the second decade Canada was in the throes of a great war. All immigration from Europe ceased, and there was a small but continuous exodus from Canada. It is evident that if it had not been for this the growth would probably have exceeded that of the first decade. On the other hand, the terrible events associated with the Napoleonic wars in Europe in the first two decades of the nineteenth century produced a steady flow of immigration from Europe, from which the United States profited chiefly.

In replying to the statement of The Cleveland Plaindealer, that in comparison with the United States at that time the Dominion is a country of concentrated population and vast empty areas, and that in 1820 New York was the Republic's largest city, with 124,000 people, The Toronto Star says:

"The statement that Canada has now a concentrated population and vast empty spaces as the United States did not have a century ago is probably true in one way and not true in another. Canada's population is nearly a million less than that of the United States in 1820, and yet Toronto has nearly five times the population that New York then had. And so has Montreal. This indicates a concentrated population. And yet it is probable that the United States of that day had a vaster extent of empty spaces than Canada has today. The Republic, a century ago, had no cities on the Pacific to compare with a Vancouver and Victoria, nor cities in its West to compare with Winnipeg, Calgary, Edmonton, Regina and others. The people of Canada are largely, perhaps too largely, in cities, but its cities are strewn at intervals across the Continent, not bunched along the Atlantic seaboard. Our population is spread over the Dominion, although spread thin as yet over large areas. A century ago a large part of the United States was entirely unknown."

This is quite true, and The Star's contention that the population of Canada is well distributed is particularly to the point. All across the Dominion at strategic points are splendid distributing centres, and the facilities for communication and transportation are particularly well advanced. Canada has no need to worry over the rate of her progress and development, either in material industries or in population. When the tide once more turns the danger is that, unless there is unceasing vigilance, the expansion will be so great that proper assimilation into true Canadian citizenship will be impossible.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT

Put the Motor Show "over the top."

Automobile owners, show your public spirit by falling in line for the big parade.

It is about time somebody in the Legislature put the budge in "Budget."

The Ontario Government will have to speed up its programme or the Cabinet won't be through in time for the season of the Farmers' picnics.

At least there is this to be said for the Hunter street bridge. It is high enough to be safe so far as the spring freshets are concerned.

There seems to be an unusually keen interest in the prospects for this year's dandelion crop.

The Russian delegates to the Genoa Conference seem to have the same failing as many members of the Legislature. They don't know when to stop talking.

LITERARY GEMS

BIBLICAL QUOTATIONS.

A number of papers over the country published brief extracts from the Bible daily for a long time. The Kansas City Star has been especially happy in its selections. One newspaper published extracts from Proverbs with humorously suggestive heads. Now a Topeka paper has begun the serial publication of the Bible in installments of 3,000 words. Too much at a time, we should say, to win general reading. Two hundred words a day would be better. The Topeka paper uses an "everyday English" translation. The old form is better. There is a stateliness and dignity to the King James version which accords with authority better. People do not ask for the Scriptures in novel form. The old style language carries more conviction to the mind and heart of the reader. A revival of Bible reading will be a good thing. It has directly application to daily needs. A reading of Ecclesiastes once a month will add to any man's wisdom, and to the clearness of his intellectual vision of things.—Chicago Journal of Commerce.

CASH GRAIN.

MONTREAL, April 18.—(Canadian Press.)— The export trade in grain was dull here yesterday and there was no business in the local cash grain market. Business in flour was quiet. A fair trade continues to pass in milfeed but the rolled oats market is slow. There was no change in the condition of the baled hay market. Prices in eggs are steady, but trade in potatoes is slow. Butter is weak and prices were down considerably. The cheese market is without special feature.

WINNIPEG CATTLE.

WINNIPEG, April 18.— (Canadian Press.)—Receipts were 430 cattle and calves, 410 hogs and 196 sheep and lambs. The cattle market opened firm, with trading generally active. In the butcher division the available offerings found a ready outlet and bidding was strong to 25c. higher. Killing steers ranged from $6.00 to $7.00; butcher cows $4.50 to $5.00; heifers $6 to $6.50; stockers and feeders $4.50 to $5.25.

The hog market was unchanged at $12.50 f.o.b. selects.

Most of the sheep and lambs on offer were of poor quality, one carload of yearlings and common lambs sold at $8.00.

CHICAGO CATTLE.

CHICAGO, April 18.—(Canadian Press.)— Efforts to secure at once big profits already in sight kept owners of wheat too busy most of the time yesterday to try any new kiting of prices. Excitement over Saturday's nine cent a bushel sudden increase gradually subsided and fresh advances failed to last. The market closed unsettled at 3-4 to 2 1-2c. net lower, with May at $1.40 1-2 to $1.40 3-4 and July $1.24 3-4 to $1.25. Corn lost 1-2 to 3-4c. and oats 1-8 to 3-8c. In provisions the finish was unchanged to five cents higher.

CHICAGO CATTLE.

CHICAGO, April 18.—(Canadian Press.)—Cattle, receipts 16,000; beef steers strong; top yearlings 9.15; bulk beef steers 7.50 and 8.25; beef cows and heifers and stockers 15 to 25c. higher; canners, calves and bulls steady; bulk beef cows and heifers 5.50 and 7.00; canners and cutters mostly 3.40 and 4.25; bologna bulls largely 4.25 and 4.40; bulk veal calves, 6.50 and 7.00; few lots best calves 7.50.

Hogs, receipts 30,000; opened 10 to 15c. higher; mostly on lighter weights, closed five to ten cents higher on lights; others steady.

WHEAT QUOTATIONS.

CHICAGO, April 15.—(Canadian Press.)— Heavy selling, largely to realize profits, led to a decline in wheat prices during the last hour of business yesterday on the Board of Trade, but the fall did not come near absorbing Saturday's nine cent rise. Apparent absence of export demand, together with evidence that millers were reluctant to purchase wheat and that call for flour was slow, had a contributing effect in bringing about the late downward swing of values. The close was unsettled, 3-4 to 2 1-2c. lower, with May $1.40 to $1.40 3-4 and July $1.24 3-4 to $1.25.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, April 18.—(Canadian Press.)—Banks closed yesterday. No sterling exchange rates quoted.

There is no better—no surer—no safer—than this proven remedy.

Chapter XIV

Man Too Good or Too Bad.

"Monogamy could be Paradise very easily," Mary Smith asserted. "The trouble with men and women is they're not equal to living up to it."

I knew in my heart that what Mary said was true, true. But she failed to make a hit with us girls because her manner and her tone implied that she and her husband were particulary qualified to achieve the perfect wedded existence.

I suppose it's the smugness of some really good people which prevents them from reforming those not so virtuous. For once that wicked little ingenue, Bonny, agreed with our prim Mary.

"Easier to change marriage than to change human nature," Bonny sighed.

"Goodness gracious! You baby doll! Where did you get that stuff?" demanded Jeanne.

"From George."

"George Bradshaw?"

Bonny nodded.

"He's 42!"

"Divorced-"

"And a father"

"Does your mother know?"

"How can she. We see each other only once a day—And then we talk about our frocks!"

"Somebody ought to have sense enough to tell your father-".

"Daddy would be too busy to listen! That's just why old George takes an interest in me. He says I have so many big ideas about things. Original ones. He tells me about life and love as he has found them. And asks my opinion. Oh girls! George is the most fascinating man I know!"

"His daughter is as old as you are', commented Jeanne frigidly "He keeps her out of the way in a boarding school in winter and a girls' camp in summer. He doesn't take much interest in her ideals!"

"She makes him nervous', Bonny explained. "He says she's just like her mother. But what has she got to do with me? Haven't I my own right to find out all I can about love?"

"Love! What can you flapeprs—" began Jeanne so superciliously that I was peased to hear Mary interrupt her.

"To be sure Bonny ought to know All girls ought to know."

"As if wisdom would do 'em any good!" said Jeanne. "Nothing — nothing will keep a woman from setting up an idol and breaking her heart when it smashes!"

"You talk just like George!" Bonny fairly beamed upon Jeanne. "He says he never was as good to start with as his wife thought and he never was half as bad in the end as she believed."

"Bonny! You ought not let old men like George Bradshaw tell their intimate family histories to you! It —it's awful!" remonstrated Mary. "Of course you young girls ought to learn about love. It's the greatest thing in the world! But, dear, not from the George Bradshaws!"

LARGE CROWD AT LAKEFIELD DANCE.

Hot Dog Supper Featured the Event — Winners of Various Prizes.

The "Hard Times" dance held last night in the village hall in Lake field, under the auspices of the Lakefield A.A.A. was one of the most successful social affairs held in the village in sometime. In spite of the threatening weather a large crowd turned out and a number of visitors were present from outside points.. The costumes of the dancers were many and varied but all depicted the main idea of "Hard Times" the plea of poverty being carried to such an extent that one of the ladies appeared in a gown made from a bed quilt while two others had fashioned garments for themselves from bran sacks. Stockings one and all followed the old adage of "More Holy than Righteous." The men appeared for the most part in well worth overalls or trousers with large and conspicuous patches, with coats very much the worse for wear and almost a total absence of collars and neckties.

In addition to the more modern round dances a number of square dances were enjoyed by both young and old on which occasions Jack Blewett officiated with the fiddle in regular old time style A solo clog dance was given by Leo McManus and was received with acclaim.

The ladies' prize for the best costume was won by Mrs. J. J. Osborne while Constable Welly Hill carried off the honours for the men Other costumes which showed originality and resourcefulness were those worn by Dr. J. R. Fraser, Police Magistrate O. A. Langley, J. W. Ridpath, Postmaster W. H. Casement, Warden J. C. Strickland Harry Fitzgerald and Councillor A. E. Dawson.

During the intermission of "hot dog" supper was served and was followed by the trial, conviction and fining of those who wore jewelry or were dressed in a manner other than that in keeping with hard times. Chief of Police Robert Webster and Constable Welly Hill sought out the miscreants and haled them before the bar of justice in the person of Dr. Fraser. Among those who were fined varying amounts were: H. G. Fitzgerald, A. E. Dawson, O. A. Langley, W. H. Casement, J. C. Smith and Dr. J. R. Fraser.

The committee in charge of the affair consisted of G. G. Connell, chairman; R. L. Mason and R. A. Hirsch.

Among the out of town guests were: Mrs. Gordon Ridpath and Mrs. Charles Winrow of Toronto; Miss Florence Mackenzie and Miss Joan Hedley of Bishop Bethune College, Oshawa; C. V. Hamilton and Jack Langley of the Royal Military College, Kingston and Miss Hazel Maud and Miss Eva Outram of Peterboro.

For Thin Waists And Sleeveless Gowns

(Toilet Tips.)

A safe, certain method for ridding the skin of ugly, hairy growths is as follows: Mix a paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface about 2 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is entirely harmless and seldom requires repeating, but to avoid disappointment it is advisable to see that you get genuine delatone. Mix fresh as wanted.

Doctor at 82 Finds Mothers Prefer His Formula to New-Fangled Salts And Coal Tar Remedies for Babies

Judgment of 1892 vindicated by world's approval of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, a simple vegetable compound for constipation—So safe, thousands give it to babes in arms—Now has largest sale in the world.

WHEN a man is in the 83rd year of his age, as I am, there are certain things he has learned that only time can teach him. The basis of treating sickness has not changed since I left Medical College in 1875, nor since I placed on the market the laxative prescription I had used in my practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin.

Then the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of my Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of Egyptian Senna and other mild laxative herbs with pepsin.

Recently new medicines have been brought out for constipation that contain calomel, which is mercury, salts of various kinds, minerals, and coal tar. These are all drastic purges, many of them dangerous, and the medical profession is warning the public against them. Certain coal tar products will depress the heart; certain salts give rise to intestinal poisoning, impaction and rupture of the intestines. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

From a recent portrait of DR. W. B. CALDWELL Founder of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin Born Shelbyville, Mo., 1839

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with pills and powders and strong drugs, even if disguised in candy? My remedy, too, costs less than most others, only about a cent a dose. A bottle such as you can find in any drug store, will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the babe in arms because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In the proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal.

The formula of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is on the cover of every bottle, and the ingredients have the endorsement of the U. S. Pharmacopoeia.

$10,000 Worth of Syrup Pepsin Free

In remembrance of my 83rd birthday I have set aside the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars to be given away in half-ounce bottles of my Laxative Syrup Pepsin. Only one Free Trial bottle to a family. All are constipated now and then, and here is an opportunity for you and others to try Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin FREE OF CHARGE. Ask for your free bottle today, simply sending name and address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 21 Front Street, Bridgeburg, Ont. Do not postpone this.

YELLOW TAIL LIGHTS.

Yellow for tail lights is suggested by a writer in "Railway Age."

The use of red, it is argued, is confusing to a driver at night and the writer cites a case in which a chauffeur had been following the red lights of cars ahead for some time. Approaching a railroad crossing he took it for granted that the red light on the gate was that of a car ahead and he turned out to shoot ahead. The car ran through the gates and was struck by a train.

Use of yellow lights for the rear of automobiles is the remedy to avoid such accidents, says the writer.

Red should be restricted for use at dangerous locations, such as railway and hazardous street crossings and places where material is piled up in the street.

Be Sure About Your Battery

No matter what kind of a car you drive or what kind of a battery there is on it you should keep informed about certain battery facts.

You should know whether your battery is charged to the proper point—whether it has enough water in it—whether each of the cells works properly.

Our most important duty as a Battery Station is to tell you these things. It doesn't make a bit of difference what make your battery is. Here at Battery Headquarters we give every make exactly the same attention.

Relieve Your Rheumatism For 25c.

NR does it by improving digestion, assimilation and elimination—the logical way.

NR Today—Relief or No Pay

There are three vital processes of human existence,—the digestion of food, the extraction of nourishment from it and the elimination of the waste.

Let anything interfere with these processes,—let them be interrupted or improperly carried on, and sickness of some kind follows.

Poor digestion and assimilation means failure to derive full nourishment from food and that in turn often means impoverished blood, weakness, anemia, etc. Poor elimination means an accumulation of waste matter which poisons the body, lowers vitality, decreases the power of resistance to disease and leads to the development of many serious ills.

Rheumatism,—due to some interference with the process of elimination, failure to get rid of certain body poisons,—cannot be expected to yield to any medicine that fails to correct the condition responsible for it. Could any reasonable person expect to rid himself of rheumatic pain as long as rheumatic poison is allowed to remain in the body.

Think of this. It explains the success of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) in so many cases where other medicines have failed. Thousands are using NR Tablets every day and getting relief. Why pay five or ten times as much for uncertain things? A 25c Box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets), containing enough to last twenty-five days,—must help you, must give you prompt relief and satisfactory benefit or cost you nothing.

And Nature's Remedy is not only for the relief of rheumatism. It improves digestion, tones the liver, regulates kidney and bowel action, improves the blood and cleanses the whole system. You'll feel like a new person when you've taken NR Tablets a week. You've tried the expensive medicines and doctors, now make the real test. You'll get results this time. Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

Automobiles--A Powerful Combination

GETS BETTER AS IT GROWS OLDER

That is the Distinct Advantage of the Willys-Knight Sleeve-Valve Motor.

Millions of miles of service in peace work and war work, in America and across the seas, have determined the merits of the sleeve-valve motor, the highest development of which is represented under the hood of the beautiful new series Willys-Knight models which are attracting so much attention at this year's Automobile Show.

As distinctive and graceful as are the new body lines of the new Willys-Knight models, it is under the hood of this car that prospective buyers and show visitors will find what engineers now concede is the highest type of long-life locomotion, a perpetually youthful motor that actually improves with use.

Several years ago the performance of the Knight sleeve-valve motors attracted the attention of John N. Willys. He was quickly convinced of its future because of its surging power, its quietness of operation, its dependability. Willys' judgment was confirmed later when English engineers adopted the sleeve-valve motor for use in its tanks during the war because of their dependability under adverse conditions in the war, and before and since in a wide variety of services the sleeve-valve engine has become the international motor.

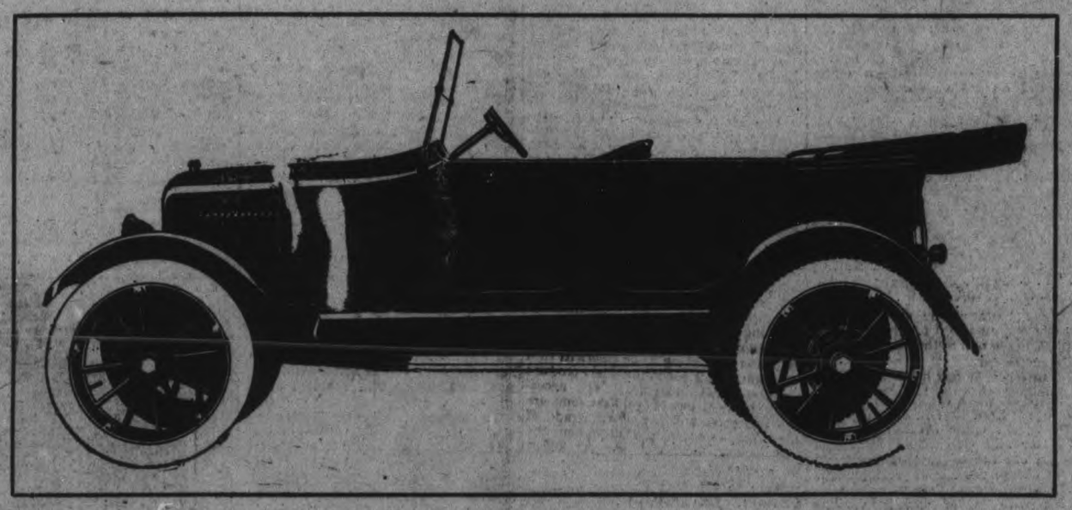
In design the Willys-Knight differs from other motors. One of its striking features is its simplicity. The Willys-Knight motor has fewer parts than any other motor. Noisy poppet valves are replaced by noiseless sliding valves. Two cylindrically-shaped sleeves fitting one within the other glide quietly up and down in a film of oil.

In these sleeves are openings or ports. As the sleeves slide by each other, these openings are brought together at the proper moment forming large passages for intake and ekxhaust action.

Continued use polishes the sliding surfaces of these sleeves, making them more smooth in operation and more efficient. Because of the uniform compression in all cylinders and at all speeds, the Willys-Knight motor is extremely flexible, reducing gear shifting to the minimum.

The valve action does not depend on the uncertain operation of springs. The valve action is positive. It requires no adjustment. There are no valves to be ground. There are no springs to weaken and require new timing. There are no valve stems to break and no clashing parts to cause rapid wear.

Complete combustion and thorough exhaust for burned gases solve the carbon evil. What little carbon forms in the Willys-Knight actually builds up the efficiency of the Willys-Knight motor.



This Overland will be on Exhibit at The Peterborough Motor Show this Week. You are Specally Invited to examine these Cars

PHYSICIANS FIND CLOSED CAR IDEAL

The increasingly large number of doctors who have selected the Haymes brougham as the car for their professional use is a positive indication of the ideal adaptability of this Haymes enclosed coach for the exacting service and absolute dependability which doctors are forced to demand from the cars they drive.

Year in, year out, in every kind of weather and over all conditions of road, the doctor's car must always respond to exigencies of the occasion. Its appearance also reflects the doctor's position and success in his profession. The fact that the Haymes brougham, with its well-appointed interior and dignified exterior appearance meets these requirements makes it rule a favorite not only with doctors, but with other classes of professional men as well.

Through its new, big, powerful motor the Haymes brougham acquires the vigor, the reserve of power and the ruggedness which is so essential in a doctor's car.

The Haymes Automobile Company has received commendatory letters from doctors who have adopted the Haymes brougham as the ideal method of transportation for the many and hurried calls they of necessity, must make in city and country in the performance of their humanitarian work. No one appreciates real motor car service more than does the doctor.

VERLAND POPULAR IN COMMERCIAL AND PROFESSIONAL LINES

Of unquestioned popularity in ommercial and professional lines luring the last year because of their lependability and economy, the Overland models, especially the oupe and roadster, have been given idded importance in these fields by he heavy increase in railroad pasenger and interurban car rates in he last few months.

When the light-weight Overland nodels were announced they found nstant favor with the city salesman nd commercial travelers forced to ravel big territories, because in them was sensed to a remarkable degree the demand for cars of not only greater utility in business and professional lines, but for economy and riding comfort, due to Triplex springs, unparalleled in light-weight motor cars.

Hundreds of letters received at he Willys-Overland Company's offices at Toronto, indicate that the Overland models met a real need rom the standpoint of city and district traveling salesmen. These letters are based on actual car performance at a time when railroad and interurban transportation was marked by its very inadequacy.

ENGINEERS WORKING TOWARD BETTER ECONOMY IN CARS

Bassic Designs of Main Chassis Units Will Remain Unchanged, But Improvements in Details

Read what some of the prominent automobile engineers have to say on this question in March number of Motor:

COST OF OPERATION
By W. G. Walp

There are a number of experiments now being made along radical lines, such as placing the engine at the rear instead of the front of the car, a diffetent cycle to take the place of the four-cycle which is principally used at present, besides the many experiments on rotary valves which have been with us for the last fifteen years. I hardly think, however, that any of these radical changes will be put into commercial use to any extent during the next few years.

The owner of to-day is demanding economy, flexibility and dependability, and all automotive engineers are working toward this end. Economy ,being probably the most important of these items, refers not only to the economy in the consumption of gasoline, oil and tires, cut also very materially to the cost of the upkeep of the chassis and body parts. Economy of fuel is making some headway, through the changes being made in engines, carbureters and manifolds. There are a few engines on the market which now get practically perfect distribution of gas in all their cylinders. This allows the quantity of fuel to be cut down and with perfect combustion prevents gasoline from getting into the crankcase and also keeps the engine clean and free from carbon. This also helps the flexibility of the entire car, as is allows the engine to turn over regularly at a remarkably low speed.

So far the economy of fuel from the chemical standpoint has not materialized though there are some experiments which have been made during the last few years which show that this is possible.

Dependability will be acquired through the consummation of the above-mentioned qualities, together with the study of all detailed parts through proper lubrications, and design the wear on them will be nearly eliminated just as most breakages of motor car parts have have been eliminated during the last few years.

SMALLER CARS
By A. M. Dean)

It is my belief that the most decided trend is toward economy, and I think that the demand for economy will be more marked in the future. This is not necessarily economy in the first cost, but economical service throughout the life of the car. This demand will direct the trend of endeavor toward the development of the smaller cars, and it has been proven that by careful and simplified design and by careful selection of materials, a highly satisfactory product may result that will be fairly economical in its first cost and which will be economical throughout its period of service.

In our motor development I look for nothing radical but a gradual refining and simplifying of our present designs and development along the lines of adapting them to our present fuels.

To enable the engineers to control this condition, it is going to be essential that the producers of our motor fuels produce a standardized product. Not necessarily the high class of fuel that some are led to expect, but a uniform grade of fuel which we can obtain throughout the country and for which we can adapt our motors.

FULL PROBLEM
By G. P. Dorris)

The immediate future in motor car development is along the lines of minor refinement which, in individual detail, is of minor consequence, but, taken collectively, is of considerable importance.

The one factor that is expected to yield the greatest gain is that of the fuel problem in the possibility of a standardized fuel or grades of fuel which can be handled by the various grades of cars which have been produced. Cars of later development are being built to handle present-day fuels. Considerable progress has been made and is being made along the lines of better preparation of the fuel for combustion or pre-evaporation or gasification of the fuel before it is passed to the cylinder, or is passed to the cylinder in the form of gas, making a homogeneous mixture which is capable of instant combustion and utilization during the working stroke.

Motor friction and internal resistance is being reduced as well as unnecessary chassis friction which tends to economize in the loss from this direction.

A more supple running gear and a freer yielding of the axles and wheels to road surface is another source of considerable importance commonly known as reduced unsprung weight.

The elimination of all dead weight, which includes body building, the frame work of which will approach the type of construction as has been presented by the fuselage of an airplane. This indeed gives very rigid construction with very light weight.

Good roads will play an important part in increasing the range of action and usefulness of the motor car, which will naturally result in higher speeds being accomplished in the same degree of comfort as has been experienced with cars of the past.

WILL LAST TWICE AS LONG
(By C. H. Yacke.)

The automobiles modeled in the next two or three years, will show few spectacular features in the chassis, but many in the body make-up. Doubtless the fours and sixes will retain their popularity and come out with such surprising improvements that their performance will surpass anything of today's manufacture.

Many body refinements will be introduced, but the changes on the chassis units will be improvements on the present lay-out. The results from these improvements wil be a greater surprise than new designs.

The coming models will show a remarkable improvement in efficiency, performance, and a great saving in maintenance cost. Greater efficiency will be obtained by eliminating parts of the present units, not by adopting new additions. Many attempts have already been made in this direction, but have not met with much success.

The internal combustion engine of three years hence will be 25% more efficient, give better performance and which are the first signs of a second-hand car.

I look to see a marked improvement in closed body construction. A development which will make for the more general use of closed cars for touring purposes.

PLANK FOR MUD HOLES.

For motorists who travel much over dirt roads, a plank with a chain attach ment, as shown above, would make a useful accessory during spring. So that the chain will not cut into the spokes, it is advisable to cover that part with a piece of rubber hose.

PERFECT SPARK TEST

Actual conditions inside the cylinder, in testing a spark plug outside, can be equaled by placing a piece of mica between the electrodes. The mica should be about 3.8 inch wide, around which the spark has to jump, making a wider gap in open air equal the narrow gap in the much denser cylinder gas.

HEALTH MOVEMENT AND PETERBORO'S BIG MOTOR SHOW

Patronizing the Exhibition at the Armouries Means Broadening the Work By Local Health Assn.

The word health in the general acceptance of the term is understood as referring chiefly to the body, and absolute bodily health—better than all the wealth in the world—is one of the rarest endowments these days. A healthy state of the system is that in which a moderate degree of activity obtains, without inconvenience up to the Biblical allotted span of life, three score years and ten. But no community of any size averages up to this limit, although there is no reason why they should not, were the laws of nature but observed. It is insalutary conditions arising out of congested humanity in towns and cities, and poverty coupled with ignorance as to health-fostering diet and rules of living, which produces physical degeneracy in the human race. And to counteract this, to reduce infant and adult mortality, to raise the statistical vitality of communities, health associations have found their place, of late years in most large centres, purging breeding grounds for disease epidemics of their uncleanliness, saving life, enhancing the public weal by instituting beneficial health movements.

In this connection Peterboro' stands well to the front in modernism, for it enjoys the fostering supervision of a Health Association, without the good offices of which, no doubt the late semi-epidemic of scarlet fever and diptheria would have taken a greater toll of life than they did. The activities of this organization have been accorded sufficient publicity without here recording in detail the operations of its several health ramifications. Suffice it to say that the needy are cared far in their hour of sickness—even a free nurse being available with economic and hygenic counsel, aye, and service too; insanitary homes are converted into wholesome abiding places; the hungry are filled with good things; children of indigent parents are provided with health-promoting holidaying in Jackson Park; and the principles of Good Samaritanship applied generally without stint.

But all this takes money. And so to that end, and in enlargement of the Peterborough Health Association's self-assumed philanthropic work, the proceeds of the Motor Show this week will be devoted. It is a glorious community brotherly and sisterly, ideal the association has for its objective, an ideal which should stimulate a bumper attendance at the armouries each of the exhibitions' three days, resulting in a record-breaking sum thus subscribed for health promotion and conservation in this fair city of ours.

ECZEMA
ON FACE AND HEAD FOR FIVE YEARS

Eczema or salt rheum, as it is so often called, manifests itself in little round pimples which contain an extremely irritating fluid. These break and subsequently a crust or scale is formed and the intense burning, itching and smarting, especially at night or when the part is exposed to a strong heat, is almost unbearable and relief is gladly welcomed.

There is only one way to get relief and no remedy like

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Take it internally and it gets at the seat of the disease in the blood and drives it out of the system.

Apply it externally and it takes out the itching, stinging and burning and promotes healthly healing.

Mrs. J. Sage, 215 Princess Ave., Vancouver, B. C., writes: "Having suffered with eczema on the face and head, for the last five years, I consulted several doctors, and tried various kinds of salves and lotions, but I derived no benefit from any of them. I did not know what to do until a friend advised me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and after I had used two bottles I began to get better and now after taking eight bottles I have not even a blotch on me. I feel that I cannot praise B. B. B. too highly I hope you will make full use of this recommendation for the benefit of those who are suffering from this terrible complaint, eczema."

UNIFORM SYSTEM OF ROUTE MARKING.

A Simple and Modern Method Inaugurated.

In New England, what is expected to develop into a uniform system of route working for the whole country is being inaugurated:

Roads hitherto makred by lines and symbols that confused rather than helped motorists are being numbered so that no doubt may arise in the mind of strangers as to the correctness of their routes.

Red, blue and yellow bands are being painted out in Massachusetts. The various markings along the New Hampshire roads are disappearing and the individual State highway designations in Maine, Vermont, Rhode Island and Connecticut are giving way to the new system.

Instead of these there will be a uniform symbol on all the highways, federal, State and local—a large uellow square, with a heavy black border. Within the square will be a black numeral—the number of the road, according to a systematic designation of all the countrys highways.

The symbol and other details of this new plan were decided upon at a recent meeting of the Automobile Club of America, the New England Hotel Men's Association, Automobile Blue Book publishers and highway officials from all the New England States.

Route No. 1 is to run north and south along the Atlantic coast, from the international boundary at Calais, Me., down to New York and eventually to the southern end of Florida.

In the same manner other main highways will be extended, in accordance with this numbering system, so that all designations will be the same throughout the country."

O. M. Wells, chief road man of the Automobile Club of America, is plotting the routes and numbering them. Short State routes, not reaching beyond State boundaries, are to be numbered above 100.

The lettering will be four inches high. The larger highways will be numbered from 1 to 100, with six-inch black numerals within the uniform square.

The numbering plan will not interfere with naming the routes, says Wells, but it will help motorists keep on the same highway.

HOW TO ASSURE SAFE STOPPING.

Time to Sense Emergency Must Be Considered.

What is the shortest distance required to stop your car going at a certain speed in an emergency?

The answer to this in the opinion of E. W. Weaver, Cleveland engineer, depends on two things:

First—Condition of brakes and the road surface.

Second—Time required for the driver to sense an emergency before applying the brakes.

Of these conditions the second is most important, says Weaver. Tests have set certain minimum distances for stopping based on knowledge of brakes and road surfaces, in relation to the various speeds of the motor car.

For instance, 86 feet has been fixed as the minimum distance required to stop a car with good brakes, going 30 miles an hour, on a dry, level road. With poor brakes on a slippery road the distance is 253 feet.

But the human element must also be considered, says Weaver. He figures it takes one-half a second for an experiencea driver to sense an emergency before he begins to apply the brakes. In this one-half second of time, at a speed of 44 miles an hour, the car will have gone 22 feet.

Therefore, in stopping an automobile from a speed of 30 miles an hour, for example, the total distance required would be 308 feet, with good brakes and a dry, level road; 280 feet, with poor brakes and a slippery road.

Other distances can be judged with the aid of a chart Weaver has prepared, dependent on the car's speed and the driver's own alertness in sensing the emergency.

It is harmful to the car to shift into reverse while the machine is moving forward.

France, Italy and England will be represented at the French Grand Prix near Strasburg on July 15.

If It Were Not for Women and Children—

The "guardian angel" of life insurance is today standing watch over thousands of Canadian homes. It is the great protector and friend of the women and children. It stands ready with three billion dollars to care for the dependents of the vast army of those insured,—to provide rent, food, clothing, education, and the other things that become even more necessary when the breadwinner is removed.

Take stock of your provision for those whom you love and who are entrusted to you for protection, not for so long as you live, but for as long as they live. Let it not be said: "He provided so well for himself, his wife and children, that he entirely forgot his widow and orphans."

Consult any life insurance representative, and you will be surprised to learn what adequate provision can be made through life insurance, and how simply it can be done.

IF IT WERE NOT FOR WOMEN AND CHILDREN THERE WOULD BE NO LIFE INSURANCE. HAVE YOU ENOUGH LIFE INSURANCE FOR YOUR FAMILY?

LIFE INSURANCE SERVICE,

Soap Granules absolutely different

RINSO is the most wonderful cleanser for the family wash that you ever took into your home. It will wash clothes perfectly clean week after week just by soaking overnight and rinsing in the morning—but Rinso is absolutely different from all other soaps or washing powders, therefore it is necessary to use it according to directions. Do not put the Rinso right from the package into the tub, but make the famous Rinso solution first. It's very easy and the results are simply wonderful.

IF YOU USE A WASHING MACHINE

Soak your clothes in the Rinso suds as usual; in the morning add more Rinso solution and work the machine. Then rinse and dry—you will have a clean sweet snow white wash.

WARNED AGAINST JUNKED BATTERIES.

Beware of junked batteries.

Manufacturers of standard batteries have sent out warnings against the purchase of batteries that "look like new," or "are just as good."

These, they say, are doctored up so they will stand up well for a short while. Old batteries are bought at junk rates, taken apart and rebuilt from salvaged parts.

It is the same scheme that has been played with the motor tire business. Sale of rebuilt discarded batteries has been going on for a number of years, but not until lately, say manufacturers, has it reached threatening proportions.

Cost More in End

High prices have helped the junked battery business. That is why manufacturers want to warn the motorist against buying cheaper batteries. They are costlier in the end.

Investigators who have torn down these salvaged batteries say they found only about 5 per cent. of each battery represented new material. One new battery plate, alongside the old ones, an electrolyte, paint—and the battery looks like new.

The new plate, say the investigators, keeps the battery alive long enough for its sale and short use by the owner.

The moral is to buy a battery from a recognized dealer or responsible garage, and to be sure it is one of the standard makes.

HOW TO TEST OIL.

A simple method to test the purity of oil is to place a drop of the fluid on a clean white blotter.

If the drop disappears over night and leaves no dark stain, the oil is quite free of carbon. A stain shows there is a certain amount of free carbon in the oil which would later be left in the engine.

Fluidity of oil in cold weather may be ascertained by placing a small bottle of the oil outdoors on a cold day. After a short time turn bottle upside down quickly and note the rise of air bubbles.

If the bubbles rise quickly, the oil will flow at the existing temperature. If the bubbles do not rise, the oil is too thick for use.

EASY TO BLOW HORN

No need of removing your hand from the steering wheel—if you own a Ford and have the lever shown here attached.

It is the invention of Charles G. Walters of Detroit. The button is placed on the side of the steering post and the lever reaches from it toward the steering wheel. All that is needed is to pull the lever.

NEW AVENUES FOR PHOTOGRAPHER

By Fred L. Roy, Peterboro, Ont.

After eleven years experience with motor cars I am firmly convinced that my business could not be conducted under present day conditions, successfully, without it.

As a Professional Photographer, catering to a wide and varied clientele, my car has been a most important factor in building up my business and this statement has been definitely proven by accurate accounting of orders secured. In pre-war days the average Professional Photographer's activities were limited to Studio portraiture. To-day with the car they are unlimited. It opens up new avenues of business daily. The rural telephone has already linked up my studio with every home in the country—the "barn raising," the prize stock, the county Fair, the family re-unions, etc., now only mean a telephone call and the car.

Service to the big manufacturing establishments, immediate response to "hurry up" calls, has brought the business. Public functions, sporting events, conventions, demand quick action—the car provides it. The conservation of time has decreased "overhead" and increased "turnover."

Being happily situated at the gateway of the finest fishing and hunting country in Ontario, my car makes it possible to live at the camp on the lake just seven miles away. A refreshing run each evening and return in the cool of the morning sends me to business with brain clear and energy renewed.

Decidedly to me a car is a necessity and I look confidently to the future development of its usefulness in all lines of human endeavor.

A BUSINESS FARMER'S INVESTMENT.

By Caran F. Knox, Norwood, Ont.

After driving several different makes for a period of six years, I find the motor car is not a luxury nor an expensive proposition at all. But a time-saver, which means money to any Business Farmer.

It is more economical than the horse. Recently we had a cow, valued at one thousand dollars, take sick quite suddenly. I immediately made haste for the veterinary and in less than 15 minutes the Veterinary was at her side.

Last summer when time was limited I broke my binder and again my car solved the problem. I secured the part from town and the binder was in operation in a short time. I use the rear seat for many purposes, such as hauling cream, potatoes, young calves and other things too numerous to mention. I also use my car for power purposes off the rear wheels, which is efficient in cutting straw, grinding grain, and sawing wood, without much effort on the car's part. During the fall with my car I can readily purchase sufficient cattle for winter feeders. It is also a boon for short cuts to the ranch with salt and general inspection of the stock.

Annually we take in the Toronto Exhibition, usually taking several of our friends. Transportation costs five dollars, the price of one railway ticket. When the flu was bad two years ago, I gave the motor car a great deal of credit in helping to save my life.

BUILDER ENLARGES SPHERE.

By A. B. Cunningham, Peterboro, Ont.

I bought my auto with the idea that it would be merely a means of pleasure, but after four years' experience I find it has a specific value in relation to Utility, Pleasure, Education, Health and Economy. I had no idea that my car would prove such a means of convenience and profit.

In my business as a builder things have been dull for five years, but instead of being confined to city customers my car has given me a field of 25 miles radius. In addition there are numerous things that can be carried in a car that would often cause delay in business if they had to come by regular delivery.

It is supremely a family necessity—holding the growing family together in mutual pleasures, is something that has a great social and moral value, and in addition is a constant source of knowledge as every trip is a new acquistion of information and experience.

We have viewed Niagara's impressive grandeur one week and the next studied Kawartha's stillness and beauty, and again in the sylvan forest or rugged rock regions, in the teeming fruit districts or amid the broad grain fields, all teach us of Nature's Great Creator and man's co-operation.

My car has proved an economic investment from a health standpoint a Nature's remedy for weary muscle and jaded nerve.

In household economy with my car I reach the producer direct. When fruit shipments were clogged the auto went through and secured the goods at lowest price and best quality.

INCREASES FARM VALUES.

By Geo. H. Eagleson, Millbrook Ont

My car makes and saves me money.

I can market my perishable produce quickly and attend the market when farm produce is at the high price. Being twenty miles from market can attend same and be home at noon. Can deliver the milk to Railway Station, five or six miles saving the heavy expense of milk truck calling. Should any breaks happen to farm machinery, during the busy season, can go and get the repairs in a few hours. I have no need for a driving horse. I can run my car cheaper than keep a driver the year round, as a car is only expense when you are using it.

Farmers as a class, I believe, last year were the heaviest buyers, and will be, of cars. I have never known a farmr to sell his car and go back to the driving horse. Should accidents happen on the farm, I can bring medical attendance in a few minutes. If any of the stock get sick, I can have a Veterinary in an hour; to drive, the animal might have died.

It was the Motor Car brought our Good Roads into the Province. Farms where the Provincial Highway passes have all increased in value. It also brought a wonderful change in the social life in the country, and I believe the car will bring more social feeling between country people and the city. In conclusion, I hope that every farmer in this Province will have a car, and I fail to see how they can get along any longer without one.

VISIBLE GUAGE ON VALVE.

An additional appliance designed to make things easy for the motorist is this combined tire valve and pressure gage, which has just appeared on the market. Its visibility is the attractive feature about this instrument. The transparent dust cap is made of a light celluloid compound so that it will not break. The air pressure in the tire can be read without removing any pressure.

AN ANTI-THEFT PLAN FOR CARS.

Englishman Devises Plan to Curb Losses.

To stop thefts register every automobile in the country with the insurance companies. Then let these companies check up on each car enrered for insurance, to be certain of its rightful ownership.

This is the idea of F. S. Broad, manager of the Bell Assurance Association, which has been investigating England's method of theft prevention.

The present system consists of issuing registration books and license discs to each automobile owner. But counterfeit books and discs have appeared and have made it easy for any one to prove his ownership of a stolen car, says Broad.

Complete Records

According to Broad's plan, every car made in England, besides those exported and imported, would be recorded in a national card index system. The most important information on each card would be the chassis number.

If a car is stolen it would be found as soon as application was made for its reinsurance, says Broad. By referring to the central register the insurance agent would find the car had been stolen.

At present there is no such checkup in any country.

Chassis Check

Altering the chassis number could not help the thief to circumvent this system, for the new number would be found to belong to another car, or to be found fictitious.

Broad's system would make automobiles thiefproof, especially in the United States, he says, where there are laws governing the transfer of automobiles. It would not cost the motorist anything additional because the insurance companies would assume all costs as part of their business.

Tire chains dig deeper into mud holes rather than help the car out.

Crank shaft end play causes a motor to knock like a piston slap.

Watch Your Gums— Bleeding a Sign of Trouble

Medical science knows how serious is the sign of bleeding gums. For it knows that tender and bleeding gums are the forerunners of Pyorrhea, that dread disease which afflicts four out of five people over forty.

If the disease is unchecked, the gum-line recedes, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of the Pyorrhea poisons which seep into the system and wreck the health. These poisons often cause rheumatism, nervous disorders, anaemia, and other ills.

To avoid Pyorrhea, visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection, and use Forhan's For the Gums. Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea or check its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums firm and healthy—the teeth white and clean. Start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has already set in, use Forhan's according to directions and consult your dentist immediately for special treatment.

Yeast Best With Iron

Ironized Yeast is pleasant to take and will not cause gas or in any way affect the stomach as it contains a specially cultured yeast which is grown under the strictest supervision for medicinal purposes. The reason it brings such splendid results is because it supplies thin and run-down folks with the three vitamines, which though vitally essential to health, are lacking in the modern diet. But more than that, it supplies your blood with the iron needed to make it rich, red and strong. Vitamines alone are fine—but when taken with iron, as in Ironized Yeast, they bring their good results just twice as quickly, in many cases.

SPECIAL SERVICES MILLBROOK CHURCHES

MILLBROOK, April 18.—All the churches had special Easter services on Sunday, April 16th, and all were suitably decorated with white lilies at the altar. The Presbyterians had Rev. Mr. Craig of Toronto to preach in the morning, as his "mission" at Garden Hill did not begin until the afternoon. A reception service, when 15 new members united with the church, was also held, followed by the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. The entire service was very solemn and impressive.

The Women's Missionary Auxiliary, Mission Circle, and Mission Band attended the Methodist Church in a body on Sunday morning, occupying the middle front seats, and also making up the entire choir of 25 voices. Rev. Mr. Tucker preached his Easter sermon at night, but in the morning gave an excellent address on "South America, the Continent of Tomorrow," contrasting the two types of civilization, of missionary propaganda, and of Christian character, as found in North and South America. The Pilgrim Fathers, who founded the American colony, came seeking civil and religious liberty, came with an open Bible, and with overtures of peace, not with threatenings of war, and the spirit of these Pilgrim Fathers is seen in the constitutional liberty, and the development of Protestantism on this continent to-day.

But the South American colony was founded by adventurers and explorers, who did not represent the best types even in their own lands, and who came seeking gold, with the sword in their hand, purposing to exploit the country to make their homeland and their kings rich. They were out for a good time, and being unprincipled in conduct, and with the sanction of Church and State, they cruelly oppressed and conquered the native peoples, emphasizing the supremacy of the Roman Church, rather than the principles of the Kingdom of God. The result is a great continent in darkness, superstition and ignorance, immoral in ideal and conduct, with the Church itself forbidding the education of the masses, making the Bible a closed Book, and at one time, even establishing the inquisition to terrorize the people into submission. South America was divided into two great colonies, Portugese and Spanish, and to-day their descendants in twenty independent states are breaking away from the authority of the Pope, and striving for the same civil and religious liberty which we enjoy.

The Panama Canal was one of the factors which opened a new era for South America. Before the war, which was another factor in her awakening, the Protestant religion had practically no foothold, but the people are beginning to realize that it is absolutely necessary to the progress and development of their national life. Immorality flourishes on that continent because the early adventurers and explorers intermarried with the natives, and the result is a mixed race inferior in intellect and physique to even the native tribes. The Church to-day cannot afford to compromise on any question of principle, lest she lose, here as there, the confidence of the public; and this is one of the weaknesses of Protestantism in our land at the present time. It will take centuries to undo the evil already done in South America, and the speaker closed with an earnest appeal to his hearers to stand loyally behind the missionary policy of the Church. The next twenty-five years will see a tremendous increase in the missionary forces at work in South America, because protection and opportunity have now been officially guaranteed; and there, too, the Protestant Church, for the first time, will present a united front for the evangelization of this great but little known continent.

The Easter thankoffering for the three missionary organizations was taken up and a generous sum realized in each case. A song, "Easter Bells," by four of the Mission Band girls, preceded the closing hymn, and the benediction by the pastor brought an unusually interesting service to a close.

California Type, Model B. The Car on Exhibition.

The Premier Rough Roads Car

THE Birmingham Car, with its elimination of the Solid Axle, and the elimination of unsprung weight, marks the entry into the Automobile World of a lighter car of greater strength and endurance and of absolutely unequalled riding qualities. Time was when transportation was by means of a cart without springs, the body resting on axle. Some time later springs were placed between the axle and body, and hardships and discomfort to the occupants were greatly lessened. Since the advent of the automobile each manufacturer has been constantly striving to achieve for his car the easiest possible riding qualities.

Different arrangements of springs have been used with some success, but with the solid axle there was a very definite limit to the results that could be attained. Now comes the last word in easy riding and comfort — THE BIRMINGHAM. Light in weight and economical on both gasoline and tire, with riding qualities beyond comparison with any solid axle car it marks the greatest forward step in automobile construction in the history of the industry.

SAYS "GASOLINE" NATION'S TIPPLE.

Corner Filling Stations No Longer Saloons.

(By Irwin S. Cobb.)

I had meant to speak of gasoline, the national tipple. I had meant to point out that while we still have filling stations on every corner they are no longer saloons.

I meant to extol that fluid which keeps us out in the open air without the necessity as formerly of having a policeman to get us out of it when the mixture got too rich and the valves fluttered. I had meant to call attention to the superiority of Premier over Old Crow, pointing out that it was never bootlegged and that it maintained a stable price except when Uncle John D. felt like doing a little something for Baptist Foreign Missions. I never knew what aversions I had to the heathen until I began paying gasoline bills.

I was going to tell you how gasoline had enriched our language, broadened our vocabulary of profanity, and kept the Rockfeller family from feeling the pinch of cruel poverty. I was going to tell how its exhaust beat the drum for the onward march of progress and industrial furtherment in this land of ours. I was going to point out the fact that to gasoline indirectly at least we owed the addition of a notable, one more, to the standard jokes of the English speaking people. You remember Mark Twain said once, there were only eight original jokes in the world and then Uncle Henry put the Ford on the market.

Eight Days' Wonder.

I was going to hark back to the time and contrast it with the present; I was going to hark back to the time, but a few years ago when an automoible on the public highway was an eight days wonder, a wonder to the populace as to how it moved, to the man who sold it why and to the man who owned it if. I was doing to deal with my own early experiences as an automobile proprietor, I acquired my first car; it was never a first, it was a second to start with. I acquired my own car in the times when the cars were christened with yet names by their proud owners and for obvious reasons I called mine "Creeping Paralysis." I got it in exchange for a debt of a man who didn't like me and I afterwards refused two hundred dollars for it. It had two hundred dollar worth of things the matter with it.

My experience dated back to those misty times of antiquity. Well, I am reminded of another story. A friend of mine was in the South a good many years ago and there he made the acquaintance of a so-called chauffeur of color who was a fair chauffeur and who professed to be a mechanic, but subsequent developments proved that no reasonably prudent person would trust him with a button hook. However, he engaged the services of this individual and brought him to New York and installed him on the conning tower of a one-lung, self-stopping car he had of an early vintage that looked in the back like a lady's gown, and one beautiful Sunday my friend and his family cruised over into Long Island and at some distance remote from anywhere at all the car developed a harsh hacking cough and a hectic flush in its cheeks and then began to spit blood and finally gave a load of moans and halted. And the chauffeur got out and removed his uniform and put on overalls and took an armful of tools and spread a rug on the road and climbed under the abdomen of the patient and beat it on its inoffensive and helpless umbilical with a monkey wrench, and unscrewed little taps which let jets of hot glue run down in his eye, and at length he emerged and got more tools and told everybody goodbye and went back again, and finally crawled out and sat up in the road, so coated over with lubricants and oils and greases that if he caught fire the would have burned at least three days with a clear blue flame; and addressing his employer he said: "Mr. Manner, you will have to find your way back to town the best way you can. There are four separate things the matter with this car and I don't know what either one of them is."

Ostentatious Pride.

And I was going along on that same strain pointing out to you who would no doubt be interested in knowing the facts and statistics, how the automobile has grown until today we measure a man' social standing by his automobile. We don't ask any more, "Is he able to keep his present wife," but "Can he continue to keep a car?" And there is a haughtiness, an ostentatious pride that comes now to the man who can afford a beter car than he used to. I used to think that the proudest thing in the world, the most conscious of his worth, was a Boston man who had been through Harvard. And when you meet a Boston man that has been through Harvard it is very much as though you had met an egg which had enjoyed the unique distinction of being laid twice and both times successfully.

But in the circle in which I move that pride is as nothing alongside the righteous pomp of the man who now can afford to own one of Colonel Clifton's new models with one of those— and I speak from the depth of a bitter experience—with one, of those one-man tops which any three men and a boy can put on after the original one has succumbed to nervous exhaustion.

This, as I say, was to have been been my text, but I have been diverted. The minds of all mankind to-day are concerned with the ambition and the hope of working out some feasible scheme of doing away with warfare among the races of the world, and with all modesty I want to offer a formula which is at least a beginning towards that end, and I offer it in seriousness. Give to every people of every land better roads and more automombiles and we will do away with much of the ill will that exists between human beings on this planet to-day.

Back in the Sixties.

Back in '61 had there been broad, sooth highways that ran from the Gulfs to the Lakes, and if the man who lived in South Carolina could step in his lizzie and turn on the gas and cruise away to Vermont and find out that the pepole there were of his own blood and had much the same aspirations and the same desire for decent and orderly government the States never would have been rent by a great Civil War.

And I will go further than that. From my own knowledge at the front and behiud the lines of how the civil populace—yes, and the soldiers of warring Europe—felt, I am constrained to believe that had it been possible prior to 1914 for all the people of Continental Europe to have at their command the same quality and abundance of cheap priced cars which the run of human beings in this country can have, and had there been no artificial barriers at the national boundaries to keep neighbor from seeing neighbor, I am prone to think that not even a Prussia militarism could have driven all the Eastern part of the world into a dreadful struggle. Because when you get to know a man and you do know him better when you are riding in a car along the high road than you ever can from a railroad train—when you get to know him you find out that he is the general run of human beings in one land and much like the general run of human beings in another. And I mean it when I say I believe that the spread of the use of automobiles is going to do as much to teach one nation that another nation is made up of decent chaps and to cure them of their old rivalries and feud bitternesses as any other agency on God's green footstool can ever hope to do.

"Howdy" Wilcox Trains During Winter

"HOWDY" WILCOX AND MECHANIC IN HIS PEUGEOT.

"Howdy' Wilcox is generally favored to win the 500-mile race to be held over the Indianapolis Motor Speedway on May 30.

Wilcox will drive a Peugeot. It is a descendant of the car with which he annexed the international classic in 1919.

This was very gratifying to the home folks, as Wilcox is an Indianapolis product.

If Wilcox fails to win it will not be due to lack of effort .He is training himself and his car for the race in a most thorough manner.

Every day through the winter Wilcox has given his Peugeot a stiff workout. Dressed in winter raiment that would make an Eskimo warm with envy, he defies the elements.

Certainly no driver knows the track better than Wilcox. He drives his car at a record-breaking speed over an ice-covered track that would put fear in the heart of the most courageous civilian driver.

Wilcox explains his winter's work thusly:

"These Peugeots have been blowing up on me in the last two races. This year I am going to have this baby so fast and solid that she will stand up the entire race with out a stop for repairs. If it fails me I'll never enter it again.

Wilcox has been doing a lot of work on his car at the Allison Experimental Laboratory. After every change he gives the car a number of stiff workouts to see what are the results.

Wilcox looks fit. Says he never felt better in his life. "I am trying to get the car in as good shape as I am," says Howdy, "and if I do the old prize is mine."

CORRECT OILING OF MOTOR CARS.

The correct lubrication of any motor vehicle, according to an expert oil engineer, depends on three conditions, all within the control of the operator. They are:

The use of lubricating oil of the highest quality.

The use of the correct grade of that oil to meet the engine operating conditions exactly.

Proper precautions to maintain the quality of the lubricant while in service and to make adjustments to ensure its delivery in the correct quantities to the friction surfaces.

Failure of the operator to give the necessary attention to any one of these conditions may result in impaired performance and increased operating costs.

The choice of the correct oil for any particular engine is a matter for a competent engineer. It involves four basic lubrication factors affected by engine design.

One is engine operating temperature. This depends primarily on the service, or 'loading," of the engine. The steady, uninterrupted work of the tractor engine determines high temperatures, as contrasted with the intermittent work encountered by the truck or passenger car engine.

As all oils tend to lose body or thin out under heat, the heavier-bodied oils seem best where operating temperatures are high.

Another factor is oil distribution. The ability of the lubricating system to distribute the oil to all friction surfaces when the lubricant is chilled and thickened determines how fluid the correct oil must be. Some systems are adapted for perfect circulation of all oils, from the heaviest bodied to the lightest; others function best on oils of light or medium body.

The correct oil also must be of such character as to minimise the troubles which result from carbon deposits, and, again, the correct oil will be of ample body and correct character to seal the piston rings against the passage of the highly compressed gases on the compression and power strokes.—New York Time

One will seldon go wrong if he attributes extreme actions to vanity, average ones to habit, and petty ones to fear.—Friedrich Wilhelm Nietzsche (1844-1900).

STINGE OF SPRING GIVES MOTORISTS DESIRE TO DRIVE

The closing of the winter season and the breath of spring that is in the air is the time the car owner who did not use his machine all winter is getting the driving fever and speculating on what he should do before once more putting his car in commission.

If the car was performing nicely before putting it away for the winter, very little needs to be done. In fact nothing to require the attention of a mechanic. The following is about all that should be necessary:

Drain motor of all old oil and clean thoorughly with kerosene, and then refill with a supply of fresh oil. Clean transmission case, flush with kerosene and refill with fresh lubricant. Drain old lubricant from rear axle differential, bush with kerostne and refill.

Remove front wheels, cleaning bearings and hubs thoroughly and re-pack with grease.

The foregoing covers lubrication of the main units. Clutch bearings, universals, spring shackles, steering gear, steering spindles, fan bearings, rear axle and bearing, brake shaft, steering, reach and connecting rods are no less important. A good practise is to follow systematically all lubricating points on one side of the car, starting at the front and working to the rear, or from the rear to font, and then go over the opposite side in like manner.

Additional comfort may be obtained, as well as add to the life of the springs, by lubricating between the leaves. If no leaf wedge or spreader is at hand, a screwdriver may be used by driving between the leaves at a point near the end of the leaf. Use a thin oil into which has been mixed a small amount of graphite, or what is known on the market as Oildag, squirting between leaves with a hand oiler, allowing the oil to drain toward the centre of leaf before removing screwdriver.

Clean and set spark plug points. Clean and reset breaker points. If storage abttery has not been placed in storage, have it inspected and recharged, if necesasry by a battery expert.

F. H. SANDERSON GETS GRAY-DORT FRANCHISE

"The public demands Motor Car value. Reliable performance, comfort, low cost per mile in gas, oil, and tires, and looks", said Mr. Sanderson, the enterprising dealer who secured the Gray-Dort franchise for the city of Peterboro.

We selected the Gray-Dort because it comprises a complete line of open and closed models. It has stood the test of the road for a number of years. In appearance and performance it compares favorably with cars costing many hundred dollars more. And it is a made and built-in-Canada car, backed by a 100 per cent Canadian Company.

At the new prices we believe the Gray-Dort is a Motor Car investment which cannot be surpassed."

Two years ago he organized the Lakefield Lumber Company, of which he became managing director.

He is survived by his wife and two sons, John of the Dominion Bank, Cobourg, and James at home. One brother, Peter, is in St. Louis, Missouri.

The funeral of he late John Duignan will take place at 9 a.m. Thursday from the family residence, 184 Dalhousie street, to St. Peter's Church and thence to St. Peter's Cemetery.

He Wasn't Able To do the Chores

NOW HE PRAISES DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Manitoba Man Run Down and Out of Sorts Finds the Remedy He Needed in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Morden, Man. April 17.—(Special) —"I feel like advising everyone to use Dodds Kidney Pills."

Such is the statement of Mr. I. D. Dyck, who lives on R. R 2 near here. Mr Dyck has used Dodd's Kidney Pils and found them good.

"I had been dragging along for the last few years' he says, "till II wasn't able to do the chores. I tried two doctors but they seemed to do me no good at all.

"Then an advertisment led me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I am so much improved that I feel like telling them."

Dodd's Kidney Pills make healthy kidneys. Healthy kidneys mean pure blood. Pure blood gives new energy all over the body. If you have that tired feeling that springs brings ask your neighbors about Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mr. J. J. Lynch informs us that already a great many farmers are buying Blacklegoids preparatory to vaccinating their cattle this spring. There is no question but that this is a good move; something that every owner of cattle ought to attend to before it is too late. Veterinarians are agreed that there is little use trying to treat a case of Blackleg. It is almost invariabiy fatal, and a single case is likely to so inoculate the soil with germs that the infection will linger for years to come.

Since it is a well established fact that vaccination will protect against the disease, no one ought to neglect this prevaution. The next time you have an opportunity, ask for information, booklets, etc., at J. J. Lynch's Drug Store, 168 Hunter Street, Peterborough. 3d-18-20-21

The first question of the beginner generally is: "What should I plant?" The amateur, with a small plot of a good vegetable assortment to consist of some of the following plants: Beets, onions, lettuce, carrots, radishes, parsnips, turnips, asparagus and in mild climates, artichokes.

Do not attempt to grow in a small garden such vegetables as corn, squash, pumpkins, melons and similar plants, all of which ground, will find take up too much space.

Beets, onions and radishes are particularly easy to grow.

In arranging the beds rememebr to keep your paths as straight as possible and plant in rows from 12 to 18 inches apart. It is well to plan the garden paths in advance, always remembering that you must reach all parts of it without tramping upon the plants.

Studied Insult

LONDON, April 18 (Canadian Press). — To-day's newspapers condemn in the strongest language the pact between Russia and Germany, and declares it is a deadly blow at the Conference at Genoa, the Versailles Treaty, and the peace of Europe. Its negotiators are charged with complicity and bad faith.

The Times says it is an open defiance and studied insult to the Entente Powers. The German pretence that the choice of the time and place for the signature was without significance, is regarded as pure impertinence.

"Rurria for the Bolshevists, and the Bolshevists for us" has been the basis ot the German policy ever since the German Government sent Lenine across the frontier with the deliberate intention that he should poison the whole social organisation of Russia.

It declares that Germany hopes that when the poison had done its work, she would prey on the corpse.

"With the resources and manpower of Russia under her control, she would be able at her pleasure to pronounce the Treaty of Versailles a scrap of paper, and visit Western Europe again with the terrors inseparable from her resurrection as a militarist state."

Finally, the newspaper urges the Allies to take up the challenge and teach the Germans and the Bolshevists that they are not to be defied with impunity."

RIVER BUBBLING OUT OF MANHOLE

Near Foot of Lock Street and Street Railway Loop is Under Water.

The street railway wharf is sunk without a trace and the low stretch of road at the east end of McKellar street, between the foot of Lock St. and "Holmwood Hall," has been obliterated by the swollen waters of the Otonabee overflowing its banks in all directions. This morning the street railway loop at the south end of the George street run, was put out of commission when part of it could hold on no longer and disappeared before the rising flood. As a result of this intrusion the C. G. R. cars which may be "turned by merely swinging the trolley around, were switched to the George Street service.

BUYING A CAR FASCINATES

(BY RING W. LARDNER)

However I don't want anybody to think I am advising them not to buy a car. They's nothing more fascinating than buying a car specially when they's so much of the element of supprise and suspence mixed up in it. It's a good deal like a good play on the stage. In the 1st act you don't know exactly what is going to happen in tne last act but you know what you wished would happen. And when you sign up a order blank for a car you don't know what you are going to get but you know what you ordered and sometimes what you finely get is pretty near like it and that is where the supprise comes in.

Pretty Near Choked.

For instants, year ago last summer, when I had past up the car that I would of boughten if I hadn't tried to drive it first and pretty near choked to death on my knee, why then I went in 1 of the show rooms of 1 of the best makes, a car that is bilt so that a man over 5ft. tall can drive it, and I signed my name on the blank and payed so much down in advance and they ast me what special features I wanted and I says I want a kind of a light dark blue body and tan brown wire wheels and tan brown upholstery to match the wheels and so and so tires. Well you haven't no idear how supprised I was when I finely got the car with a stock colour body and black upholstery to match the wheels and such and such tires. The supprise laid in the fact that the car was the same make as what I ordered. Those is the kind of things that renders buying a car so interesting as it is just like the old days when you set down and wrote Santa Claus a letter and said what you wanted for xmas, but when it finely come time to look in your stocking you was sure to find something that tickled you to death but nothing like what you ast him for.

As for me giveing my readers advice on how to lern to drive your car after you get hold of it, why they can't be no fixed rules layed down as the laws is so different in different parts of the country. For instants where I live in Connecticut before you can get a license you half to take a driver's examination and you are supposed to study up in a book and find out what is the penaltys for different violations of the law and be able to tell them when they question you. Up in Toronto you don't take no test but the judge gives you all that information a piece at a time.

Out west you stop at a garage and say "Gimme 10 gals of gas and a qt. of oil." But in Boston you stop in front of a grocery store and say "Can you spare me 10 gals of gas and a qt. of oil if it isn't too much trouble?" On the eastern roads in cold weather you can drive with 1 hand and keep the other in your pocket but out west you have to drive with 1 hand and hold onto the wheel with the other to keep it from bounceing out of the car.

However east or west they's nothing like it, and they will be more cars than ever on the roads this comeing yr. what with all the millionaire U.F.C. buying them, but don't let that scare you out of buying for yourself because wile the increased number of cars may jam up the roads a little, it won't be no harder to drive because as I say most of us has got to be sober.

A Cute Idea.

Besides witch it has been this bird's experience that most of the smashes comes when they's the lease traffic abroad. About 3 mos. after I had boughten my first horselest carriage I got the cute idear at 2 o'clock 1 morning that it would be nice to drive to the Wayside inn witch was a place about 15 miles out side of Montreal and I don't know how to describe it only it wasn't a church. Well when I landed out there the inn was all lit up like a cemetery but I went up and banged on the door and finely a waiter let me in and lighted a candle in the parler and went back to sleep wile I enjoyed a few hours' practice on the piano. Well I got back in Montreal between 7 in the morning and come to St. Lawrence's St. and they was only 1 vehicle besides myself on the sts. and this was a St. Lawrence's st. car and you would think when they was only 2 vehicles romeing around in a town as big as Montreal why the odds would be about a million to 1 that they wouldn't hit each other. But on this occasion the long shot win and when I regained conscious and ast for my car they showed me the chassis with no more on it than Aphroditey. The body and the top and so forth was all on the st. car going the opposite direction.

On another occasion I was out taking the air on Spadina Ave. Toronto, somewheres between 5 in the morning and this time they wasn't nothing else on the st. but the lamp posts sticking up in the middle as it but the one at the intersections of Harbord st. jumped right out in front of me and hit off a wire wheel. So you see it isn't the jams witch causes the danger but it is just some piece of carelessness like on the part of the st. car or the lamp post that had their mind on something else.

No Special Advice.

They's no special advice I can give new beginners on how to avoid these accidents only to say use your head like the fellow I remember reading about in Chi that was driveing 1 night tords 1 of those bridges acrost the river that when they's a boat comeing through it razes up in the middle witch is split open to give the boat a chance to go through without bumping its bean. Well this guy didn't hear the bell ring or something and he was pretty near the middle of the bridge before he seen that the section he was on was getting pretty hilly but it was to late to spot himself so he give her all the gas she would take and she lept over the gap and lit on the other section and then he throwed on the brakes and stopped before he got to the bottom of the down hill side. Some of his friends kind of hinted afterwards that when he steped on the gas going up he really meant to step on the brake witch would of been kind of fatal but any way he got away with the story in the papers. Critics may point out that this guy used his foot instead of his head but some people's brains is located in different places the same as their diseases.

A Few Hints.

One of the first things that the new beginner should ought to do when you get a hold of your car is throw a lot of things out of it like the tools and the curtains that don't do no good and just weight the car down and make it heavier. The curtains is one of the best practical jokes connected with motor life. If you want to have the factory put them up when you first get your machine and then leave them up when you first get your machine and then leave them up why well and good. People that rides in the car won't be able to see none of the scencry but if they been over the same roads before why what is the differents? But don't never get the idear that curtains is going to help you out for a emergency like in the case of a storm because if the storm don't last longer than the one Noah was out in why you won't get the curtains hung up till either the sun is shining again or else its time to buy a new car. Houdini might be able to understand a set of curtains but if you aint him why all they will do for you is wear out your temper.

Finely, theys always a elaberate Kit of tools comes with a new machine and as I said above, the first thing to do with them is to toss them into the first river you drive acrost, otherwise the first garage you take the car into is going to get them. But even if they didn't what good are they, as the jack will break the first time you try and change a tire and the other tools is no good without a jack and besides if you use your head like I advise, why you will always manage to have your tire trouble and other trouble in front of a first-class garage. — From The Canadian Motorist.

PETER ROBINSON CHAPTER DANCE

The Easter dance and card party held by the Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E. at the G.W.V.A. Hall last evening proved a very successful and enjoyable affair, with an attendance of nearly 200 people. The dance hall was effectively decorated with streamers and festoons of gaily colored slashed crepe paper, with an overhead shower of confetti, balloons, Easter chicks and bunnies, for the specialty numbers. Paul Gliddon's three-piece orchestra provided good music.

In the card room, prizes for bridge were won by Mrs. J. C. Smith and Mr. Arthur Robinson, and for five hundred by Miss Jean Horsefield and Mr. Carveth. Mrs. F. C. Air Resistance Cut to Minimum

This is the back of a new type of French racing automobile. It is wedge-shaped to reduce to a minimum the tremendous air resistance which a speeding car has to face. No vacuum is formed in back, so that the air currents shape themselves easily behind the machine and offer the least possible suction to slow down the car.

RIVER RISES

est figure in January of this year, and a little more than a week ago had soared to 11 feet 5 inches. It has now pased the 16 feet 2 inches mark, going strong. This is a variation of seven feet, but the variation above the Hastings dam doesn't change more than nine inches the whole year round.

Mr. Killaly asserted that if the Hastings dam were blown out no effect would be observed on the level of the water below the Peterborough lock. The narrowest part of that section of the canal (Hastings to Peterobrough) is just at the G. T.R. bridge west of Hastings. That is one reason why the railway crossing was located there. Hence that place is the neck of the bottle of which a stretch of the Trent river, Rice lake and the Otonabee river to Peterborough represent the bottle itself.

The upper lakes system of storage is not yet filled.

THE MARKETS

NEW YORK, April 18.— (Canadian Press.)—In striking contrast to initial doings of past two weeks opening prices in stock market to-day were decidedly reactionary. Yesterday's record operations and unstable movement of certain leaders, especially Oils, evidently prompted a renewal of short selling, although Rails showed market firmness. Sinclair, Studebaker Midvale, Baldwin, Bethlehem, Westinghouse, Mexican Petroleum and Atlantic Gulf lost substantial fractions.

Call money opened at 3 1-2 per cent, but selling on large scale continued throughout the morning. Turnover for first two hours was estimated at 75 thousand shares, this falling considerably under yesterday's record. More substantial reactions included Canadian Pacific and Standard Oil of New Jersey, which lost 2 1-4 and 4 points respectively. Foregn Oils, especially Mexican Petroleum and General Asphalt, also were liquidated. Other transcontinentals eased with Canadian Pacific and Coalers lost ground with Reading. Steels, Equipments, Motors and Tobaccos made one to two points recessions.

Rails effected temporary rallies at mid-day on strength shown by Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Atchison and Atlantic Coast Line. Selling of Oils, Equipments and Specialties became more insistent, however, leaders showing extreme losses of 2 to 4 1-2 points.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES.

Corn and Oats parallelled action of Wheat. After opening unchanged to 3-8 lower, July 64 1-8 to 64 1-4, the Corn market made a moderate general advance. Oats started 1-8 off to 1-8 up, July 40 3-4 and then showed gains for all months.

TORONTO STOCK MARKET.

CLERGYMAN SUBSTITUTES AUTO FOR PILLS AND GAINS HEALTH

(By REV. O. F. JORDAN)

Nine days out of each working year is the average toll taken from a working man by illness. Statistics are not available for women. It seems probable that for them the toll of illness would be greater. How this compares with the record of our pioneer forefathers we are all aware. They were able to live without doctors. The secret was open air, exercise, minds filled with hope and the wonderful life close to nature.

When apartment hotels took the place of log cabins, when the hot air radiator replaced the open fire-place, we began to hear of a thousand new ills that were almost unknown in this country a hundred years ago.

But the motor car has begun another new epoch. In the morning or evening one may see a stream of cars roll by. These are business men, for whom the trip home added to the trip down means an hour or two in the open air. They claim the "pep" they pile up this way is worth dollars in their business for every penny spent on their cars.

Watch the streets in the afternoon and you will see the crowd of lady shoppers making their way around. Some of these ladies justify the motoring on the basis of money saved by the new marketing process. Pater familias lets it go at that for he knows that no matter how much mamma pays for string beans at a distant market the trip has done her good. She is able to greet him in the evening with a smile, and the weeks pass without any disagreeable hysteria.

Savings in Bills

I have been anxious to know what doctors would say about the influence of the motor car on the public health, so I have interviewed a number of them. What they have told me indicates that the cost of tires and gasoline is matched in many a family by the saving on doctor bills. Many a person has incipient tuberculosis. Because of the motor car they will never know it. Out in the open air the lesion will heal up, and only an X-Ray would ever reveal that there had been an infection. More than one tuberculosis patient further advanced in the disease has deliberately taken to the highway, with the result that we all know. Tuberculosis is no longer regarded as an incurable disease.

Perhaps the most widely prevalent disease is located in the nervous system. Middle aged business men break down and quit; and women, who ought to go forward to their careers as grandmothers with a smile are nervous wrecks. This is not so much due to hard work as to the lack of recreation. The motor car is the means of recreation of many an entire family.

Nearly everybody lives near something that is interesting but which they have never seen.

Better Poise Results

The week-end trips, the visits to relatives and old friends, the Sunday morning junkets over fifty miles to hear an old pastor preach belong to the play program of thousands of families to-day. The result is better nervous poise and happier home life through the restoration of the play interest in life.

Is driving an automobile exercise? That depends, a little of course. One need not assert that it should supersede all other forms of exercise. But if anyone drives over twenty miles of really rough road in any car he will not need other exercise any more that day. Business men who never used to get any exercise, get at least some these days in their driving, and all that they get just so much clear gain.

The man who tries to raise children in an apartment may be doing the best he can in these days when there is a nation-wide shortage of houses, but he realizes that his children ought to have a better chance. There may be no park or playground near. Who has not seen little boys dwarfted by their environment subject to every ill that comes along? The remedy in many a family has been the motor car. A drive every evening even for a few miles means a frolic on the green, a breath of good country air and contact with old mother earth. Under these conditions children endure the alley courtyard of the apartment building and grow up ruddy and strong in spite of an unfavorable environment. Yes, the motor car is an expense, but so is illness. A whole new automobile costs less than a nervous breakdown, and is more far enjoyable.

Some Are Penny Wise

Not everything is thrift that looks like it. Some men jump over dollars to pick up dimes. Others fail to make hundreds because they are afraid to spend tens. The economist has asserted that the soil was the basis of all wealth. He is dead wrong. The soil without a man to work it is never worth anything. The basis of all wealth is the health of a people. Whatever builds up the physique of a nation, whatever quickens its mental acumen and steadies its nerves for great emergencies is the fundamental necessity in making a nation prosperous. We are spending billions on motor cars, for first cost and maintenance. But you could buy the output of the biggest motor manufacturer with our bill for face powder.

But we have substituted gasoline for pills once for all, and we like the new way better.

ROYAL — Easter week special, Hope Hampton in "Stardust." Also a Pathe hunting adventure, "Catching a Coon Alive," and an irresistibly funny Toonerville comedy, entitled "A Toonerville Tangle."

Capitol Entertainment

An unusual and intensely dramatic production which attracted a full house at the Capitol Theatre last night, is the screen version of "Footfalls," one of the greatest short stories ever penned. The plot is based entirely on the marvellously acute sense of hearing of the blind cobbler of the fishing village, who waits through the years for the step of a murderer, his own adored son or another, no one knows.

The blind man loves his son with an idolatrous passion, and the lad returns the affection, caressing his father like a child. There are pleasant scenes where Tommy and his dog and his sweetheart, Peggy, play and romp together, forerunners of the intense dramatic atmosphere of the following scenes. Tom is jealous of the handsome visitor, they fight terribly, one is killed and consumed in the flames, and the other makes off with the old man's savings. Then follows the interval of waiting, the blind man bent over his last just a huge sounding-post for the footfalls which come and go at all hours, listening constantly for the step of the murderer. Suspense and dramatic tension pile up through the flickering reels, with the final tense ending.

There is a Snub Pollard comedy, with an artistic lawn mower and complications induced by gunpowder, home brew, and a very active bear. Miss Flora Shaw sings a couple of popular ballads in splendid style, and there is another chapter of the Ruth Roland serial, growing more interesting with each instalment.

AT THE ROYAL.

Reader, have you ever seen Hope Hampton in the movies? If not, let us respectfully advise you to see her to-night in the clever First National photodrama called "Stardust." If you have seen her in the other plays, the same advice is confidently given. Starlight is the cleverly told life-story of a country girl who, against her better judgment, is forced into marriage with an ignorant small town tout who has been the spoilt child of an adoring, narrow-minded, small town mother. Hope Hampton plays the part of Lily Becker, who marries the small town "mother's boy" mainly because her father owes money he cannot pay to the boy's father. Lily herself is the daughter of a narrow-minded, ignorant mother, one of those women who are always looking to find evil in every kind of innocent amusement, whilst she is blindly ignorant of real danger's presence. Lily, after her marriage, lives an intolerable life with her husband and his family. Her "in-laws" make her life miserable, and things culminate when her husband, egged on by his doting mother, strikes her. She goes to New York and tries to get a position on the stage, as she has a magnificent voice. She secures a position with an opera company, but loses it when the manager makes improper proposals, which she indignantly scorns. She is driven by hunger to desperation, and attempts suicide, but is rescued by a young man who had plumbed the depths of despair and hunger as a song writer, but had recently become successful. "Stardust" is an intensely interesting story that exposes narrow minded bigotry and upholds the better traits of clean-minded, broader-visioned human thought. Miss Hampton has announced her decision not to take up "vamp" parts, as she calls them. "It is my earnest desire to do some good as I go along my way of life and I do not believe I can do much good that way. Don't forget that I intend to stick to the sample, sweet, girlish parts, clean and sympathetic."

In addition to this entrancing feature play there is a five-reel story called "Discontented Wives," a Western mining story with J. P. McGowan in the leading role. Also there is a scenic showing Niagara Falls and how that wonderful water power is controlled for electrical purposes. The Pathe hunting picture called "Catching a Racoon Alive," is very interesting. Don't fail to see to-night that funny comedian, "The Skipper," in "A Toonerville Tangle." Here is a well-balanced programme that is sure to please.

AT THE GRAND.

"THE ROSE OF WASHINGTON SQUARE."

"The Rose of Washington Square," announced as a play with music, proved a surprise entertainment to the audiences which saw the production at the Grand yesterday. Here was no ordinary musical comedy, plotless and disconnected. On the contrary, "The Rose of Washington Square" turned out to be that old favorite comedy drama of the repertoire companies, "Esmeralda," or "In North Carolina," as it was variously called, dished up in modern guise, and with a dressing of musical comedy that made the presentation a distinct novelty. It was featured by as clever a bit of character acting as the Grand has seen in many a day in the work of that sterling actor, Arthur Blackaller, in the role of Ensley Hickman. Mr. Blackaller's presentation of this part was a masterpiece, both in make up and in genuine ability. His picture of the old mountaineer with his palsied hand and hoarse voice will long be remembered by those who saw the performance. The musical comedy color was chiefly imparted by the clever Elmer Coudy, well remembered here for his good work in "Vanity Fair" and other successes. Most of the song numbers were entrusted to him, and he put them across neatly, while he scored a hit by his comedy methods as the "trouble doctor." Morris Arthur scored as Jim Warren, the mountain lover, and Ione O'Donnell was pleasing as "Honey Bunch," and incidentally contributed a violin specialty that won much favor. The chorus did not sing any too well, but that is a common fault with such productions, and the good work of Messrs. Blackaller and Coudy amply compensated for the weakness of the "merry men." "The Rose of Washington Square" is unusual, and it is a treat.

FLORIDA BECOMES A SOUTH SEA ISLAND

George Fitzmaurice Transforms Sections of Beach for "Idols of Clay"

George Fitzmaurice transferred a bit of the South Sea islands to the coast of Florida for his latest Paramount production, "Idols of Clay' which local screen admirers will have the pleasure of viewing at the Regent Theatre to-day.

Mr. Fitzmaurice and his company, which included Mae Murray and David Powell as the featured players, made their headquarters at Fort Lauderdale, some thirty miles north of Miami, where they used a wide stretch of beach. Here they erected a number of huts in the true fashion of South Sea Islanders. The fisheries, cocoanut groves, and tropical vegetation needed for the general atmosphere were all ideally located.

"Idols of Clay' casts Mae Murray as the unsophisticated daughter of a South Sea recluse and pearl smuggler, who in time reaches the heights of London society and in the end is rescued just in time from a horrible existence in a Chinese den in the Limehouse slums. David Powell has the role of a young English sculptor, who has lost all faith in women and his art, but regains both through the devotion of the girl from the South Seas.

Easter Social At the Lyceum

St. Alphonsus' Lyceum was filled last evening with one of the largest crowds in the history of its series of successful "At Homes." Innovations were the order of the evening at this Easter social, which proved very popular, judging from the complimentary remarks heard on all sides. The Entertainment Committee, under the supervision of its very energetic convenor, Mr. Neil Tobin, has converted the large concert hall on the flcor of the Lyceum into a very attractive dancing hall, an arrangement which makes for the comfort of the dancers and of the card players both. With the seats removed, the exeellent floor waxed and polished, the hall tastefully decorated with yellow crepe paper hangings, and the stage fronted with palms and devoted to the orchestra's use, the new idea proved extremely popular last evening. Upstairs, on the third floor, thirty-four tables of cards were played in the former dance hall, with the long outer card-room devoted to the service of a buffet luncheon. Other innovations in the card-playing were the new score card, a very satisfactory arrangement by which all points are counted for each player, and the introduction of three head tables.

The prizes for cards, which were exceptionally good, generously donated by friends of the society, were awarded as follows: Ladies — (1) Half dozen sherbet glasses, donated by Messrs. Fitzpatriek and Geraghty, won by Miss J. McCarthy. (2) Cut-glass celery tray (from Mrs. Gus. White), won b Miss Margaret Burns. (3) Five-dollar gold piece (from Mr. Jno. Corkery, Sr.), won by Miss W. J. Gallegher. (4) Metronome (from Mr. P. J. Scollard) won by Miss S. Fairman., (5) Half-dozen silver tea-spoons (from Mr. Leo Young), won by Miss Crowley, East City. Gentlemen's prizes—(1) Pair of shoes (from Mr. P. J. Hickey), won by Mr. H. Gainey. (2) Gold-finished safety razor (from Mr. J. J. Duffus), won by Mr. Dietz, Brockville. (3) Five-dollar gold piece (from Mr. N. Phelan), won by Mr. Thos. Turcotte. (4) Fountain pen (from Mr. F. McFadden), won by Mr. V. Duncan. (5) Side of bacon (from Mr. M. Carroll), won by Mr. F. Knapp. An extra prize for attendance, a five-dollar gold piece, was drawn for and won by Miss J. McCarthy, Simcoe Street. This was donated by Mr. E. H. Hickey.

Follis' four-piece orchestra provided excellent music for dancing. The committee of ladies in charge of refreshments was composed of Mrs. N. Tobin, Mrs. Jos. White, Mrs. T. Lane and Mrs. W. J. Young. The entertainment committee, headed by Mr. Neil Tobin, was assisted by Messrs. A. Doherty, Wm. Pope, W. J. Young, T. McAuley, M. Clancy, Wm. Thomas, F. Knapp, E. Judge and L. Kennealley.

CONFERENCE IMPOSSIBLE

fectly logical outcome of negotiations inaugurated in Berlin.

GERMANY'S BOLD MOVE.

(By A. L. Bradford—United Press).

WASHINGTON, D.C., April 18.—Fraught with the greatest political significance, threatening all conciliatory attempts at a complete economic rehabilitation of Europe, the Russo-German Treaty, sprung on the Genoa Conference like a bombshell, held the interest of officials and diplomats at this capital to-day.

The Treaty brings the dawn of a new balance of power in Europe—an economic and trade "balance"—and the political aspect of Europe seems about to be recast, in the opinion of American officials.

France is threatened with defeat in her aim to keep Germany down, not only economically, but in a military way. As Paris points out to-day, it is an economic alliance; to-morrow it may be a military one.

England apparently is thwarted in her trade and economic exploitation, aims, in Russia.

These and other thoughts were flashing across the minds of observers in Washington to-day, as each fresh despatch from Genoa was scanned with interest. By the sudden signing of the treaty, Germany has made a bold move to get in on the "ground floor" in the economic exploitation of Russia, officials think.

Germany has gained, potentially at least, a powerful lever to apply toward lifting her reparations burdens, it is believed. One of the provisions of the Russo-German Treaty is for the exchange of manufactured and raw materials needed for mutual building up of the two countries.

To Russia the practical advantages of the treaty also are great. She secures an economic and trade alliance without the restrictions and conditions that the Allied Powers sought to attach.

COLLINS DESCRIBES THE ATTACK MADE

DUBLIN, April 18.— (Canadian Press.)—In describing the attack on him, Mr. Collins yesterday said when his automobile pulled up in front of Vaughn's Hotel, he and two friends alighted. One of them entered the hotel and Mr. Collins, with the other, walked along the square. "A number of men," Mr. Collins said, "rushed out of a house and encircled us. Shots were fired. I pulled out my automatic and fired. I believe I wounded one, and caught another by the hand and took his revolver from him. He was taken to Mountjoy Jail, where a big bomb was found in his pocket.

Asked what would be done with the man, Mr. Collins said: "What would be done with a man who attempted murder in any well-ordered country, but prosecute him?"

Brooklyn and taken out of the box by Huggins.

Mays resented his removal from the game and to prove it threw the ball over the grandstand. For which Huggins fined him $200.

All of which makes it seem that golf isn't the best thing in the world for a ball player during the regular season.

It wouldn't be surprising if the major league club owners tried to curb the so-called golf-evil.

TAKEN OUT OF GAME THROWS BALL OVER STANDS

The story goes that Huggins has requested his pitchers not to play golf on the days they are to pitch.

After advising Mays that he was to pitch a certain exhibition game against Brooklyn, Mays is said to have played 18 holes of golf.

That afternoon Mays was hit hard by

How Thomas Forby's Executors Paid The Succession Duties.

THE Estate consisted chiefly of Real Estate and Industrial Securities. To dispose of any of the late Mr. Forby's property or stocks, would have meant accepting a heavy loss. It looked to the Executors as if they would be obliged to convert something into cash—loss or no loss—to raise money for the rather large Succession Duties.

Then, on going through the late Mr. Forby's papers, they located a Life Insurance Policy not listed among the other Assets. Attached to the Policy was a memo in Mr. Forby's handwriting reading:—

"This Life Insurance I have based upon the estimated Succession Duties on an Estate such as I expect mine to be—to be utilized for the payment of said duties if no other cash is available."

There are numerous cases on record where Executors have had to "go bond" to the full amount of the Succession Duties.

Do not let this happen in your case. Provide at once—this very day—for the event which you know must inevitably come to you as to all men. The only way is by Life Insurance.

Take out—now—enough Insurance to amply cover this most important obligation.

SHOTTON HOLDS UNIQUE JOB.

Veteran Player Is Only Sunday Manager in Baseball.

When Branch Rickey was manager of the St. Louis Browns, Jimmy Austin was known as the Sunday manager.

Now that Rickey is leading the St. Louis Cardinals, that title falls to a former Brownie, Bert Shotton.

Because of religious scruples, Rickey does not direct the Cardinals on Sunday. He does not even attend the game. Someone must be in charge of the club on the Sabbath, and since going to the Cardinals, Shotton has been Rickey's selection. Bert Shotton is therefore one-seventh manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, directing the play of the club on Sunday throughout the season. It is a rather unique position in baseball.

Shotton has been unusually successful in his peculiar role. Last season after losing the opening Sunday game of the year to Chicago Cubs 8 to 7, the team went on a rampage and won eleven straight Sunday games, going from April 24 to August 14 before dropping a Sabbath day contest.

GOOD PROSPECTS LOCAL FOOTBALL.

Meeting Held Last Evening in the Chamber of Commerce — Football Notes.

At the Chamber of Commerce Rooms last night, the executive of the Peterborough Football Association held their regular meeting.

Several items of interest were brought up. One was the splendid action of the Trades and Labour Council in giving a handsome cup to be played for, also a set of medals for the winners were promised. The above cup is to be known as the Peck Cup. Details and schedule of the games will be announced later. Ground difficulties is the chief worry with most clubs at present, but this will be overcome if they get the support that the game deserves. The men at the head of the Association deserve credit for the work they are doing, and the way they do it, for the sake of the old game.

IF THIS PLAY COMES UP.

Here's Your Decision.

The batsman is entitled to first base, if a fair hit ball strikes the person or clothing of the umpire or base runner, provided no play has been made on such ball. In no case shall any base runners advance on such a play, except when forced to make room for the batsman.

STILL A BIG LEAGUER AT FORTY

BY BILLY EVANS.

In baseball the breaks go to the hustler. The hustle makes his own breaks.

A hustler runs out every batted ball. No matter how remote the chance of beating the play, he puts everything he has into the dash to first base.

The result is that he hurries the infield, causes the fielder to make the play fast and ultra speed and accuracy do not exactly go hand-in-hand.

The hustler may be thrown out 50 times, but he will find that his tactics bear fruit sooner or later. There will be a wild throw as a result of the infielder hurrying sometime and that sometime may win a ball game.

Jimmy Austin of the St. Louis Browns is the best example that could be offered as a boost for hustling.

At 40 years of age Jimmy Austin is still a big leaguer. For ten years bush league recruits have been trying to crowd him out of the majors, but in vain.

Hustle is Jimmy Austin's middle name. He never quits. He keeps on trying regardless of the score. Whether on the field or bench he keeps up a constant flow of encouraging chatter.

There have been greater ball players than Jimmy Austin, but no player stands out as a better example of what can be accomplished by effort and hustle.

CHAMPIONS WILL DEFEND THEIR TITLES

Jack Dempsey, Benny Leonard and Jack Britton Have Bouts Scheduled For This Summer.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., April 18.—(Canadian Press.) — Dates on which Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion; Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, and Jack Britton, welterweight champion, are to defend their titles in matches here was announced last night by Floyd Fitzsimmons, promoter for the local Post of the American Legion.

Fitzsimmons exhibited contracts signed by the champions and said taht Leonard would fight here July 4, Britton would fight August 5, and Dempsey would appear Labor Day. Leonard is to get $40,000. His opponent's name will be announced late this week, Fitzsimmons said. The money and opponents of Dempsey and Britton will be fixed later.

HOW TO FIND THE AVERAGES.

To determine a team's percentage divide the total number of games played into the number won.

To determine a player's batting average, divide the total number of "times at bat' into the total number of base hits.

To determine a players fielding average, divide the total number of put outs assists and errors into the total number of chances accepted.

In all cases where the remaining fraction is one-half or over, a point is added to the average

WON CHAMPIONSHIP.

LONDON, April 18.—(Canadian Press).—Reuter's Auckland correspondent says that James Paddon, Australian oarsman, to-day won the world's professional sculling championship from D'Arcy Hadfield, of Australia, on the Wanganui River, by nine lengths.

WHAT BILLY EVANS SAYS

Is golf a good thing for a ball player during the regular season?

Can golfing be overdone by a ball player, thereby greatly affecting his work?

In the past 10 years golf has taken a strong hold among the major league players.

In the past five years it has increased to such a degree that golf sticks are a regular part of most big leaguers' paraphernalia.

Connie Mack is strong for golf. Plays a lot of it himself during the summer. However, Connie has his doubts as to its value for a ball player.

At one time the golfing craze hit the Philadelphia Athletics so strongly that Mack put up the bars on the game, and issued an order that no player should golf on days a game was scheduled.

Mack at that time expressed the opinion that no player could do 18 holes of golf and not lose much of his "pepper" to use the parlance of the ball field.

GOLF HAS BEEN ADDED TO WOES OF MANAGER HUGHE TO WOES OF MANAGER HUGGINS

Now it seems that golf has been added to the troubles of Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees. Huggins has had one sweet time handling his temperamental athletics without having a new evil present itself to stir up argument.

It is said that golf was the indirect cause of the controversy between Pitcher Mays and Manager Huggins, which ended by Huggins plastering a fine of $200 on his star pitcher.

It seems that about a dozen of the Yankee players are devotees of golf, among them being Ruth, Hoyt, Mays and Schang. Some of the baseball experts with the Yankees claim that the team has paid more attention to golf than baseball on the spring training trip.

LAWN BOWLERS MEET.

To-morrow evening at 8 o'clock the Peterborough lawn bowlers will meet in the Chamber of Commerce to arrange for the spring organization of the bowling interests. All interested are asked to be present.

Ex-service men in Alabama are exempt from paying a poll tax.

SPORT IN BRIEF

The New York Yankees have so many temperamental stars that Miller Huggins must think he is managing a theatrical troupe.

Judge Landis now enjoys the handshaking championship of the south. He met all comers with a mean grip.

Flo Ziegfeld should be appointed manager-in-chief of Carl Mays. Anyone responsible for the "Follies" ought to be able to handle Mays.

Ball players know the meaning of a mental hazard as applied to golf. Pep Young, of Detroit, despite a strong arm, is unable to control his throws and is doomed for the minors.

The suggestion that a petition be presented to Judge Landis asking for the reinstatement of Babe Ruth does not meet with the approval of the American League pitchers.

Dempsey says in agreeing to take on Wills he is not going back on a statement made that he would never meet a colored fighter. He insists Wills will be a passable white man when the bell rings.

If Carl Mays gets away with the present stand that he has taken relative to a fine imposed on him by Manager Huggins that individual might as well turn in his uniform.

Harry Heilmann says he intends to make the pitchers get them over before he swings at them this year. Which causes Walter Mails to remark that Heilmann isn't going to make any base hits when he pitches.

One nice thing for the experts who have picked New York to win in the American League is that they will have a lot of alibis to offer if the Yankees blow.

Babe Ruth says next to baseball he likes his golf. He should play a much improved game by the time Judge Landis welcomes him back to the fold.

DEMPSEY ON HOLIDAY.

CHERBOURG, France, April 18.—(Canadian Press).—Jack Dempsey told our correspondent to-day that if he finds opponents worth while in Europe he will make another trip and meet them. He is now on holiday.

LOOMS UP AS A WINNER

MORVICH READY FOR TRIAL SPIN.

BY BOB DORMAN.

JAMAICA, L. I., April 18.—Does a race horse eagerly await the call to the barrier?

I am positive Morvich, the wonder two-year-old, is having a hard time of it awaiting the running of the Louisville Derby.

Also unless I am badly, mistaken Morvich is certain to be as big a sensation as a three-year-old as he was in the two-year-old class.

Fred Burlew, his trainer, who has been connected with the running game for 30 years in the capacity of trainer, remarked to me as Morvich was saddled for his first tryout of the year.

"Morvich is the greatest horse I ever trained. However, he is such a glutton for work that it is some job to keep him from going stale.

"He is practically ready for the derby as he is. It doesn't take long to get him in shape. I want him to be at his best for the derby, and if he is he will make us all throw out our chests."

DEMPSEY'S HIGH SPOTS.

Jack Dempsey is 26 years of age and has been fighting eight years.

Dempsey was knocked out by Jim Flynn in one round in 1917. Rumor has it that Jack picked a soft spot to take the count.

He later returned the compliment by stopping Flynn in one round.

With a few exceptions Dempsey has won every fight during the last three years by the K. O. route.

Dempsey first sprang into real prominence by knocking out Jesse Willard, thereby winning the heavyweight championship. This bout was staged at Toledo July 4, 1919.

His most recent bout was the Carpentier contest at Jersey City July 2, 1921, in which he finished Carpentier in the fourth round.

In his bout with Willard Dempsey received only $27,500, Willard getting $100,000.

In the Carpentier fight Dempsey received the biggest sum ever paid a fighter, being guaranteed $300,000. Carpentier received $200,000.

Since no white fighter looms up as a contender, since the elimination of Tommy Gibbons by Harry Greb, Dempsey has decided not to draw the color line.

WILLS' HIGH SPOTS.

Harry Wills is 30 years of age and has been fighting 12 years.

Has been twice knocked out, Sam Langford turning the trick each time, once in 14 rounds, the other in 19.

Has met Langford in 15 bouts, ranging from 6 to 20 rounds. All of them resulted in a draw or no decision except one 20-round contest won by Wills.

During the past two years he has won practically all his fights over the knock-out route.

His most recent victory was scored at the expense of Kid Norfolk, who suffered a quick knockout.

Wills is Dempsey's equal physically. As a matter of fact, he has a slight edge over the champion.

Fred Fulton is the only fighter of prominence who has met both Dempsey and Wills.

This bout offers little opportunity for comparison, since Fulton was no match for either fighter, suffering a quick knockout in each bout.

BETTY SCHENKEL SAYS ATHLETICS GOOD FOR HEALTH.

BY BETTY SCHENKEL, World's Greatest Athlete.

Every girl should take part in some kind of athletics.

First of all, it will build up her health as medicine or nothing else can do.

Second, it is good fun.

Third, it shows the girls themselves—and the whole world for that matter—that girls can be, and are, just as "good sports" as men.

You know a lot of people think that a girl, just because she is a girl, must be "catty," and that she can't be a good sport.

Well, I have taken part in all kinds of games, in which boys and girls and men and women participated, and I speak from experience when I say that the "sportsmanship" of girls and women is just as fine and fair as that of the boys and men.

For myself, my athletic activities have been a big and important factor in building up my own health.

Three years ago I was ill with influenza and for a long time I suffered from the after-effects of that illness.

I doctored all the time and I guess I was making some progress. But it was not until I got back into the basketball cage and resumed my other athletic work that I really began feeling like myself again.

How did I become interested in so many different kinds of sports?

Well, you see, I was the only girl in our family, and I had two brothers, and naturally I wanted to play baseball, swim and do everything else as well as they did. I feel that I succeeded.

Sure I dance, and I like it, and dancing in a way is good exercise, but it certainly isn't the equal of outdoor athletics.

Nowadays, you know, the girls in schools and colleges, and the big business and industrial concerns go in for athletics as thoroughly and scientifically as the boys and men.

Just one more point. I have learned from my athletics—as I know many other girls have learned, too, that health and happiness depend on getting plenty of sleep and rest.

My advice to every girl is to get into some branch of good, clean, healthy athletics—the more outdoor work the better, and she will be stronger, happier and have no end of genuine fun.

Epworth League.

A rare treat was in store for all who were able to attend the League on Monday evening, which was in charge of Miss Ruth Taylor, vice-pre[illegible]t of th Social and Literary [illegible]ent. Little Miss Marion [illegible] Toronto, who is visiting [illegible] rendered an instrumental [illegible]ch was thoroughly appre[illegible] A vocal solo by Miss Gladys Goldsmith, and a vocal duet by Miss R. Taylor and Mrs. C. H. Turner were sung in their usual sweet voices. Mrs. G. A. Kingston then gave a short synopsis of the life of Longfellow, followed by excellent papers on "Evangeline," "King Robert of Sicily," "The Legend Beautiful," and others, which held her audience in rapt attention throughout. This was not only an educational treat, but was also an inspiration, which was heartily appreciated.

PICK SMOKE TO WIN THE BOSTON RACE

The Peterboro' Redskin Will Have a Chance to Test Out the Luck of Number 13.

74 RUNNERS

(By Sam. Hayward).

ASHLAND, Mass., April 18. — (Special).—Will 13 be a lucky number in to-morrow's Marathon classic? This number will be worn by Albert Smoke, the Peterborough, Ont., runner, the wonder whom many pick to win the gruelling 25-mile grind. If to-morrow is as muggy and warm as to-day many of the 74 runners will fall by the roadside as they have for past years. This is the twenty-sixth annual classic. From Canada, besides Smoke, are Ed. Fabre, the Montreal veteran, who has won three of the 26 Boston races, and Victor Macauley, of Windsor, N.S. while a near Canada competitor is Chas. Morton, of the Wolverine Lodge A. C., of Detroit, Mich. Smoke and Fabre are big favorites. Macauley and Morton are black horses. There are others of almost equal strength and note among the entrants. "Chuck" Mellor, of the Logan Square A. C., Chicago, three times winner of the Auto City Marathon, and the man who finished second in the B.A.A. race last year; Sydney Hatch, the Middle West champion for many years, and the oldest Marathoner in the U. S.; Villar Kyronen, of the Millrose A.C., New York, winner of the Evening Mail Marathon before the war, who finished seventh in the B.A.A. event last year, and was second to Arthur Roth in the 1916 B. A. A. race; William Ritotla, Metropolitan cross-country champion; Otto Lakeso, another Millrose runner, who finished eighth last year, and many others will be found battling for honors on Wednesday. Nationally and internationally, the list is the most representative recorded in the 26 years of the event. East, West and South all have their distance stars entered in the race, and the foreign countries represented include Canada, Italy, Greece, Finland, and France, with five former winners and so many who have made records almost as impressive. Venturing to forecast the winner is a task few will assume, and fewer will get right. Quite naturally, Frank Zuna, winner last year, and the present record holder, will be the favorite in the wagering, but whether Zuna can duplicate his 1921 effort is a big question. Only once, and then in the very early days of American Marathon running, has a winner of the B. A. A. event been able to repeat his victory. Next to Zuna are rated the two Canadians named.

GOLF FACTS

(By Innis Brown.)

Q. What is the penalty where one partner plays two strokes in succession in Scotch foursomes, when play is on a medal score basis?

A. The two players forming the team are disqualified.

Q. Is a player permitted to take a practice swing in a hazard?

A. No. That is, he must now allow the club to touch the ground.

Q. Can a player have his caddie lift the flag stick from the hole and hold it aloft, where he is playing from a deep bunker or other place from which the flag in position is not visible?

A. Yes, there is no rule to prevent this.

Q. Please give the following information: What is the lowest score ever made in the qualifying round of the National Amateur Championship, also what is the lowest total for seventy-two holes for the Open?

A. W. C. Fownes, Jr., of Pittsburgh and R. R. Gorton, of Boston, both had 144 for thirty-six holes at Ekwanok in 1914, the lowest qualifying score. Chick Evans' score of 286 at Minikahda in 1916 is the low record in the Open Championship.

Q. Where a ball stops so close to a sand box that the later interferes with the stroke, is it permissible to move the box?

A. Yes, sand boxes come under the head of "loose impediments," which may be removed.

AVIATORS HOPPED OFF.

The route lies over 900 miles of water devoid of markers.

PERMITS ISSUED FOR NEW HOUSES

More Houses under Way Now than During the Entire Twelve Months of 1920.

The building permits this month are running up a total that makes March look insignificant, and the total is brought about not by large single contracts, but by a mounting list of new houses and smaller jobs of various kinds. When the big ones arrive the figures will rise exceedingly high. Already this month permits have been taken out for seven dwellings, as many as were taken out in all the 12 months of 1920. To date this month the total value of the permits is $35,705.

Permits issued in the last few days up to noon to-day, were:

W. H. Bell, garage, 506 Charlotte street, $175.

T. J. Brooks, alterations, 334 McDonnel street, $200.

David Leach, garage, 265 King street, $50.

A. Stewart, warehouse, 189 Dalhousie street, $225.

John Gibbs, 6 roomed bungalow, corner of Murray and Stewart Sts., $3500.

J. Ray, 7-roomed house, Elias avenue, $3500.

George Sloan, 7-roomed house, Rubidge street, $3500.

W. H. Middleton, garage, 641 Water street, $150.

S. Warwick, 7-roomed dwelling, Aylmer street, $2500.

R. J. Kearns, hen house, 111 Stewart Street, $35.

Dr. Jessie Birnie, verandah, 502 Water street, $200.

H. Bradshaw, 673 Bethune St., stable, $200.

WEDDING BELLS

REXFORD—POTTER.

At half-past five o'clock Monday afternoon, at Mac Vicar Memorial Church, Montreal, the marriage took place of Miss Florence Jean Potter to Mr. Orrin Bain Rexford. The Rev. J. G. Potter, M.A., father of the bride, and the Rev. Dr. E. I. Rexford, father of the groom, performed the ceremony. The church was decorated with palms, lilies and pale pink snapdragon. The bride wore a gown of champagne colored canton crepe, with hat to match, a moleskin scarf and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley. Her only attendant, Miss Flora Grimson, wore a gown of jade green and black, beige crepe with a black picture hat, a squirrel scarf and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. Mr. Volney Rexford was his brother's best man and the ushers were Mr. John W. Jeakins and Mr. P. A. Gilchrist Clark. The bride's sister, Mrs. David T. Dipiock, played the wedding music and Mrs. Maurice Favreau sang during the signing of the register. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, 400 Outremont Avenue, and later Mr. and Mrs. Rexford left for their wedding trip.

SAY WATERWAY WOULD INCREASE WHEAT PRICES

WASHINGTON, April 18—(Canadian Pacific).—The Great Lakes waterway and power project was criticized by Senator Calder of New York, Republican member of the Senate Commerce Committee, as of more benefit to Canada than to the U. S. and designed to increase wheat prices rather than to provide more efficient transportation. Among other arguments against the project cited by Senator Calder in his address before the Senate, were that it would not be under United States control, exclusively that it would bring cheap European manufacturers in closer competition with United States wares, and that it would cost ten times what the Suez Canal did and entail expenditure in one place of the federal waterway development fund which should be disributed more widely to greater national advantage.

"The St. Lawrence waterways project has been presented as an answer, final, complete, conclusive, to the transportation problem," said Senator Calder. "To that extent it is a masquerader. It is a best, in view of existing conditions, an attempt to answer the price problem. The S. Lawrence project casts its shadow across the nation because farmers worked long hours under a hot sun raising wheat for a price they considered far too low."

GET INTO THE AUTO PARADE

Every Car in the City and Surrounding District Should Be on Hand.

To help the Motor Show off to a god start the parade at 7 o'clock tomorrow should be the largest on record. Every car owner, every truck, or bicycle, ancient or modern, should be in the parade. There will be bands playing jazz and other music. The parade will assemble at the market square, but you can look on anywhere. Have your car dressed up if you like, but this is not necessary, as it is not strictly a dress parade.

Once more get into the parade with your gas buggy and do your bit for the kiddies of the town.

IRISH SITUATION.

BELFAST, April 19.—(Canadian Press.) —Shooting was renewed in Ballymarcarrett district this morning. John Scott, a youth, was killed and William Johnson was fatally wounded. Hospitals have large casualty lists as a result of recent shootings, but even these do not indicate the full number of injured, as many cases are being treated in homes of victims. Police barracks at Manor Hamilton, an important centre in County Leitrim, have been captured by Free State troops. An automoible returning from Sligo was seized and the occupants, all of whom wer armed, being made prisoners. Second car was disabled by gun fire and occupants threw rifles into road.

"JUST PLAIN FOLKS" REPEATED TO-NIGHT.

Last Night's Presentation Was Very Successful — The Specialties.

"Just Plain Folks", the play comedy-drama that was presented so successfully by Golden Link Rebekah Lodge on March 28th and 29th, was repeated by them again before a good-sized audience at Victoria Hall, under the auspices of the "Owls and Orientals".

The bright little play, with its New England village background, quaint costumes, and vivacious dialogue, has an attractive theme, in which romance and humor are admirably portrayed by the several ladies and gentlemen in the cast, which includes Mrs. Hanlon, A. Sisson, Mrs. Wm. Sproats, the Misses Jessie Maconomy and May Caird and Messr. Jas. Price, Harry Lemmings, Robt. Brown, Chas. Wylie, Harold Freeman and Hanlon A. Sisson. Much of the success of the production is due to the efforts of Mr. Jas. Price, as manager.

Last evening, specialties were introduced between acts by a vocal solo by Mr. E. Hotston, entitled 'Just Plain Folks"; Scotch dances by the Hardy sisters; with banjo selection by Mr. J. Adams of Lindsay. Mr. W. Barrie presided at the piano.

"Just Plain Folks" will be repeated once more this evening at Victoria Hall.

MONTREAL, April 19. — (Special).—"Fleur et Racine," a marble statuary group by Miss Katherine E. Wallis, of Peterborough, will be presented by Miss Wallis to the Children's Memorial Hospital through the Women's Art Society, according to an announcement made by the President, Mrs. W. B. Lighthall, at the twenty-eighth annual meeting of the Women's Art Society, held in Stevenson's Hall. This sculpture is declared by Miss Wallis to be quite the best that she has ever produced. A smaller statue by Miss Wallis, entitled "Enquietude," was purchased by the Women's Art Society during the past year and presented to the Art Association of Montreal.

TAX OFFICER TO VISIT PETERBORO

Will Stay Here For Two Weeks For Convenience of Those Who Make Tax Returns.

OTTAWA, April 19.—(Special.)—G. N. Gordon, M.P., Member for West Peterborough, has succeeded in arranging with Mr. R. W. Breadner, the Commissioner of Taxation, for an officer to be in Peterborough at the Customs House, for the next couple of weeks, to receive income tax returns, and also Federal income taxes may be paid to him.

This officer will have complete authority to receive all income tax returns, and give a receipt for them, and is empowered to give receipts for all income taxes which require to be paid to the Federal Government.

Mr. Gordon has been energetically urging the establishment of an income tax office at Peterborough for that district in Midland, Ontario, but in the meantime, the Department is arranging to send an officer for a couple of weeks, for the convenience of those who pay income taxes in Peterborough neighborhood.

This arrangement will save considerable postage and exchange, that should be of much convenience to Peterborough people.

ACTED SUSPICIOUSLY IS NOW UNDER ARREST

The Local Police Found Stranger Dodging About Lawns.

The curious behaviour of James Montgomery on Charlotte street, Rubidge and other streets, in the west part of the city, at 3 am., this morning aroused the interest of Detective George Cookman, who with P. C. Harrison, was on parole in that district, and Montgomery was taken into custody. For between 10 and 15 minutes the detective watched him dodging about lawns and hiding behind trees. When searched by the police $248 in cash was found upon him and two $50 bearer Victory Bonds.

Montgomery gave as an explanation of his late hours that he had come to Peterborough from Belleville, where he said his home was, on a visit. He had brought the money for spending. Arriving here on the 8.30 G.T.R. he had not known where to go, and he had walked the streets. He was remanded for a week.

The amount of money Montgomery had on his person was considered unusual, and the police were suspicious of his statements. He looked about 40 years of age and was wearing a bright green woolen muffler and winter overcoat.

The police were patrolling the west end because of complaints of men loitering about the streets in that section. No robberies that might bear upon the case were reported to the police to-day.

Jail For Vagrants.

Alfred Kirby and Richard Cooke were given 30 and 25 days in the county jail, respectively, by Magistrate O. A. Langley, who found them guilty of vagrancy. The magistrate separated the sentences so they would not leave Castle Nesbitt together. Tools only alleged to be carried by "night prowlers," and found by Detective Meagher, were declared by Cooke, who displayed a ready tongue, to be used in the mechanics' trade. He requested that the Chief give a demonstration of how to pick a lock with a button hook found on his possession, but the Chief said the fact that he admitted picking the lock of a piano with it was enough to convict him.

PREMIER IS SUBJECT OF NEW ATTACK

Caustic Comment on the Russo-German Incident at Genoa—Lloyd George Fooled.

CONFERENCE NEWS.

GENOA, April 19. — (Canadian Press).—The Genoa Conference apparently has been saved. For the last two days it had been tottering on the edge of collapse, due to indignation of some of the more important leaders over the action of the Germans and Russians in secretly concluding the treaty covering the principal and most delicate points under consideration by the conference.

Now, however, the delegates are to go forward with their work. All Germans are barred from participating in all deliberations concerning the Russian question. This penalty was laid down in a note of censure sent to the Berlin delegation yesterday, after an all-day consideration of the situation by representatives of five invading Powers and little intent.

"Whilst the conference was sitting and whilst Germany was represented on the commission and sub-commission charged with the negotiations of European peace with Russia," said the note, "the German representative of that commission, behind the backs of their colleagues, concluded in secret the treaty with Russia on the very questions which they had undertaken to consider in loyal conjunction with representatives of other nations."

Whether Germany will continue at the conference is problematical, but her delegates are engaged in drafting a reply to the note of censure, and it is thought that, while protesting their disbandment from the commissions dealing with Russian affairs, they will be content to remain.

LONDON, April 19.— (Canadian Press.)— The second day's editorial comment on the Russo-German incident at Genoa shows modification of some of the views expressed yesterday, although the severest critics of the Russians and Germans and Lloyd George papers, such as The Times, Post and Daily Mail, renew their denunciations without qualification. They focus their censure, however, rather on Lloyd George, declaring that he allowed himself to be fooled by Soviet delegates.

WILL AWAIT ACTION.

French government will await the action of the new commission before taking up the question officially with the Allies. It is held, however, that there is distinct violation of the Versailles Treaty and that whatever action the Genoa Conference takes the Allies cannot locate pact. Recourse of the Allies is the same as that against other violations of the peace treaty.

GENOA, April 19.—Expected German demand for discussion of her case before plenary session of the conference will prove a "mortal blow' to the conference, it is declared in a French communique issued here to-day dealing with the Russo-German treaty. It points out that for the first time since the signing of the Versailles Treaty the world sees the names of representatives of nine powers affixed to a document which protests again German conduct.

Premier Poincaire, it is reported, has taken the initiative in an invitation to the Allies to consult together with a view to making joint representation to Berlin government protesting against the Rapallo treaty.

WAVES A'D WIND HIT BRIDGE AT CHEMONG

Outgoing Ice Did Considerable Damage to Boathouses and to the Floating Bridge.

The floating bridge at Chemong has been severely shaken and boathouses along the south shore have been damaged by the high water and winds which in conjunction have been pounding against the wooden structures during the past 24 hours. The bridge has of course risen with the flood and is being used for traffic without interruption, but the apron or approach on the south side has been undermined to some extent by the water. Stones have been washed out and some damage has been caused at that point. The lake's level is exceptionally high and has been rising slightly since Monday.

In Germany a 16-horsepower automobile costs 10,000 marks or more.

American Flappers Start Off a Day With Few of Latest Steps

Eighty School Girls Staying at One Hotel Startle Visiting Canadian School Teachers — Wearing Canadian Homespuns.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 19.—(Special).—Washington is just now paying Canada a decided compliment. Its smartly attired women are wearing Canadian "homespuns"—all of this material that is available. It is quite the vogue here now. It is also notable that the popular shade is Princess Mary blue. It is particularly popular with the younger element. The flappers are very fond of it.

Speaking of flappers, the Canadian teachers have had quite a "close-up" of the American flapper type in the few days they have been here. A party of eighty school girls—all of the flapper age—have been staying at one of the hotels where the Canucks are. These youngsters are dance crazy. They are at it in the hotel parlor even before breakfast—as early as 8.30 in the morning—and they do the dances with all the modern improvements. It rather made the more staid Canadians look and wonder a bit.

ALD. MORRISON ADVOCATES THOROUGH HOUSE-CLEANING OF THE MARKET HALL

A Mere Scrubbing Not Enough to Make Public Mart Sanitary and Attractive—Should Robinson Street Extend to River.

Ald. Hamilton's Point.

Whether or not Robinson street in Ashburnham should extend west of Burnham street to the river through the old brewery property was a point raised by Ald. Hamilton at the Council meeting last night. If there was a street allowance on any of the plans some steps should be taken, he contended, to secure definite information.

Ald. Turner recalled that a roadway from the east side of the bridge through the brewery yards to Burnham street had always been open to the public, but, as Ald. Gainey recollected it, the entrance on Burnham street had been provided with a gate, although it was always open.

Ald. Hamilton moved, seconded by Ald. Phelan, that City Engineer Parsons ascertain whether the plans of the city showed any public street allowance at that point.

House-Clean Market.

A thorough house-cleaning of the Market Hall was recommended by Ald. Morrison.

"It's a pretty dirty looking place up there," he observed. "The new Clerk has scrubbed and cleaned up, but that's not enough for the place where butter and poultry and other foods are sold to the public. I think the benches, some of them at any rate, should be replaced, and the walls should be cleaned and kalsomined."

Ald. McIntyre suggested that the Market Clerk's office needed attention, too.

"I suppose the city should do some painting there, but the Clerk ought to be able to keep it in condition himself," was Ald. Jones' comment.

Ald. McIntyre said that the office needed repainting.

Ald. Morrison moved, seconded by Ald. Jones, that the Market Hall be cleaned and decorated and the Clerk's office painted, but it was finally decided that Ald. McIntyre, Chairman of the Property Committee, bring in a report of the cost of the proposed improvements.

Ice For Fountains.

In anticipation of the coming heat and humidity, the Council authorized Ald. McIntyre to arrange for having ice put in the public drinking taps at the City Hall and Central Park.

With the Sanitary Ice Supply doing business this year, there is a probability of securing alternative prices for this refreshment.

Formerly, Ald. Jones said, the Council was quoted a price, and there was nothing else to it.

Telephone for Assessor.

Ald. McIntyre informed the Council of the need of better telephone accomodation for the Assessor's office. At present the telephone in the Sanitary Inspector's office does duty for both, but this arrangement has its obvious advantages, which Ald. McIntyre mentioned, and it was felt that an opening in the wall between the offices with a shelf on which the one telephone could be placed would be an improvement, or an extension from the present telephone could be strung into the Assessor's office. Ald. McIntyre was instructed to make whatever change he considered best.

In this discussion, Ald. Turner asked whether the Council had ever thought of installing a private exchange in the City Hall, and was informed that this idea had not been taken up.

Ask for Improvements.

J. A. Tedford and George Weatherstone wrote asking for sewer connections, concrete walk and garbage collection for their part of Wolsley street. Referred to Board of Works.

RUST.

The iron frying pan will rust easily if you leave a trace of water in it after washing. Be sure and dry thoroughly.

SUNDAY STREET CARS WHEN MAY DAY COMES

On the first Sunday in May Peterborough's street cars will resume the Sunday service for the summer season as inaugurated last year. Notice to that effect was received by the Council last night from the Hydro-electric Commission.

PLANT TREES BUT BEWARE!

You Must First Get Permission From the Council and the Approval of the City Engineer.

Not with impunity may a citizen set out a tree in front of his property in an effort to improve the appearance of his property and that little section of the city's streets, and also to leave a small legacy for the next generation.

A by-law defines what he may do, what he must do and also limits him to the choice of trees. The organization of the municipality has been carried to that state of devlopent at which such private but semi-public acts are strictly regulated.

For instance the citizen who plants a tree on his own initiative and without consulting anyone about it forgets that the aforemetioned by-law requires that "all trees planted in the City of Peterborough shall be under the supervision of the City Engineer, who is hereby authorized to carry out and enforce the provisions of the by-law."

A man planted two elm saplings in front of his house the other day, and because he neglected to notify the City Engineer, and indeed had forgotten the very existence of the by-law, he left himself liable to a fine not exceding $50. So few trees are planted in this city, except when an enthusiast like Reg. H. Turner presuades the Exhibition Board to set out 200 of them on Exhibition Park, that encouragement not penalties shoud be held out to citizen planters who are actuated by a desire to contribute some small share in the beautifying of the city. It may be well, therefore, to remind the people that the aforementioned by-law is in force although City Engineer Parsons may be depended upon to exercise good judgment in putting it into effect.

When the Council passed this by-law it threw an extra loop of red tape around it in the provision that no tree shall be planted without permission from the City Council. It is generally understood that the Council is the arbiter in the removal of trees, but reference to the Sity Engineer should afford sufficient supervision in planting.

Another clause says that trees shall be placed at a distance of not less than twenty-five feet apart and at such distance from the street line or in such places thereon as may be determined by the City Engineer. The Corporation of the City of Peterboro reserves the right to remove any tree or trees when considered necessary by the Council.

The following trees are proscribed:—silver, popar, balm of Gilead or cotton tree, willow, Catalpa and mountain ash.

Other clauses deal with the protection of trees by paving contractors, and their trimming or removal when interfering with light of street lamps.

Here's another:—No person shall fasten a horse or other animal to any tree, or to any case or box around a tree, or to any post or chain enclosing any of the boulevards on the streets.

For infraction of this by-law the Police Magistrate may impose a fine not exceeding $50 or may commit an offender to jail, with or without hard labor, for a period not exceeding six months.

BREAD LINE BROKEN AND PASSES OUT

Council Discontinues the Distribution of Doles and Prepares For Paving Program.

Olive Avenue's Claim.

The city's unemployment relief scheme was formally discontinued by the Council last night on a motion by Ald. Holloway, seconded by Ald. Hamilton.

"For how many years?" was Ald. Jones' crytic query.

Ald. Holloway said he had learned from Mr. F. Miller, the City Relief Officer, that the applications at his office had declined to only one, and he had refused it because it was unworthy. In Mr. Miller's opinion, the relief was no longer necessary, and Ald. Holloway recommended that it be dispensed with.

Debenture Bylaws.

Three debenture bylaws for sewers and sidewalks already constructed were passed by the Council last night. Two of them were for concrete walks laid last year, amounting to $1,064.90 and $2,320.06, and for sewers the amount was $17,198.75. The total was $20,583.71.

In answer to Ald. McIntyre, City Engineer Parsons said that none of the sewers was constructed during the winter under the agreement with the Provincial Government to bear part of the cost.

A Paving Programme.

Preparations for a street paving programme were set in motion by the Council. City Engineer Parsons said he would be ready to call for tenders next week for the paving of George street south of the C.P.R., and to Ald. Hamilton he said the city would put in a tender.

"If Mr. Parsons is going to tender on that work, he will need a cement mixer with a long swivel spreading arm that will cost about $2,500, and we should know whether the Council is willing that the City Engineer should count on having that mixer and charge the cost against the work," said Ald. Hamilton.

"He will need a truck, too, for hauling gravel if he is in earnest about the job," commented Ald. Crowe.

City Engineer Parsons said that if the Council proposed to do any street paving it should have a programme laid out in order that the work might be done as cheaply as possible.

It was decided that Mr. Parsons should prepare his tender as though he had the necessary paving plant.

Want Street Paved.

The third or fourth petition for the paving of Olive avenue, a short street off Perry street, west of George street, was received from James Price and other residents, who urged that the work be done this season. This request was referred to the Board of Works.

Ald. Jones explained that Olive avenue was only 22 feet wide from fence to fence, and if sidewalks were built there wouldn't be enough room for a street. On that account the residents wished to have the street paved its entire width.

LOST HIS LIFE

CAPTAIN LOUIS KLINGNER,

Brother of Mrs. J. H. Renwick, of this city, who was accidentally drowned while on service in Mesopotamia.

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR CAPT. KLINGNER.

Splendid Tributes Paid to the Late Officer.

A memorial service for Captain L. Klingner, who lost his life by the overturning of a motor launch on the River Tigris, near Bagdad, Mesopotamia, on 2nd April, was held in St. Stephen's Anglican Church, Toronto, on Monday afternoon at three o'clock. The rector, Rev. Mr. Wallace, conducted the service, which was largely attended by the relatives and friends of the deceased officer.

The service proper was one of beauty, simplicity, and comfort, Rev. Mr. Wallace dwelling on the sterling qualities of Captain Klingner, from an Easter viewpoint—the onward march, death on the cross, and the resurrection of Christ—the late Captain's life and career, his service to his country and to humanity, and his untimely death.

The music, by a full choral choir, was very appropriate, and beautifully rendered, the whole tending to lighten the sorrow of those of the family circle who mourn his departure.

Mrs. J. H. Renwick, whose brother Captain Klingner was, attended the service from Peterborough.

As showing the esteem and love engendered by knowing him, many of the men who served under Captain Klingner overseas sent letters of sympathy to Mrs. Klingner in Toronto, in her hour of trial.

APPLICATIONS TO WHOLE COUNCIL

The applications for the position of Chief of the Fire Department will be opened before the Committee of the Whole Council, at a meeting to be called by the Mayor some time next week. Although several members of the Council remarked that no resolution was necessary, Mayor Taylor insisted upon having explicit instructions from the Council as to how the procedure should be started. Ald. Jones' comment was to the effect that so far as he was concerned, the applications needn't be opened at all, a sentiment that tuned to Ald. Morrison's opinion. The time for receiving the applications expires on Thursday of this week, but some of the Aldermen were so interested in the Motor Show that they urged a postponement of the committee meeting until next week.

MOTOR SHOW OPENS WITH BIG PARADE

Special Features For the Opening Session To-Night — A Big List of Attractions.

REVIEW OF SHOW.

With a bright, sunny day to encourage the efforts of the busy workers laboring to get the Armories in shape for the grand opening of the Motor Show this evening, the large central hall was a hive of industry this morning, with glistening, spotless cars backing into position against the side walls, and men and women decorating and arranging the booths, which have been retained in their central formation, the line extending down to and blocking the middle entrance to the rear section of the building.

The hall is gay with hundreds of pennants suspended from the far-off ceiling, while dozens of large Union Jacks are draped over the rough walls. In the black and deep blue and maroon of their shiny array, motor cars, large and small, plain and ornamental, built for two or to accomodate the entire family, occupy the places of honor on either side.

The flower booth, in readiness for its perfumed, fragile wares, has the entrance position, and back of it, members of the King's Daughters Society were dressing their eye-filling tree, with its mytserious orange parcels. The purple and white of Turnbull's section alternates with the yellow and white of the Catholic Women's League, where already several bags of doughnuts enticed small boys. The Utilities Commission has a striking effect in black and orange, and the Graduate Nurses, in charge of the Peterborough Milk Products' wares, were doing up their corner in green and white. Here they will dispense anything made from milk, from the liquid itself, either plain or butter variety, to cocoa, ice cream by the plate, and home-made cooking. The Business Girls have a gaily arranged floral booth for the sale of candy.

The Canadian Packing Company's revolving stand and white-enamel show-cases were arranged with all manner of tasty pork products, and the rear section of the hall held more cars, with corners reserved for the exhibits of F. L. Roy and the Heintzman Company, and a triple-desk section for the use of the Chamber of Commerce, where descriptive literature concerning the Trent Canal System, the Automobile Association, and the Peterborough Horticultural Society will be dispensed.

The orchestra will play from their usual point of vantage, directly above the coffee and doughnuts booth, the minstrels will show in the Recreation Room, the wireless telephone lectures and demonstration will be given in the Lecture Room, off the gallery directly above the main entrance, and the dance hall has been turned over to the Peterborough Robinson Chapter. The Otonabee Chapter have the tea room, the Thursday Club will sell ice cream, and Mrs. C. G. Graham has the sale of small articles.

Mr. J. F. Lymburn, of Lymburn & Reid, barristers, Edmonton, in a letter written in February, says: "Since I purchased my Overland Touring Car in June of last year it has given me good satisfaction. I have found it reliable, and economical as to gas and oil. The car has run over 3,500 miles and I have had no tire trouble. If this winter can be taken as a fair specimen of weather, then the car can be used all the year round."

WANT BIBLE INSTRUCTION IN SCHOOLS

The Manitoba Educational Association Opens Conference in Winnipeg — Rural and City Schools.

TEACHERS' TAXES.

WINNIPEG, April 19.— (Canadian Press.)—The educational need of the present day was the rural school, which was far below the city school in efficiency, declared H. D. Cummings, President, in opening the seventeenth annual convention of the Manitoba Educational Association here yesterday. Every possible means, he said, should be adopted to raise the status of the rural school to bring it to a higher plane of efficiency. More than 1,500 teachers were in attendance at the opening session.

That the teachers will seek redress for alleged inequalities in the administration of the Dominion Income Tax was indicated in a resolution received by the secretary, which will come up for discussion Thursday. The resolution claims that the Department of Finance refuses to recognize certain deductions for teachers which are made in other professions for expenses identical in nature with expenses incidental to the teaching profession.

After a lengthy discussion on a motion that steps should be taken to get the Bible put on for supplementary reading in the schools, the convention endorsed a resolution declaring a course in the King James version of the Bible be incorporated in the English curriculum of the high schools of the province. A suggestion was made that Bible teaching should be given for half an hour before the schools closed on Fridays.

BAD BRANDY WAS SOLD IN BROCKVILLE

Analysis of Brandy Bought As Medicine Shows That It Is Not Suitable For Consumption.

IN LEGISLATURE.

TORONTO, April 19 (Canadian Press). — Before the orders of the day were called in the Legislature yesterday afternoon, Dr. Forbes Godfrey, West York, read to the House a letter he had received from a Brockville medical man enclosing the report of an analyst on a six-ounce bottle of brandy that the medical man of that town had prescribed for a patient. The report stated that the liquid was turbid, adulterated, lacked body and colouring, and was not good brandy. The acidity of the liquid was also high.

Dr. Godfrey stated that the medical man who had forwarded to him the complaint was a reputable medical man.

'That is the meanest kind of deception," stated Dr. Godfrey. "The sample botles were bought in a drug store in Brockville, following the patient's complaint, and the report of the chemists show the kind of medicine that is being sold to sick people. For it is the sick people that suffer."

Dr. Godfrew charged that the Province had broken the Pure Food Laws of the country, and that action should be taken.

The member for West York also read a copy of a letter sent to the Brockville medical man by Commissioner Dingman, of the License Board, which stated that the liquid was part of a lot mixed by the Government vendors, in which the colouring, procured from a reputable drug firm in Toronto, had crystalised. Dr. Godfrey claimed that Mr. Dingman was not a fit man for the position, and that he was swayed by "fanatical bigotry."

Premier Drury stated that the Government had not authorised the "compounding" of liquors, and that if a copy of letters were left with him he would take the matter up.

Dr. Godfrey was supported in his statements by M. M. MacBride, of Brantford, and George Halcrow, Hamilton East.

Hon. Howard Ferguson took up much of the time of the House during the afternoon session in criticising Premier Drury for the delay in not producing the Hurdman Scale report in connection with the timber investigation that had been called for at the last session of the Legislature. He also objected to the manner in which Premier Drury had, at the last minute of the sitting prior to the Easter recess, announced the names of the Chippawa Commission.

"I presume that the Premier intends to be fair with the House, and therefore the House is entitled to further information," he stated in claiming that the House should have had a copy of the Commission placed before them.

Mr Ferguson charged that the Minister of Agriculture had thrown the entire proceeding into the arena when he gave an interview to the press on the subject on Saturday.

Premier Drury countered by stating that the text of the Commission had been given to the press, but that it had not been used in full.

BODY OF BOY WAS FOUND AT DETROIT

Believed to Be That of Liendoune Besse, Whose Father Threatened to Kill Him and His Brother Rasburne.

MISSING ON MARCH 3.

DETROIT, April 19 (Canadian Press). — The body of a boy about eight or ten years of age, and answering in a general way the description of Liendoune Besse, on of the small sons of Ray Besse, who disappeared with the two boys on 3rd March, after he had threatened to kill the children, was found in the Detroit River yesterday.

Besse's body was found in the stream yesterday.

Finding of the boy's body convinced Mrs. Besse, the widow and mother said, that her husband had carried out his alleged threat to "do away with the boys to make her suffer."

The harbourmaster's crew is dragging the river for the body of the second boy, Raeburne, six years old.

Mrs. Besse was reported near death last night from shock.

MOTHERS GET WRONG BABIES FROM HOSPITAL

Baby Girls Got Mixed Up When Sent to Hospital With Diphtheria.

DOCTORS "EXPLAIN."

MONTREAL, April 19.—Five months ago two Montreal mothers took their two-year-old baby girls to Alexandra Hospital, a contagious disease institution, for treatment. They were suffering from diphtheria. The children are Pansy Dyke, Grosvenor avenue, Westmount, and Myrtle Bartlett, Therein street, St. Henri. They were admitted to the hospital on November 2.

On December 12 Mrs. Dyke received word that her child was well enough to be taken home, so she went to the hospital to get her, but when the baby was brought to her she protested that it was not hers. The doctor, however, told the woman that of course it was her child. "The fever has changed her," he explained, "that is why you don't know her, and she doesn't know you." The doctor assured her that children often grew when they were sick. Still doubtful, the mother took the child home.

About a fortnight afterwards the other mother, Mrs. Bartlett, received word that her baby was ready to be taken home. "My baby could talk when I brought her here, and this one can only utter a few sounds," she protested. "My baby's hair was dark," she went on; "this child has fair hair," but the doctor convinced her that she was mistaken, and she departed with the baby.

The mothers were dissatisfied, but neither had heard of the other's predicament. It appears both children had webbed feet and wore the same sized clothing. Finally, by the effort of another woman, an investigation was started at the hospital and the misjake discovered.

PROBABILITIES.

Fresh to strong south-west winds; a few light, scattered showers, but mostly fair; not much change in temperature.

MANY MINERS SEEKING GOLD

Numerous Applications For Mining Claims Are Filed at Fort William By Prospectors.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., April 19. Canadian Press. — J. W. Munro, mining recorder for this district, reports that there are numerous applications for mining claims recorded with him during the past few days, as a result of the attention that is being attracted to the Schreiber gold fields. Prospectors are taking advantage of the disappearance of the snow in the woods to take their outfits into the bush and are filling claims on any location which has an outcrop of quartz. Reports of some rich surface indications are being found are being brought in by those seeking claims.

WEST IS IN NEED OF DRY WEATHER BEFORE SEEDING

Snow and Rain Storms in Alberta and Saskatchewan Make Ground Too Wet to Plow.

CROP REPORT GOOD.

WINNIPEG, Man., April 18. — (Canadian Press.)— The past seven day period has proved disappointing all over western Canada from a farmers' standpoint, says the second spring crop report of the Grain Trade News, issued here yesterday. Warm sunshine and drying winds are needed to put the land in shape for seeding. The weather has been generally fair over the eastern portion of the territory reviewed by the report, but Alberta and much of Saskatchewan have been again blessed with abundant moisture in the shape of snow. Repeated blizzards in Southern Alberta are reported to have caused severe loss as among cattle which were already weakened after a rather short feed supply.

A late seeding in these days when farmers have such good equipment is not a bad feature, the report states, because germination of a late crop is generally rapid and the crop less liable to be injured by cold windy weather.

The ground is reported to be in splendid condition since the recent snowfalls and points which have suffered severely from drought, such as McLeod, Graum and Lethbridge, in southern Alberta, all report conditions the best in years.

"The labor question seems to be still a problem," the report continues. "While many of the unemployed have already engaged with farmers at from $35 to $40 a month, a few others at all the centres are apparently doing all they can to persuade farm hands to refrain from accepting work at the wages mentioned."

PROTEST AGAINST DRURY'S CHOICE OF COMMISSIONERS.

GUELPH, Ont., April 19.—(Canadian Press)—Acting on the request of Willougby Ellis, of Hamilton, chairman of the Ontario Municipal Asciation, T. J. Hannigan Guelph, secretary of that organization, stated that he was calling a meeting of representatives of municipalities who use Hydro power to protest against the appointment of at least two of those named by Premier Drury to sit on the royal commission to probe Chippawa cost figures. The meeting Mr. Hannigan, said, would be held in the city hall, Toronto, on a date to be arranged. The two members of the commission to whom strong objection is taken by Mr. Ellis are Mr. M. J. Haney, and Lloyd Harris, both of whom are declared to be absolute opponents of Hydro. Besides objecting to the appointment of these two men, it is the intention of Mr. Ellis, when he meeting is held in Toronto to have the municipalities demand representation on the royal commission.

RUSSO-GERMAN TREATY TO BE MADE VOID BY REPARATIONS COMMISSION

Powers Decide to Continue Conference Despite the Action of Russian and German Delegates. Strong Note is Sent to German Representatives, Declaring That Treaty Has Destroyed the Spirit of Mutual Confidence.

TEXT OF THE NOTE.

LONDON, April 19.— (Canadian Press.) — The Allies have agreed that the Reparations Commission shall declare the Russo-German Treaty null and void, says the Genoa correspondent of the Daily Mail.

GENOA, April 19. — (Canadian Press.)— The representatives of the Powers which convened the Genoa Conference, together with the Little Entente, decided last night after an all-day discussion, to continue the Economic Conference, regardless of the attitude of Germany and Russia.

A strong note was prepared and sent to the German delegation, which declared that "Germany's act has destroyed the spirit of mutual confidence indispensable to international co-operation," and informing Germany that she is debarred from further participatilon in discussion of Russian affairs at the Economic Conference.

The meeting was held at the Villa Raggio, Premier Facta's home, and was continuous, with the exception of brief periods for lunch and tea, when more intimate conversations were carried on between the various delegates.

Following is the text of the Allied note to the German delegation:

"The undersigned Powers learned with astonishment that in the first stage of the Genoa Conference, Germany, without reference to the other Powers assembled, has secretly concluded a treaty with the Soviet Government.

The questions covered by the Conference are the subject of negotiations between the representatives of Russia and those of all the other powers invited to the Conference, including Germany, and the German Chancellor himself declared at the opening session that the German delegation would co-operate with the other powers for a solution of these questions in a spirit of genuine loyalty and fellowship.

"The undersigned Powers therefore express to the German delegation in the frankest terms their opinion that the conclusion of such an agreement while the Conference was in session, was a violation of the conditions to which Germany pledged itself on entering the conference.

"By inviting Germany to Genoa and offering her representation on every commission on equal terms with themselves, the inviting powers proved their readiness to waive memories of the war, and granted Germany an opportunity for honest co-operation with former enemies in the European tasks of the Conference. To that offer of good will and fellowship Germany replied with an act which destroys the spirit of mutual confidence indispensable to international co-operation, the establishment of which is the chief aim of the conference.

At all conferences unofficial conversations between parties are permissible, often desirable. They are helpful so long as they are designed to facilitate the common task and so long as the results are brought to the conference table for common discussion and decision. But that is not what the German delegates have done."

"This treaty is not subject to any examination or sanction by the conference. We understand that it is final and that it is not proposed to be submitted to the judgment of the Conference. It is, in fact, a violation of some of the principles on which this conference is based.

"In these circumstances, the undersigned do not consider it fair or equitable that Germany, having affected her own arrangement with Russia, should enter into a discussion of an arrangement between this country and Russia; they therefore assume that the Germans have by their action renounc.

KEEP OFF THE ROADS.

Complaints are heard from many local motorists as to the condition of the roads in the Peterborough district. It is not to be denied that they are in deplorable shape at the present time, but a peculiar feature of the situation is that the thought never seems to enter the mind of the majority of car-owners that their duty just now is to stay off the roads as much as possible until they have dried out and have been, to some extent at least, repaired. There is far too much unnecessary driving at this time of the year, and as a result much needless damage is done to the roads. Heavy trucks are sent out when it must be obvious to any one who stops to think that they will play havoc along the highways. And nearly everybody in town who owns a car decides on the first warm day that it is essential that he should dash out into the country to "see how the roads are." If driving on the country thoroughfares were reduced to a minimum for several weeks in the spring there would not be so many complaints latter on of bad roads. People who are not on business bent should keep that fact in mind and give the highways a chance to recover before the joy-riding season is inaugurated. There is not any more sense in unnecessary motoring on the country roads in their present condition than there is in making footpaths across soggy lawns.

WELL DONE, KIWANIS!

Coming as it did on the eve of the Motor Show upon which they are depending to a great extent for the funds with which to carry on their splendid work, the members of the Peterborough Health Association doubtless have accepted the fine offer of the Kiwanis Club to erect a $400 dining hall for the summer camp at Jackson Park, not only as an encouragement to persevere in their campaign for better health conditions in Peterborough, but also as an augury for the success of the Motor Show. A permanent dining hall will be a great convenience in connection with the Jackson Park camp, and will be a welcome addition to the plant. The Kiwanians have done their part for the Health Association—and a splendid part it is. The rest of the community are urged to follow the example set by the "We Build" members, and to ensure ample funds for the association's work by making Motor Show the biggest financial success yet recorded. It can be done if everybody will assist. And it is not a case of giving something for nothing. The show itself is ample return for the admission charged, for the committee have seen to it that nothing is lacking either in exhibits or entertainment features. For the rest of the week, until Saturday, the Motor Show should be the one big event, and the whole citizenship of Peterborough should be behind the Health Association and show it by piling up a new attendance record.

A GLORIOUS ANNIVERSARY.

The anniversary of the second battle of Ypres is to be observed in Peterborough, principally by a church parade on Sunday next under the auspices of the Great War Veterans' Association, who are to attend a memorial service at All Saints' Church. It is to be hoped that the attendance will be worthy of the occasion and that the returned men of Peterborough will take the opportunity that is presented to them of honouring the memory of their comrades who gave up their lives in that first great battle test of the Canadian Army when "the determination and gallantry of the Canadians saved the situation" as the official report tersely told the story of their wonderful stand. It is not necessary that they should be members of the G.W.V.A. The invitation is open to all returned men, who are asked to wear uniforms if they have them, but in any event to be present at this most important function. Somehow it is difficult to realize that seven years have passed since the battle in which the Canadians so signally distinguished themselves. It seems but a short time ago that Canada was thrilled by the announcement that her citizen-soldiers had in the face of terrible odds and opposed for the first time by the hideous menace of poison gas, held the line when the German hordes were within an ace of sweeping through to the channel ports. The second battle of Ypres will always loom large in the memory of the Canadian people, for it was the testing time for the soldiers from the Land of the Maple, and they most heroically met the challenge.

Sunday's parade should be in keeping with the spirit of the anniversary.

WIPING OUT CAPITALISM.

Mr. J. B. McLachlan, district leader of the United Mine Workers in Nova Scotia, is a man of strong opinions and strange friendships, says The Montreal Star. He has neither shame nor hesitation in declaring that he has "no respect for the law" and he threatens—if wages are not adjusted to his satisfaction by the "capitalistic class" that he will "organize the workers to sweep that class out of existence." As for his friendships he reflects his political ideals rather than any personal liking when he boasts that "there are two men I would like to shake hands with—Lenin and Trotzky."

It is perhaps unfortunate that this latter wish cannot be gratified; for a heart-to-heart talk with the dictator of Russia might go far to convince Mr. McLachlan that the "wiping out of the capitalistic class," of which he talks so airily, is not the panacea for all industrial troubles which the Teutonic visionary, Karl Marx, claimed it would be. A visit to Moscow might show the district leader of the United Mine Workers that under a fantastic experiment in Communism tens of thousands of persons are dying from starvation because there was no inducement for the peasants to sow seed if Soviet commissaries were to garner the crop, that production in the mills and factories came to a standstill when the spur of private initiative was removed, and that trading lagged and finally halted when profits were apportioned piece-meal by the State. If Mr. McLachlan could be closeted for an hour with Mr. Lenin perhaps the latter could convince the mine workers' leader that the distorted experiment in Communism which he and his associates imposed upon the suffering Russian people by the compelling force of the clubs and rifles of Lettish and Chinese mercenaries has turned out a disastrous and bankrupting failure. He might discover that to stave off revolution and to rescue the country from chaos and confusion Lenin had returned to the system of capitalism against which he had inveigled so bitterly, and bit by bit had abandoned the grotesque hypocrisies of his fustian creed.

Mr. McLachlan has the lesson yet to learn which has been forced upon Lenin after much suffering that Labor prospers only when Capitalism prospers. He has yet to learn that Capital and Labor are not two opposite and antagonistic forces in industry, but that they are the two co-ordinates on which the eventual prosperity of industry depends.

"To wipe the capitalistic class out of existence"—which indeed would be a full-sized job even for a man of such importance as the leader of the miners of Nova Scotia—would only amputate one of the limbs on which industry progresses.

STRIKES AND WAR.

It was stated the other day that the results of war and strikes were in some cases very similar. A saddening proof of this was contained in a recent press despatch from Virginia, which began with the significant words, "the battlefield" in the coal fields of West Virginia has been shifted into the mountain wilderness of Raleigh County. Then it states that both sides agree that the "battle" has just begun.

Although it is claimed that the "battle" has only just begun, yet the report says that hundreds of miners flocked to the Workers' headquarters and stated that operators' gunmen are threatening them and their families because they declined to return to work at reduced wages. How true that is we do not know. But the report goes on to declare that starvation and misery stalk over the mining camps of the New River field, where hundreds of the 10,000 to 12,000 union miners have been out of work for many months. More than 2,000 families are believed to be in dire need of food and clothing, as they are existing on short rations of corn bread and water. Pathetic tales of starving women and children were heard, it is said, as several hundred men filed into the union headquarters to get sacks of corn flour and meal after travelling more than ten miles. More than 75 families at Beard's Fork were reported without sufficient food to keep them another day, and only a few pounds of cornmeal was available for their relief.

These reports may be exaggerated, but they must have some foundation, and afford evidence in this of the similarity of war and strikes. If to them were added the misery caused others, the stopping of trade, and the other evils of strikes, the similarity would be greater. Surely it cannot be beyond the wit of man to devise methods to stop strikes as well as war.—Kingston Standard.

CIVIC POSITIONS.

(London Advertiser.)

One of the city commissioners in Calgary believes in going after the salary list with a vengeance. He is quoted as having said that the offices of assessor, city clerk, city engineer, medical health officer, treasurer, intendent of public works, water works, superintendent, electric light superintendent, chief of police and chief of the fire department, are worth $3,000 a year, superintendent of public works, waterworrks superintendent, building inspector and superintendent of parks is worth $2,250. At present the salaries of some of these officials is shown in the following list:

Office	Salary
Assessor	$3,450
City Clerk	3,450
Engineer	5,250
Medical Health Officer	4,500
Treasurer	3,450
Controller	3,450
Power Superintendent	3,750
Electric Light Superintendent	3,800
Chief of Police	3,750
Chief of Fire Department	3,750
Storekeeper	3,450
Rental Agent	2,800
Superintendent of Public Works	4,050
Waterworks Superintendent	3,450
Building Inspector	2,650
Parks Superintendent	2,350

Now, this same thing is going on all over the country, although the proposed cuts are not so drastic, and the chances are that the salary cut in Calgary will not be anything like as serious as this commissioner proposes.

What is going to be the result? The officials who are worth anything, and who have qualifications to fit them for other work, are going to get out. Holding a municipal position is not the most enviable thing in the world at any time. Being the servant of the public at large is not the most pleasant thing that can be imagined.

Many times at election we notice that there is an investigation started, or threatened. An engineer is liable at any time to find his work criticized or ridiculed by a man who couldn't run a chain or take a level to save his neck, and yet he feels competent to act as super-critic of a technical department.

A civic official is like any other individual. He likes to look forward to promotion, and also to reaching a place where his services will be recognized. He does not like to feel that he is always on the thin edge of the way out. And so it is that the public business, if this tendency of salary slashing is to continue, will not appeal to men of standing in the profession.

LITERARY GEMS

SOUND LOGIC.

They who hoped for a great future for this country, and who hoped to see its population largely increased, and knew that it had in it all the elements of becoming a great country, thought it necessary, in order to weld it together, that not only should they procure a teeming population, but that they should, most continuously, deepen the interest of those who are already here. Those who had settled here should join together in the earnest effort to wipe out provincial distinctions and internal dissensions. We must possess these elements of union if this is to be the country we hope it is to be.—The late Hon. Edward Blake.

Lebel Lode, Limited

(No Personal Liability)

IN KIRKLAND LAKE GOLD AREA

Offers for Public Subscription 300,000 Treasury Shares at 15 cents per share.

Head Office, 8 Silver St., Cobalt, Ont. P. O. Box 271, Cobalt, Ont. Authorized Capital, $2,000,000. Divided into 2,000,000 shares, $1.00 Par Value. Issued for Property and Promotion, 500,000.

LEBEL LODE PROSPECTERS SAYS

The geology of this property is identical with that of the producing mines further west on the same zone with identical intrusions of the porphyries into the sedimentaries.

Crossing the property from west to east on fairly well exposed outcroppings of the combined formations there exists a mineralized zone of from 250 to 300 feet in width, which has been subjected to extensive rupturings and shearings, producing a number of distinct veins very characteristic in size, structure, filling, strike and dip as shown at surface on producing mines. Any one of these veins gives very important surface assays, ranging up to $20 per ton without selection.

LOCATION

The properties are in a direct line on the principle zone fracturing and consist of a little over 100 acres held under Crown patent issued by the Government of Ontario in fee simple. Lebel Lode is favorably situated, being connected, as shown by the map, by wagon road one-half mile distant from the Government road. The route of a mining railway, connecting with the Government railway, is one-half mile from the property. Swastika station is eight miles distant, six miles by motor road equal to any road in the Province, while the extension is being hurriedly constructed for the sole use of mining in view of the important developments taking place for over nine miles beyond the Lebel Lode properties to the east.

WHAT OWNER-PROMOTERS DID

Lebel Lode owners, after careful study of the field while still new, acquired this property by selective prospecting and staking. They performed all the legal assessment work, surveying and purchasing and securing of Crown patent at their own personal expense. They held on through years of war and re-construction while the developments taking place, east, west, north and south, were fully demonstrating the commercial possibilities of the field, and defining trends and zones through the work of stronger financial interests. There is no shadow of doubt now as to where Nature had been kindest and in what manner she has chosen to distribute her lavish wealth.

A FAIR SQUARE DEAL

Lebel Lode is assured of success with a minimum expense, and the owner-promoters offer participation with confidence that every dollar spent on this chance for development will prove an asset to each and every shareholder. Their intention to be fair and just with those who assist them in development is shown in the fact that they offer their property and incorporation and three-fourths of total capitalization to the treasury, without cost to it, the most clean-cut proposition possible to conceive in a mining company flotation, and permitting the application of every cent towards putting this splendid property into shape to produce the wherewithal to pay dividends.

DIRECTION OF FUNDS

Lebel Lode, Limited, has as directors men known for their qualities in actual effective mining work and labor, not for their fame as Senators, etc., and some of them may be found in overalls right on the job setting the pace that counts in getting a dollar's worth of work for every 100 cents of the stockholders' money. Lebel Lode, Limited, will be directed by engineers whose merit and experience have passed the diploma stage and in whom confidence may be placed because of their actual accomplishments and successes in the field in which we are located.

YOUR CHANCE IS SLIPPING AWAY

You can have a share in this important development—any part of 300,000 shares of it at 15 cents per share. Last of issue, or the 1st day of May, whichever comes first, closes your opportunity at this price. This offer is being read in nearly a score of papers, and every mail brings in its quota of money to the treasury and new shareholders. ARE YOU WITH US?

No certificates issued for less than 100 shares. Make all remittances to the Lebel Lode, Limited, and at par at the Imperial Bank at Cobalt, Ont.

"Our First Year"

(By a Bride.)

START THIS TO-DAY.

The bride and her five girl friends are expressing their opinions on love and marriage. The bride and her husband are trying to live up to a pact under which they maintain individua freedom. Bonny, the flapper, has just quoted the love doctrines of George Bradshaw, a 32-year-old divorce court graduate.

Chapter XV.

Who Teaches Flappers.

"I've an idea th George Bradshaw knows more about what she calls 'love' than all of us put together", said Jeanne Alison. "I've also an idea that he doesn't tell it all to Bonny.'

"It's plain that we girls have got to do something to counteract George's instructions", suggested Mary Smith.

"Girl's, Mary's right! If Bonny Tearle ever should make any mistakes, we'd have h.. sins on our own souls!"

One can never tell when Jeanne is joking and when she is abominably sarcastic.

"Stop giggling, Bonny! Get ready girls! Each in her turn, instruct the infant! You begin, Mary."

"Bonny Tearle! I say again and it's all I'm going to say, that a girl of your age(ought not to discuss love with men. Especially not with old men. Only with women. And when cou're bothered come to me, dear!"

"Thank you old dear!" murmured Bonny. Then with sudden alarm, "But—then—I'd turn out just like you! Just like all of you! And the obys say that the reason I'm so interesting is because I'm not like other girls!"

"Sounds familiar! We've all heard that, Bonny!" Jeanne shrugged a shoulder scornfully.

"Listen all of you! If I don't talk about love with men, they'll never take me anywhere. I couldn't keep a man friend if I didn't chatter sentiment to him!"

Bonnie flushed as she confessed.

"You certainly ought to know! You're called the most popular flapper in this town," mourned Mary Smith.

Conversation buzzed while I changed the plates. Evidently my luncheon, if informal, was no failure.

"We girl have discov red a big fact, Peg!" whispered Mary. She was helping me in the pantry to serve the sweet.

"What is it "

"We've found why fappers act as they do!"

"Well, why do they?"

"The will not listen to women. Only to men. They side-step all that teachers, mothers, sisters tell them. Isn't that awful."

"Girls learned about love from older women for centuries!" I replied as I arranged my beautiful new Wedgewood c on a tray. "Isn't it time they had the other side?'

"Well! If Bonny Tearle is an example of what men can do when they educate their sweethearts—" The remainder of Mary's sarcasm was lost a.. the pantry door swung behind me.

"Peg! The other girls have finished their lessons on love. And they've nearly finished me, too. It's your turn. What are you going to advise poor me?'

I couldn't answer Bonny immediately. I felt awfully solemn. It seemed to me that beneath our foolery ran a vein of the serious.

It occurred to me that women everywhere are asking what they can do to make love last longer; what they can do to be happy when love fails.

RUSSO-GERMAN TREATY TO BE MADE VOID BY REPARATIONS COMMISSION

ed further participation in the discussion of the conditions of agreement between Russia and the various countries represented at the Conference.—(Signed)—

"Barthou, (France).

"Theunys, (Belgium).
"Beness, (Czecho-Slovakia).
"Skirmunt, (Poland).
"Ninchitch, (Jugo-Slavia).
"Diamandy, (Rumania)."

The discussions at the meeting were calm and dignified, although considerable differences of opinion existed. Two groups formed, one led by England and the other by France, while the Italian delegates displayed a conciliatory attitude. Some of the extremists are said to have proposed breaking up the conference, but a majority favored awaiting Moscow's reply to the Allied demands.

According to information from French sources, Mr. Lloyd George emphasized the necessity of adopting a severe attitude toward both Russia and Germany, but especially against Germany, pointing out that Germany had signed the Versailles Treaty, whereas Russia had not.

Signor Schanzer, the Italian Foreign Minister, favored an attitude of moderation in the interests of the Conference. Mr. Lloyd George replied that it was no time to display weakness. He counselled sending a note to Germany and Russia declaring they must modify their attitude if they expected to be permitted to discuss Russian affairs at Genoa.

At the evening session there was a discussion as to the advisability of insisting that Germany either revise the treaty with Russia or be expelled from all commissions of the Conference.

The hard times dance held on Monday in the Opera House, under the auspices of "C" Company, Northumberland Regiment, was not attended as largely as was expected, due to the threatening and inclement condition of the weather. Those who were able to attend report a very pleasant evening. The costumes of the dancers, almost without exception, betokened hard times. Choice music was furnished by the Daly seven-piece orchestra, and refreshmentse were very daintily served. The patronesses receiving were Mesdames J. M. Bygott, W. G. Davidson, C. H. Harris and A. Haig.

HAIG SUGGESTS MEANS TO AID NEW SETTLERS

Predicts Great Increase in Migration of Old Country Ex-Service Men to Canada.

G.W.V.A. TO AID.

OTTAWA, April 19. (Canadian Press.) — Predicting a great wave of migration and settlement within the British Empire in the very near future, Field Marshal Earl Haig, President of the British Empire Service League, has written to B. B. Maxwell, Dominion President G. W. V. A., outlining a plan whereby a system of reciprocity might be made effective in welcoming and assisting ex-service men from the Old Country settling in the Dominion.

The letter states

"I believe we are on the eve of big schemes of migration and settlement between the mother country and the Dominions of the Empire, and I consider that the British Empire Service League should be prepared to take a part in these schemes in order to make them a success. Meetings have been held and are taking place between the Empire headuarters and representatives of the Dominions in London; also with the Departments of the Government concerned re migration and settlement, in order to obtain their cooperation in a workable scheme to assist in carrying out the foregoing."

The general policy in this matter, as enunciated further on in the communication is to the effect that

"Wherever an ex-service man belonging to a society which is a member of the British Empire Service League may find himself within the British Empire, whether moving within the mother country or a Dominion or colony whether moving from the mother country to a Dominion or clony, from one Dominion or colony to another—that the hand of good comradeship will at once be extended to him by the great Brotherhood of the B.E.S.L., wherever he may happen to find himself."

The Great War Veterans Association in the recognized Canadian unit of the B.E.S.L. and steps are being taken to comply with Earl Haig's proposal.

A. A. M'INTYRE CITY'S CHOICE

As Representative on the Board of Arbitration That Will Decide the Austen Estate Claim.

Ayes and Nays Taken.

The Council last night appointed ex-Mayor A. A. McIntyre as its representative on the Board of Arbitration which will deal with the claim of the estate of the late W. C. Austin against the city for damages to their property at 64 Hunter street caused by the construction of the overhead bridge.

City Solicitor Widdifield reported to the Council that he had been notified by the Austin estate that they had withdrawn their suit against the city and would proceed to arbitrate with Mr. H. J. McCannan as their arbitrator.

Mayor Taylor, in committee of the whole on the second reading of the nominating bylaw, proposed Mr. James Finnie is arbitrator for the city. Ald. Hamilton seconded the motion.

Ex-Mayor McIntyre was named in an amendment by Ald. Gainey, seconded by Ald. Holloway.

Several votes were called by Ald. Turner, who was presiding, but some of the members were hesitating in their decision.

Ald. Hamilton said that Mr. Finnie had made the first estimates of the value of that property and he might as well finish it, but Ald. Gainey's contention was that Mr. McIntyre, as a member of the Council during the time the bridge was under construction, was familiar with all the details.

Other members said that either of the nominees would be satisfactory, but to reach a decision the ayes and nays were called on the amendment, that is for the appointment of Mr. McIntyre, as follows:

Ayes—Aldermen Phelan, Malcolm McIntyre, Holloway, Morrison, Gainey, Crowe and Turner.

Nays—Mayor Taylor and Aldermen Hamilton and Jones.

Through his counsel, D. F. Pepler, prisoner pleaded guilty to a charge of attempted assault upon Nellie Affleck, Agnes' companion. The charge of attempting to murder Raymond Lawson, Agnes' older brother, was altered to "shooting and wounding" with the consent of Sir William Hearst, crown prosecutor, and a plea of guilty substituted. CONVENTION OF BOOTLEGGERS IS HELD IN SEATTLE

Many Canadians Attended and Important Business Is Discussed at Meeting.

HELD OPENLY.

NEW YORK, April 19.—(Canadian Press).—A rum runners' convention, at which many Canadians were in attendace, is the latest worry to confront the U. S. prohibition enforcement officials, according to a despatch to The Tribune from Washington. It was held last week at Seattle and was held quite openly, according to The Tribune report. It is embarrassing not only to the prohibition agents, but to the Federal Trade Commission as well, for the meeting is declared to have violated various U. S. laws supposed to prevent combinations to advance price, though there is no danger of the convention taking any steps to restrain trade.

Among the decisions reported to have been reached at the convention are the following:

Increase of $10 a case in Scotch and American whiskies in sales to Seattle bootleggers.

Formation of a liquor runners and wholesale dealers amalgamation whereby the set price will be maintained.

Agreement to give Victoria a proportionate share with Vancouver, B. C., in the liquor trade of Seattle.

Resolution to legislate for decreased liquor prices in British Columbia, on the basis that Canadian dealers are working on twice the margin effective on the American side.

Agreement of Victoria and Vancouver wholesale dealers to back the rum runners in their action in raising prices by refusing to sell to the smugglers attempting to fight the amalgamation.

During the convention meetings were held on different days so liquor runners en route to and from Victoria and Vancouver at the time could participate at the end of their runs.

ADVOCATE OF UNITY WITHIN THE EMPIRE

A. W. Zimmern Wants One Vote For British Empire in League of Nations.

SASKATOON, April 19. Canadian Press. — That the British Empire must be a unit in the League of Nations, was the striking statement made by Professor A. F. Zimnorn, the celebrated Oxford university authority, on international relations, in an address to the Saskatoon Canadian Club yesterday.

Professor Zimnorn declared that the authority in the League, which the several Dominions demanded and exercised, was not favorably regarded in Great Britain, because it left open the possbility of breach when a single part of the Empire used its veto power.

He believed that the Commonwealth should exercise a single voice through the British representatives in consultation with those of Canada, Australia and South Africa.

Professor Zimnorn dealt with the international outlook in many aspects n the course of his address, giving particular importance to the position of France, a country which he thought had been badly treated by the British and the American press.

The failure of the United States to approve the League of Nations pact, the speaker declared, had lost the French people territorial rights which would have otherwise been theirs.

FOREIGN MINISTER MAKES A STATEMENT

GENOA, April 19 (Canadian Press). — Dr. Walter Rathenau, the German Foreign iMnister, declared last night that the German delegation came to the Genoa Conference with the best intentions in the world, but found itself confronted with a situation where the Allies were about to force Germany to accept an agreemut between them and Russia, without even consulting Germany. Negotiations between Russia and Germany had been proceeding for two months, and were practically completed about a fortnight ago.

MOTHER KILLS TWO OF HER CHILDREN IN A FIT OF DEMENTIA.

Notre Dame Convent Destroyed By Fire.

COLUMBIA, Ky., April 19 (Canadian Press). — Mrs. Arnold Holt, in a sudden fit of dementia at her home in Russell Springs, near here, killed two of her children, Maxime, aged 12, and the baby. She attempted to kill a third child. She then fastened a hatchet to a fence, with the blade towards her, backed off twenty feet, and ran into it head on. She will likely die. Maxime was dropped with a butcher knife, and the baby was thrust into a barrel of water and drowned.

JAIL POPULATION SHOWS INCREASE.

OTTAWA, April 19. Canadian Press. — The population of the county jail, Nicholas Street, during the quarter ending March 31, was the largest in many years, according to a report for the quarterly period which was issued yesterday by Alonzo Dawson, Governor of the jail.

LITTLE TROUBLE IN MANITOBA NOW.

WINNIPEG, April 19.— (Canadian Press.) — There is very little labor trouble in Manitoba at the present time, Rev. Dr. C. W. Gordon, Chairman of the Joint Council of Industry, stated yesterday. The wage scales for the year are now being negotiated and if there is any danger of acute trouble arising the council will feel it its duty to intercede, Dr. Gordon said, so that spring operations will not be held up.

Heated Debate in U. S. Senate Over St. Lawrence Canal Project

WASHINGTON, April 19.—(Canadian Press).—The St. Lawrence waterway project received further debate in the Senate yesterday Senator Calder, Republican, New York, speaking in opposition of the proposal, and Senator Townsend, Republican, Michigan, urging its completion.

Senator Calder denied there was sectional prejudice in his attitude but Senator Townsend declared that all of the organized opposition had come from New York State.

Senator Calder asserted and Mr. Townsend denied that Canada would benefit more from the waterway than the United States.

After the delivery of a prepared address by Senator Calder, in which he enumerated many arguments against the project, Senator Townsend spoke extemporaneously, declaring he could not let Senator Calder's criticisms go unanswered or unchallenged. Senator Calder was not familiar with the facts, Senator Townsend asserted.

"It does not come with good grace from representatives of New York" said Senator Townsend, "to speak about expenditures of money for waterway improvements and oppose a proposition that will do so much good to the Middle West and the Far West. We have spent more money in New York than the wildest estimate of what this project would cost. The Senator from New York ignored the estimates of the American and Canadian engineers. The International Joint Commission estimated the maximum cost at $252,000,000, an estimate made two or three years ago, and costs since have come down."

"It is a notorious fact", continued Senator Townsend, "that if only waterpower was developed from the project, the cost of the enterprise would be warranted".

"We will gee the benefit of what ever improvement is made. Canada could not under any circumstances, profit as much as the United States Her railroads afford her ample transportation facilities. We are short of railroad transportation.

"It may be an idle dream, this enterprise," Senator Townsend continued, "to extend the seaboard a thousand miles into the country, but three fourths of all the ships now sailing the seas between the United States and Europe draw water less than the 25 feet this canal proposes."

Declaring Senator Calder admitted that the canal would save five cents a bushel to Canadian wheat farmers, but at the same time scoffed at the idea that the United States farmer would receive any benefit, Mr. Townsend said the handling charges alone in New York for western wheat were from six to eight cents a bushel.

"This enterprise would be an economy," Senator Townsend asserted, "and its going to succeed, this selfisr opposition of a section of a country to the contrary notwithstanding."

TIRED AND RUN DOWN

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Where Other Medicines Failed

Vancouver B. C.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was tired and run down. I had headaches and no appetite and was troubled for two years with sleeplessness. I tried many medicines but nothing did me any real good. While I was living in Washington I was recommended by a friend to take the Vegetable Compound. I am stronger and feel fine since then and am able to do my housework. I am willing for you to use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. J. C. Greaves, 771 Hornby St., Vancouver, British Columbia.

Many women keep about their work when it is a great effort because the work must be done. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought relief to thousands of tired housewives by removing the troubles which cause annoying symptoms.

If you are suffering from nervousness, headache and backache, pains in right or left side, tired and run-down feelings, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Just bear in mind this medicine has been used by women for nearly fifty years. That is a long record of service, and stands upon the foundation of merit.

INSTRUCTIVE ADDRESS ON TRIP TO CALIFORNIA

W. S. Merrell Entertains Knights of Columbus.

A well-filled hall at the Knights of Columbus rooms last evening greeted the interesting and instructive address delivered by Mr. W. S. Merrell, former Grand Knight, on the subject of his trip to California last August, when he represented the local Council at the 39th annual convention of the Knights of Columbus, held in San Francisco.

Mr. Merrell's lecture, which was illustrated by lantern slides, gave a complet account of his trip, with many interesting sidelights to supply atmosphere. His stay in Chicago was enlivened by a visit to the busy Grain Exchange, and he was most enthusiastic over his first view of the Grand Canyon of Arizona, of which Mr. Merrell said: "The first thing you do is raise your hat in wonder and amazement," quoting the late ex-President Roosevelt, who remarked of the Grand Canyon: "It is beyond description or comparison, absolutely unparalleled throughout the wide world."

In Los Angeles, Mr. Merrell was entertained by Fr. Frank Benton, an old Peterborough boy, in the city "where rainless days and cool nights predominate." Pasadena, Hollywood, the former with its ostrich and alligator farms, the latter with its motion picture colony, were also visited by the speaker, who was accompanied on his trip by his daughter, Miss Marguerite Merrell.

A brief account followed of the procedure for the 35th annual international convention of the Knights of Columbus, with a recital of the various social affairs arranged by hospitable hosts, which included a sightseeing tour of Oakland and Berkley, with its wonderful open-air Greek theatre, capable of seating ten thousand persons; a thorough tour of San Francisco itself; and a trip to Mount Tamalpais on the crookedest railroad in the world.

Following his address on his trip, Mr. Merrell showed some exceptionally fine slides, "Across Canada," each with a short description. These slides were provided by the kindness of the C.P.R. Publicity Department, and proved especially interesting to the audience, giving a wonderful idea of our great Dominion and its progress.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Merrell by the chairman of the evening, Mr. V. McCabe, the vote moved and seconded by A. L. Sharpe and seconded by Dr. J. F. O'Brien.

BETTER GARDEN TIPS

BY LUTHER BURBANK

LUTHER BURBANK AT HOME.

RAISING ASPARAGUS

I shall deal separately with asparagus because here is a plant that is, all to frequently, left off the lists of plants for the back yard garden.

BURBANK

Now there are few if any more delicious vegetables than this, and yet people who buy it on the market seldom get best—also they pay a good price for it. Once successfully started asparagus continues to produce for many years to come, and can be depended upon for a daily supply for two months or more each season.

Anyone with a square rod of ground space almost any place beneath the sun, can grow asparagus. But these points should be kept in mind.

Thoroughly fertilize the alloted space. Spade deeply and fertilize again. Continue to spade until the soil becomes rich, deep and fine. The bed should be raised a little above the paths. Put the young plants abotu four inches below the surface and 18 inches apart. Do not cut the stalks the first season if you would have good results, for 50 years to come.

Burbank to-morrow gives you a vegetable calendar.

Ah! what relief. Instanty your feet will feel cool and fine. It draws out all the aching, stinging, burning soreness like magic until your feet could dance for joy. No more dangerous corn-cutting or peeling, no more stitchy, burning messes that eat off half your toe. No more rags or plasters. Just real foot comfort day in and day out. Simple, safe, easy and pleasant to use and not at all expensive.

Describes Labrador.

At the regular meeting of the Women's Institute, Rev. G. Weir addressed the women on "Women in Labrador". He began by giving a short description of Labrador in general and of the southern portion, where he spent most of his time, while in Labrador. One thing he particularly mentioned was that nowhere in the world can the contrast between Summer and Winter be more marked. In Summer the whole country is wonderfully beautiful, the beautiful little islands, covered with verdure, dotting the coast line for 20 miles out along practically the whole coast line, on the main land, the verdue and further back the mountains covered with fir and other trees of the same class. One place is called Paradise, because when Cartwright and his men sailed up, they came upon this spot and Cartwright said "Surely this must be Paradise" and the name remained In Winter, the coast is bleak, hardly even a bird to be seen perhaps a fox or a white bear, that is all. Sometimes even in one day, there are sharp contrasts. On August 4, 1914, looking east, the ocean was covered with ice as far as one could see; looking west, he saw the beautiful summer clad land and hills. The villages are only a few huts, sometimes two or three, sometime there is one lonely hut, and not another for ten miles.

Mixed Blood.

Mr. Weir here went on to say that the original Esquimaux were really Lords of all they surveyed they were not rovers, but kept to their own homes. The mountain Indians were nomadic tribes, and descended on thes quite Esquimaux, killing many of them, and driving out numbers of others. Subsequently, not a few of these Indian took wives from among the Esquimaux, so that, in Southern Labrador it is difficult to find a pure-bred Esquimaux. Then the Bay Company and other Europeans located there, their men were bound to remain for at least two years, and they often married the native women, so that the present inhabitants are of a very mixed race. For besides the native blood there is a mixture of English, Scotch, French, Irish, and perhaps a few other strains.

The women have their household cares such as they are, the speaker continued. The men do the trapping, but women prepare the furs for shipping. Women also help with the preparation of fish for export. Labrador fish however do not come to Canada, but go to France, Spain, and other European countries.

In general, the conditions of these people is isolated, monotonous in the extreme, and anything that women here can do to relieve the monotony of their lives is being done. They get mail but very seldom, sometimes for months at a time not a word from the outside world reaches them But an airplane mail service has been recently established, which will help a little.

Education Scant.

Educational privileges are scanty at three places school is kept open for about three months, but generally they get litle instruction except what the Missionary can give as he goes from place to place. They make the best of what they get.

Besides Dr. Grenfell's work in Labrador, the Methodists have two missions, the Moravians one, while the Anglicans maintain at least one. The territory is large and so many need care, physical and spiritual, that is not available.

Mr. Weir added that the happiest man he ever came across he saw in Labrador, and the saintliest man he ever met was the Anglican Missionary.

Sometimes these people do visit, he concluded, but when they do the man takes the whole household away for a week or so—no afternoons with neighbors.

RUSSIAN SURPRISED POWERS OBJECT TO SIGNING OF TREATY

GENOA, April 19.— M. Litvinoff informed the Associated Press last evening that the Powers had not sent to the Soviet representatives any protest against the signing of the Russo-German pact and expressed surprise that the Powers should object to the treaty, when nothing was said about the protocol which Russia, the Baltic States and Poland signed at Riga, and the Entente had offered no objections to the neutral conference at Berne and the "Little Entente" conferences held in preparation for the Genoa meeting.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How To Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, dgestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

ALLIES PROTEST TO THE GERMANS.

GENOA, April 19. — (Canadian Press.—At meetings of leaders of allied powers and states of little entent Premier Lloyd George led in movement to impose some penalty on Germany for her action He said their action was serious and an absolutely unitellible breach of spirit in which all powers had gone to Genoa and Germany had undertaken to work in loyal co-operation with others. Grievance which every body felt was against Germany not against Russia for Germany had gone behind back of powers. He then submitted draft of protest to Germany which was accepted.

THE COUGH WITH THAT TICKLING SENSATION

A little tickling in the throat; now and then a dry, hacking cough; you think it is not bad enough to bother about, but every hack makes a breach in the system, strains the the lungs and prepares the way for more serious trouble.

How many people have lost a good night's rest by that nasty, tickling irritating sensation in the throat? The dry, harsh cough keeps you awake, and when you get up in the morning you feel as if you had no rest at all.

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

is just the remedy you require to stop that irritating, tickling cough on account of its soothing, healing and expectorant properties.

Mrs. P. Johnson, Port Alberni, B. C. writes:—"I have suffered for years, off and on, with a tickling cough. I could not sleep nights and had to sit up in bed to get relief, in fact, I coughed so I used to vomit. I tried different doctors' prescriptions until I heard of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I tried it and found great relief after I had taken the first bottle and have not been troubled since. I shall always keep it in the house."

Be sure and get "Dr. Wood's" when you ask for it. Price, 35c. and 60c. a bottle; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

LADIES! SECRET TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Bring Back Its Color and Lustre With Grandma's Sage Tea Recipe.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While grey, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

119-inch wheelbase
Non-skid Cord Tires, front and rear wheels

NO matter what you pay for a car, you won't find greater satisfaction than you can get in the Studebaker SPECIAL-SIX.

That's why so many people who buy entirely from the standpoint of satisfaction, drive the SPECIAL-SIX.

Satisfaction with a SPECIAL-SIX is due to its dependable chassis, its Studebaker-built body, and the completeness of the equipment.

This equipment includes an eight-day clock, one-piece, rain-proof windshield with parking lights in lower corners of windshield base, and windshield wiper.

It includes cowl ventilator controlled from dash, tonneau light with extension cord, transmission lock which is operated by same key that locks the tool compartment in the left front door-pocket as well as the ignition, and a large rectangular plate glass in the rear curtain.

There are many other features that would be considered unusual in cars of much higher price. Let us tell you some other points of SPECIAL-SIX superiority.

The mechanical excellence of the SPECIAL-SIX has proved its satisfaction in the hands of thousands of owners.

Its 50-horsepower motor provides great resources of smooth flowing power and wonderful flexibility. Its perfected dry-plate disc clutch makes gear-shifting quiet and easy.

And yet, the SPECIAL-SIX is not a costly car. At $2075, f. o. b. Walkerville, Ont., it is a striking value—unapproached by any car of comparable quality.

REO

AT THE MOTOR SHOW

The Acme of Luxury and Comfort
The "Six" of Sixty Superiorities

Reo Closed Cars have received more than their share of admiration and praise at the various Automobile Shows this season.

Strikingly beautiful in design; smart in appearance; and exquisite in finish and appointments, these new Reos make an irresistible appeal to the connoisseur.

That was to be expected —for Reos are designed and made for the Elect. It is most gratifying to us. But—;

There is a beauty in Reos that does not appear on the surface. You must look beyond the broadcloth upholstering, and beneath the many coats of paint and varnish to discover that quality that is Reo.

These Closed Bodies—the Four Passenger Coupe and Five Passenger Sedan are Full-aluminum construction. Which is to say they are the last word on fine coach work.

Only a body of Full-aluminum construction--and, may we add, of Reo sturdiness---can give you that satisfaction you expect.

Investigate carefully before you select your closed car. Insist on knowing how the body is made and insist on Full-aluminum.

In your search you will discover another startling fact. Namely, that you will be asked more for cars of lesser reputation, and with bodies of ordinary sheet steel construction, than is the Reo price for Reo quality.

WAS TROUBLED WITH HER LIVER FOR OVER 4 MONTHS

When the liver becomes slow, sluggish and torpid it is not working properly and does not supply sufficient bile to thoroughly act on the bowels and carry off the waste products of the system, hence the bowels become clogged up, the bile gets into the blood, constipation sets in and liver troubles follow among which are, sick or billious headaches, heartburn, water brash, jaundice, floating specks before the eyes, pain under the right shoulder, coated tongue, bad breath, yellow eyes, etc.

MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS

quickly remove the secretions, clear away the effete and waste matter by acting directly on the liver, and making the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood.

Mrs. Alice Mehlil, Napanee, Ont. writes:—"I was very badly run down for over four months. I tried several remedies, but got no relief. One day my husband brought me home a vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and before I had used half of it I was much better. I only used two vials and I am a different person today.

I can safely recommend Laxa-Liver Pills to any one troubled with liver trouble."

Happy Social Evening Under Auspices Local Farm Associations.

The members o the Peterborough U.F.W.O. and U.F.Y.P.O. were the guests of the U.F.O. last evening, when they held a social in the W.O.W. Hall, George Street. After the usual opening, a short business meeting was held, and then an excellent programme was rendered.

An instrumental duet by Misses Lewis and McKee was the opening number. Miss Heffernan sang a dainty little number, "My Broadway Rose," and Mr. Elmer Milburn charmed his audience with his tenor solo, "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling." Misses Mabel Darling and Helen Brown each gave a light reading. Mrs. McNeely gave two dainty little recitations, and Miss Gladys Jay stirred the hearts of true Canadians with her poem, "Canadian-Born." Other items on the programme were songs by Mrs. Quinn, Mr. Thos. Petrie, Mr. Carson, Mr. Alex. McGregor, Mr. Hodson, and the Lewis Brothers, while Miss Pearl Petrie's rendering of 'Miss Marnin's Opinion of Tommy," caused much amusement. Miss E. Webber played a charming piano solo.

The last feature of the programme was a debate between the Peterborough U.F.Y.P.O. and the Rush Point U.F.Y.P.O.—"Resolved, That the city depends on the country to a greater degree than the country depends on the city."

The negative side, which was upheld by Rush Point, won.

ALBERT SMOKE RAN THIRD IN THE BOSTON MARATHON

Clarence De Mar of Melrose, Mass., Won the Classic with Ritola Running Second.

ASHLAND, Mass., April 19 (United Press). — Clarence De Mar, Melrose Highlands, Mass., to-day won the twenty-five-mile Marathon race, held here under the auspices fo the Boston Athletic Association.

De Mar's time was 2h. 18m. 10s.

He led a field of sixty-seven runners home over the long grind from Ashland to Boston.

Willie Ritola, of New York, was second, and Albert Smoke, of Peterborough, Ont., third.

BOSTON, Mass., April 19.—(Special) (Ten o'clock a.m.) Memories of Longboat come to mind as Albert Smoke the Indian competitor in to-day's Marathon is widely heralded as the winner.

Back in 1907 the famous Longboat won the B.A.A. distance classic and shaved just five minutes off the record at a time when interest in the Marathon race was at its great height.

His time of 2.24-24 has been bettered by four of the winners since 1907 but the recollections of Long boat's great run will live. Smoke will try to emulate his more noted predecessor and he has the misfortune so it appears now to face what is perhaps the most formidable field ever entered in the event. Smoke does not spak English with facility, but can make himself understood.

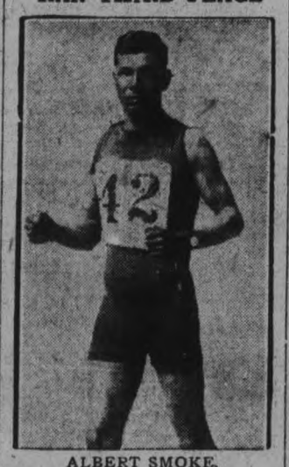
He is a trapper and fisherman on Chemong Reserve and is from Missauggie tribe.

Smoke is thirty and is father of a two weeks old girl.

His training for this event has been conducted by Scholes, who put the Indian through paces which has reduced his weight from 148 to 136 Smoke has easy shuffling lope, that gets him over the ground speedily.

He gets his name from his black cigar he smokes continually and was smoking on his arrival in Boston. All Boston papers name Smoke as winner to-day. The race starts at noon..

RAN THIRD PLACE



ALBERT SMOKE,
The Peterborough Indian, who put up a real battle for the Boston Marathon race to-day.

Golf Facts

Q. If a ball lands in a tree or bush, is the player required to play it from where it lies?

A. Yes, unless he wants it unplayable and take the penalty, which is to go back to where it was played from, play another and count an extra penalty stroke under U.S.G.A., Canadian and R & A. rules. Under W.G.A. drop another ball at the spot and count a penalty stroke.

Q. Have you any records as to the longest dirve ever made by a golfer?

A. The longest carry authentically recorded was made by Dr. Douglas Wood on Weston Super Mare course, and measured 305 yards. Abe Mitchell, the long-driving British professional, says the longest drive he ever had measured was 303 yards, carry of course. The roll depends altogether on the lay and condition of the ground. Also the wind has much to do with it. For this reason records mean little. Cases are known where players have gotten over 400 yards on hard ground with the roll.

Q. Is a roadway always considered a hazard in golf

A. Yes, unless excepted by club rule.

Q. How many home-bred players have ever won the national open championship?

A. Five. J. J. McDermott, 1911 and 1912; Walter Hagen, 1914 and 1919; both professionals. Francis Culimet, 1913; Jerome D. Travers, 1915; Chick Evans, 1916; the last three being amateurs.

Q. Has a player the right to demand that the flag stick remain in position while he is approaching a hole?

A. Not, if his opponent requests that it be removed.

DEMPSEY ARRIVES AT SOUTHAMPTON.

DEMPSEY IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, April 19.—(Canadian Press).—Francois Deschamps, manager of Georges Carpentier, who arrived in London Monday night from Paris, accompanied by Carpentier, was among the first to greet Jack Dempsey as the American pugilist stepped from the train into a large crowd awaiting him at the Waterloo Station yesterday afternoon. Carpentier was not with Deschamps, having departed for Manchester early in the day to give an exhibition. The French boxer will return to London today, and after greeting Dempsey, will go to Maidenhead to begin training for his fight on May 11 with Ted (Kid) Lewis.

Dempsey declared he was glad to be in England and was grateful for the wonderful welcome that had been accorded him. Jack Kearns, manager of the American pugilist, said he could not forsee any bouts in England.

FOR FEATHERWEIGHT TITLE.

PARIS, April 19.—(Canadian Press).—It was considered probable in boxing circles yesterday that the proposed 20-round bout between Johnny Kilbane, world's champion featherweight boxer, and Eugene Criqui, French featherweight champion, would not take place in France.

MATCH POSTPONED.

NEW YORK, April 19.—(Canadian Press).—Postponement of the Jack Herman-Luis Firpo match, scheduled for Jersey City on Thursday night, was announced yesterday when the South American heavyweight granted Herman's request for more time in which to train.

The exact date will be determined when a site is selected. The bout will be an open-air one.

DUGAN TO MISS SIGNAL TIPPING.

May Seriously Handicap His Ability to Hit Consistently.

Is it of any value for a batter to know what style of delivery the pitcher is about to use?

Connie Mack has always believed that it was invaluable. As a result some veteran player has always been carried by Mack as coach.

The chief duty of this player is to try to figure out the signal system of the opposition, and to tip the batter off as to what is coming.

Danny Murphy now occupies that position on the Athletics. Murphy is a wonder at it. He can call the turn in most cases, simply through some peculiar motion the pitcher uses.

Dave Keefe pitched for Connie Mack last season. He is with Cleveland this year. Some idea of the value Keefe places on Mack's system can be gleaned from the following conversation attributed to Keefe.

"In one way, it's a bad thing for Joe Dugan, going to Boston. I don't believe he will hit any .300 for the Red Sox. You see Joe won't have Danny Murphy calling the signals from the coacher's box at third.

"Dan calls them right for the batter, no matter who is pitching and hitting is a lot softer when you know what is comng."

KIWANIS JUNIORS OF TORONTO WANT GAME PETERBORO.

Bill Grave is Considered to Be the Best Player in America.

Run in Cut Here.

BILL GRAVE.
Through two seasons he has played without missing a game.

Aside from his great work in basketball Grave has starred in other branches of athletics.

He played varsity football for four years and one season was the regular first baseman on the Penn team, a regular three-sports star, He dropped baseabll from his repertoire at the request of the basketball coach.

Grave is 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 185 pounds. He came to Penn. as a forward and was made over into a center. He didn't like the change, yet shifted positions because the coach so desired. He has developed into one of the greatest colleg centres of all time.

GERMAN CARP FOE OF GAME FISH

What about the carp

Lovers of fishing as a sport are much troubled over this question.

Who will solve the problem of ridding our waters of this unwelcome alien?

From all over the United States there comes a stream of complaints about the damage being done to native fish by a German carp.

Northern lakes which formerly contained only the finest game fish are becoming overrun with these acquatic swine.

Whenever these fish get into a lake, the game fish contained in the same water have an uphill fight for existence.

The carp is truly the hog of the water, as he feeds by rooting out the vegetation from the bed and along the banks of the lakes and streams. This disturbs the spawn of the other fish and deprives them of their food.

the game fishes, thereby doing more grievance against the German carp. They claim the carp have killed all the vegetation in their favorite waters and that ducks no longer visit them.

Many of the states have tried different methods to get rid of the carp, but so far none of them have met with any success. It seems the only practical plan is to seine them out, but it is doubted if that will do any more than to keep the increase in check.

Arguments against using the seine are advanced by sportsmen who conted that seiners drag the nets along the shores of the lakes and entirely destroy the spawn of the gam fishes, thereby doing more harm than good.

So it seems if someone desires to be beloved by all fishermen, he will come forth with a solution of the carp problem.

NEW GROUNDS FOR QUAKER ATHLETES.

Tennis Courts and Football Pitch Preparing On the Ashburnham Side of River.

The Athletic Association of the Quaker Oats company after organizing a short time ago and quietly breaking into local sports are now looking forward to the summer's activities with all the manifestations of thoroughness and permanency. Grounds for tennis and football are being prepared on the company's property on the east side of the river north of the Hunter street bridge. On the old raceway near Wand's mills the groun is being prepared for tennis courts and further up the river just east of the power house a soccer pitch will be smoothed out on the large field that forms part of the Quaker Oats land in that neighborhood. Mr. Joseph Grierson is in charge of the work which has been started quietly without any announcement and is well under way.

The Quaker Oats Athletic Association is confined strictly to the employees and is their own enterprise. The had two indoor baseball teams, one representing the men and the other the women; the girls' basketball team have just completed their series of games and the club's new football team is playing in the Peterboro and District Football League. The team will find their own practice and playing grounds invaluable, and the tennis courts should be largely patronized during the summer. The Quaker family carries through its various activities without much publicity, and their initial accomplishment may be regarded as an earnest of the success the future will bring.

MERCANTILE FIVE-PIN LEAGUE.

Football Notes.

C.G.E. put in a good practice last night at King Edward Park. They signed up a new forward, Monk, an ex-G.W.V.A. player. He will be eligible to play on Saturday.

The Owls were also on the job, getting ready to get some points from Lakefield, which they will find to be pretty hard on Saturday.

The Comrades, as yet an unknown quantity, were out with some very promising talent, and are to be watched closely in their climb up the league table. They are getting their ground at the Exhibition grounds fixed up for Saturday.

The C.G.E. will have a meeting to-night at 8 p.m. at the Chamber of Commerce rooms for selection of Saturday's team and general business.

A suggestion from a brother referee whom I met last night: The referees to get together to take up points of interest. A good idea. Let's go.

Be Sure Your Battery is in Good Health

It may seem at first thought that the ability of a battery to do its work day after day is proof that the battery is in good health. As a matter of fact it proves nothing of the sort.

For it is battery nature to keep on serving as if nothing were the matter—even when there is something wrong with it inside! Thousands of batteries are in operation today that are not in as good health as they seem. If neglected, the unseen ailment becomes steadily worse until, some day, the owner unexpectedly faces a costly repair bill or the purchase of a new battery.

The only safe way is to learn the habit of regular attention. Twice every month bring your battery to the Willard Station to have such care taken of it as may be necessary to prolong its life and increase its usefulness.

No matter what make of battery is in your car, we shall be glad to test it, put in water and advise with you regarding its condition.

Contender For Jack Dempsey's Title

BY BILLY EVANS.

Presenting the very latest heavyweight hope, Jim Tracey, of Australia.

Tracey is 24 years old, stands 6 feet 3 1-2 inches and weighs 210 pounds.

Thus it will be seen that Tracey is at least the equal physically of Champion Jack Dempsey.

Tracey recently arrived in our midst. His purpose is to secure a match with Jack Dempsey. Of course he doesn't expect Dempsey to postpone his trip abraod in honor of his coming.

It is Tracey's intention to fight his way to a place where Dempsey will be forced to give him consideration. Tracey is confident he will have reached that spot by the time Dempsey returns to this country.

Tracey has been fighting for nine years. He began his career as a lightweight at the age of 15. Since then he has fought his way through practically all the classes.

In 1920 Tracey achieved the height of his ambition, the winning of the heavyweight championship of Australia. He defeated Albert Lloyd who was the title holder.

Tracey was born at Johannesburgh, South Africa and comes from the Kimberley district.

He started as an amateur, but finding the fistic game rather slow in his home town decided to set out for Sydney, the Australian mecca for mitt pushers.

Tracey was without funds when he reached such a decision, so set out on foot from Rockampton, in Queensand. It took him four months and three days to cover the 1,200 miles, but he made good.

HOW RADIO WORKS.

Radio waves in the air behave pretty much like waves in the water.

Suppose a string is attached to a stone which is plunged in and out of the water, constantly sending out wave lengths—this is just the operation of a radio transmitter during a sending.

If the stone is large and more force or pressure is put behind it, the waves will travel outward further.

Just so with a radio transmitter. If the source of power is greater, the electromagnetic waves will travel a longer distance.

But length of the wave will remain the same. The amount of power of a sending set has nothing to do with the wave length.

Wave lengths depend on the amount of inductance and capacity in the antenna circuit of the set and the frequency with which the alternations take place in the transmitted current.

In the transmitting instrument there is an inductance consisting of a spiral coil or heavy copper wire which is variable. By means of this mean inductance may be added and the wave length increased.

If the main antenna has too much inductance and the wave length is too long, a condenser of about .001 capacity is placed in series with the antenna circuit to cut down the length.

Wave lengths travel with the speed of light—186,000 miles a second.

The waves may be sent out in one direction, if the antenna is constructed directionally.

Take a large, flat stone and let the largest surface strike the water first. The waves will travel with more volume in one direction.

In radio transmitting the directional aerial is used only when the transmitting stations want to throw the most of their energy in one direction.

Broadcasting stations do not use directional antennas. They want to cover the largest possible area.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL DOES ADMIT ERRORS.

But Denies Department Employs Thugs and Criminals.

TORONTO, April 19—(Canadian Press).—From a mass of correspondence and reports Attorney-General Raney in Legislature yesterday undertook to prove that the department was not deliberately employing "Thugs, Criminals and Felons" to assist in administration of the Ontario Temperance Act, as has been previously charged by T. H. Lennox, K.C., Conservative member for North York.

Taking up case after case brought forward by Mr. Lennox in his charges, Hon. Mr. Raney maintained that in each instance either the original basis of criticism with respect to the operator was untrue or that the Department, immediately it had conclusive proof of the undesirability of an employee, had dismissed him. In one of two instances did the Attorney-General admit "errors" on the part of his subordinates in not making sufficient investigations into records of prospective liquor operators, or in continuing in employment a man who had made a slip.

There were a few tense moments during the Attorney-General's address of over an hour and half, when, in response to Hon. Mr. Raney's question, Mr. Lennox denied absolutely that he had paid for or had promised to pay for any of the vast amount of information respecting O.T.A. enforcement.

JAPANESE FORCES REMAIN NEUTRAL.

Will Act in Siberia For Maintenance of Peace.

TOKIO, Japan, April 19.—(Canadian Press.)—The Commander of Japanese forces in Siberia has ordered his troops to maintain a neutral attitude, as the failure of the Dairen Conference does not signify a breach of the diplomatic interior. These troops will act for maintenance of peace.

LIGHTNING SET FIRE TO HOUSE.

Bethany Home Had a Narrow Escape. Personal Mention.

BETHANY, April 19—During the storm on Monday night, Mr. Wm. McCartney's house was struck by lightning. The bolt hit the tall chimney on the east side, knocking the top off, pasisng on down to the cellar. The curtains were burned off the window near the telephone, and the arrester of the telephone was twisted off the wall. As some of the family were up, the fire was quickly put out before further damage was done.

Held a Tea.

The Young Ladies' Mission Club gave a tea on Easter Monday in the basement of the Methodist Church. During the tea hour Mr. P. C. Brown's victrola supplied music.

After full justice had been given to the dainty Easter tea provided by the girls, a short programme was given as follows:

Recitation by Miss Hazel Jackson, "The Volunteer Organist."

Duet by Misses Gertrude Dewell and Verna Belle Lee, "My Isle of Golden Dreams."

A report of the work done by the girls during the year was given here by the secretary, Miss Priscilla Howden, and this was very encouraging.

Recitation by Helen Byers, "Mr. Nobody."

Solo by Miss Olive Wake, "Smiling Through."

Mr. Beckel, the pastor, who was also chairman, gave a very interesting address. He compared the lives of the young ladies of China to the lives of the young ladies of Canada. There was no doubt but what the lives of the girls in Canada were much superior to the lives of the girls in China.

Solo by Miss Violet Jackson, "In the Days You Make Believe."

Recitation by Karl Monk, "An Old-time Chinese School."

The National Anthem and the Mizpah benediction brougnt this pleasant evening to a close.

Peculiar Accident.

Mr. James Hannah, who lives a few miles out of the village, met with a peculiar accident on Monday. He was driving into the village with a horse and buggy, with a second buggy hitched on behind, when they struck a soft spot in the road. The horse, in its struggles to get out of the rut, broke the whippletree of the buggy, and dragged Mr. Hannah out over the dashboard, badly bruising his arm, which needed the doctors attention.

Personals.

Mr. Sandy Kelly, of Cavan, was a business visitor to the village on Tuesday.

Mrs Frank Galbraith, of Port Hope, visited friends in the village on Easter Monday.

Mr. Ormond Wright returned home on Monday after spending the holiday with friends in Lindsay.

Mr. Nelson Brown, of the Bank of Toronto staff, Hastings, spent Easter with his father, Mr. Wm. Brown.

Miss Flossy McGahey, of Lindsay, visited her uncle, Mr. Milton Wright, and family for a few days.

A LARGE FUNERAL WAS HELD AT APSLEY

Andrew Wilson Was Well-Known Throughout the District—Apsley News.

APSLEY, April 19. — The seating capacity of St. George's church at Apsley was taxed to its utmost on Easter Sunday afternoon when more than a hundred and fifty people from the surrounding district assembled to pay their last tribute of respect to the late Andrew Wilson, who was laid to rest in the churchyard by the grave of his wife, who predeceased him four years ago.

The funeral sermon was preached by the Rev. C. A. G. Spence, who spoke in glowing terms of the qualities of the deceased, who was held in high esteem by every one in the community. The Rev. W. Hall, the Methodist minister, assisted in the service at the graveside.

The pallbearers were Mr. T. J. Wilson, Harry Wilson, Albert Wilson, John Buchanan, Robert Steen and Dan Whitmore.

The late Mr. Wilson, who was in his 70th year, was born in County Donegal, Ireland, and came to Chandos Township, when 15 years old. He has lived here continuously ever since and was for many years a member of the Municipal Council. He won the esteem of all by his integrity and uprightness, and his death is deeply regretted.

Easter Monday.

A cloudless Easter Day was followed on Monday morning by a heavy thunderstorm, the rainfall totalling 1.05 inch, averaging 1-4 of an inch an hour. Another severe electrical storm, the lightning being extremely vivid, visited the district late in the evening.

Personals.

Newton Downer, who has been criticaly ill with pneumonia, is recovering.

Ms. J. Downing, after an absence of several weeks through illness, was able to preside at the organ at St. George's church at the evening services last week.

Mr. Tom Lean, after a visit with relatives at Apsley, returned on Tuesday to his home in British Columbia.

Mr. Joe Wilson desires to express his sincere thanks on behalf of himself and sisters to their many friends for expressions of sympathy in their bereavement.

HAPPENINGS IN NORTH MONAGHAN.

Birthday Party in St. George's Church Was a Success—News in Brief.

BROWNTOWN, April 19.—Quite a number of people attended the "birthday party" held in the basement of St. George's church on Monday evening, April 17. Mr. Sowden occupied the chair, in the absence of Rev. W. R. Courage, who was taken ill suddenly, Sunday last.

After the programme the members of the Ladies' Guild served refreshments.

The programme was as follows: Mr. Turner, piano, overture; Mr. Cooper, song selected; Mr. Lighowler, A series of comic songs; Miss Gladys Jay, recitation; Mr. and Mrs. Barnes, duet! Miss Edna Pilling, piano solo; Mr. Johns, recitations; Messrs. Sowden and H. Rew, duet Mrs. Barnes, recitation; vocal selections by the Misses Mary Lesurf, Mabel Scott and Mrs. H. Rew, Jr., were well received.

Mr. Quinn was the accompanist for the evening.

The business meeting scheduled to be held on Tuesday evening was postponed indefinitely.

On Sunday, April 16th, an interesting and helpful Children's service was held in St. Georges' church South Peterboro. Mr. J. J. Turner had full charge of the service, and Miss Andrews officiated at the organ.

Mr. Sowden had charge of the evening service, owing to the sudden illness of the pastor, Rev. W. R. Courage.

The Otonabee is very high, just now, and many of the householders in this district are complaining that water is backing up into their cellars.

Mr. W. B. Anderson Crawford's Grove, has rented his house and land and intends moving into his other dwelling near by, at present under construction.

LAMP TO PIERCE FOG.

Heavy London fog necessitated the invention of a lamp that would be powerful enough to pierce it and let the driver see where he is going.

This lamp, therefore, has been made to be attached beneath the running board and controlled from the dash. Its rays are directed along the side so that the driver can keep sight of the curb.

"CHASING THE MOON"—WILLIAM FOX PRODUCTION

At the ROYAL, Commencing Tomorrow.

AT THE THEATRES

CAPITOL — First anniversary week of this theatre. Eight reel super-special, "Footfalls," an entirely new type of photoplay. Snub Pollard Comedy. Pathe News Topics, Aesops Fables Cartooning.

REGENT — Special Paramount Week. "Idols of Clay," a Goldwyn production, "Milestones," "The Sky Ranger," Pathe Review and Chester comedy, "Movie Mad."

ROYAL — Easter week special, Hope Hampton in "Stardust." Also a Pathe hunting adventure, "Catching a Coon Alive," and an irresistibly funny Toonerville comedy, entitled "A Toonerville Tangle."

AT THE ROYAL.

The programme for to-night is varied in assortment of subjects, and includes two specially interesting features. Playgoers Pictures presents J. P. McGervan in a picture of the east and of the west called "Discontented Wives.' Its heroine is a girl who gives up the luxuries her father had always provided to marry the man she loved and go west with him to help him find their fortune in the gold regions of California.

Did this hot house flower stand transplanting to the wild hills? Was her love for her husband great enough to endure the loneliness and desolation of the present for the sake of a rosy future?

"Discontented Wives" presents no problems, but does relate, in a straightforward manner, a problem of married life that might have, but luckily did not end tragically.

The other feature we consider one of the most entrancing plays ever thrown on a Peterborough screen, and Hope Hampton, who takes the leading role, one of the most accomplished actresses we have ever presented. The play is entitled "Stardust," and its plot grows in interest and grips attention keenly from start to finish. It is the story of a small town girl raised by narrow-minded parents, whose prurient, narrow-minded thoughts seek evil in every innocent amusement, but would sell fake mining stock to a blind widow. She is forced into marriage with the spoilt son of a silly couple to whom her father owes money. His parents are also of the same single track, narrow gage class of muck-raking mentality as her parents. He leads her a dog's life, and, one morning after slapping her face the night before, wakes up to find her gone to New York. Here after many trials and reverses of luck, her voice secures for her a leading part in grand opera. The play ends most happily without her either divorcing her husband or effecting a reconciliation with him. Miss Hampton has had many lucrative offers to play in "vamp" pictures, but will appear ony in such plots as convey a high standard of morality. In addition to these superb features there is a Toonerville comedy showing our old friend "the skipper," a Pathe hunting adventure and pictures shewing fully the power houses and power plant in operation at Niagara Falls.

To-morrow's programme is one of specially selected Fox feature pictures. Tom Mix, the world's greatest exponent of Western life, appears in a six-reel drama called "Chasing the Moon," which has its plot laid in a Western ranch and leads to life in Russia. Maurice Flynn, the new Fox star, takes the leading role in "Bucking the Line," a society and railway tale of adventure. Then there is a Fox comedy called "Small Town Stuff," and the ever funny Jimmy Aubrey in another laughable comedy entitled "Mules and Mortgages."

Capitol Entertainment

The feature picture presentation to-morrow will be "Find the Woman," a Cosmopolitan production, featuring Alma Rubens leading woman of "Humoreque" Larry Semon in his latest comedy, "The Show." Added attraction, Flora Shaw, Toronto's favorite soprano.

FINE ROLE FOR ALMA RUBENS

Popular Player is Featured in "Find the Woman."

Alma Rubens, who is the featured player in "Find the Woman," a Cosmopolitan Production released by Paramount, is a descendant of Peter Paul Rubens, the famous Flemish painter. By a peculiar coincidence there was placed in one of the settings in this picture — a drawing room in the home of the character interpreted by Miss Rubens — a bronze statuette of the great painter.

The actress, while not an adept at handling the palette, is thoroughly at home in any art museum; indeed she spends much of her spare time in the Metropolitan Museum in New York City.

In "Find the Woman" Miss Rubens plays a part well suited to her outstanding talents. She is seen as Sopie Carey, a concert singer, who befriends a girl from a country town who is in New York to try to make her way on the stage. The two young women are strangely involved in a murder mystery, one of the most sensational in years. It is known that about the time the victim was killed in his office a woman was seen leaving the room by way of a fire escape. Thus it is up to the police to "Find the Woman."

Arthur Somers Roche wrote the story for Cosmopolitan Magazine and Doty Hobart adapted it to the screen. It was directed by Tom Terriss, who also directed "Boomerang Bill" with Lionel Barrymore. Eileen Huabn, well known on the speaking stage has an important role, as have George MacQuarrie, Norman Kerry, Harrison Ford, Ethel Duray and Henry Sedley.

Last time to-day, William Fox super-special production, "Footfalls."

AT THE REGENT.

MACLEAN'S ARMY "UNIE" AGAIN ON DUTY

Used in First Starring Vehicle It Serves in New Film.

Douglas MacLean's famous uniform, the disappearence of which was the basis of much of the action of "Twenty-Three and a Half Hours' Leave", makes its second, and probably last appearance in "The Rookie's Return", MacLean's latest Paramount picture produced by Thomas H. Ince, which will be featured at the Regent Theatre tomorrow as the rookie dons mufti and places the favorite "unie" carefully away in moth balls.

When it was decided that the young star was to appear in other comedy in which he was to portray the role of one of Uncle Sam's "four million", the well-known olive drab was still included in his ward robe. In order to convert it from the spick and span uniform of the training camp days to the battle-marred uniform of the returning veteran it was necessary to subject it to considerable rough treatment, but in spite of it's dirt and tears, it is the same one which shared honors with MacLean in his premiere production.

"The Rookie's Return" is said to be the most original and entertaining comedy in which he has yet appeared. Doris May plays opposite the star.

Business Success

Depends largely upon your health. Without good health you cannot devote proper energy to all your business problems, and eventually business declines.

At this time of the year we frequently hear the term

SPRING FEVER

And it is usually mentioned, jokingly, as a synonym for laziness. However, it has a foundation that goes deeper than mere laziness. Spring Fever is a very real ailment. It is due to faulty elimination. This prevents the body from adapting itself to the warmer weather of spring and induces a feeling of lassitude, dullness and an absolute distaste for physical or mental effort.

THE BODY

Takes in food, water and air, and gives off wastes from all of these through the organs of elimination. All of the organs concerned in the process of elimination depend, for strength and healthful activity, upon the impulses which travel over the nerves. When any of these organs have become weakened and partially inactive, the cause will be found in pressure upon the nerves which supply impulses to the affected organs. THE CHIROPRACTOR finds the vertebra which is responsible for this pressure, and by means of a specific adjustment restores it to normal position, thus freeing the nerve of pressure and permitting it to carry proper impulses to strengthen the weakened tissues.

IF YOU ARE SUFFERING FROM SPRING FEVER, TAKE CHIROPRACTIC VERTEBRAL ADJUSTMENTS AND BE RESTORED TO YOUR NORMAL DEGREE OF EFFICIENCY.

THE WEATHER

Rain, and still more rain! The poet has sung of "April showers" and "May flowers." but this season the shower have been more of the nature of heavy downpours. Last evening we had another one. Almost one-third (.30) of an inch fell, and this morning a mantle of white covered the earth. On April 17th last year we had 2 1-2 inches of snow and the corporaton snow plows made their rounds, so the weather might be worse.—W.P.

TO CONSERVE THE WATER IN STONEY LAKE

Loss Would Be Considerable If Lumber Companies Do Not Unite in Log Driving.

AFFECT POWER.

The Utilities Commission yesterday afternoon, in view of the serious power shortage that followed low water in the Otonabee and Trent Rivers two years ago, considered the loss in water if the Carew Lumber Company of Lindsay and the Peterborough Lumber Company did not unite in their log-driving operations from the upper lakes. It was stated that the companies were making individual drives, and the loss in water would represent an entire foot off the surface of Stoney Lake.

All Are Affected.

"Everybody is affected by a shortage of power," said Manager H. O. Fisk, and the other members of the Commission viewed with alarm the situation. One member mentioned "forcing" the companies to make a single drive, but he was informed that the lumber companies were given wide powers, and they could not be "forced." It was a situation the Commission felt that could only be adjusted by co-operation. A member suggested that the Manufacturers' Association might be in a position to induce the companies to unite their operations.

A letter was read from T. H. Stinson, of Lindsay, regarding the proposed acquiring by the municipalities of the powers of the Central Ontario district, and suggesting a meeting of the ones that have shown the greatest interest prior to a general meeting. A resolution was passed that Mr. Stinson be informed that the Commission is quite ready to assist him in whatever plan he deems best.

A Good Buy.

G. L. Ramsay, of Ramsay and Wilde, wrote saying that if settled with immediately, he would waive any claim he might have in the $2,500 by which their contract price was reduced, and offering steel left at the plant to the Commission for $50. It was resolved that Ramsay and Wilde be paid the balance of their contract price, less the $2,500 by which it was reduced by agreement, less $400 for balance of work to be done, and plus $198.53 allowed them on account of the sales tax they paid, provided the Commission's solicitor approves of the settlement being made at this time. Superintendent R. L. Dobbin was authorized to buy the two tons of steel offered for $50, as it was felt to be a good "buy."

New Services.

Mr. and Mrs. Boddison, Wolfe Street, waited upon the Commission, urging that water service be given to residents of Wolfe Street, east of Monaghan Road. Superintendent Dobbin reported the cost of a four-inch main on Wolfe Street, 350 feet easterly from Monaghan Road, at $577.50. The ten per cent. revenue which is required by law to cover maintenance and sinking fund would be $57.75, and the estimated revenue from three houses $63.18. This allowed a small surplus, but on the 12-inch main it would be necessary to extend down Monaghan Road from Patterson to Wolfe, there would be a shortage of $67.25.

Chairman Robert Hicks explaintd to Mr. and Mrs. Boddison that it was necessary to get a revenue of ten per cent. The report, he said, was not favorable financially, but he would not say definitely that the work would not be done. The main down Monaghan Road had to be laid some time, he said. He made it clear that the Commission is desirous of extending its service.

"What are we to do in the meantime? My son has sunk a well, and the water isn't fit to drink," said Mrs. Boddison.

"We didn't say we wouldn't do it. We'll do the best we can," replied Mr. Fisk.

Mrs. Boddison declared more houses would be built there, and the Chairman said if those who are going to build would sign an agreement it would make the chances of them getting water better.

The Superintendent reported that many new services were being put it. There are about 15 orders on the books now, and others in sight, and they were busy filling them. Ten of these were for new houses, the Superintendent said.

TURNED DOWN BILL.

TORONTO, April 20.—(Canadian Press.)—The Private Bills Committee of the Ontario Legislature this morning refused to pass a bill, which would have enabled P. E. Blondin, former Postmaster-General, to practice law in the Province of Ontario on passing an examination prescribed by the Law Society of Upper Canada.

Albert Smoke Was Given a Long Black Cigar When Finished Race

BOSTON, April 20.—(Special) — Albert Smoke, the Peterborough Indian, picked by thousands as the winner of yetserday's Boston Marathon, and who came in third, time 2.22.49 3-5, made a wonderful showing, beating out the records of fifteen winners of the same race in past years. A few minutes after the race he was smoking one of his black smokers, and seemed very happy to know he had done so well. The fourth man was Victor McCauley, running under Boston colors, but a native of Windsor. The old timer, Fabre, of Montreal, was tenth man, but eleven minutes behind De Mar. When De Mar started 11 years ago the doctor was not going to let him run on account of a weak heart. After the race yesterday the same doctor told him his heart was perfect. A man, 70 years of age, not a Marathoner, but in running togs, followed the runner over the course and finished the 25 miles.

BIRMINGHAM CAR SAFELY NEGOTIATED ROUGH RIDE

Large Crowd of Spectators Cheered As Car Dashed Over the Log Roadway at Thirty-Five Miles An Hour.

Birmingham Progress.

Another Birmingham promise was fulfilled last evening at 5.30 o'clock, when a Birmingham automobile was subjected to a "rough ride" test. A specially constructed road of split eight and ten-inch logs was laid on Water Street between Charlotte and Simcoe Streets, over which the Birmingham car was driven, first at a low rate of speed and then at a thirty-five mile an hour clip. The several hundred spectators who lined the course got their money's worth when the car "shimmied" over the log road. It was a gruelling test, but the big car emerged safely as it has on many similar occasions. The final thirty-five mile dash over the hazardous road-bed was greeted with a round of applause by the spectators. Prominent Birmingham officials were present, also representatives of some of the automotive trade journals.

The car used in the test was the personal property of Mr. Byron Lederer, managing director of Birmingham, Limited, this city. This makes a total of one hundred and thirteen endurance tests this particular car has successfully negotiated. The course was well patrolled by the police, and many who were unable to get a close-up view, due to the denseness of the crowds which lined both sides of the street, stood on trucks, and some even went so far as to view the proceedings from nearby trees and other high places. There was a large representation of business men and city officials, many of whom expressed themselves as thoroughly convinced of the superior qualities of the Birmingham car.

Dinner at the Empress Hotel.

At the close of the demonstration Mr. Byron Lederer entertained at the Empress Hotel a number of Birmingham officials, also several Peterborough officials and business men. The speeches at the close of the dinner were brief and to the point. Mr. Lederer introduced his guests in a very pleasing manner and reviewed some of the efforts he has made to establish Birmingham, Limited, of Canada. He said it was the intention of the company to get into intensive production, and referred to the fact that the Peterborough plant has made such progress as to make it possible to show a complete new Birmingham car at the Peterborough Motor Show.

Performance Counts.

At Mr. Lederer's request, Mr. Warren B. Hastings, an automotive engineer, and one of the leading writers on automotive subjects in Canada, gave a short but interesting resume of his experience with the Birmingham car which Mr. Hastings had the privilege of testing out in Toronto a short time ago.

Mr. Hastings selected the worst roads in Toronto for testing out the car, and returned convinced that the Birmingham car was second to none. "Performance is what counts in car construction," said Mr. Hastings. In this respect he said the Birmingham had no superior. He had answered many inquiries from the trade concerning various points involved in Birmingham construction, and was able to say that the car possessed all the advantages claimed by the company, and more that might be added.

Canadian Roads.

Mr. J. B. Mansfield, president of the Mansfield Steel Corporation, Detroit, and actively identified with many other large industries in the United States, was the next speaker. Mr. Mansfield defined his relations with Birmingham Motors, as that of consulting engineer. He enumerated some of the fine points of the Birmingham car, and incidentally remarked that the Birmingham had a little more than three hundred pounds of unslung weight. This was considerably less than any other car on the market, and is one of the reasons for its "roadability." In this respect, as in many others, the Birmingham car is not equalled by any other make of automobile. It is one of the simplest cars in the world to-day in point of construction, and there is not a single part that cannot be replaced in two hours by the average mechanic.

Commenting on the question of roads, Mr. Mansfield made the statement that Canada is losing tourist trade to the amount of twenty-five million dollars annually as a result of the poor condition of the roads. On the other hand, some of the finest garden spots in the world are located in Canada.

Leading Industry.

Mr. Byron Lederer, managing director of Birmingham Motors, Ltd., said he hoped to see Birmingham Motors become one of Canada's leading industries. He said he had met with many obstacles in his efforts here, but so far has successfully overcome them and was able to announce that the company was actually in production.

Mr. Homer Sibley, Buffalo representative of Birmingham Motors, paid an unexpected tribute to Mr. Lederer, whom he characterized as the founder of Birmingham Motors, Limited. "There was never a man in the world but what had his ups and downs, and more often it was 'downs,'" said Mr. Sibley. The latter commented on Mr. Lederer's business qualities and his success in connection with Birmingham Motors.

At the close of the meeting a number of the officials and shareholders visited the local plant of Birmingham Motors, and were shown the various steps in the assembling of automobiles.

Belleville Train Had Engine Trouble

The 8 a.m. Belleville train pulled into Peterborough this morning two hours behind schedule, due to engine trouble. The train was hitting along at its usual clip until it reached Hastings at 7 p.m. Then trouble started. The engine blew out a water pipe and the fire was put out. An S.O.S. was sent out to Peterborough, and it was two hours before a locomotive arrived from here. The engine had to be backed all the way down, and on this account was unable to make a great deal of speed. Meanwhile the passengers had had an opportunity to get breakfast and see the town after they had tired of the vista of dull grey water, lined with occasional buildings, that is observed from the train. The stranded travellers were not loth to leave the town, and doubtless when the rescuing engine spluttered into view and replaced the incapacitated iron monster that had given out en route, there was a small-sized cheer.

MESLEY DID NOT WEAR A GAS HELMET

Jury Brought in Verdict of Accidental Death in Case of Alfred Mesley Who Met Death at Gas Works.

THE EVIDENCE HEARD

A verdict of accidental death, which did not incorporate any recommendations regarding additional precautions being taken against accidents, was returned by the coroer's jury last night at the resumed inquest in the police court of Alfred Mesley, repair man at the gas works, who was asphyxiated while at work on April 12th. Coroner Dr. T. N. Greer, who presided, and Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., anticipated recommendations that would impress upon employees of the works the danger of their occupation. Dr. Greer favoured making the wearing of gas masks compulsory when their work was dangerous as Mesley's was on that occasion, and he also suggested having printed notices of warning conspicuously displayed in the works. Mr. Hatton stood for an absolute rule that no one should work alone.

The jury were out about 20 minutes when they brought in the following finding: We, the jury empanelled to enquire into the death of Alfred Mesley find as follows—the aforesaid Alfred Mesley came to his death from gas poisoning on the 12th day of April, 1922, in the purifier at the gas works on Simcoe street, and that according to evidence submitted, his death was accidental.

Dr. Malcolm McCulloch.

The first witness called was Dr. Malcolm McCulloch. He stated that he was called at the hospital after 11 a.m. When he reached the works deceased lay in a rear room. A fellow employee was making attempts at resuscitation. He turned deceased over on his back and examined him. Dr. McCulloch had the pulmotor called, meanwhile carrying on artificial means to resuscitate. He made a further examination and as he was in doubt as to heart action gave a hypodermic injection of strychnine.

Dr. McCulloch told how the pulmotor was used without avail for 15 minutes. There was no response in colour or heart beat and he concluded deceased was dead when he first saw him. From what he saw later he had no hesitation in saying death was caused by asphyxiation.

Robert Morrison.

Robert Morrison, assistant fireman, testified to finding Mesley in the purifying room about 11.20 a.m. Deceased was lying face downwards with his head partly over the open box. He moved Mesley's head slightly and called for help. He was carried down to the blacksmith shop and laid on his face. Witness said he tried to resuscitate him. So far as he could tell there was no sign of life. The body was cold, but not rigid. Witness said he saw Mesley about 8.20 or 8.30 that morning.

Did Not Wear Mask.

Alfred Mesley had been employed as general repair man at the gas works about two years, Superintendent Harry Beal said. He looked after all gas pipes and steam pipes, and under the supervision of Alfred Cummings, the foreman, made many repairs. So far as he knew he had been a capable man. Although it was understood that no one was to go in the purifying room alone or without a mask, Mesley had that morning, the superintnedent said, not acted on the verbal instructions given him. The windows were closed, making the danger greater.

Was Repairing Valve.

Deceased had in Mr. Beal's opinion been pre-occupied and did not consider his danger. He had made what witness considered fifteen minutes' repairs on a valve in the room. He had evidently found it leaking, gone back to get his tools and started to put in a new packing Mr. Beal said that when he took off the bonnet considerably more gas would be released.

This was the first time he had known him not to follow instructions, stated the superintendent. In previous repairs in the room the windows had always been open and some one watching. He had known Mesley to use the gas masks and he told on what work. These masks, he said, were in good condition and conveniently placed. For the jury he demonstrated the two types of mask used. Deceased could have had a man with go him him the fatal morning for the asking, Mr. Beal said.

Only Accident.

It was the first accident at the works, Suprintendent Beal stated. Mr. Hatton examined him closely on how the company imparted its instructions to the men, and Mr. Beal said the dangers were impressed up-

PETERBORO MOTOR SHOW OPENS IN BLAZE OF COLOR

Difficulty Crossing The Chemong Bridge

Owing to the heavy rollers on Chemong Lake to-day, the repair gang could not venture on the structure at all, and the lowering skies do not indicate that to-morrow the lake will be any more placid. The bridge is intact, but an unusually severe pummelling by wind and water has torn away great sections of rail, and the planking on the approaches is reported in a precarious condition. It is said that farmers crossing the bridge have had to lay planks at either end to reach the shore in safety.

The bridge was to be closed to-day and to-morrow for repairs. As repairs could not be made on account of the high sea running the bridge was left open, and persons venturing across do so at their own risk. A journey across the floating structure is wrapped with great danger, a resident of the village said to-day. Water is sweeping over it in practically all sections, the flooring is insecure, and long sections of the hand rail are absent. The repair men are anxiously waiting for fine weather to make repairs as they are apprehensive of an accident.

Dazzling New Cars and Bright Decorative Effects Have Transformed the Armouries Into a Mecca For Hundreds of Visitors.

THE OPENING NIGHT.

Despite the intermittent rain of the early evening which changed later to heavy woolly blobs of straight-falling snow, the Motor Show got off to a good start last night with an attendance that bid fair to rival list year's first-night record. The cheerful lines of bright electric lights above the entrance to the Armories winked a welcome at crowds of merry-makers all evening, and the huge grey building with its flag-draped and pennant-hung interior, echoed to the music and hum of many voices through hours of fun and mirth.

The parade, with Mr. Andrew Brown in charge, with its tooting horns and purring motors, grew to fine dimensions this year, and made a brave showing in its circle of the city, via Charlotte, Park, Hunter, George, Water and Antrim streets. The Fire and Police Department representatives lead the way.

To the combined playing of the bands of the Salvation Army and of the Peterboro Rangers, with a following that included stately sedans and large trucks filled with uproarious small boys, the parade, with gleaming lights, wound its serpentine way up to the Armouries.

The Motor Show was formally opened last evening by Rev. C. J. Phelan of Campbellford, a former president for many years of the Peterboro Health Association. Rev. Father Phelan congratulated the Health Association and all those who were working with them this year, saying that it was a great pleasure for him to be with his Peterboro friends once more, especially on an occasion which meant so much to the work of the Society.

Decorated Booths.

The gaily decorated booths which form the central portion of the vast hall also filled with samples to dedozens of glistening cars in brave array, with the western end of the hall also filed with samples to delight the eye of motor-lovers. From a large grey model, its hood crossed by broad lavender ribbon streamers, to the very latest ideas in trim roadsters and jaunty runabouts, the cars this year are an outstanding exhibit of the very last word in automobile construction, design and finish.

The crowds, through which flower-girls with red and pink roses, wended their beguiling way, eddied and flowed about the different booths. Articles, frivolous and useful, and lots of good things for the inner man, filled the different spaces. At the entrance, the 57th Regimental Chapter I.O.D.E., has a lovely flower booth in green and white lattice effect, with mauve and green streamers topping an arbour of green, white and orange foliage.

Potted plants and cut flowers are here, fresh and fagant, making a bright spot of color for entering patrons.

The King's Daughters are in charge of the next section, a white and mauve arrangement centred around a very attractive tree, hung with gay orange surprise parcels.

Here one may buy the daintiest of

LOCAL RELIEF COST $13,000

Total of Unemployment Charity Dole Was Three Times Greater Than Last Year.

The sum of $12,936.33 was the total of Peterborough's unemployment relief distributed between January 17th and April 15th this year. It represents a daily disbursement of about $145 during that period, and it is three times greater than last year's total of $4,939.70.

According to the agreement between the city and the Dominion and Ontario Governments, by which the cost of this scheme of relief is equally apportioned between them, Peterborough pays one-third of the total, which, based on the City Hall returns quoted above, will be $4,312.11. Peterborough's allotment of the cost this year is virtually equal to the total by the city and the two Governments last year.

The fact that nearly $13,000 was handed out in doles here this winter will probably impress the general public with the comparative magnitude of this public charity in Peterborough more sharply than all the previous references to this distribution. And the three hundred per cent. increase during a period that was two weeks shorter than last year's is also a significant aspect of the system which close observers believe will become permanently fixed in this province if it is continued another year or two.

Ford Coupe, 1921, Like New, Bargain

AN ALL-YEAR CAR.

Mr. J. F. Lymburn, of Lymburn & Reid, barristers, Edmonton, in a letter written in February, says: "Since I purchased my Overland Touring Car in June of last year it has given me good satisfaction. I have found it reliable, and economical as to gas and oil. The car has run over 3,500 miles and I have had no tire trouble. If this winter can be taken as a fair specimen of weather, then the car can be used all the year round."

LESS MEAT IF BACK AND KIDNEYS HURT

Take a Glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers You

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or the kidneys are not acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder troubles.

Jad Salts cannot injure anybody, makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and the urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

PRICE THREE CENTS — PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, APRIL 20, 1922 — PRICE THREE CENTS

MEMBERS ARE LECTURED ON MANNERS IN THE HOUSE

Undignified Flinging of Personalities is Scored. Tooms Refuses to Answer Questions of Halcrow.

FARM SETTLEMENT.

TORONTO, April 20.— Premier Drury did not agree with the suggestion made in the Ontario legislature yesterday afternoon that a committee of the house be appointed to investigate a means of getting people of this province from the cities back on to the land, expressing the opinion that it would accomplish no tangible results. Hon. W. R. Rollo introduced a bill to enable municipalities to meet the expenditures in connection with unemployment by five year debentures instead of having to pay all such obligations off this year.

In reply to an inquiry by Hon. Howard Ferguson, Hon. Mr. Rollo announced that the Ontario government's share to municipalities in connection with unemployment relief would be about $400,000, and Minister of Public Works Biggs stated that the cost to the province in connection with works instituted to help out unemployment would be about $350,000, making a total for unemployment under these two headings of $750,000. R. M. Warren and M. Lang continued the debate on the budget.

Speaker Parliament intercepted some cross-fire yesterday afternoon to read a short lecture to the members on rules of debate and due decorum. It followed a speech under question of privilege by R. R. Hall, of Parry Sound, who took exception to a despatch in a paper which he claimed was untrue and reflected on his conduct as mayor of Parry Sound. Mr. Hall started into the more or less local politics of that place and when the point of order was raised, the Speaker called upon him to state his position briefly, which led to considerable delays, ending in the Speaker insisting that the Member for Parry Sound simply deny the staement if he wished and end it there. This was followed by G. G. Halcrow (Hamilton East), asking T. Tooms (Peterborough W.) questions relative to a speech on labor questions which started some friction and the member from Peterborough refused to answer him. At this juncture Speaker Parliament gave the members some advice which he said he had been intending to give them for several days and he did so at this juncture not as referring to any member in particular.

Getting Out of Hand.

The Speaker then referred to delays that always came from flinging personalities across the house, imputing motives to members that cannot be substantiated and generally lowering the dignity of the house. He said that the house had been getting more and more out of hand and he thought it was opportune to impress upon all members that it was only by cool discussions that progress could be made in debates and calling upon all to co-operate to maintaining the dignity of the assembly.

More or less through a misunderstanding H. H. Dewart (Toronto) clashed with Speaker Parliament as he rose while the Speaker was addressing the chamber, to a point of order in connection with a previous incident and the government followers at ouce pounding their desks called "Order." "There is a rule in this house that when the Speaker is on his feet, no honorable member shall interrupt," said Speaker Parlia-

THE SAVING OF DAYLIGHT IS DISCUSSED

Ottawa House Considers Motion to Prohibit the Measure in Any Part of Canada.

NO ACTION.

OTTAWA, April 20. — (Canadian Press).—Daylight saving held the stage in the House during practically the whole afternoon. W. F. Kay, Liberal member for Missisquoi, had a motion calling for an expression of opinion from the House that "it is desirable that legislation should be introduced this session to prohibit the adoption of daylight saving in any part of Canada."

Generally speaking, the trend of opinion was against daylight saving, although the desirability of the resolution in its existing wording was questioned. William Duff, Liberal member for Lunanburg, had an amendment. He moved that the motion merely express the opinion of the House that "it is not desirable that daylight saving time be adopted in any part of Canada."

Discussion was still in progress when it being Wednesday, the House adjourned at six o'clock. The resolution and amendment now go over on the order paper to the end of public bills and orders. It is unlikely that anything further will be heard of them this session.

PRIZE OFFERED TO PROTECT THE PULP INDUSTRY.

Closes August 1.

MONTREAL, April 25.— (Canadian Press.)—A prize of five thousand dollars for a practical method of combating and suppressing the spruce bud worm, bark beetle and borer which have caused such tremendous damage in Eastern Canada and the United States, has been offered by Frank F. J. Bernjum, of Annapolis Royal, N.S., and Montreal. The competition for the prize is to close on August first. Judges in the contest will be: Sir William Price, Quebec; Dr. C. D. Howe, Toronto; Fred A. Gilbert, Bangor, Me.; G. C. Piche, Chief of Forest Service of Quebec; and Ellwood Wilson, Grand Mere, Que.

PARIS, April 20. — (Canadian Press.)— Andre Tardieu yesterday served official notice upon Premier Poincare that he would present an interpellation in the Chamber as soon as it reconvened, upon "the measures the Government intends to take in the face of the menace to France as constituted by the German-Russian Treaty."

Many Killed and Injured in Gale Which Swept Chicago

Sixty-Mile Wind Sweeps Over Lake Michigan, Endangering Navigation. Storm Plays Many Freak Tricks.

CHICAGO, April 20.—(Canadian Press.)—Several persons were killed and scores injured by a sixty-mile wind that swept Chicago yesterday and uprooted trees, unroofed many buildings and destroyed hundreds of windows and signs.

Snow flurries and freezing temperatures followed in the wake of the gales which lashed Lake Michigan into fury and caused storm warnings to be sent broadcast to mariners.

In the downtown district all buildings acted as giant wind scoops, shooting the gale into the streets with such force that pedestrians were swept from their feet.

A mounted policeman was blown from his horse. On one downtown corner seven wagons were overturned in less than two hours. Many automobile tops were ripped from machines.

Last night the Fire Department was busy in many outlying sections clearing the streets of trees snapped off or uprooted, fallen signs and electrical wires.

One boy was killed by a falling sign and a man died from injuries received when he was struck by a tree and another fatally injured by contact with a live wire.

Scores of persons attending a meeting in the Emanuel Baptist Church on Michigan Boulevard, narrowly escaped injury when the top of the spire fell through the roof of the auditorium.

Several persons were injured when the roof of the North Side Turner Hall was loosened, sending bricks into the streets.

During the height of the gale, the Coast Guards began a hard tussle to rescue Uncle Sam, a fishing craft, with four men on board, which became disabled near the mouth of the Chicago River.

The boat was badly pounded by the waves before the men were taken off. The snow flurries and cold were due, according to the Weather Bureau, to a storm in Wisconsin, which travelled from Manitoba Tuesday and is now moving east across the Lakes.

LLOYD GEORGE PRESENTS TWO STERN ALTERNATIVES

Germany Must Scrap the Treaty or Leave the Conference — Plain Talk Clears the Situation.

GERMANS DIVIDED.

PARIS, April 20 (Canadian Press) —Prime Minister Lloyd-George is reported in Genoa advices received here last night to have informed Dr. Wirth, the German Chancellor, yesterday that there were only two possible solutions of the present deadlock.

The first was that the Germans must cease to be admitted to the discussion of Russian affairs at the Conference.

The second was that they must tear up and scrap the treaty made with the Russians.

Chancellor Wirth, the messages stated, while regretting the severity of the latter alternative, did not refuse to take it under consideration, and is reported virtually to have accepted it in principle.

The German delegation is active among other delegations, said these advices, in an effort to obtain a repeal of the Allied decision pronounced against them on Tuesday.

The Germans were particularly insistent in pointing out to the Italian delegation that the departure of the German delegates from Genoa would greatly compromise the Conference.

The German delegation was reported to be divided on Lloyd-George's proposal that the Russo-German pact be scrapped, with Dr. Wirth accepting it in principle and Foreign iMnister Rathenau opposing it.

GENOA, April 20 (Canadian Press). — The German delegates and experts have not yet been able to find a formula whereby to compromise with the Entente Powers, without sacrificing the Russo-German Treaty, although they were in session at a very late hour last night. Efforts are being made to have the Conference formulate a Russian policy in which the Russo-German Treaty can be absorbed, thus giving it the stamp of Conference approval and removing the cause of hard feeling.

The plain language of Premier Lloyd-George to the German statesmen yesterday over the treaty incident, which at one time threatened to disrupt the Economic Conference, was believed to have cleared the political atmosphere, but as neither the German reply to the Allies, nor the Russian reply regarding acceptance of the conditions for the restoration of Russia was forthcoming, the

TRANS-ATLANTIC AVIATORS MEET WITH ACCIDENT

Exact Particulars of Mishap Are Lacking, But Flight Will Be Called Off

ON LAST LEG.

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, April 20.—Canadian Press. — Owing to an accident to their Fairey hydro-aeroplane, the Portuguese aviators must abandon or definitely delay, their trans-Atlantic flight, according to a wireless message received here yesterday.

The flyers had reached St. Paul's Rock, after completing a 900-mile "hop," the longest and the most perilous of their voyage from Portugal to Brazil. They were reported in wireless messages to be making preparations to start on the next leg—to the island of Fernando, Noronha.

Then came the message:

"Plane useless. Aviators hope save motor."

RIO JANEIRO, April 20. — Confirmation was received here yesterday from Pernambuco by the Correio Manhas that the Portuguese hydro-airplane flying from Portugal to Brazil, landed at St. Paul Rocks at 8 o'clock on Tuesday evening.

The official time of the flight is given as 15 hours. The estimated distance flown is approximately 900 miles, thus making the time of the airplane 60 miles an hour.

Confrmation of the arrival of the aviators at St. Paul Rocks was enthusiastically received in all the large cities of Brazil.

Rio Janeiro, with approximately 300,000 Portuguese inhabitants, was a scene of great rejoicing last night. Plans have been made for big celebrations on the arrival of the aviators at Pernambuco, Bahia and Rio Janeiro.

LISBON, April 20.—(Canadian Press).—It was announced by the Ministry of Marine yesterday that if the damage to the hydro-airplane on which the Portuguese aviators have flown to St. Paul's Rocks, is irrepairable, another plane will be sent to enable Captains Coutinho and Sacadura, to enable them to carry out their project.

ST. JOHN, N.B., April 20.—(Canadian Press.)—Henry McLellan, 12 years of age, son of Hugh H. McLellan, Provincial Fire Marshal, may lose the sight of one eye, as a result of an accident Tuesday afternoon. He and three or four other youngsters were tossing bamboo poles. One stuck in the ground and when young McLellan ran to withdraw it, a rod from the hand of one of the other boys pierced his upper lid of one of his eyes.

FLOOD CONDITION NEAR OTTAWA IS GETTING SERIOUS

A Two-Year-Old Child is Drowned at Gatineau Point. Pulp Mills May Be Closed.

TRAFFIC BY BOAT.

OTTAWA, April 20.—(Canadian Press).—The first fatality in the flooded areas contiguous to the Capital was reported yesterday when Alfred Laurin, aged two years and nine months, fell from the back door step of his home at Gatineau Point, into about two feet of water, and was drowned.

The waters of the Ottawa River have risen toi the highest point in about 15 years and have flooded the waterfront on the Quebec side of the river at various places for a distance of several miles. Reports of districts under water came from as far up the river as Aylmer, Que., and in this vicinity a number o. summer cottages have been isolated by the waters. Aylmer village has so far escaped any damagee but a wharf on the riverfront is submerged. In Hull, the E. B.. Eddy Pulp Mills were running at only one fifth of capacity and it is said that a further rise of 12 inches would necessitate the closing down of the mill altogether. The other mills are not affected.

Gatineau Point has been hardest hit by the precipitous rise of the Ottawa. Here nearly one hundred families are more or less isolated and traffic is carried on almost entirely by boat. A further rise in the river, already predicted, would create a serious situation in the village, according to Mayor Legault.

SMOKE'S FINE SHOWING.

Peterborough's Indian runner, Albert Smoke, has earned the hearty congratulations of his home city upon his feat in finishing third in the famous Boston Marathon yesterday. It should be remembered that the fleet-footed Indian had to face a field of sixty-seven of the best runners on the American Continent—and some of the best in the world—a field that included half a dozen men who had won the big race in previous years, and nine out of the first ten to finish last year, and that among the sixty-four runners whom Smoke left behind were athletes whose names are household ones—Mellor, Hatch, Zuna, Fabu, and a score of other famous heroes of the long distance game. It would have been a glorious feat to have been first home, but in finishing as he did Smoke made faster time than the celebrated Tom Longboat when he astounded the athletic world in 1907 by cutting five minutes off the record for the Boston Marathon. Running as he did yesterday, the Peterborough Indian would have beaten Longboat by several minutes, which is striking proof that Smoke accomplished a remarkable feat in his performance at Boston. Incidentally, Peterborough owes much to the Indian for the advertising he has given this city. Perhaps no one individual has ever secured for Peterborough as much publicity as Smoke's presence on the Canadian Olympic team, his capture of the Classic Hamilton Herald race, and his showing at Detroit and Boston has brought about, and he deserves the thanks of the community.

LAWYERS SHOULD BE SATISFIED.

It used to be a favourite weapon of attack with U.F.O. speakers before the twist of circumstances pitchforked the farmer politicians into the seats of the mighty to complain of the presence of far too many lawyers in the Legislature. But the legal fraternity has had its revenge during the past couple of years, and a very remunerative revenge, too. The Farmer Government has been a veritable Santa Claus for the lawyers. No fewer than fifty-five of them were called upon by the Government in the past year, and naturally this thirst for legal assistance has added considerable to the difficulties of that master of finance, the Hon. Peter Smith, the Provincial Treasurer, for the lawyers have been very handsomely rewarded for what they have done. The different commissions appointed by the Drury Government have, as Mr. Hartley Dewart pointed out the other day, proved a very profitable field for the legal fraternity of the Province, who must by this time have reached the conclusion that it is much more profitable to remain out of politics themselves and let the Farmers' Government go on providing the plums. At the same time, one cannot help wondering if the legal department of the Government is functioning as well as it should be, and if it would not be possible for some of the experts of that department to do some of the work that has been parcelled out to other lawyers. The profession at least has neither reason to complain of this Farmers' Government.

PLAN FOR NEXT WINTER.

Peterborough's unemployment relief scheme has been formally discontinued, and it is a matter for rejoicing that the conditions are such as to justify the Council in bringing the relief doles to an end. At the same time, it might be wisdom on the part of the city fathers to consider the future a little bit. Other winters are coming. It is possible that when the snow flies again the unemployment situation may be as bad as ever. What is to be the attitude of the municipality in that event? It is generally agreed that the doles method has had a demoralizing influence. Relief Officer Miller, who perhaps better than any other individual in Peterborough is qualified to speak on such matters, declares that it will take ten years for the community to recover from the effects of the relief system in vogue during the last two winters. In the face of testimony of that kind, the need of a better method of dealing with unemployment becomes evident, and it should be equally obvious that it would be poor business to wait until the emergency eventuates before endeavouring to hit upon a more workable and satisfactory plan. If there is to be more than a normal amount of unemployment next winter the most economical and successful manner of dealing with the situation would seem to be the providing of work of some kind or other, rather than in giving something for nothing. But a solution of that kind is not arrived at at a moment's notice; it will require investigation and planning, and it is not too soon for the matter to be taken under consideration. Merely dismissing the subject from the civic mind until next winter will be of little avail if the conditions of the last two winters are again in evidence.

KILL THE BONUS CRY.

The report that members of the Government side of the Ontario Legislature are discussing the possibility of securing another bonus this session to add to their sessional indemnity, is not hard to believe. Last year, owing to the unusual length of the session, U.F.O. members agitated for and succeeded in putting through a bonus allowance of $600 for the members of the Legislature. A repetition of the bonus system this session would be resented by the majority of the people of the Province, who cannot help feeling that time is being needlessly wasted, that the proceedings of the Legislature are being dragged out to an unnecessary length and that to claim extra remuneration because of a condition of affairs for which the legislators themselves are chiefly responsible is adding insult to injury. And, again, the Government has eliminated the high cost of living bonus from the pay-checks of the Ontario civil servants on the grounds that prices have dropped to such an extent as to render a bonus unnecessary. It is obvious then that, if the Cabinet should prove weak enough to yield to the members who are looking for extra sessional allowances, the administration would find itself wide open to a charge of inconsistency, and in a position where it would be difficult to justify its action. Premier Drury would be well advised to inform the bonus agitators that they will have to struggle along on their ordinary indemnities.

ENGLAND'S HALL—PAUPERIZED WORKERS.

At last, after fifty years of drifting steadily towards the rocks of Socialism, England sees her danger and is now changing her course.

This fact was made very evident in the recent London election. The Labor Party ran 96 candidates. They had a platform of municipal bakeries, dairies, laundries and butcher-shops—just the sort of program that formerly won the support of the masses.

What was the result? Only 16 out of the 96 were elected. The leader of the Labor Party—a man named Gosling—was defeated. This is the most sensational and decisive defeat that the Labor Party has had in twenty years.

The unbearable pressure of the taxes is, for the first time, calling the attention of the English people to the manner in which the public money is being spent.

To their surprise, they have just learned that more than $1,000,000,000 was spent last year in subsidies to the working classes.

Fully 50,000 Government officials are kept busy giving away money that formerly belonged to the taxpayers of Great Britain.

This practice of supplementing wages by Government doles began half a century ago. At first, it was welcomed by manufacturers, as it enabled them to pay low wages and to put a part of their labor cost on the backs of the taxpayers.

Such doles in 1891 amounted to $100,000,000. In 1911, they had grown to $275,000,000. Then came the war, which was the Golden Age of the dole-takers, and the amount rose to a full billion of dollars.

Step by step, the British people were pauperized to an extent that no one but an American can appreciate.

There were free baths, lunches, medical service, pensions, insurance, unemployment doles and so forth. Street-car lines were run at a loss. Houses were built and rented at a loss. And all losses were paid by the taxpayer.

The most popular political program, ever since the days of Gladstone, has been something for nothing, or "ninepence for fourpence."

A premium has been put on idleness, and a penalty has been put on industry. The spirit of self-help has been almost completely destroyed; and the average British workman, at present, has very little initiative or self-reliance.

The more the dole-takers got, the more they wanted. All this munificence on the part of the State has only intensified and emboldened the discontent. The unemployed are now parading the streets with banners that demand "complete maintenance" and "full pay."

The Ministry of Health was practically a distributing agency last year, to give away $135,000,000 of the taxpayers' money. It built 70,000 houses and now finds that it must continue to pay $300 rent per house for the next sixty years.

The Ministry of Labor gave away $110,000,000, and on top of this, it spent $60,000,000 more in unemployment doles. The Board of Education spent $250,000,000. More than $130,000,000 was spent on Old Age pensions, and $550,000,000 on War Pensions. There are now 4,000,000 pensioners living on public money.

Then, in addition to all this, is the vast amount raised by local rates and spent to give the masses something for nothing. In 1883, Herbert Spencer was shocked to learn that the burden of rates had risen to $150,000,000 a year. But that was little compared with what it is today. Last year it was seven times as much—$750,000,000—and fully half of it was spent in the subsidization of the masses.

Talk about Peru! The Incas knew little or nothing about the scope of paternalism, as it has been developed in Great Britain.

Talk about the roomful of gold that the Inca paid as his ransom to Pizarro! That was only 2½ per cent. of the amount that was paid to the British working classes last year, out of the public treasury. Lloyd George gave away 40 rooms filled with gold. The Peruvians, after all, were only pikers in the art of giving away the nation's wealth.

The fact is that the war put the British taxpayer into a twilight sleep; and he is now beginning to wake up and know what has happened to him. He is now objecting to the policy of robbing Peter to pay Paul, and he is demanding that Paul shall bear the fair share of the expenses of a world war.

Also, for the first time, the British citizen is discovering the real nature of Socialism. He understands now that at its best, Socialism is Bureaucracy, and at its worst, it is Bolshevism, and he is not in favor of either. At heart, the average Britisher believes, and has always believed, that neither rich nor poor shall have special privileges and that every man shall stand on his own feet.—Herbert N. Casson, in Barron's.

THE NEW AGE.

As Prince Yamagata lay dying the elected House of the Imperial Diet was the scene of an agitation for the reduction by 50 per cent. of the army which gave Yamagata his career and which his powerful leadership made the most masterful element in the Japanese state. The contrast is symbolical, for though the Diet agitation will fail, it is the sign of a movement which has time on its side. FOUND GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER.

OTTAWA, Acril 20.—(Canadian Press.)—After thirty minutes' deliberation the jury of the Hull Assize Court last night found Albert Deslauriers of Hull, charged with manslaughter, guilty, and recommended the clemency of the court. Sentence will likely be passed to-morrow.

The charge of manslaughter arose out of the death of Napoleon Carisse, of Ottawa, who died in a Hull Hospital last September, from injuries he received from being pitched out of a buggy on Laurier Avenue, Hull, after the vehicle had been struck from behind by a motor car which witnesses testified was in charge of Deslauriers.

CROP REPORT

Following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:—

Frequent showers have been delaying seeding operations, as it has been hard to get on the land in many cases. On well drained fields, however, considerables advance ha been made with spring work.

In Kent, the chief fall wheat and clover have shown a remarkable improvement during the past week owing to warm rains followed by sunshine. Essex also speaks favorably of the present appearance of fall wheat.

Kent reports that a large number of tobacco beds have been prepared and seed sown, although rainy weather has been curtailing operations. One market gardener in that county already has 2,000 sets of early cabbage in the field.

Speaking of the tobacco situation Essex says: "The Cooperative Tobacco Co., which holds a total of over 6,000,000 lbs., reports sales in England recently of Burley at 30c per lb, and upward. The tobacco market is apparently very slowly developing a stronger tone."

Peel says that considerable baled hay is being shipped weekly to Eastern Ontario at prices ranging from $18 to $20 a ton f.o.b., while alfalfa is selling loose at from $17 to $20 a ton.

Bruce says that considerable alfalfa and sweet clover seed is available in that country, the former selling at $25 and the latter at $5 a bushel.

Peterboro states that most of the cattle held over for sale in that county last fall have already been shipped out.

Bruce calls attention to the following peculiar relationship said to exist between feeding sweet clover to cattle and dehorning: "Several complaints have reached this office from farmers who have been feeding sweet clover ensilage during the past year. They complain that when they dehorn their cattle they find great difficulty in checking the blood flow, and several instances have been noted where the animals have bled to death. There does not seem to be any remedy known towards checking this flow."

Grenville fears that too many cattle may be turned on the fields before the grass gets a sufficient start, owing to the scarcity of feed.

Frontenac reports some cheap veal, calves selling at from $3.00 to $4.00 each, some of the better appearing bringing from $5.00 to $6.00.

Peterborough says that the milk supply is increasing, and that farmers are buying extra cows to be ready for the opening of the cheese factories. In other counties most of the factories are already making cheese.

Kent quotes spring lambs as selling at 16c a pound.

Essex says that inquiries are rushing into that office regarding the marketing of wool.

Peel states: "A sale of farm chunks, imported from Saskatchewan, was held in this county a few days ago. A number of the animals showed Belgian and Percheron breeding, while others were evidently Clydesdales and crosses. The highest price paid was $180.00 for handy weight Percheron mares, and the average, on the terms of the sale, was about $150.00."

Berkshire sows, known to be good breeders, are selling at from $40.00 to $50.00 for breeding purposes in Prescott and Russell. Some local breeders are thinking of crossing Berkshires with Yorkshires for bacon purposes.

Frontenac says that the demand for labour is brisk, with hardly enough experienced men to meet the demand.

STEAMER AGROUND IN BIG LAKE STORM.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., April 20.—(Canadian Press.)— An unidentified steamer went aground near Whitefish Point in Lake Superior, late yesterday, according to a radio message received here from the Whitefish Point Station. The vessel was described as a three-masted freighter. A north-west gale swept the Lake throughout the afternoon and marine men believed any small vessel would experience great difficulty off the treacherous shore.

"Our First Year"

(By a Bride.)

The bride who has agreed with her husband that marriage should not interfere with individual liberty, is asked at luncheon, with five girl friends, to give her opinions on love and marriage.

CHAPTER XVI—MAN OR WIFE MORE UNFAIR?

It is hard for me to speak to others of intimate personal matters and so I answered Bonny by quoting things my mother had told me. Mother believed that if women are ever to realize love's finest promises, if ever we are to drag love to higher levels, we will have to pull hard and pull together. Suddenly I found myself quoting as well as I could some of my mother's feminist notions:

"Bonny, dear! Life holds a lot of marvels. But we girls see only one. It's love. We dream about it, exalt it, until it fills every corner of our minds.

"Until it rules everything we do. That's the ancient way. It's alluring. It's delightful for a while. Men have wanted it so—for women.

"But it hasn't made women happy! And when love fails—there's nothing left for the most of us. That is silly. Men don't talk love so."

"While I paused, feeling for a satisfactory conclusion, Jeanne spoke:

"Peg means we girls vision love and the lover too magnificently. We exaggerate. And when our prince turns out a common man we—we're sore! We blame him.

"We're all like George Bradshaw's divorced wife. First we endow a lover with wonders he hasn't got. And then we blame the husband because he isn't what we thought him. Girls, we're just as unfair to men as men are to us. Just as unfair. Only in a different way!"

"I'm not unfair to my husband", protested Mary Smith. "And he would be the last to say so!"

Bonny giggled rudely, then gasped:

"Peg! Is Jack unfair to you"

"Never!"

"You've only been married a month. You mean —not yet!" said Jeanne.

"Jack and I never are going to be what you call 'disillusioned." I explained. "We don't expect love to be all of life. Jack doesn't pretend to be perfect. I know he isn't. I am not. He knows it. We've talked it over. We plan to tolerate each other without complaint!'

"That doesn't sound to me as if you are really in love", remarked Mary Smith, sweetly, as always.

I ignored Mary. I took up my lovely coffee cup and it seemed to contradict my last statement. I was glad that a babel of tongues allowed me to be silent, to think.

That Wedgewood! Jack has asked me not to buy it, not to charge anything more this month. But what was I to do with six for luncheon Only odd cups, and there wasnt the least sense in buying more odd cheap cups which I would loathe.

And so, impulsively, I had stepped to the phone and had ordered six cups and saucers and a salad bowl and six plates to match the Wedgwood I had already owned. It was so easy with my own charge account! And my own check book!

But I couldn't help wishing Jack knew about them, and that I didn't have to "own up' that I had disregarded his first serious request as a husband.

A few minutes at night putting the family wash to soak in the rich, cleansing Rinso suds saves hours of rubbing next day.

Do not put the Rinso direct from the package into the tub. Make the Rinso liquid first.

Mix half a package of Rinso in a little cool water until it is like cream. Then add two quarts of boiling water and when the froth subsides you will have a clear, amber coloured liquid; put it in a tub of cool or lukewarm water and you have enough for a batch of clothes. If the clothes are extra soiled, use more Rinso.

ment as Mr. Dewart continued on his feet. It was smoothed out by his statement that he was not referring to any particular member, "but I think it is opportune to read this, and I wish to tell the honoroable member for Southwest Toronto, I intend to finish reading it." His statement, when completed, brought applause from all quarters of the house.

Back to the Farm.

M. M. MacBride (South Brant) asked that Premier Drury appoint a committee to investigate and evolve a policy to get the unemployed from the cities back on to the land. It was where Canadians should be instead of people coming in from foreign countries of Europe. He thought all parties were ready to co-operate in any proposal to repopulate portions of Ontario which according to reports had been vacated in recent years.

Premier Drury said it was an economic question. The only way to successfully put people on the land was by making farm life sufficiently attractive and remunerative. To pitchfork people from cities without capital and without experience on to the land would be the greatest kind of a mistake. He maintained that the minister of agriculture by rural credits, co-operative selling, and similar undertakings was doing the greatest good in inducing people to go back to the land. He did not think any farms had been absolutely given up, although many were under-developed because of lack of help. He could see no benefit from a house committee on this question.

Wants a Committee.

Hon. Howard Ferguson thought otherwise. He claimed that a house committee could disprove the pessimistic reports about farm conditions in this province and prove not only to the people of Canada but across the ocean that with industry and good judgment farming in this country was a success. He did not think there should be partisan politics mixed in this question which all had a sympathetic interest in.

R. M. Warren, (Rentrew North) continued the budget debate and resented what he claimed was the practise of opposition speakers to refer to the farmer members of the legislature as men of less than ordinary intelligence. He said it was an insult to the farmers—the backbone of this province—and he named several opposition speakers whom he claimed were guilty of flinging such references across the floor of the house. M. M. MacBride, one of the members named, denied that he had ever such imputations Mr. Warren stated and the latter accepted this denial.

Farm Labor Supply.

Mr. Warren said that the supply of farm labor in Toronto at the present time was not equal to the demand and thought any efforts to secure greater co-operation between the farmers and the government employment agencies would be of great assistance to the province. He complimented the minister of highways on the work accomplished on the roads, claiming it had been a year of outstanding progress in this regard.

M. Lang, (Cochrane) registered a strong complaint against a statement Premier Drury made in a speech in the north country that about a million more dollars were spent by the government in northern Ontario than was received in revenue from that district. He said the Premier made many successionists by that speech fixing the value of the north to the remainder of Ontario on a cash basis. There should be no division drawn like that for the people up there were developing that country for all Ontario. He, however, did not agree with the premiers figures and claimed if all the moneys had been properly credited, the revenue on behalf of the northern districts would have been some $300,000 more than the expenditures.

TREATY BEFORE COMMISSION AT FRIDAY MEETING

Reparation Commission Expected to Find Verdict Against Russo-German Pact.

POLISH VIEW.

PARIS, April 20. — (Canadian Press.)—The treaty between Germany and Russia, signed at Rapallo last Sunday, will probably be formally placed before the Reparations Commission next Friday, when the Commission will begin an inquiry to determine whether the agreement conflicts with the Treaty of Versailles.

In commission circles last evening it was pointed out that the Commission would probably decide that the Rapallo pact was in direct violation of Article 248 of the Versailles Treaty. This article in effect gives the Commission first lien on all assets of the German Empire.

While the members of the Commission refrained from formally commenting upon the agreement, the general feeling was that the agreement ought to have been submitted to the Commission for approval. It was considered probable that the Commission would demand, in a note to the German Government, submission of the treaty. The unofficial view was that Germany had violated Article 248 of the Treaty of Versailles by applying her assets or resources to purposes other than reparations.

It has been suggested by some experts that the Rapallo agreement might prove a good thing in that it might increase the paying capacity of Germany but, from a political standpoint the effect of its signing was considered as very bad. On the other hand, it has been pointed out that Germany, under, the treaty with Russia, gives up reparations claims of between fifteen million and twenty million gold marks against Russia, thereby reducing her paying capacity by the amount. The latter view is said to be the one largely held by members of the Commission.

Polish representatives have protested to the Commission against the Russo-German Treaty on the ground that part of Poland which was included in the old Russian Empire has a substantial share in the Russian claim against Germany.

INTER-COUNTY LEAGUE FORMS

RHODESIA CAN'T ACCEPT TERMS.

LONDON, April 20.—(Canadian Press.)— Interviewed prior to their departure for home, says a Reuter despatch from Capetown, the Rhodes delegates to the conference which sought to arrange an agreement for the entry of Rhodesia into the South Africa Union, generally expressed the opinion that the conference had not succeeded in bringing the differences between the advocates of incorporation in the union and the advocates of separate responsible government.

One delegate declared that the terms indicated by the discussions were unacceptable to Rhodesians.

It is understood Rhodesia was offered ten seats in the Union house of representatives.

Poor paint looks streaked to the naked eye.

It looks like ridges and furrows under the magnifying glass.

It's the Valleys in Paint That Make it Poor

The Valleys are the thin streaks
The Hills are the thick streaks

PAINT streaks are caused by the brush marks. No matter how much it is brushed, if the paint is cheap the brush marks are bound to show.

Good paint levels up to a smooth surface. Cheap paint dries with hills and valleys that are alternately strong and weak.

Just as a chain is only as strong as its weakest link, so is a film of paint only as good as its thinnest places—the valleys.

Most paints are made of only three things. Lowe Brothers High Standard is made of six—three more ingredients that exhaustive laboratory and practical tests have shown to be necessary to make good paint.

Add to this the fact that these ingredients are more finely ground, and you can understand why High Standard will always smooth out to a uniformly thick surface. Which is also the reason it lasts longer, and looks better as long as it lasts.

Come in and see the sample panels and ask for literature.

A cross section of a cheap paint film looks like this.

High Standard goes on smooth and stays smooth. That's why it looks better and lasts longer.

situation is still considered critical.

Some of the neutrals described the Germans as embarrassed as to how to find a way out of the difficulty. Meantime, the work of the Conference is blocked. The neutral states have officially insisted that the agenda of the conference be discussed in the commissions and not in private converstions among the chief delegates. To this, the leaders rejoin that preliminary meetings are advisable in order to expedite the labours of the Conference.

It is expected that once the Russo-German controversy is disposed of, the machinery of the conference will resume operations. The announcement that J. P. Morgan will join the group of bankers to discuss the possibility of floating an international loan for Germany has created an optimistic feeling for the future finances of Europe.

M. Barthou, of the French delegation, last night confirmed that Premier Lloyd-George had adopted a strong attitude at yesterday's meeting with the German Foreign Minister, Dr. Rathenau.

M. Barthou, who is kept closely informed as to what Mr. Lloyd-George is doing, said there was no room for equivocation on the part of Germany; there was no middle course. If the Germans insisted on maintaining the treaty, the French could not deal with them on any of the comissions concerning Russia.

"The most complete accord exists between France and Britain on the question involved," he added, "I personally find the greatest friendliness and support on the part of the British Premier."

The opinion was expressed in the French circles last night that the Germans are anxious to find a way of settlement which will keep them active members of the Conference.

RETURNED VETERAN MAKES A CUSHION.

Within the next fortnight, a cushion made by Mr. G. N. Curtis, returned veteran, will be on exhibition in one of the George street windows. This cushion, an affair of some 30 inches in length, represents a glorified peacock, and upwards of 100 skeins of silk and much painstaking, minute labour have been expended in its construction.

Tickets on the cushion will be sold entirely for the benefit of relief work undertaken by the W.V.A. and the draw will be made sometime in May.

WAS TROUBLED WITH HER LIVER FOR OVER 4 MONTHS

When the liver becomes slow, sluggish and torpid it is not working properly and does not supply sufficient bile to thoroughly act on the bowels and carry off the waste products of the system, hence the bowels become clogged up, the bile gets into the blood, constipation sets in and liver troubles follow among which are, sick or billious headaches, heartburn, water brash, jaundice, floating specks before the eyes, pain under the right shoulder, coated tongue, bad breath, yellow eyes, etc.

MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS

quickly remove the secretions, clear away the effete and waste matter by acting directly on the liver, and making the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood.

Mrs. Alice Merrill Napanee, Ont. writes:—"I was very badly run down for over four months. I tried several remedies, but got no relief. One day my husband brought me home a vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and before I had used half of it I was much better. I only used two vials and I am a different person today.

I can safely recommend Laxa-Liver Pills to any one troubled with liver trouble."

Price 25c. a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT TO HYDRO ELECTRIC AT NIAGARA FALLS

Wheel of Generator "Ran Away," Flew Up and Crashed Through Roof of Building.

MACHINE SMASHED

TORONTO, April 20 (Special to The Examiner). — A serious accident occurred at the Hydro at Niagara Falls this morning, when, by the sudden dropping of the load, the wheel of one of the generators "ran away," flew up, crashed through the roof, smashed a generator, and affected another machine, thus curtailing the capacity of the plant to the extent of 40,000 horse-power.

Sir Adam Beck, in making a statement in regard to the accident this morning, stated that the occurrence, together with the recent happening at Chippawa, when another generator was put out of commission, rendered the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario short to the extent of over 100,000 horse-power.

Pending the repairs, a supply will be received from the Niagara Falls Power Company of New York and the Electric Development (Mackenzie) Company.

Sir Adam said that he did not expect a serious shortage, but the occurrence evidenced the necessity of hurrying up the construction of the five units at Chippawa.

The work there has been accelerated as a result of the accident, and the work on the penstocks for No. 3 Unit is now being hurried so as to get it into commission.

The machine which was broken by the descent of the wheel, was capable of generating 20,000 horse-power. While others were affected, it is stated that they were not incapacitated.

"It is one of those things that are uncontrollable," said Sir Adam to The Examiner. "The water wheel ran away and damaged the generator and also another. Then the water rushed in."

Sir Adam stated that twelve generators were left in commission at the Ontario Power Company's plant.

In a supplementary statement this afternoon, Sir Adam Beck stated that it was apparently not a machine getting out of control which caused the accident at Niagara, but a defect in one of the rotary castings.

There was a man standing beside the machine at the time, in the gallery.

CHARGED WITH HAVING BASS OUT OF SEASON

Curve Lake Indian Claims Exemption Under Act

Chief Dan. Whetung, of Curve Lake, appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley in Police Court this morning on a charge, under the Game and Fisheries Act, of having in his possession 20 bass out of season. These fish, Inspector M. J. Woodcock swore to finding in Whetung's automobile. The defence, which was conducted by J. F. Strickland, claimed the rights of Indians to fish at all seasons, and that the fish found were green bass, in connection with which the law was not as explicit as with regard to black bass. The Game and Fisheries Inspector maintained the bass were black. Magistrate Langley reserved judgment until Monday.

The case of T. Curvin, charged with failure to attach proper coupons to beaver skins, was enlarged until April 28.

SPECULATION IS RIFE AS TO PENALTIES FOR GERMANY

PARIS, April 20. — (Canadian Pres.)—Speculation is rife concerning the form of penalties to be imposed upon Germany, as it is considered most probable that some action of this sort will be taken. Occupation of the Ruhr Valley is the foremost suggestion here, although it is said the Allies are unlikely to adopt the precise penalty which the Germans most expect, and are perhaps best prepared to meet.

MENTORS' CLUB GAVE ENJOYABLE SUPPER

Entertained Leaders Canadian Girls in Training

At their usual weekly meeting last night, the Mentors' Club of the Canadian Standard Efficiency Tests entertained the leaders in Peterboro of the Canadian Girls in Training course. Between forty and fifty members of both societies sat down at a very enjoyable supper, served at the Y.M.C.A. Mr. Walter Smaill presided during the early part of the evening, followed, on his departure for the Motor Show, by Mr. George Robertson, who gave a comprehensive explanation of the work of the C.S.E.T. classes.

Dr. Bruce Marshall led the Scripture lesson, and interesting five-minute talks were given on C.G.I.T. and C.S.E.T. work, by Miss Charlotte Layton, chairman of the Girls' Board in this city, and by Mr. Trevor Miller.

Sing Songs during the supper were led by Mr. R. Cuffe, with Mr. W. Hamilton announcing the programme. A business discussion followed the supper, the evening being closed by Mrs. J. A. McKenzie.

SPIRITUALISM IS BLAMED FOR DEATH.

Mother Poisoned Child and Took a Dose Herself. A Strange Case.

A young woman, a Mrs. Maude Fancher, administered poison to her baby and killed it the other day in New York, and then took a sufficient dose herself to bring her in a dying condition to the hospital. Her reason was that she could better help and inspire her husband from the other world, and she also promised in her last letter to him that their dead child should help him to success in worldly matters. Spiritualism was blamed for the tragedy, the woman being obsessed with ideas derived from attendance at spiritualistic seances. So she gave her little baby four teaspoonfuls of lysol, and leaving a twenty page letter for her husband, promising to talk to him at any time, drank enough of the stuff to place her in a critical condition.

This is just another manifestation of the cult that has brought so many devotees to its ranks of late years, especially since the Great War, the belief which numbers among its disciples Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. Some years ago, in the city of Grand Rapids, a respectable married man commenced attending spiritualistic meetings. He was told by the spirit control of one of the mediums that he was not happily married, but would soon meet his affinity. Gradually his attention was directed toward a lady devotee of the cult, also a constant attendant, and the 'spiritual' romance concluded with a divorce on his part, and a second marriage to his 'affinity.'

A curious manifestation of the gullibility of the believers in spiritualism is the weekly advertisement appearing in several Toronto papers of the attractions for the forthcoming week, in the way of spiritual lecturers. Coleridge, the poet, and Miss Edith Cavell, speaking on "The Heaven World," were two advertised last week as speakers at spiritualistic meetings. An irreverent gentleman, commenting on the advertised appearance of Moses at one of these meetings, remarked that the spiritualistic authorities must have quite a stand-in with higher powers to book such a great personage far enough in advance to be able to advertise his speech on a certain night.

MESLEY DID NOT WEAR A HELMET

on new men at the start. Instructions in first aid are given and three weeks ago resuscitation practice was held at which deceased was present. For six months Mesley had been on the Safety First committee. Mr. Beal said he had cautioned him about the dangers in the purifying house. "I knew the place wasn't safe and I wanted to impress upon him to be particularly careful," said Mr. Beal. Very little gas would come from the open box, witness told Dr. Greer.

Stanley Cummings.

It would have been his duty had he known Mesley was going to make repairs in the purifier to see he wore a mask and was accompanied, Stanley Cummings, works foreman, next in the box, said. Only once did he ever remember seeing deceased wearing a mask. He didn't recall drawing attention to the importance of precautions but they had talked about it he said. Foreman Cummings explained the purifying process and told how the boxes were worked in series.

Door Was Closed.

With the place practically hermetically sealed up witness said working as Mesley was, with his head over the leak, it wouldn't take long "for him to keel over." That the door would close by its own weight but not latch has since been found out, witness said. Robert Morrison added that the door was closed that morning and in his recollection latched. The foreman said he had not known the valve was leaking. They had not been packed since the purifier was put in, he said.

Nothing Done Since.

No precautions have since been taken so that such accidents cannot occur again, witness told the Crown Attorney. No bell or signals had been installed or nothing "to pull" to bring about ventilation. "It might help some," said Foreman Cummings when Dr. Greer suggested printed rules. The foreman said he finished the repair job, but had the windows open. There was not so much gas coming out of the tank, however, he said. The day before the accident, the foreman said, he had been in the purifier and he did not detect any leak.

William Sharpe.

William Sharpe, for ten years employed as gas fitter, told how six weeks ago he sat on the window sill in the purifier and watched while Mesley repaired a leak in the box. He did not wear a mask then. Mesley had asked witness to accompany him. The door was left open and two windows. He said the masks were kept in a box in the blacksmith shop. It was not marked, for the men all knew where they were kept, he said. He last saw deceased about 8 a.m. the morning of his death. He was talking about the way the wind was blowing.

The evidence in the case was in by shortly after nine o'clock and the jury was about about 20 minutes. The jury was as follows: James E. Fowler, foreman, Norman Andrews, John Kylie, Jr., Percy Hooper, Chas. Thorpe, R. Matchett, Fred Roseberry, Gilbert Borland, Herbert Routley, Richard Terriff, Samuel Anglesey and William Outram.

PRESSURE ON LUNGS CAUSED BY GAS

Often a dull, full feeling in chest is caused by gas from undigested food pressing upwards towards lungs. Sometimes gas presses on heart and is mistaken for heart trouble. Simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adlerika, expels gas and stops pressure almost INSTANTLY in many cases. Removes surprising matter from BOTH upper and lower bowel which formed gas and poisoned stomach. Adlerika is EXCELLENT to guard against appendicitis. McDermid & Jury; and E. L. Payne druggists.

NO MORE BLACK LEG

Mr. Lynch informs us that already a great many farmers are buying Blacklegoids preparatory to vaccinating their cattle this spring. There is no question but that this is a good move; something that every owner of cattle ought to attend to before it is too late. Veterinarians are agreed that there is little use trying to treat a case of Blackleg. It is almost invariably fatal, and a single case is likely to so inoculate the soil with germs that the infection will linger for years to come.

Since it is a well established fact that vaccination will protect against the disease, no one ought to neglect this prevaution. The next time you have an opportunity, ask for information, booklets, etc., at Lynch's Drug Store, 168 Hunter Street, Peterborough. 3d-18-20-21

They are trimmed in a great variety of ways and show pleasing color contrasts. They're not at all like what you would expect to see. The hems of some of the skirts are richly embroidered, the enlivening influence of a little bright colored guimpe is exemplified on others, and braids and beaded work are arranged in ways that captivate. Some of the color combinations are navy and grey, navy and flame, navy and henna, and navy and jade. When you see them you'll agree that they are the loveliest dresses at the lowest price you have seen for a long time.

TEST CASE IN AUSTRALIAN SHIP STRIKE

Federal Government Will Insist on Right to Employ British Sailors.

NEW CREW.

LONDON, April 20.—(Canadian Press).— A test case is to be raised in connection with the steamship Hobonsbay, of the Commonwealth Shipping line, which is expected to arrive at Sydney on April 21, according to a Reuter despatch from Melbourne, Australia The Federal Government will insist that the management of the line must have freedom of choice in the selection of a new crew, while the Seamen's Union insists upon the steamer being manned by Australians only. The case has an important hearing on the future of the line, and is possibly fraught with serious consequences to the shipping trade generally.

This question of the manning of Commonwealth vessels first became serious on March 9 last, when the Government was forced to yield to the demands of the Australian seamen because the Largsbay, having valuable cargo, could not be held up pending the settlement of the dispute between Premier Hughes and the Union. The Premier took the stand that the Government should not be dictated to by the Union as to whether Australian seamen should be given the preference over British seamen. He then declared that if the management of the Commonwealth ships were not allowed to run the vessels on a business basis the Government would have to reconsider its shipbuilding policy. The Premier claimed that the Union's action in insisting on choosing the crew was a challenge to the Cabinet of the Commonwealth Government, besides being unfair to British sailors.

The Australian Seamen's Union officials claimed that they were treating the British sailors no worse than they themselves had been treated in British ports. In this connection J. Havelock Wilson M..P.. for South Shields, stated that the British Seamen's Union might adopt protective measures if this attitude of the Australian Seamen's Union persisted.

WANT ENGLISH TAUGHT IN THE LOWER SCHOOLS

Educational Association Wants More Attention Paid to English Grammar

COMMITTEE.

WINNIPEG, Man., April 20. — Canadian Press. — University professors figured in a spectacular debate at the convention of the Manitoba Educational Association yesterday afternoon when they made vigorous ecforts to get more attention paid to the teaching of English grammar in the schools.

Just where it should be taught, in the elementary or secondary schools, they did not undertake to say, but Professor A. W. Craword made the emphatic declaration that the subject shoud be covered before students reached the University.

A committee will be appointed to consider the curriculum in English.

Prof. W. F. Osborne declared that there was a lamentable ignorance of English grammar on the part of many students who entered the University and claimed that as a result the teaching of languages other than English was unnecessarily difficult.

URGING INSURANCE UNEMPLOYMENT

Labor Requests Conference to Discuss Provision Against Unemployment Next Winter.

Consideration of a scheme of unemployment insurance by representatives of the federal, provincial and municipal governments also of Labors and employers, is being urged in a resolution from the Calgary Trades and Labour Council, of which a copy was received by the Peterboro Trades Council last night. It was indorsed and referred to Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P., with a request that he support the movement for a comprehensive survey of the question.

The Calgary resolution sets out that such a measure will in all probability be necessary to relieve unemployment throughout Canada next winter.

Delegates last night spoke in terms of deep appreciation of the late Fred Mesley, former president of the Peterboro Trades and Labor Council and the secretary was instructed to convey to his family the condolence of organized Labour in their bereavement. The resolution of sympathy was moved by Mr. J. A. Sharpe and seconded by Mr. Hollis.

With the approval of Mr. E. A. Peck the football cup which he donated to the Labour Council some years ago will be competed for this season by the teams in the Peterboro and District Football league with the final game to be played on Labor Day.

HOW TO RID THE ARMS OF OBJECTIONABLE HAIRS

(Aids to Beauty)

A simplified method is here given for the quick removal of hairy or fuzzy growths and rarely is more than one treatment required: Mix a stiff paste with some powered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every hair has vanished. This simple treatment cannot cause injury, but care should be exercised to get real delatone.

BIG SURPRISE FOR THE URBAN MEMBERS

TORONTO, April 20 (Canadian Press). — The urban members of the trustees' section of the Ontario Educational Association received a surprise yesterday when the Association, with a small minority dissenting, voted to ask the Ontario Government to put rural schools and urban schools on the same footing as far as Provincial educational grants are concerned. This action was regarded with considerable satisfaction in view of the preliminary steps taken on Monday by the trustees representing towns and smaller cities toward Province-wide organisation.

W. F. NICKLE OPENS FIRE ON TREASURER.

TORONTO, April 20 (Canadian Press). — W. F. Nickle, Conservative member for Kingston, opened fire on the Provincial Treasurer last night in the Legislature, and accused him of juggling the accounts with respect to the capital and ordinary expenditures to extent of $3,270,000. He proceeded, item by item, to criticise the amounts wrongly placed, according to him, in the capital columns, and challenged the Premier and the Provincial Treasurer to question any single one of his conclusions. He claimed he had shown without denial that the Provincial surplus of $680,000 was wiped out not once or twice, but more than five times by what, in his opinion, was the correct accounting of the various items upon which he touched.

Nearly 128,000 American tourists crossed into Canada last year at Niagara.

MARRIED HERE, THEY CELEBRATED GOLDEN WEDDING IN FLORIDA.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Nesbitt Followed Scotch Custom By Jumping Over Broom Stick.

Married in Peterborough when both were 22 years of age, Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Nesbitt, now resident in Miami, Florida, celebrated their golden wedding on Tuesday afternoon, April 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Nesbitt, who have resided in Florida 34 years, celebrated their silver wedding 25 years ago at Eau Gallie.

Mrs. Annie McFaul, sister of Mr. Nesbitt, was present for the ceremony. She was the only guest who was present at the original wedding. The Nesbitts received many letters and telegrams of congratulation, with quantities of beautiful flowers.

The Sir Douglas Haig Chapter, D. B. E., of which Mrs. Nesbitt is a member, presented her with a gold brooch. The Fort Dallas Chapter, O. E. S., presented them with a gold lacquered plate. The St. James Circle of the Holy Cross Church furnished the wedding cake. The Homestead Chapter of the Eastern Star presented the couple with a gold spoon.

Mr. Nesbitt is very active as a Mason and as an Oddfellow. He is the owner of the Eureka Laundry. Both Mr. and Mrs. Nesbitt attend church at the Holy Cross Episcopal Church, Buena Vista.

The Nesbitts have one grandson, W. S. Botsford, of Miami, and Mr. and Mrs. Botsford presented Mr. Nesbitt with a gold watch.

The happy couple followed the Scotch custom for such occasions, and jumped over a broom stick.

DEMONSTRATION OF COOKING UTENSILS.

The more pride a woman takes in her cooking, the more critical she usually is of her cooking equipment.

It is this type of woman, apparently, that the J. C. Turnbull Company had in mind when planning their aluminum cooking utensils demostration which is being held at their store this week.

They relaized that such a woman insists upon knowing beyond all question or doubt just what she may expect from cooking utensils before buying them, and so they prepared to furnish her with the most definite kind of proof of the marked advantages of aluminum cooking utensils instead of asking her to buy the on faith.

For a good many years, "Wear-Ever" aluminum cooking utensils demonstrations have been held in all parts of the country and have caused thousands of women to realize immediately the superiority of these most modern of all cooking utensils.

At "Wear-ever" demonstrations a variety of convincing tests are made proving the remarkabe service ability of "Wear-Ever", its fuel and food serving ability, its cleanliness, its utility for all cooking and baking purposes and the gratifying results its use makes possible.

The number of women atending the demonstration at J. C. Turnbull's store is indicative of a growing appreciation of the influence of cleanly, sanitary cooking utensils on family health and happiness and of the added attractiveness they give to the kitchen.

Miss Kathryn Chamberlain who is in charge of the demonstration says that "Wear-Ever" utensils are the most economical and durable utensils any woman could use.

SAULT STE. MARIE, April 20. —(Canadian Press.)— Jacob Olson, 45, of Danish descent, cremated himself in his shack near Desbarats Lake yesterday. He set fire to the house and then shot himself. It is said that he was driven to despondency by alleged crooked work on the part of three men who he claimed to have cheated him in a mining deal.

WILL CELEBRATE ST. GEORGE'S DAY.

Local Sons of England Prepare For Gala Night Saturday.

At the regular meeting of Lansdowne Lodge, Sons of England, after the usual routine business had been transacted, the Social and Entertainment Committee reported that instead of celebrating St. George's Day, April 23rd, with a banquet, as was done last year, arrangements had been made with the lodges at Cobourg, Lindsay and Millbrook to have a social evening together in the lodge club-rooms of Lansdowne Lodge on Saturday evening, April 22. The S.O.E. Lodges at Port Hope, Bailieboro, Campbellford and Newtonville will also be represented, if possible.

The programme for the occasion has not yet been finally completed, but billiards, pool, carpet ball and cards will probably take up most of the evening, which commences at 7 p.m.

It is expected that Cobourg lodge will be represented by one or two good carpet ball rinks. Lindsay will also send along one rink. The billiard players among the visiting brethren will have an opportunity of meetig the cup winners of the City Billiard League, the S.O.E. Red team, with other players from Lansdowne Lodge. Music and refreshments will also add to the enjoyment of the evening. The committee expect that every member of the society in Peterborough, whether belonging to Lansdowne Lodge or not, will be present, and together with the visiting brethren celebrate in a worthy manner England's day, the day of St. George.

FIFTEEN BOILS ON NECK AT ONE TIME

Any one who has suffered from boils can sympathize with poor old Job.

There was no Burdock Blood Bitters in those days, so Job had to suffer in silence. Nowadays no one need endure the misery of boils.

Boils are simply evidences of the bad blood within coming to the surface and just when you get rid of one, another seems ready to take its place and prolong your misery.

All the poulticing and lancing you may do will not stop more coming. What you have to do is take and the blood will be cleansed of all its impurities, and then every boil will disappear.

Mr. Roy McSwain, High Bank, P. E. I., writes: "I was troubled with boils for some time, and had as many as fifteen on my neck at once. After taking one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters they commenced to get better, and after I had taken two bottles I was relieved of them and felt much better. I think B. B. B. is a grand blood medicine, and can recommend it highly."

For the past 45 years B. B. B. has been manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

CARPET PRESENTED TO PRINCESS MARY.

The Gift of Brintons, Ltd., of Kidderminster.

"A carpet has been presented to Her Royal Highness, Princess Mary, by Brintons, Ltd., of Kidderminster, the carpet being of rather exceptional interest. The design is founded upon the famous Bayeux tapestry which illustrate the story of William the Conqueror, culminating in the Battle of Hastings. Most of the more interesting panels of the tapestry are reproduced in the border of the carpet, and a successful endeavour has been made to convey the spirit of the original. The ground of the carpet is blue, and the figures upon the ground, apart from the frieze, may be regarded as emblematic of the Battle of Hastings. The centre medallion consists of Norman cavalry surrounding Norman ornament, while the same idea is represented at the corners. Norman horsemen are shown again at the ends, and Saxon and Norman archers and spearmen at the sides. Brintons, Ltd., are to be congratulated upon the unique design of the carpet and upon the fact that it has been accepted by Princess Mary."

It is interesting to note that the Brinton Carpet Co. of Peterborough was formerly a branch of the large Kidderminster plant in England. Very few people in the city of Peterborough are aware of the beautiful carpets manufactured at the little factory in the south end of this city.

Public School Education In The Rural School Territorry

Mrs. W. R. Morris Represented Peterborough at a Meeting of the Ontario Ratepayers Association---Special Text Books.

The declaration that the whole system of Public school education in rural districts must be modified to meet the demands of the present day was made at the Tuesday afternoon session of the Trustees' and Ratepayers' Section of the Ontario Ratepayers' Association in Toronto, in which Peterborough is represented by Mrs. W. R. Morris. The methods of teaching history were criticized by Prof. Morrison of Queen's University in another section of the convention; need of training in "safety first" principles was emphasized by another speaker; the President of the Inspector's Section advocated the adoption of a special text book on ethics, while reduction of the subjects taught at one period was another suggestion. The development of classes in manual training is planned by the department, with a view to bridging the gap between the teaching of art and manual training.

Several women teachers were emphatic in their criticism of the extent to which the teaching of English had been reduced, taking the stand that no form of knowledge could take precedence of English for English children. This was a view strongly advocated by Dr. A. C. Marty, in her recent visit and address here, and also by one of the teacher speakers at the Women's Canadian Club series of lectures.

A Stray Marble in Church

(By Jeannette).

They were two little lads, one about seven years of age, the other five, yellow-haired, curly-locked youngsters, with wide-open blue eyes and freckled snub noses. And their mother had brought them to church. She sat ahead with the baby, a little, white-coated, white-bonneted girl cherub, who became very restless and puckery-faced after awhile, and had to be taken out to avoid a rumpus. But the two little men in the rear seat were told to stay until the end of the service, an admonition which left them gazing in round-eyed perplexity at each other and at their mother's retreating back.

The little one found a nickel on the floor, and much fussy talk ensued. The elder thought it wouldn't be right to keep it, as belonging to the church, but the little man held on tight. Finally, he climbed up on the tall usher who sat at the end of the pew and whispered loudly in his ear. Being finally convinced that that gentleman hadn't lost a nickel by any chance, he turned his attention to the lady at the end of the seat and proffered the five-cent piece for her inspection. She refused to claim it, however, so, their minds satisfied, they held a long conversation, with many sibilant intervals, loud when the choir sang, and declining in quiet pauses, over the disposition of the nickel. An agreement was finally reached that the coin be exchanged from Minor to Major, for one small round red mottled marble and what looked like a large silver bead, extracted from Major's pocket with many twistings tnd turnings. And then Minor lost the silver bead, and, remembering that he was the original owner of the nickel, thereupon demanded it back. Ruefully surveying the marble once more returned to his hand, Major, in a loud, agitated whisper, confided to the sympathetic lady that "He lost my ball buryin'." Much ducking of two little yellow heads beneath the seat, with frantic investigations of crevices surrounding the large and small pairs of shoes reposing on the floor just ahead, revealed nothing of the "ball buryin'." And then there was more whispered arguing and reproachful comment from Major to Minor. An agreement was made to buy an ice cream cone with the coin, which Major might lick, but this was finally rescinded in favor of a contract which provided for the expenditure of four cents on "two alleys," one of the alleys and the remaining copper to be transferred forthwith to Major.

They settled down for a few minutes, and Major gazed for an earnest interval at his upside-down prayer-book, which was finally returned to his pocket in favor of a cap which was jiggled up and down with the red marble inside. And then he dropped the cap and the marble rolled away under the seat. This was terrible. Minor, the sticky nickel held firmly in his little left hand, looked at him guiltily. Of course, he had found the coin, but then, if it hadn't been for him, Major would never have excavated the marble and the ball bearing from the depths of his being, and then they wouldn't have been lost. There was a deep silence for awhile, and then Minor decided that he wanted to go home. But his mild little efforts to get past the tall usher were unavailing, that gentleman being absorbed in the sermon. "Say, please, Mister, let me pass," prompted the older boy, but the little thing's nerve failed him, and he finally subsided. "What are we stayin' for?" he demanded of his brother, and the latter answered with truthfulness, unmindful of the service or of the speaker, "To find my ball buryin'." So they waited, mute little figures, and when their attention was drawn to the lost article, reposing glisteningly on the floor just ahead, there was much excitement. Assertions that "nobody will take it" were repeatedly made, and, with eyes glued to the elusive "ball buryin'," the two little things scuttled victoriously at the end of the service into the pew ahead, retrieved their treasure—"I don't care about the marble," said Major loftily and made off into the pleasant outdoor sunshine, with something about an "all-day sucker" floating back from their progress. Evidently another disposition of the five cents was in order.

Busiest Chaperone in World Scores The Censoring of College Girls

By GENE COHN.

BERKELEY, Cal., April 20.—The busiest chaperone in the world is Olive Presler, officially elected chaperone to the 4,500 girls of the University of California here.

Herself a co-ed of 20, Miss Presler has established an "unwritten curfew law" which is unique in content; quite as unique as the system under which college girls undertake to choose a chaperone from their own ranks.

As a result, these interesting regulations have come into being:

1.—Dances and all social events end at midnight.

2.—Definitely established study hours are observed in sorority houses and dormitories.

3.—The "honor system" prevails in examinations and, with teachers absent, students are duty bound not to cheat.

4.—Girls going out for the evening leave definite word where they will be.

5.—Young men callers may not remain after 10 o'clock, nor may they interrupt the study of young women.

6.—All girls "going walking" must be home by 10.30.

7.—The number of nights for theatres and recreation are limited.

8.—Proper escorts are supplied to girls who might otherwise be without and the censorship can be applied to personally selected escorts.

"With these and other regulations, I can hardly agree with the various persons who have been talking so much about censoring the morals of college girls," says Miss Presler.

"Remember, these laws are self-imposed by the girls, and I am merely elected by them as an official chapesone."

In addition to the "moral" element, these co-operative girl students look after the scholarship of strangers, watch the scholarship of various girl students, brace up the morale of homesick and lonesome ones and establish a college tradition.

In spite of all her "chaperone" duties Miss Presler still has time to lead the debating society and hold high scholarship records.

Reindeer Steak Will Soon Grace the American Tables

WM. T. LOPP AND AN ALASKAN REINDEER.

By PHILIP SINNOTT.

Get ready to eat reindeer meat, folks. The reindeer experiments of Uncle Sam, and William T. Lopp, in Alaska have proven a great success.

The first drive of 1,500 steers, from the home range to a big distributing point, is already under way. The Alaskan railway and steamers to the States will get the product out to the consumers.

More than 800 miles will be traversed by this herd, moving from Good News Bay to Riley Creek on the railway. The herd will pasture and fatten on the moss-covered plains along the railway. In the fall they will be slaughtered.

A Different "Drive."

It is a far different "drive" than those of the western cattle men. Instead of warm weather, the herd was started in winter, to insure streams being frozen over.

Other herds will follow this to the vicinity of the railroad, where a 12,000 square mile area is open for feeding them, and transportation is at hand. Surplus steers from other herds will be brought in regularly, and the offspring of the 1,280 reindeer the Government imported from Siberia will be a factor in feeding not only Alaska, but part of the United States.

As a palatable, nourishing food, reindeer meat finds favor wherever marketed in America. Besides the meat and the raw skins, tanned reindeer skins are used for gloves, military trousers, chamois polishers and book binding. Reindeer hair is used in Europe for filling life-saving apparatus. From reindeer horns, a fine quality of glue is made.

But to the Eskimo is the reindeer most valuable. Alive, it represents a value of $25 a head. It is an excellent sled animal, travelling in snow too deep for dogs. Dead, his meat assures a food supply and a trading commodity, and its skin provides the material for making every garment worn.

Eskimos Benefit.

Twenty-five years ago, the Eskimos owned nothing. Today, those in the reindeer industry own herds worth over $4,000,000, have an assurance of a profitable livelihood, and real business judgment.

Here is where Lopp has succeeded. He's chief of the Alaska division, U. S. Bureau of Education, and has taught the Eskimos the reindeer business.

Pioneers will tell you of Lopp's part in the Point Barrow Relief Expedition of 1897, when with four Eskimos, he drove 400 reindeer across the treacherous ice and wind-swept Arctic winter coast for 750 miles, to feed a starving people.

THIN WATERY BLOOD MEANS ILL HEALTH

Rich, Red Blood Brings Bright Eyes and Rosy Cheeks.

The girl who returns home from school or from work thoroughly tired out will be fortunate if she escapes a physical breakdown, because this getting tired so easily is probably the first warning symptom of a thinning blood that must not be disregarded if her health is to be preserved.

When the blood becomes thin and impure the patient becomes pale. She not only tires out easily, but often suffers from headaches, palpitation of the heart, dizzy spells, and a loss of appetite.

In this condition Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be found to have a beneficial action on the blood. Miss Delima Lafreniere, St. Ambrose, Man., has proved this in her own case, and advises others to use these pills. She says: "Before I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I felt like a complete wreck of my former self. My blood was poor and thin. I suffered from faint and dizzy spells, and had backaches and headaches almost every day. I decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, and by the time I had used three boxes I felt much better, and I continued taking the pills until I felt as well as I ever did. For what they did in my case I cannot recommend these pills too highly."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be obtained from any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Motor Show And The Women

Women should take an interest in the Motor Show. Women are working for it in most of the booths and things of interest to women as well as men are on view there. The make and shape of color of next year's car appeal just as strongly to the ladies of the household as to the masculine members, even if they are not so vitally interested in the engine and the tires.

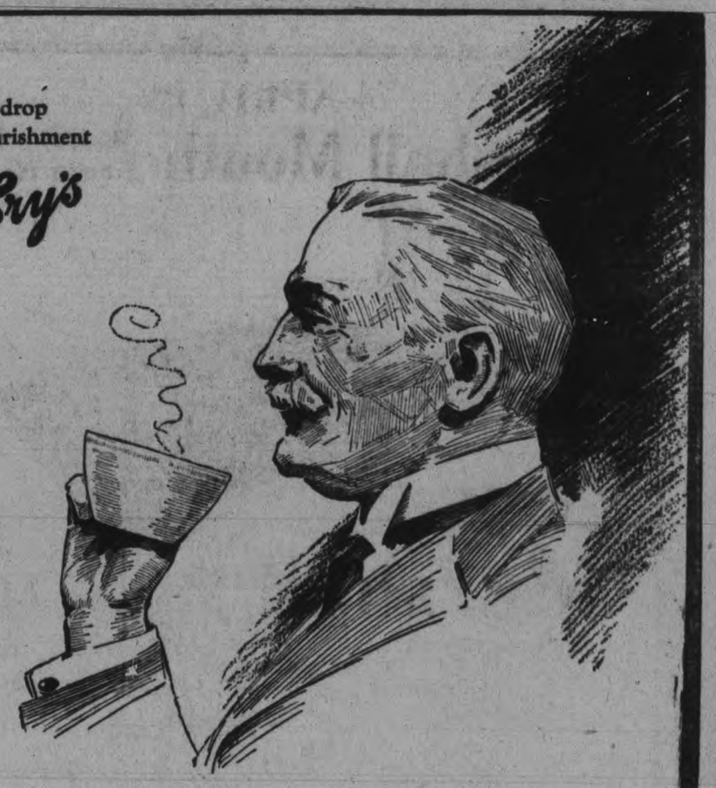
Women will admire the pretty arrangements of the different booths, and their decorative schemes. They will be interested in the electrical appliances, that range all the way from a water-heater to an electric stove and washing machine; they will like the wireless radio concerts and the ministrel performance just as well as the men; they may dance in the upper hall, or sit at tea below stairs, and they may buy flowers, and home-made cooking, and fancy work, and all sorts of goodies, at different booths. There is tea, and coffee, and cocoa, milk and buttermilk, soft drinks, to choose from, if they are thirsty, and the daintiest of novelties to charm the eye and the pennies from a generous purse, accompanied by music and song, and the pleasant, friendly crowd which meets every year at the Armories, in the community effort to swell the funds for the sick shut-ins and the under-privileged kiddies that benefit by attendance at the Motor Show.

APRIL

Oh, April isn't April
Unless you catch the scent
Of miles and miles of growing things,
Silent with content.
I cannot feel that Spring is real,
Unless I touch the sod
And watch the petals drift to earth
That drifted first from God.

Every drop is nourishment

Fry's



DR. Andrew Wilson, the eminent British authority, once said of the cocoa bean—"It is a kind of vegetable egg which contains all that is needed to build up a living body." Tea and coffee are mere infusions—but cocoa is an actual food in itself. Business men should remember that.

Cocoa, made the FRY way, from the world's choicest beans, is pure, extremely soluble and of most delicious flavour. Nearly two hundred years' knowledge of the cocoa business stands back of FRY'S. Of course, remember

Minimum Wage Board Coming

It has been said of women that a difficulty lying in their way in the very best exercise of their voting powers is their ignorance of vital questions. However, with the quick feminine mind and the feminine powers of acquisitiveness, it should not be either a hard or distasteful task to acquire knowledge along these lines.

An event which should be of interest to women, no matter in what walk of life they happen to be, is the visit here on Friday of this week of the Minimum Wage Board of Ontario, to interview textile manufacturers of the city on the question of minimum wages, more particularly with reference to female employees.

The Board consists of three men and two women members, headed by Dr. J. W. MacMillan, who gave a very interesting report of the Ontario Minimum Wage Law, at the convention of the Social Service Council of Ontario held here in May of last year. The Board, since its inception, has devoted its activities towards fixing the minimum wages of women workers in laundries and stores, and is now engaged in investigating conditions in textiles factories. Those who heard Prof. McMillan last year will remember some of the instances quoted by him; the case of the widow with children who worked ten hours a day in a shop for the sum of $7 per week and the factory owner who insisted on hymns being sung throughout the works preceding the morning session of labor, and paid his girl employees starvation wages.

Prof. McMillan, chairman of the Board, formerly a Presbyterian clergyman, occupying pulpits in Lindsay, in Knox Church, Winnipeg, and in Halifax, gave up his ministerial work to devote all his time and attention to social service furtherance, writing and lecturing on different phases of the work, especially with regard to the mentally deficient. He is particularly anxious that the workings of the Minimum Wage Board should be made clear to all, and has arranged to give a free exposition of the affairs of the Board at the Collegiate Institute Hall on Friday evening of this week. There should be many who will be eager to avail themselves of such an opportunity to hear from the lips of an expert an explanation of at subject of vital interest to the community at large.

THE FEMALE VOICE CHOIR MADE A HIT.

The Female Voice Choir, which scored a hit at the concert given recently at the G. W. V. A. hall by the Ladies' Auxiliary is repeating its performance at Reid street hall on Friday evening, for the benefit of the Missions Funds of that church. The ladies are said to be good singers, one and all, in popular music and old ballads, and to provide fun an entertainment both for their audiences.

C. DE MAR SET A NEW RECORD IN MARATHON

Winner of Boston Classic Broke Also His Own Time Made As Champion in 1911.

SMOKE'S TIME 2 HRS. 21 MINS. 49 4-5 SEC.

BOSTON, April 20.—(Canadian Press)—The best long distance runner in the country eleven years ago proved himself the best yesterday when Clarence H. De Mar, of Melrose, raced home a winner for the second time in the Boston Athletic Association's annual American Marathon road race.

All Fast Hikers

Not only did he defeat a field of the fastest hikers in the United States and Canada, including five other winners of this event, but he set a new record for the distance. De Mar's time of 2 hours, 18 mins., 10 seconds for the 25 miles of rolling roads, was 47 3-5 seconds better than the record made by Frank T. Zuna of New York, (who was eighth to-day)in winning last year It was three and one half minutes faster than the time De Mar made as champion in 1911, which was itself a record.

Ritola a Newcomer

Second to De Mar was Willie Ritola, of New York, a newcomer to the American Marathon, but always within the first five to-day. He finished three minutes and a half behind De Mar in 2 hours, 21 minutes, 44 4-5 seconds. The next three men were: Albert Smoke of Peterboro, Ont., the Indian, who is champion of Canada at long distances, time 2 hours, 21 mins, 49 4-5 seconds; Victor MacAuley, of Windsor, N.S., Maritime Provincial star who finished in 2 hours, 24 mins., 2 3-5 seconds, and Willie Kyronen, of New York, in 2 hours 24 mins, 4 4-5 seconds; Edouard Fabre of Montreal was tenth, his time being 2:29:00 3-5.

Second in History

De Mar is the second runner in the history of the American Marathon to win the event twice. It was back in 1900-01 that J. J. Caffrey, of Hamilton, Ont., gained his double success attempted almost annually since the inception of the event.

The winner lost four pounds on the trail. He weighed 132 pounds when he started. In 1911 when he won the Marathon he lost 6 1-2 pounds, starting at 126 1-2 pounds.

LOCAL BASEBALL IN THE ONTARIO ASSN.

Intermediate, Junior and Juvenile Ranks Enter Championship Race.

Lock Works will not be represented in the Intermediate baseball series, but will have a strong team in the junior series, along with Adanacs, Holy Name Society and Lakeviews.

It is now stated definitely that the intermediate, junior and juvenile series will be affiliated with the O.A.B.A. This is a right smart showing for baseball in this city.

Playing certificates are expected here in a short time, when they will be distributed among the clubs.

SOFT STUFF ON BALL FIELD

LFET TO RIGHT: BILL KILLIFER AND FRANK CHANCE.

It is beginning to look as if Manager Bill Killifer of the Chicago Cubs will need a lot of sympatny the coming season.

In the picture Frank Chance, former manager of the Cubs, known as the "Peerless Leader" is wishing Killifer well.

Chance is now a prosperous California orange grower. He is still interested in baseball.

Last year he was president of the league that had Cobb, Sisler, Heilmann and Hornsby as its star players during the winter season.

Rumor has it that Chance may again become interested in major league ball. It is said he would like to take over the White Sox when Comisky is ready to sell out his interests.

RIGLER HOPES TO HIT GUSHER.

National League Umpire Has Visions of Wealth in Gas.

Charley Rigler, National League umpire, has visions of some day wiring Pres. Heydler that he can get himself another umpire.

Rigler, has for a number of years, been connected with the East Ohio Gas Company of Cleveland during the winter months.

His position is with the leasing department of the company. Rigler is a glib talker. Years of argument with National League players have perfected him along those lines.

When a promising spot looms up for the drilling of a gas well, it was up to Rigler to secure a lease on said property.

On the side Rigler has been doing a bit of leasing for himself. He has purchased the rights on a couple of pieces of property in West Virginia. Two gas wells are now being sunk.

If they come in dry, then Charley will keep on calling balls, and strikes, but if they hit a gusher, well President Heydler can start looking for a new umpire.

"I have been taking chances all my life", is the way Rigler puts it. "if these two chances come through then I'll retire."

SAYS BASEBALL MORE DIFFICULT THAN FOOTBALL.

Tyrus Cobb Has Clung to This Contention For Many Years.

Baseball is more difficult than football.

Tyrus Cobb has clung to this contention for years.

On the Detroit club is a player who will swear his manager is right.

Johnny Mohardt is the athlete who backs up Tyrus. Mohardt has had experience in both sports.

As a football players he was the outstanding back of the west last year. He was a big cog in Coach Rockne's great Notre Dame eleven.

Mohardt has jumped from the college ranks as a ball player to the majors. He has shown enough stuff to cause Manager Cobb to decide he will stick with the Tigers.

When asked which sport he thought the more difficult, baseball or football, Mohardt replied:

"Baseball of course. Football is team play, baseball largely individual effort.

"In football there is time enough to get set after every signal. The calling of the signals tells you just what you are expected to do to put over the play. Every player has a chance to firmly concentrate on his task.

"In baseball there is no such advantage. Co-ordination between mind and body must be almost instantaneous. There is never an opportunity to get set.

"In baseball the great weight is on the individual. When I go to bat I am up there alone. I cannot depend on anybody but myself for help. When I am on the bases it is up to me, nobody gives me interference. Nobody can help me catch a fly or throw for me.

"There is team play, of course, in baseball, but the physical and mental part of it is all individual.

"It is easy to make a football player, but from what I know of baseball is it necessary to have natural ability and also be able to think quickly.

"Developing football players is easy. If a fellow is phys... coach will do the rest.

"I have seen Coach Rockne make stars almost overnight at Notre Dame. Every season brings forth scores of new stars in the fotball world. In baseball I understand a new star a year is the exception."

Mohardt is qualified to speak. He had never played football until he entered Notre Dame. He did not start play until his second year. Inside of a week he was a first-string player.

Hopes to Star in Davis Tennis Matches

By BOB DORMAN.

NEW YORK, April 20.—Probably the most interesting figure in the ranks of the challenging Davis Cup players is that of Nicholas Mishu, one of the stars of the Roumania team.

Mishu has risen to Davis Cup form in only six years of play, and that despite the handicap of a partially disabled left arm, a casualty of war service, which materially affects his balance when playing.

He is also handicapped by lack of sufficient opportunity for play, due to his duties at the Roumanian legation in London, where he is stationed.

Yet his natural ability is so great that in the recent match at St. Cloud he defeated on successive days, in straight sets, Gobert, former champion of France, and Alonso, the former champion of Spain.

Mishu's favorite game is the cut and chop, at which he is a master.

He holds the racket like a poker, several inches from the end, and chops the ball with little or no follow through.

His back-hand stroke is practically a slice, while he has a great number of underhand cuts that he uses against a hard hit ball.

Despite his disability, he stands on what is usually considered the most dangerous position on the court—about two feet inside the service line—from where he uses his peculiar shots to great advantage.

In serving he uses an underhand back cut that is particularly aggravating to his opponent, as it may bounce anywhere, and is very deceptive and hard to return.

Although this is the first time that Roumania will be represented in the Davis Cup matches, Mishu has hopes that she will have the honor of meeting the American defenders in the final round.

THREE CLUBS IN BOXING TITLES

Plenty of Rivalry for Honors at City Boxing Championships.

Three clubs will be represented by boxers in the city championships, at the Grand Opera House, next Monday and Tuesday nights. Jerry Coughlin has a squad of twelve entries from the Holy Name Society, with Ted Williams as a headliner, and Lakeviews have two in Lewis Anthony and Albert LeGros. Eighten boxers will fly the colors of the Peterborough A.A.A. Silver medals will be given as awards.

The announcement that W. E. Turley of Toronto will referee the championship bouts has met with general approval.

The Grand Opera House orchestra has been engaged for the two nights. Reserved seats are now on sale at the theatre.

FOOTBALL NOTES

C.G.E. had a good attendance at their meeting last night. Among other things they decided to enter for the Ontario Cup. This (if they have the luck to be drawn at home), will bring good outside teams here. After Saturday's game they have no league games for two weeks. They are trying to get Lindsay to come here, or else they will go to Lindsay. This is not a threat.

Canadian Woollens' ground is unfit for play, so their game will be played at King Edward Park Saturday.

Re Rubber Boots.

A misunderstanding may arise on this question, so as to clear the air, the rule is as follows: Laws of the Game, Paragraph 2: "A player shall not wear nails, except such as have their heads driven in flush with leather, or metal plates or projections, or gutta percha, on his boots or on his skin guards. If cars or studs on the soles or heels of the boots are used, they shall not project more than half an inch, and shall have all their fastenings driven in flush with the leather. Bars shall be transverse and flat, not less than half inch in width and shall extend from side to side of boots. Studs shall be round in plan, no less than half inch in diameter, and in no case conical or pointed.

Law 12 (A) Decision of International Board: Wearing of soft India rubber on soles of the boots, is not a violation of this law.

Any player discovered infringing this law shall be prohibited from taking any further part in the match. Referees shall, if required, examine players' boots, before the match or during the interval.

Prudential Life Took 3 Straights From Nashua Paper.

Last night, at the Water Street Alleys, the Policy boys staged a come-back, when they eliminated the Paper Kings in three consecutive games. Parker of the Nashua said they could not get up speed, and if they only could get "Smoke" on the team to set the pace that there would be a different story to tell. Some of the players were wishing there was a groove in the alley so that they could go on strike instead of holding out for the most uncanny splits. A few of the players who did some good hitting were: J. J. Cocks 576, Parker 510, Flaherty 494. The following are the scores:

FOUR MANAGERS STILL ACTIVE.

Twelve Major League Leaders Direct Team From Bench.

Is the playing manager slowly becoming extinct in the major leagues?

Of the 16 big league leaders only four are now rated in the playing class.

The American League boasts three in Speaker, Cobb and Milan, while the National has one in Bill Killifer.

It is a rather interesting fact that the three American League playing managers are outfielders. Bill Killifer is a catcher and a mighty good one.

It would seem that catchers develop into managers more readily than players at other positions. Ten of the managers in the majors today gained fame back of the bat.

In the National League Pat Moran, Bill Killifer, Branch Rickey, George Gibson, Fred Mitchell and Wilbur Robinson starred in the majors back of the bat.

In the American League Connie Mack and Lee Fohl learned the game as catchers.

FREAK PLAY HAPPENS IN MAJOR GAME

For the First Time in a Contest Between Two Big League Clubs a Player is Touched Out While He Is Sitting on the Bench.

BY BILLY EVANS.

Anything can happen in baseball.

Ever hear of a player being tagged out while sitting on the bench?

For years the fans have been discussing the possibility. Now it has actually happened.

The freak play came up prior to the opening of the 1922 season in a game at Ebberts, Field, Brooklyn, between the Dodgers and the Yankees.

The two teams, after having toured the south in a series of exhibition games, were topping off the event with a couple of games at Brooklyn.

Here was the situation. With Myers on first and Wheat on third the two Brooklyn players essayed a double steal.

Devormer catching for New York shot the ball to Scott, who returned it to the plate. It was a close play, runner and ball arriving about the same time. Devormer, however had the plate blocked.

While there was no direct collision, the contact between the two was such that Wheat was thrown into the air and landed on the other side of the plate without having touched it.

Realizing Devormer had the ball Wheat knew there was no chance for him to regain the plate, he tried to bluff the situation by getting to his feet and hurrying to the Brooklyn bench.

Then the entire New York team crowded around Umpire Sentell of the National League, demanding justice. No play having been made, Sentell simply listened to the raving of the Yankees.

Waite Hoyt, pitching for New York, was the only player to retain his wits. Coming in from the box he grabbed the ball from Devormer and hastened to the Brooklyn bench and touched Wheat, who had just finished a drink of water and was occupying a soft seat on the bench.

The moment Hoyt touched Wheat Umpire Sentell waved him out.

The play stands as the only time a big leaguer has ever been touched out while sitting on the bench.

GOLF FACTS

P. Can a ball which lies on a fairway other than that of the hole being played be out-of-bounds?

A. Strictly speaking no. According to the rules the "course" is the whole area within which play is permitted. However, due to particular conditions, clubs sometimes find it necessary to establish a rule that a ball crossing a line running between two parallel fairways, for instance ,is considered to have gone out-of-bounds. The club is within its rights in establishing such a rule.

Q. How long have rubber-cored balls been in use, or when did they replace the gutta-percha ball?

A. Rubber-cored balls were first used in championship play in 1901, Louis Myers won the Massachusetts state championship while playing them that year. Sanday Herd won the British Open in 1902 with them. However, they had been introduced at least three years before.

Where a ball stops so close to a mole track that it interferes with the player in addressing the ball, can the track be removed?

A. Yes, provided in so doing the player doesn't interfere with the surface of the green.

Q. What should be done where a ball lodges in the clothing of a spectator or other person outside of a match?

A. The ball should be dropped as near as possible to the spot where such person was standing, when the ball landed.

Q. What is the difference between a trap and a hazard?

A. A trap is a hazard but a hazard is not necessarily a trap. Other hazards are bunkers, ponds, lakes, ditches, and unless excepted by local rule, roads, etc.

In proportion to population thre are more automobiles in Mexico City than in any city of South America.

PETERBOROUGH MOTOR SHOW

small fancies or take a chance on frail, pretty work for table or dresser. There are wee dolls, Peter Rabbits in stunning suits of pink a nd pale blue, with enquiring expressions, and black pussy pincushions, with wiggly, red-wrapped tails.

The Catholic Women's League booth in yellow and white array, was dispensing cigars, cigarettes, soft drinks, hot coffee and round, brown doughnuts, with the promise of candy for to-day. Inquiries for 'hot dogs' were many, but the coveted morsels were not available this year.

Next door the Graduate Nurses have a spotless, white booth where ladies in nurses' uniforms and caps will sell you Peterboro Milk Products or anything made from them, including cocoa, milk, buttermilk, and pure white or pink icecream.

They have also home made cooking here, with shortbread in frilly paper cases, and toothsome-looking macaroons and wrapped cakes, and home-made bread for to-day's choosing. Here also is home-made candy. Small miniature nurses, in complete outfits, decorate this attractive little corner, with the Thursday Club doing a rushing business in ice-cream cones a little farther on.

The Business Girls' Club has a colorful corner, where tall standards hold vivid artificial blooms in pinks and blues, and where dainty goodies in home-made candy occupy pretty boxes.

Useful Exhibits.

There are useful exhibits on every side; in purples and whites, oranges and blacks; the Peterboro Utilities Commisston has a large section devoted to all sorts of electrical appliances, large and small; the Turnbull Company is exhibiting electric washers, with a quaint revolving red and white sign; Miller, Powell and Watson have electric washers and ranges; and Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons have some wonderfully rich motor rugs on view in handsome materials and designs. The K. and S. people of Toronto, specialize in remarkable inflated hot water bags at their red, white and blue booth, with cerise paper decorations where the balloon-like red bags contrast beautifully with the corrugated blackness of their tire exhibit.

A revolving stand, displaying the full beauties of large, elegant hams, and a white enamel showcase, in which rested appetizing-looking small sausages and pressed meats, proclaimed the excellence of the wares of the Canadian Packing Co., flanked on the other side by an A. L.A. distribution of literature and an exhibit of Alamite products. A demonstration of cylinder grinding at the other end of the hall also attracted a curious crowd.

In the rear portion of the building more cars were parked. Here also are the exquisite samples of the art of the Roy Studio, in life-like photographic reproductions and lively, tinted small landscapes. The Chamber of Commerce has a well patronized corner where a huge map of the Trent Canal System is surrounded by large sepia pictures, and triple desks are devoted to descriptive literature of the work of the Chamber in the furtherance of information regarding the Trent Waterway, the Automobile Association and the Horticultural Society.

Heintzman & Company, Limited, have a dignified corner, draped in red, white and blue, where there is on view a beautiful baby grand piano, the inner workings of a pianoforte case, and several musical machines.

The Raffle Booth, with Mrs. C. G. Graham in charge, contains an attractive conglomeration of articles, useful and ornatmental, ranging from an Eversharp pencil and a pair of silk stockings, to cans of motor oil, ice-cream freezers, a pair of paddles and some luxurious motor rugs.

Upstairs, in the Recreation Room, a merry crowd was watching with appreciation the antics of the De Laval Minstrels, the peppy, coal-black lads with their red and white costumes adding considerably to the fun of the evening. Against a green drop, with some wonderful sunflowers as "wing" decorations, the hilarious crew shuffled and rang and whistled, and got off some good local jokes, to the music of their capital four-piece orchestra. The crystal-gazer phophesied, and the end men cavorted through three shows last evening. Over at the other end of the gallery, a waiting line was marshaled outside the dance hall, in the Band Room, where the Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E. supervised the entertainment, with Raul Gliddon's Orchestra providing the music.

A very attractive little tea-room is carried on by the Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E., in the Cavalry Room, the tables centred with cut flowers, and the enclosure charmingly arranged with green and white streamers and flags.

Musical Features.

Afeature of the entertainment last evening, as always, was the excellent music rendered by the orchestra of the Conservatory of Music, under the leadership of Mr. R. Gliddon. Their different numbers were much enjoyed, including the overture, "The War March of the Priests," a selection of Scottish songs, the "Blue Danube" Waltz, the sextette from "Lucia," and the ringing measures of the "American Patrol."

Mrs. George Porter acts as accompanist for the orchestra.

Miss Florence Scott sang very acceptably "The Valley of Laughter."

With a delay in transit of the equipment for a wireless concert which had been announced as one of the features of the Motor Show last night, the directors were enabled to put on a series of boxing bouts that filled the gap very acceptably to a large audience. This programme, arranged at the last moment, was drawn up by Mr. Walter Smaill, and went off as smoothly as if he had been preparing it for a week.

The committee is very grateful to Mr. Smaill for the readiness with which he responded in an unexpected pinch, and also to those who co-operated with him in putting on the bouts—Messrs. Armstrong and Cut, Rex and Smith, Coombes and Houghton providing some excellent entertainment for the fans.

FORTY CONFIRMED ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

Bishop Reeve Conducts Apostolic Rite of Laying on of Hands.

In the presence of a fairly large congregation at St. John's Church last evening, 21 adult and 10 junior candidates were confirmed and thus admitted communicants in the Anglican faith. he whole service while simple was tensely impressive, and the apostolic rite of laying of hands on 13 men and youths and 27 women and girls was performed by Right Rev. Bishop Reeve of Toronto. The head of the diocese, Bishop Sweeney, was prevented from being present, owing to executive calls in Toronto. In conduction of the preparatory and closing sections of the service his lordship was assisted by the rector, Rev. Dr. R. C. Biagrave and Rev. R. B.. Grobb, rector of all Saints' Church.

An exceedingly beautiful portion of the devotions was the singing of that inspiring hymn, "Come Holy Spirit," with all kneeling, and the Bishop singing in clear baritone voice the first line of each verse, congregation and choir the second and so on through the entire musical number.

His lordship's address to the candidates was fittingly explanatory of the text "Let us press on to perfection"; and of the brief prayer accompanying his laying on of hands, "Defend, O Lord, this thy child with they heavenly grace, that he (or she) may continue thine for ever; and daily increase in thy Holy Spirit more and more until he (or she) come into thy everlasting Kingdom". Explaining that the reception of the Holy Ghost by laying on of hands, is not a matter of feeling, but a fact, consummated as promised by God, he warned the candidates against defiling their body which is the temple of the Holy Spirit; live, he urged, in temperance, soberness and chastity.

The prayer before quoted Bishop Reeve characterized as both beautiful and purposful in that it relates to preservation, or protection, and perfection. He also commended it as spiritually comprehensive, in the use of which the supplicant seek; first, protection; second, perserverance in beginning a new step in Christian life; third, progress in grace day by day; and finally the cultivation of purity.

In conclusion, his lordship instructed the candidates that in accepting confirmation they are, in the words of the text, "pressing on to perfection", or rather completing that which is expected of them; and becoming complete members of the church. And he exhorted them to let their manner of life be such as to demonstrate that the laying on of hands has not been in vain, but a real help in progressing toward that perfection where men may see their good works and glorify their Father which is in Heaven.

To the congregation, the Bishop's exhortation was to live as true hearted citizens of the Kingdom of God in which event they would be better citizens of the Dominion of Canada.

NERVOUS BREAKDOWN COULDN'T SLEEP NIGHT

To those on the verge of a nervous breakdown the following symptoms present themselves: nervous headaches, a feeling of depression, fitful, disturbed, restless and unrefreshing sleep, often troubled with frightful dreams, avoidance of crowded places, dread of being alone, horror of society, etc.

When the nerves become affected in this way the heart generally becomes affected too, and on the first signs of any weakness of the heart or nerves, flagging energy or physical breakdown do not wait until your case becomes hopeless, but get a remedy that will at once quieten the nerves, strengthen the heart and build up the entire system.

This you will find in

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS.

Mrs. M. Damgand, Young's Cove Road, N.B., writes: "I was bothered very much with my heart and nerves; had nervous headaches and dizziness, could not sleep at nights, and my appetite was all gone. I was on a nervous breakdown when a neighbor told me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. This I did, and before I had the second box used I was better and would advise anyone who has nerve trouble to take them."

ALMA RUBENS ON ART OF ACTING

Featured Player in "Find the Woman" Advises More Restraint.

"A screen actress' greatest need," says Alma Rubens, featured player in "Find the Woman," "is restraint." Time after time when asked the secret of successful performance in pictures I have said just that.

'The art of acting is difficult as perfection—or proximity to perfection, as no one is perfect—is difficult of attainment in other callings. But to the average girl who rises to more or less prominence in pictures a degree of mastery of portrayal comes sooner or later. The trouble is, however, that most of them go beyond what is required;; they overact just as some players smear too much make-up on their faces.

It is a thrilling mystery photoplay created by Cosmopolitan Productions and released by Paramount. Eileen Huban, well-known stage star; George MacQuarrie, Norman Kerry, Harrison Ford, Ethel Duray and Henry Sedley also are in the fine cast.

GIANT ATTENDS VAUDEVILLE SHOW

One of the funniest scenes in "The Show," which will be shown at the Capitol Theatre to-day, depicts a giant seeking admission. He carries with him a small trunk and a big hammer. An attendant assists the an into the theatre and ushers him into a box. Then the fun began. From under the man comes his wife, supported on each side of him by straps are his children and from a trunk emerges a third child.

This was perhaps one of the hardest scenes that Larry Semon ever tried to produce. Simple as it looks when flashed upon the screen, it required over a day in practice and filming. There was no easy work in making up a figure of four human beings and get it to resemble a large man. Although the four players used were expert acrobats, when they tried to work supported by a sling and under outer garments they found it no easy task to maintain their equilibrium.

After Larry had got his quadruple figure in shape he had difficulty in getting this giant to take the additional load of a small trunk in which a full grown boy of sixteen had been doubled and distorted until he could scarcely breathe. As soon as giant and trunk were moving nicely, Larry brought forth a hamper filled with jam, ice cream, bread and in fact a small banquet. This he placed on the opposite side of the giant and insisted that he carry it.

Several times the whole thing toppled over and had to be built up again, but Larry never gives up and perseverence wins.

MACLEAN IN "THE ROOKIE'S RETURN."

Returning from France, jobless and without any prospects, James Stewart Lee, a rookie, declines to become a bank clerk at the request of his aged aunt and, answering an advertisement, becomes a book peddler. The venture is quite unprofitable and Lee goes to a golf course where Alicia and Henri, her singing teacher who loves her, are playing. Alicia accidentally hits Jimmie with a ball and she offers to take him home in her motor car.

But Jimmie is loath to have Alicia see the cheap boarding house at which he lodges, and has her drive to the elegant home of his rich aunt. When the party arrives, Jimmie learns that his aunt has died, leaving him her vast fortune on condition that he must retain her old servants in his employ, failing to do which, he must pay each $5,000. He decides to get rid of them and pay each the required bonus, when he discovers that they are dissatisfied with their new master and ugly. This rouses his fighting spirit and he resolves to keep them in order that they may not receive the bonuses which they covet.

The servants make things hot for Jimmie in an effort to force their dismissal. In despair Jimmie goes to the public library to find some book calculated to provide him with a solution of the difficulty. There he meets Dad, Alicia's father, who has been driven from home because of house cleaning operations. Jimmie consults with him and Dad offers his assistance. Dad accompanies him and overawes the servants with threats of arrest and finally brings order out of chaos.

Jimmie calls on Alicia and finds the house in a turmoil because of the non-appearance of Dad. Kidnappers are suspected and Jimmie offers to play detective. He finds a photograph of Alicia and unaware of her relationship to Dad, he shows the photograph to the latter and explains that he loves her. Dad determines to bring the couple together and writes a note to Alicia telling her that he is held a captive in his country lodge and begs her to come to his rescue.

Henri, jealous of Jimmie, sees the note, and decides to get to the lodge before Jimmie and Alicia. Jimmie learns of Henri's presence and puts him and his companion to flight. Jimmie and Alicia submit to being blindfolded and are driven away in a taxicab. When the handkerchiefs are removed both find themselves in Jimmie's house with Dad. Alicia's mother now arrives and after explanations are made, a family reunion is held.

The Story of a Society Man who sought Adventure Among the Cowboys, and Wound Up in Russia—One Lap Ahead of Death!

AT THE ROYAL.

To-day our patrons will have the opportunity of seeing Maurice Flynn, who won world-wide fame as a football start for Yale University in 1913 and made one effort to follow his father's career as a New Fork financier, but found it would not satisfy his adventurous spirit, so went into motion pictures. Recently he was elevated to stardom by William Fox. His first starring picture, "Bucking the Line," will be shown at the Royal to-night. The story is one of romance and thrilling adventure. A New York bank cashier is charged with misappropriating the bank's funds. Circumstantial evidence would convict him of a crime of which he is innocent. The hero beats his way west on a freight and gets enjoyment on a railway. There he meets the daughter of the railroad's president and Dan Cupid gets busy with fatal (?) or fortunate (?) aim. Then there is that universal favorite of western pictures, Tom Mix in "Chasing the Moon." In this picture Mix takes the part of Dwight Locke, a bored and blase society man who has exhausted his catalogue of adventures. He drives west in his $20,000 car and meets with a bunch of cowboys. He bids farewell to his old life of leisure and wealth and finds all the adventure he wanted and more than he thought possible amongst the cowboys. He is compelled by circumstances to take a quick trip to Russia where he arrives just one lap ahead of death. A thrilling plot! a stirring romance!! and a pretty love story.!! For comedy is just what you want. There is that perennial king of funmakers, Jimmy Aubrey in "Mules and Mortgages" and a sparkling two-reel comedy, featuring Al. St. John in "Small Town Stuff."

SNOW AT ORILLIA

A G. T. R. railwayman, who came down from Orillia this morning was able to testify that Peterboro was not the only place in the world that was getting February weather in April. This morning he said there was three inches of snow at Orillia and all through that district. Judging by what he noticed this section was getting off light. The mercury was hovering lower than here and mid-winter blizzards were incidental features of the climatic conditions. North of Peterboro it was impossible at times to see more than a few feet beyond the train, the railwayman said.

Social Calendar

Police Constable E. Walton, of the Windsor Police Force is spending a few days in the city.

The following personal items that appeared in The Weekly Optimist, Ladner, B. C., recently will be of interest to the many friends of Dewart and Hunter Lewis, sons of Rev. J. G. Lewis, formerly of this city: "Dewart Lewis, Arts '22, University of British Columbia, has accepted for next year a teaching fellowship in English on the faculty of the University of Washington, Seattle. Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Spence, of Bobcaygeon, spent the day in the city.

Miss Lillian Spanner, of Toronto, is visiting Mrs. Jas. J. Doris, King street.

Last evening, about forty of the friends of Mr. George C. Carruthers, 201 Brock street, paid him a surprise visit, to celebrate his birthday. A joliy social evening was spent, with an enjoyable programme rendered by vocal solos by Mrs. J. E. Middleton and readings by Miss Muriel Harvey and Miss Marjorie Ingall. AUTOMOBILE AND TIRE TRADE SHOWING GREAT IMPROVEMENT

A total of 220,000 passenger cars and trucks were built in the United States during January and February of this year. This production is an increase of more than 200 per cent. over the output for the same period in 1921. The increase in February, 1922, over January, 1922, has more than kept pace with the great industry of the country with a net of 47 per cent.

In the first two months of the year approximately 880,000 tires went to the auto industry as original shipment. This is a 200 per cent. increase over the requirements of last year, according to the Miller Rubber company, and is evidence of a healthy industrial growth.

Reducing Accidents.

In 1920 240 people were killed in traffic accidents in Detroit. In 1921 the number was reduced to 134. Miss Harriet Beard, who inaugurated the system of teaching children traffic regulations in the schools, is in a measure responsible for this. Teaching that cannot be accomplished in any other way can be made interesting to children.

TO TIGHTEN TERMINALS.

Loose battery terminals can be tightened by the application of thin sheets of tin foil. If the foil is wrapped around the cable end, the terminal can be plugged in tightly. When the retaining nut is drawn tight, perfect contact will be made.

For ball bearings the best lubricant is a fluid oil not thicker than the heavier machine oils.

It is thought there is a chance of all arrangements being completed this week.

GUN PLAY AND LOOTING AT BELFAST

Disturbances Continue Today With Police Sergeant a First Casualty —Jeering Mobs.

IRISH SITUATION

BELFAST, April 21.—(Canadian Press).—Firing was in progress in Short Strand, the east end, this morning, and a sergeant in the Special Constabulary was the first casualty of the day. Two deaths in the hospital last night and the death to-day of Andrew McCartney raised the Eastertide total to twelve.

Three men who were discovered looting in the Falls district yesterday were tarred and feathered by the Republican police, and marched along the streets labelled, "Looters, Beware," and accompanied by a jeering mob. The arrival of the military ended their ordeal.

ATTACKED BARRACKS.

DUBLIN, April 21. — (Canadian Press).—In an attempt made last night by Rebel Republicans to take Wellington Barracks, two grenades were hurled, slightly wounding three of the garrison. Free State troops hurled a grenade in return, and wounded two of the attackers. Finally the besieging forces were driven off.

SEIZED WIRELESS.

BELFAST, April 21.—(Canadian Press).—The wireless station near Gweedore, on the western Donegal seaboard, has been seized by Republican forces, who provided naval men in charge with transportation to the nearest railroad depot.

RAIDED NEWSPAPER OFFICE.

SLIGO, April 21. — (Canadian Press). — Armed men raided the offices of the Sligo Champion today and smashed the frames of type for this week's issue, apparently in order to prevent the publication of the newspaper's report of Sunday's meeting, when Arthur Griffith, President of the Dail Eireann, delivered an address in favor of the Free State.

BELFAST, April 21.—(Canadian Press). — A boycott was formally proclaimed to-day at the city of Londonderry on merchandise from Belfast, Lisburn, Dromore and Banbridge.

RUSSIA TO ADMIT HER WAR DEBTS

On Condition That De Jure is Recognized and Financial Help From Allies Assured.

BRIEFS FROM WIRES

GENOA, April 21. — (Canadian Press).—If given recognition of De Jure and adequate financial help, the Russians state in their reply submitted to the Entente to-day they are willing to admit Russia's war and pre-war debts, waive counter-claims, and restore the use of nationalized property to former owners.

It is not known whether the Russians will attend the luncheon which has created a delicate positon for them.

REPLY TO ULTIMATUM.

GENOA, April 21. — (Canadian Press).—The German reply to the Allied ultimatum, which will be presented to Premier Facta to-day, accepts the condition that German delegates be barred from participating in further discussions of the Russian question by the conference. It begins with acknowledging, with "painful surprise," the protest received, which is considered as undeserved, and repeats that the nations knew long ago that negotiations regarding the pact were in progress.

The text of the final clause reads: "With regard to further treatment of the Russian question in conference, the German delegation thinks it right that should take part in the deliberations of the first commission on questions corresponding to those already settled between Germany and Russia, only in case its collaboration is especially asked for."

MENACE TO POWERS.

GENOA, April 21. — (Canadian Press). — Cattadino asserts to-day that Germany, Russia and the Turkish Nationalist Government at Angora have agreed on a common foreign policy, which, it holds, will constitute a grave menace to others Powers, especially the Balkans.

SUNK IN HURON.

Government of Pekin Has Changed Hands

PEKIN, China, April 21 (Canadian Press). — The troops of General Chang Tsen-Lin, the Governor of Manchuria, to-day took possession of Pekin and Tientsin cities, thus replacing the local police forces of these places.

The transfer of authority was devoid of incident, and no opposition or disturbance of any nature is reported so far.

Riverside Park Has Been Engulfed Overflow From the Otonabee River

The water that has taken possession of Riverside Park showed no tendency to recede to-day, in fact on account of the drop in temperature, it threatened to esconce itself more securely by becoming a frozen lake. Fingers of ice were reaching out on the extensive surface of water, although the sun was shining brightly, and the stands in the park were reflected on the dancing water with mirror-like accuracy. The depth of water varied from a few inches to two feet. To reach the stand one had to walk along the seats that were just clear of the water and scramble over the bleachers. From the main stand the extent of the drowned lands could be studied.

Except for a triangular strip at the entrance way the park is completely under water. This small piece is pretty well soaked and was the feeding ground of an army of robins this morning. The birds were finding plenty of long rotund worms and doubtless, with bird philosophy, were reasoning that the flooded river was a good thing. A striking feature was the large number of drowned ground worms noticed under the water.

There did not appear to be much movement to the water. Little damage could be noticed. The fence separating the swiftly moving waters in the river from the tranquil lake was intact. There was not a floating object on the expanse of water that extends from fence to fence and sweeps away under the score board. The fringe of trees south of the long stand protruded out of the water and the clumps of low trees on the hillocks at south end of the park completed the circle.

A Cellar Full.

The overflow from the park has crossed the lane at the entrance and swept into the sheds of John Bettes, Senior. His cellar, the Examiner was told this morning, had been full to the top for several days, and as the water is rapidly encroaching on the front lawn access by the front entrance is threatened. So deep is the water at the lane at the rear that yesterday a milk wagon of the Peterboro Milk Products Company nearly went out of sight in attempting to reach the house; at any rate the water was up to the box. The residence of John Bettes, Jr., has not been set upon by the water so severely, due to its distance from the river, but nevertheless the cellar is half full of water. Ellis' mattress factory ,the third building in the group, that lie below the bridge, has not been affected by the high water but further progess of the flood is viewed with alarm.

A study of the river from the bridge reveals that it is swollen to an unusual degree. Immediately north of the structure it has encroached until it is awash with Wand's mill and likely to sweep away two piles of lumber there at any moment. A flood of water is escaping from the London street raceway, every gate in the dam appeared to be open to let the water over, and the drain that relieves the north part of East City and joins the river through a tunnel east of the dam was a miniature Niagara. Looking down the river the swirling waters could be seen spread over twice their usual area, and the fact that the river was up to the doors of the boat houses at Dalhousie street, emphasized the height of the water.

NOT RELIEF BUT WORK FOR UNEMPLOYED IS NORMAL JOB OF THE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU

Government Bureau Here and the Entire Provincial System Trying to Refocus Attention on the Regular Function of This Service.

CO-OPERATION HERE.

After months of use as a medium of unemployment relief, which has now been discontinued in Peterboro, the Employment Bureau of the Ontario Government's Department of Labor is trying to get back to its regular business.

All winter it was the box office of the breadline. Applicants for relief had to show that they couldn't get work, and some of them may have been praying they wouldn't get it. But before the signature of F. W. Miller, the city's relief officer, was written on an order for food, fuel or groceries, the applicant had to produce a certificate from Hugh Robertson of the Employment Bureau signifying that he had at least applied for work.

"We want the public to realize that this is an employment bureau and not a relief office." Mr. H. C. Hudson of Toronto, representing the Ontario Goverment's Employment Service, told the Examiner; and from his account of the record of Department, its accomplishments and its posibilities are undoubtedly only slightly understood and appreciated.

Restore Normal Function

To divert popular emphasis then from the service or relief to the normal function of employment, to forget the winter's doles and to renew the activitiy for which the system of Bureaux has been established in Ontario, in co-operation with the Dominion Government's employment offices, is the present concern of Mr. Robertson, locally, and of Mr. Hudson in his responsibility for the provincial system.

Record of Placements.

"In the year ending October 31st 1920 we placed 118,735 men in permanent employment" Mr. Hudson said, "and last year up to October 31 our twenty-five offices in Ontario placed 89,000 men. Permanent employment means work that was obtained for at least two weeks."

And because many men have been out of work all winter the Labour Department is anxious to make Employment Service as effective as possible from now on in bringing the workless man and the manless job together. If the public generally would co-operate with the Employment offices their usefulness could be vastly increased. Mr. Hudson intimated that the Department deserved the fullest confidence of workingmen and employees, and as the advantages of the employment service became more widely understood it was believed that the employment offices would more largely fill the place for which they were organized.

How it Works

It is generally known that when a man applies for work he states his occupation and if any opportunities are on file he is informed of them but is not given any address unless the employment officer is certain vacancies have not been filled. There may be a local demand for farm help, or for bushmen, railway workers or others out of town, for which applicants are forwarded until a notice is received not to send more.

But for single positions, the following is an example:—

O-2144-Windsor M.C. Moulder
1 jobbing bench moulder, age 25 to 46 years. Permanent work. URGENT. 65 cents per hour, 9 hours per day. Pay own transportation. Room and board can be obtained from $10 per week. Open shop.
Standard Foundry, Walkerville, Ont.
April 18, 1922.

Such vacancies are kept on file, and qualified applicants are given the whole information where these positions are open.

Prevent Disappointment

"If we told an applicant where a certain job was he wouldn't wait until we found out whether it had been filled but would start out and perhaps get there only in time to find some one had arrived before him" said Mr. Hudson. "As a result there would be misunderstandings and tradesmen would lose confidence in the Employment Service although they were responsible for their disappointment."

"We take the applicants name, and we telegraph at once to find out whether the job is still open"

DISCUSSION INSPECTION BY COUNCIL

Local Council of Women Asked to Endorse Municipal Abattoir — Other Subjects.

BUTTER PRICES

The Local Council of Women held their regular monthly meeting in the Y.W.C.A. green room yesterday afternoon, with Mrs. A. Mowat in the chair. Owing to the inclement weather, and the attendance of many of the members at the Motor Show, there was a very small representation at this meeting. The attention of the ladies was occupied mainly with discussions of proposed legislation prohibiting the import and manufacture of oleomargarine in Canada, the erection of a municipal abattoir at Ottawa, and the consideration of an address on the Illegitimacy Bill, concluded at this meeting by Miss Hazel Moffat.

Reports were made on the request of the Council that the Children's Aid Society enquire into the case of a girl child living under unsatisfactory conditions. A letter from the agent of the Society was read, saying that the Police Chief and the police matron were looking after the case, and that the Children's Aid Society considered it unwise to interfere with their arrangements.

Mrs. Mowat reported on a satisfactory attendance at the Public Library during its Sunday openings, and reminded the members of the address to be given here this evening in the Collegiate Institute Hall by Prof. McMillan, chairman of the Minimum Wage Board of Ontario.

Re Meat Inspection.

A communication was read, asking the support of the local Council for a bill shortly to be brought in by the member from Ottawa, asking that a municipal abattoir be established there. The claim is made that it is useless to build such an abattoir, unless restrictions are placed upon the sale of meat, so that all meat sold for public use shall be restricted to that killed at public abattoirs.

The discussion by different members brought out the assertions that there is no safeguard placed on meat sold on the public markets. Before meat is exported from the country, the most rigid inspection is made by Goverment officials, but there is no guarantee whatever that the residue of rejected and possibly tainted meat is not then dumped on local markets for consumption.

As the Council has already passed a resolution favoring Mr. Hill's bill, nothing further was done.

Ban on Oleomargarine.

Letters from the Convenor of Home Economics and the Convenor of Public Health for the Council of Women in Ottawa were read, with reference to a bill which will shortly be introduced in the Legislature, to ban the importation of oleomargarine in the Dominion of Canada after the first of March, 1923. Unless prompt action is taken, this bill will probably go through. Action by the dairymen of Canada was described as the basis of the proposed legislation, and one member remarked that, in the event of its successful passing, the upward price of butter would be absolutely unchecked.

Protest Against Bill.

Each member of the Council was asked to individually petition the local member to protest against the bill, as an interference with a necessity of life for the great mass of the people. Butter, which has never touched a low level in years, is now 43 and 45 cents, but oleomargarine may be bought for 25 cents per pound. Mrs. Mowat reported that a leading grocer in this city had given the relative consumption of butter and oleomargarine here as 75 p. c. in the former instance and 25 p.c. in the latter, with many regular customers for the oleo. Besides being a satisfactory substitute for butter in many homes, it is used to a great extent for shortening purposes. As one member remarked, it is often of much better quality than some of the butter one buys, and it has the advantage of being made in factories where a rigid Government inspection is made of all products. It is made of pure, highly refined beef and pork

A WIRELESS CONCERT AT MOTOR SHOW

This Will Be Included in a Big Program This Evening— Good Crowd Out Last Evening.

SPLENDID EXHIBITS

Last night was a bumper night at the Motor Show. All evening, the building was filled with throngs of people, young and old who examined the inner workings of the various cars viewed the useful exhibits patronized the different refreshment booths, and responded to the invitations of the Minstrel Show crier to "come along and see the big niggers."

Nearly every patron sported a pink rose. Coats and fur pieces on every side bore the fresh blossoms which added an extra festive touch to the bright scene.

The electrical appliances which are a feature of several booths are one of the major attractions for men and women alike, the electric heaters with their cosy orange glow being the object of especial attention last evening.

"The Nurses' section had some wonderful home-made cooking last night, and the Business Girls were doing a rushing business in their sweet wares. The pinks and reds and yellows of the bottled soft drinks at the League counter made an attractive spot of color, but the dainty pink and white cones in the ice-cream booth had fewer patrons than usual in the chilliness of last evening's temperature.

The Rear Section

In the rear section, crowds were clustered around the cars, and the Roy exhibit, listening to the music of a player piano that had all its 'innards' exposed to the public view, and getting information about bulb and Automobile Association regulations and the Trent waterways from the corner devoted to the Chamber of Commerce, where large sepia pictures, the same that were exhibited in New York recently, show various angles of the attractions and beauties of the Trent system.

The gentleman who explains the mysteries of re-treading and vulcanizing and the ingenious male operator who turns out dainty bits of finery on the White Rotary sewing-machine, held interested onlooked, and the tea-rom was filled with a cheerful, conversational group.. The orchestra from the Conservatory of Music had an entirely new program of excellently rendered music for last evening.

Upstairs, a merry crowd footed the light fantastic in the band room

THE WEATHER

The thermometer was down to 22 degrees last night, thus giving us 10 degrees of frost. Thick ice was to be seen. It is fortunate that the fruit buds have not yet developed or serious damage would have resulted. Much warmer weather is now on the way.—W. P.

LOCAL COUNCIL OF ANGLICAN YOUNG FOLK IN SESSION

Debate on May 10 Between All Saints' and St. John's Teams For Trophy Cup.

SUMMER CAMP.

The regular meeting of the Local Council of the Anglican Young People's Association of Peterboro district was held last evening in All Saints' Church. Weather conditions prevented representatives of the more outlying churches from attending, but delegates from Lakefield, St. Luke's, St. John's and All Saints' Churches were present.

The meeting was opened by Rev. R. B. Grobb, and Miss J. Horsfield presided. A committee was appointed to have the A.Y.P.A. shield engraved on the cup for which teams from the various churches in this district are debating.

Summer Camp.

Miss May Stone announced the plans for the annual summer camp of the A. Y. P. A. at Gamebridge, which will be held this year the first two weeks in August. Instructions were given as to the equipment necessary for those who wished to attend and a statement made of the probable cost for the two weeks' trip. A very interesting account of the doings at last year's camp was also read.

A vocal solo was given by Miss Mareta Boate, with piano accompaniment by Miss Alolia Horn.

Coming Debate.

It was announced that on Wednesday, May 10, the debate to decide the winners of the cup would be held at St. John's Church. The subject will be: "Resolved, that great events make great men, not great men great events." The affirmative will be taken by the team from St. John's, consisting of Miss Irene Herridge and H. Sills. All Saints' team, consisting of Miss Olga Johnson and Ralph Turner, will take the negative. H. B. Cowan will act as the senior judge.

It was also announced that on Wednesday, May 3, Major Balford will give a lecture at St. Luke's on "The Humorous Side of the War." The lecture will be illustrated with lantern slides of Bairnsfather's cartoons, depicting many of the humorous events which occurred during the great conflict.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

The next meeting of the Council will be held in Lakefield next June.

THOUSANDS ARE KILLED IN MONASTIR

Children and Soldiers Are Victims of Tremendous Explosion Which is Followed By Fire.

RELIEF WORK.

BELGRADE, April 21.—(Canadian Press). — Four hundred carloads of ammunition and high explosives stored near the railroad station at Monastir, Southern Serbia, exploded on Tuesday at noon, killing several hundred persons, wounding thousands and virtually destroying the heart of the city. One half of the city's population was rendered homeless.

The victims were mostly children and soldiers. A church in which the children were worshipping collapsed under the detonation, while the barracks in which 1,800 soldiers were having lunch was destroyed.

Immediately after the explosion fire broke out in various parts of the city. The panic-striken inhabitants fled to the nearby woods and mountains, from which they watched their homes burn. All telegraphic and telephonic communication from Monastir with the outside world was cut off. The first news of the disaster reached Belgrade from refugees who managed to reach Prilep, 30 miles to the north west of Monastir. Several Serbian relief units were immediately organiezd and started for Monastir..

Six United States women, doctors of the American Women's Hospital at Velese, left there for Monastir as soon as news of the explosion was received. They expected to negotiate the 50 miles of bad roads over the mountains to Monastir and reach the stricken city last evening.

LLOYD GEORGE SAYS GERMANY WILL ACCEPT THE CONDITIONS

Premier Makes a Statement to Press Representatives. France Is Not So Optimistic.

NO REPLY YET.

GENOA, April, 21. — (Canadian Pres).—The Economic Conference was last night without a definite settlement of the Russo-German incident after a day given over to private conversations, conferences between the Germans and Russians, and all sorts of ententes and a great assembly of the world's press, called by Premier Lloyd George, who addressed the newspaper representatives of forty nations and announced that the Germans would accept the conditions imposed by the Allies and that the Russian attitude toward the London experts' report would be such that further negotiations would be possible.

After Mr. Lloyd George made his statement, the Germans announced that they were still considering their reply to the note of the Big and Little Ententes denying them admission to discussions of the Rusisan question unless the Kusso-German Treaty was rescinded, or at least amended and approved by the Conference.

The Germans are said to be divided in their delegation. This is the reason for their delay in coming to a decision for submission to the Allies. The Russians have also withheld official publication of their reply to the London experts' report which had been promised for yesterday.

In short, the day closed with no definite advance over the position of the previous day, but with a general feeling that the Germans will take an attitude which will make the situation easier and pave the way for a conference agreement on the Russian problem.

One of the Italian delegates said the German answer was expected this morning at which time Signor Schanzer, the Italian Foreign Minister, would convene a meeting of the Allies, together with Rumania, Poland, Switzerland and Sweden, for an exchange of ideas on the Russian reply, which may have been delivered by then.

According to the French spokesman last night, the delegates of one of the Allied Powers, not France, after the announcement of the Russo-German Treaty had prepared a resolution calling for adjournment of the Conference. The delegations brought the resolution to the meeting which drew up the protest to Germany, but, being satisfied with the text of the protest, decided not to present the resolution.

This spokesman added that the French were not so optimistic as Mr. Lloyd George; certainly France was not willing to pay a price without limit merely to bring about a successful conference. As indicative of the confusion here, he explained that the French information last night was that the Germans might decide to go back to Berlin, with the understanding that they should return to Genoa when their participation in the deliberations was required.

FOUR HAIRS ONLY CLUE FOR POLICE

Foul Play Feared in Death of Young Farmer, But Police Have Very Little to Work On.

NO VIOLENCE.

WINNIPEG, April 21.—Four human hairs—the sole clue upon which Provincial police have been endeavoring to solve the disappearance of Stephen Chura, a young farmer of Rapid City, Man., district, last November—have led police to the conclusion of foul play, following discovery of Chura's body in a field near his home, Wednesday afternoon. One hair was discovered on a hammer, found hidden in Chura's house, under a pile of blankets, the others on clothing belonging to the dead man.

Meagre reports failed to show whether any marks of violence had been found on the body. A post mortem examination and an inquest will be held.

Will Not Wear A Wooden Leg

JERSEY CITY, N.J., April 21.—(Canadian Press.)—Fearing the jibes of jokers, members of the Jersey City Baseball Club of the International League have threatened mutiny if Joseph F. Moran, club owner, insists on their wearing a peg leg emblazoned on thier uniforms in honor of Peter Stuyvesent. The wooden pin of the Dutch Colonial Governor was absent when the team appeared yesterday for its opening game of the season.

Moran planned to use the emblem as part of the advertising campaign which the city is at present conducting.

HOUSE DIVIDES ON QUESTION OF BLONDIN'S LAW PRACTICE

Refuses to Allow Quebec Senator to Practice in Ontario By a Vote of 57 to 21.

BITTER DEBATE.

TORONTO, April 21. Canadian Press. — By a division of 57 to 21 following one of the bitterest political debates in the Ontario Legislature, the House yesterday afternoon defeated an amendment brought before the orders of the day by H. P. Hill (Ottawa West) to set aside the ruling of the Private Bills Committee of the Legislature which that body made yesterday when they refused to report a bill, introduced by Mr. Hill, to alow Pierre Edouard Blondin, former Postmaster General and Union Government Cabinet Minister to practice law in Ontario, after he passed the necessary examinations before the Ontario Bar Association.

Mr. Hill's bill went down to defeat in the committee yesterday morning by a substantial majority and the member introduced an amendment in the Legislature yesterday afternoon to set aside the action of the committee.

Mr. Hill brought his motion before the House as the first order of business and the subsequent debate, bitter in the extreme, consumed the remainder of the afternoon. The Liberal section of the House voted solidly against the amendment while the U.F.O. group, with the exception of Hon. Manning Doherty, and two private members, voted with them. The Conservative group voted as a party and received with much desk banging the vote of Mr. Doherty and the two private members.

Campaign against Blondin.

"I am informed that there was a most insidious campaign against Mr Blondin because he was reported at one time to have said that "to get freedom under the Union Jack you would have to blow holes in it," said Mr. Hill. "Mr. Blondin has denied that he ever made that assertion and has branded it as a lie." Mr. Hill quoted from Hansard to prove his assertion.

G. Evanturel (Prescott) took strong exception to Mr. Hill's statement that he had spoken against conscription. Mr. Hill had, in classing Mr. Evanturel as the chief opponent to the passing of the bill,

THE WHEAT BOARD.

"What is the Wheat Board?" is a question frequently asked since the Western farmers have renewed their demand for the restoration of this war-time institution, says The Border Cities Star.

The impression most generally encountered is that it is a sort of Government subsidy to wheat growers, a 'guaranteed price" with the Government taking the risk of a possible loss, or, at best, an attempt to "buck the market," using Government funds for the purpose.

In reality, the Wheat Board is a Government monopoly of wheat which will make it possible for every farmer to get for his product exactly the same price per bushel as every other farmer gets. This price will represent the average world price for the year, less the cost of handling and administration.

This averaging of the price is made possible by giving a cash advance, at the time of delivery, for only a part of the value of the wheat, and paying the remainder at the end of the market year through the redemption of "participation certificates" which represent the number of bushels delivered.

With capable administration, the Government takes no risk, even if the world market falls sharply. The new marketing system has been devised by economists to replace the old, cumbersome and expensive system of speculation in futures, which was the first method devised to prevent violent price fluctuations.

THE IRON SECONDS.

Tomorrow night the survivors of the 2nd Battalion of the Canadian Expeditionary Force who are living in Peterborough will meet to observe the seventh anniversary of the beginning of the second battle of Ypres, more often called the battle of St. Julien or Langemarck. Seven years ago on the evening of April 22, 1915, the "Iron Seconds" moved up into the battle-line when word was received that the Germans were breaking through by means of a gas attack that had demoralized the French Morrocan troops north of the Canadians. Early in the morning of the 23rd the 2nd Battalion charged into the horde of Germans, and their gallantry played a big part in stopping the advance. But the price was heavy, and Peterborough, in proportion to population, perhaps suffered more than the majority of communities. Many a well-known Peterborough lad died that morning—Major Bennett, Sergt.-Major Howarth, Billy Gibson, George Minorgan, "Scoop" Taylor, Ernie Boswell and other of their gallant comrades. The men who came through that engagement, some of them invalided home soon afterwards and others who faced the foe in many a bitter fight, will not forget their fallen comrades tomorrow night. It is safe to say that the minds of them all will go back to that fateful April night seven years ago when the Canadians asserted themselves as a fighting force that would have to be reckoned with.

DAYLIGHT SAVINGS AGAIN.

Not satisfied with killing daylight saving as a national institution, an attempt is being made at Ottawa to jam a measure through Parliament to prohibit any section of Canada which desires to adopt summer time from doing so. The effort should be speedily crushed. No matter what may be the general opinion in regard to the merits of daylight saving, it would be flagrant interference on the part of Parliament to attempt to dictate to the communities who are enterprising enough to want the system during the summer months. The argument is that the farmers, whose opposition to the measure was principally responsible for it being dropped as a Dominion measure, find it inconvenient if the towns in their vicinity operate on a daylight saving basis, while they, of course, are using standard time. They seem to have failed to realize that the townspeople have a right to adopt any system of time they prefer and are under no obligations to suit the conveniences of anybody else. Parliament had better drop this question. As the situation stands now, daylight savings is in operation only where the people want it, and the rest of the country should not attempt to adopt a dog-in-the-manger attitude. If the people of the city of Toronto, for example, prefer daylight savings, we in Peterborough may find the difference in time a little confusing perhaps, but it does not seem to be any of our business to try to force Torontonians to go back to standard time when they want the new method.

LORD BYNG'S EXAMPLE.

The people of Canada owe a deep debt of gratitude to General Lord Byng for his consistent example in the matter of brevity in public addresses. His Excellency has been paying a visit to Western Ontario cities, and on no occasion has he spoken for more than ten minutes. His speeches are brief, soldier-like, straight from the shoulder and to the point. He has finished long before the average Canadian orator has nicely started his preamble, and the result is that his remarks make a much deeper and more lasting impression than those of a spell-binder, who considers it necessary to waste twenty minutes in generalities and platitudes before his condescends to come to the real subject of his address. Canada is being talked to death in the Legislature, in Parliament, from the public platform, and often in church. Lloyd George takes but an hour to discuss a world crisis; some of our politicians can use thrice that time arguing about a $2,000 appropriation. General Byng is blazing the trail towards a more sensible system, and it is to be sincerely hoped that the force of his example will not be lost. It may cause our public speakers to trim the unessentials from their addresses, to stop wondering all around the subject for a half an hour before getting down to the real point they propose to discuss. Too many of them are like the man called upon to make a speech at a banquet who started off by remarking, "Before I came to this banquet only God and myself knew what I was going to say. And now only God knows."

All Peterborough's returned soldiers are reminded of the memorial church parade to All Saints' Church on Sunday morning in commemoration of the men who fell in the battle of Langemarck.

THE MINIMUM WAGE BOARD.

The address of Professor McMillan, Chairman of the Ontario Minimum Wage Board, in the Collegiate Institute Hall tonight will give an unusual opportunity to the people of Peterborough to become acquainted with the activities of the board and of the operations of the minimum wage law. The newspapers have not been able to deal with this measure in such a way as to bring its details prominently before the public, because they could not devote sufficient space to such a subject, and Prof. McMillan's address will cover a lot of ground that will on this account be new to his hearers. The lecture is free to the public, the object being to educate the people generally as to the purpose and plans of the Minimum Wage Board and to make the details of the measure clear to every one. Prof. McMillan is, of course, well qualified, by reason of his training and his experience, to speak upon such a subject. He has always taken a great interest in social work, and before accepting his present position as head of the Minimum Wage Board had given many lectures throughout the country, resigning from the Ministry in order to devote his time to social service problems. His address this evening should be of general interest, for he is a very facile speaker and his subject is one with which the people of Peterborough should acquaint themselves.

THE DEFLATION OF BUILDING COSTS.

The process of reducing the cost of building is proceeding slowly; yet it would appear to be proceeding. The difficulty thus far would seem to have had its focus in a lack of confidence among the various agencies concerned. All were agreed on the abstract proposition that if prices came down together no harm could happen to anybody. The producers of materials and labor would in that event be compensated by the lower cost of what they had to buy, and the purchasing power of the dollar would remain unimpaired; but each wanted the other to move first. The result has been a deadlock. Nevertheless, the forces against inflated prices have been irresistible, and the downward movement has already made substantial progress, both in Canada and the United States.

The Chemical National Bank, of New York City, has recently compiled some illuminating figures in relation to the cost of constructing certain types of dwellings, which aptly illustrate what changes have occurred since 1914. They are as follows:

	1922.	1920	1914.
Type A	$9,502	$12,815	$5,529
Type B	7,374	9,767	4,176
Type C	8,113	10,913	4,701

It will be seen that the Type A house cost 131 per cent. more in 1920 than in 1914, and even now it is 71 per cent. above that level. A betterment of 25 per cent. within two years is encouraging. In the United States the peak of prices for materials was 241 per cent. above the figures of 1914, and we now know beyond a doubt that behind that movement there was a great deal of criminal manipulation—so criminal, indeed, that for the first time in the history of the American republic half a dozen prominent men were sent to prison. The quotations for February were still 102 per cent. above the base line. Commenting on this situation, The Wall Street Journal of recent date observes:

"It is evident from these figures that whatever reduction there may be in building costs has come from cheaper materials, and even these, at double the pre-war price, have not yet done their full duty, when the retail price of food is only 43 per cent. above 1913, and farm products at wholesale but a little higher. Building material men and building labor are not yet in line to promote good business.

"Even this small reduction in cost is having a wholesome effect upon the industry. The building permits of 109 cities last month amounted to almost $195,000,000, compared with less than $92,000,000 a year ago. If a 25 per cent. reduction in costs calls forth an increase of 96 per cent. in the amount of building, what would a fair all-round reduction in material and labor do? There is a great volume of building being held back by extortionate costs which, if it could be called out, would materially lessen the number of those who are seeking jobs, and incidentally, would help to lower the cost of living through rent."

It might be assumed that there is a pretty close parallel between general building conditions in the United States and Canada. Wages are not actually as high in Ottawa as they are in New York City; but they are relatively on a parity. It would be a happy thing for everybody if full building activity could be restored on a basis which would involve no economic sacrifices, and that should be possible. All that seems to be needed is a spirit of compromise, founded on mutual confidence. The futility of a struggle in which everybody loses ought to be apparent.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT

At least there is reason to rejoice that the Motor Show is not an outdoor event.

"Oh to be in Florida, now that April's here!"

The Quebec side of the Ottawa River is badly flooded. But it is always wet along there, we are given to understand.

The dole system is costly, in addition to being demoralizing. Something better will have to be devised.

Tonight is your last chance to see the Motor Show and help the Health Association. A new record in attendance should be reached tonight.

LITERARY GEMS

APRIL MIST.

All round the circle of the hills,
Great folds of vapor, snowy-white,
Merge into one full flood that fills
The yawning clefts between each height.

And streaming down the sallow slopes,
Brims every valley, verge to verge,
While slowly thro' their fleecy copes
The summits of the hills emerge.

Sprayed with a dust of golden light,
From opening Orient fountains drawn;
The mist recedes, till every height
Stands girdled with the glowing dawn.

And like the drifting spray that spins
Upon the wandering wave, and fades,
So moves the magic mist, and thins
To blueness in the distant shades.

But where its ghostly garment trailed,
The brooding buds of April break.
The first spring splendors stand unveiled,
And joy goes dancing in its wake.

ROYAL YEAST CAKES

Canadian Made

A fresh, rosy complexion indicates perfect health. To secure this in most cases all that is necessary is to take one to three Royal Yeast Cakes a day for a few weeks.

Royal Yeast is a food. It supplies the water soluble vitamine which the diet may lack. Scientists tell us that this vitamine is essential to good health. Royal Yeast is highly beneficial in many cases in which the system seems to be run down. The yeast cakes simply add to the diet. It is a food - not a medicine.

Dissolve a Royal Yeast Cake in fruit juices or mix it with cereal and milk, and take it at meal time. The chances are in a few weeks the complexion will be clear. For children reduce the amount to one- half or one-quarter of a cake with each meal.

"Our First Year"

(By a Bride.)

START THIS TODAY—

Must individual independence be sacrificed after marriage? Jack and his bride think not. She does as she pleases. So does he. But, as this chapter reveals, the uncoventional doctrine has some drawback for the bride.

CHAPTER XVII.

MORE THAN KIND.

I did not mention my new cups when Jack came one that evening. I intended to, I had set the beautiful salad bowl where Jack could see it, but he didn't notice it. He was full of his own affairs.

"Sometime I want to show Mrs. Herrod that new two-mover", he remarked casually.

"Why not to-night?" carelessly, from me.

"You don't object, Peggins?'

"Is there a reason why I should?" I endeavored to speak still more carelessly.

Mrs. Herrod is the only woman in town who can pay a real game of chess, Jack says. And he has seen them all on ladies' nights at the club.

For years Mrs. Herrod and Jack have discussed intricate problems. Of course, at her home. I am sure it never occurred to Jack, certainly it had not to me, that he couldn't after our wedding, keep on calling at Mrs. Herrod's, even if she is over 40.

Occasionally he might go, but not regularly, as formerly he had done.

But would he go without me?

For a time I thought he intended to. And according to our pre-nuptial contract I had no right to object. Not the least right.

In the limited space of our apartment it's impossible for a third person to be deaf to our end of a phone conversation. As Jack talked with Mrs. Herrod I noticed that he never mentioned my name? Mrs. Herrod herself must have suggested that I accompany him for this is what I heard:

"Oh, she will not care! Thank you! Yes! I'll ask her!" Then to me, "Peggins! Would you care to go over to Mrs. Herrod's"

"I'd love to!" I replied. "I've known her a long time, ever since she joined the Woman's City Club".

"You won't be bored, dearest? Then I'll tell her you'll come!" Jack handed me the phone and soon it was settled.

Mrs. Herrod, although she is nearly twice Jack's age, looked almost young when she welcomed us. It's queer how becoming these straight loose dresses are to women of every age.

I do not remember the name of the novel I read while their game progressed. My mind wandered constantly from my book to the odd friendship which existed between the chess players.

I could feel how much they liked each other. It was in the air. I could feel it, but I could not understand it.

They did not talk much, but they smiled frequently, and when Jack achieved some piece of brilliant strategy Mrs. Herrod's smile was charming.

It was so much more than approval. It amounted to flattery. As if she were more delighted to have him win than to win herself!

They were extraordinary pals. I had never thought they were anything more. I kept telling myself that she was twice his age, but I couldn't help thinking as we walked home in silence, I couldn't help wondering if Jack would have proposed to me had Mrs. Herrod been his own age.

It was a horrid, haunting thought; one I must not humor; one I must control; for was I not destined to be a silent onlooker at many another game between them?

HOUSE DIVIDES

stated that the French-Canadian member had spoken against conscription in Aylmer. Mr. Evanturel stated that such was not the case. "Mr. Blondin had not practised law for ten years," he said, "and if he wants to do so now he should make application to Quebec for that privilege."

Flag Incident.

J. Walter Curry, K.C.,(South East East, Toronto) also took a strong stand against the bill. He recited the flag incident alleged to have been said by Mr. Blondin in 1911 during the election campaign, and complimented Quebec for the part they played in the war. "I want to say right here that the men in Quebec did their duty during the war," stated Mr. Curry. "I was obliged to write a letter to the editor of the Orange Sentinel and reproach him for being unfair in that regard."

M. M. McBride (Brantford) pointed out that in spite of that Mr. Curry had supported the Union government.

R. L. Brackin (West Kent)pointed out to the house that they had already turned down the application of another man who made a similar request and he could not see how a Senator drawing down $4000 a year needed to worry.

A British Privilege.

The suggestion of Mr. McBride that the bill be sent back to committee to be discussed with the other bill referred to by Mr. Brackin was not approved of. "Mr. Blondin is only asking the British privilege of being allowed to practise law in Canada," he said.

H. H. Dewart, K.C. went back to the political history of the past decade and chiefly objected to Mr. Blondin's admittance to the Ontario Bar on the grounds that he was not qualified to practise in Ontario.

Wellington Hay, Liberal leader, was content to abide by the committee's ruling. He thought nothing could be gained by further discussion.

At this juncture Mr. Hill stated that after testing the feeling of the House he was willing to withdraw his amendment.

Law Society Willing.

Hon. W. E. Raney then read a letter to the House which had just been received while the debate was in progress from the Law Society, which stated that they had no objection to Mr. Blondin's admittance.

W. F. Nickle (Kingston) and C. McCrea (Sudbury) were both of the opinion that it was only a courtesy that should be granted by the House. They expressed the feeling that it might cement the bonds of friendship between the two races.

"The issue has to be decided upon the qualifications of the man," stated Premier Drury, "Not on a political basis. The man's past record should not enter into the discussion."

The Premier in referring to the speeches of the Conservative members, stated that he thought that the Conservatives were beginning rather late in their "belated zeal for the wellfare of Quebec."

Mr. Speaker asked for a verbal vote but on request the yeas and nays being recorded the amendment was lost.

WHAT IS A LETTER

Women—Read It

Marmion, Ontario.—"Before using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was a total wreck. I had terrible pains in my sides and was not regular. Finally I got so weak I could not go up stairs without stopping to rest half-way up. I saw your medicine advertised in the newspapers and gave it a trial. I took four bottles of the Vegetable Compound and was restored to health. I am married, am the mother of two children and do all my housework, milk eight cows and do a hired man's work and enjoy the best of health. I also found the Vegetable Compound a great help for my weak back before my babies were born. I recommend it to all my friends."—Mrs. HENRY JANKE, Marmion, Ontario.

Letters which you read in the newspapers recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound are genuine expressions from women who have been helped by this splendid medicine. They are anxious for other women, who may be suffering as they did, to know of the great merit of this medicine.

Mrs. S. White, Mrs. Wm. Watson, Mrs. R. L. Mason, Mrs. Garfield Dunford and Miss Helen Watson were in charge of the tea room. The room was decorated appropriately for the Easter season—Easter Lillies—the handiwork of Mrs. Mason being a notable feature; Greens, Pussy Willows, and chickens combined with crepe paper to make the room look cosy and cheerful.

Music was furnished during the afternoon by Mr. F. Moore, Mr. C. C. Stenner, president of the Society sold tickets on a pretty jardinere stand, the gift of Mr. John Sanderson, who made it for the society. The lucky number No. 79, was held by Mrs. W. M. Graham.

In the evening the men of the Society entertained the ladies at a delightful card party which followed the regular meeting. Mrs. Waldon and Mr. Roy Everett won the first prizes and Miss Helen Watson and Mr. Percy Stenner the consolation prizes.

HELD A DEBATE

Rush Point and Lakefield clashed here in the U.F.Y.P.O. debating league Wednesday night and the visitors won.

The subject was "Resolved that Eastern Canada offers better opportunities to the farmer than Western Canada."

The affirmative (winner) side was represented by Messrs. McCutcheon and Pattrick of Rush Point while Miss Mabel Lemay and Mr. Harold Dunford supported the negative side.

The subject was well debated and it was a difficult matter for the judges to decide, but finally the decision was given in favor of the affirmative. Miss Florence Little and Mr. Roy Frankish were judges.

Gave Address.

Large congregations attended the Easter services both morning and evening in the Methodist church. Easter music was rendered by the choir and in the morning Rev. S. F. Dixon's Easter message was on "An Easter Firelight Talk." In the evening Miss Nellie Turner of Campbelford, gave an intensely interesting address on Missionary Ideals and Work, and the entire service was in charge of the members of the Women's Missionary Society.

Next Sunday Rev. J. F. Chapman, M. A., of Peterboro, preaches in the Methodist church both morning and evening.

MILK VENDOR SAYS BYLAW IS ILLEGAL

Local Ordinance Required a Higher Percentage of Butterfat and Total Solids Than Federal Statutes.

WOODSTOCK, April 21.—(Canadian Press)—An unusual defense was presented by Col. Hegler in police court at Ingersoll yesterday, when he appeared on behalf of a milk vendor who was being charged with selling milk which did not test up to the standard required by the local by-law. The local by-law requires that milk shall test 3.1 butter fat and 12.00 solids, and his, according to the defense, was a higher standard than set by the statutes on the subject. The by law, he claimed, was thus illegal, and that no action could be taken under it.

He also claimed that the statutes required that the minister of agriculture should be notified when a by-law differing from the statute is passed, and this had not been done. Magistrate Patterson who are trying her case, reserved judgment on these two points.

Much Firing But Little Damage Done in Dublin During the Night

DUBLIN, April 21.— (Canadian Press).—Despite almost continuous firing throughout Wednesday night the citizens of Dublin were yesterday relieved to find that little damage had resulted to property and that only three persons had been struck by bullets.

Buildings, attacked, particularly telephone exchange, showed numerous marks; but the offices of the Provisional Government, which were under fire both from the front and rear, escaped unscathed.

Although the Beggar's Bush Barracks could not be captured without artillery, its situation is such that a small number of snipers can seriously embarrass its personnel.

The troops frequently sally forth and hold up pedestrians and examine them for weapons. It is said that many of the pedestrians have been carrying automatic pistols. Such persons have been locked up. Both in Dublin and out in the country, the two factions each have prisoners on their hands, who are trying to embarrass their custodians by hunger striking.

The aspect of the situation which is regarded as sinis is revealed in a statement published by authority of Rory O'Connor that the section of the army operating under his executive is not attacking any barracks in Dublin or under Beggar's Bush control. O'Connor has been so candid in his frank admissions of responsibility for his acts, having owned up immediately that he carried out the assault on the Freeman's Journal and that he has directed the daily destructions in the offices of the Independent, in punishment for its refusal to carry out his orders, that his denial of knowledge of the attacks on barracks has had much weight with the people, who assert that if O'Connor was connected with the attacks he would admit it. The conclusion drawn by those who accept O'Connor's word, is that some force, under no faction, is acting independently against the provisional government.

It is admitted that such a contingency would add to the gravity of the situation, but an alternative theory considered hardly less serious, is that some officers of the independent army are not informing their chiefs o their exploits. Limitation of O'Connor's denial to Dublin after the publication of news of numerous attacks on barracks in the country is taken in some quarters as admission of responsibility for the latter.

BRITISH VESSEL IS SUNK IN COLLISION.

MONTEVIDEO, April 21.—(Canadian Press.)— The Munson Line steamer Aeolus, which early yesterday morning collided with and sank the British freight steamer Zero, off the coast of Uruguay, entered the harbor here at 2.45 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The Aeolus signalled that the collision occurred during a dense fog at 2.20 o'clock yesterday morning, and that the British vessel sunk at 3.40 a.m.

J. Hastings, 34 Prospect Street, was the paymaster. He fired six shots after bandits, who were four in number. Three men and a boy. He thinks one of his shots struck a badit for one of them yelled. His assailants escaped in an old Ford car.

C. Hocken, M.P., Hon. W. D. McPherson, W. Lee, A. A. Gray, Ben Kirk and L. H. Read, representing Orange Order. GRAIN GROWERS WOULD AMEND THE CONSTITUTION

REGINA, Sask., April 21.—(Canadian Press)—An amendment to the constitution is the solution of the executive of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers Association as to the wheat board problem. Not that the creation of a compulsory wheat board is beyond the powers of parliament. They declared that the constitution should be made "conform to the needs of Canadian people."

DECLARE THAT TOBACCO WILL STAVE OFF HUNGER

MOSCOW, Aupril 21.—(Tssociated Press)—Russian women have found that tobacco staves off hunger hence the number of women who smoke cigarettes has increased materially since the Soviets came into power. Women of all ages and classes smoke in their rooms, in the trains, in the restaurants and shops, and it is not uncommon to see them smoking on the streets.

All through the dark days of the revolution, often when food was not to be had at any price, there was plenty of cigarette tobacco offered at reasonable prices. With the equality of the sexes established under Communis and a break-down of conventionalities, the women promptly adopted smoking as the first of their newly-acquired privileges.

STRIKE ON STREET RY. HAMILTON IS AVERTED

HAMILTON, April 21.—(Canadian Press)—There will not be a strike of employees of the Stree t Railway System here, as the men have offered to work for forty eight cents per hour, or four cents and hour less than they were getting, and the Dominion Power and Transmission Co. has agreed to a compromise. The men had been offered 47 cents.

"What is the Most Economical Life Insurance Policy?"

"THE most economical life insurance policy is, of course, the 'Ordinary Life' policy. You simply pay for protection of your family in the event of your death."

"What is the most economical ordinary life policy?"

"The most economical ordinary life policy in the long run is the profit-participating policy. The profits reduce the cost."

"How much difference in the premium do these profits make?"

"Policyholders in the Mutual Life of Canada who at the age of 35 bought straight life insurance in 1881 have paid for their protection over a period of forty years, an average of $15 per thousand instead of $20.45.

"The Mutual Life of Canada holds a wide range of profitable long-term Government bonds, municipal bonds and debentures, Government guaranteed railway bonds, first mortgages, etc., etc. These investments yielded an average rate of 6.60% in 1921. Mutual policyholders are thus assured of good profits throughout the terms of these securities, many of which cover long periods of years."

"How are the profits applied?"

"At the option of the policyholder they are applied either to the reduction of premiums or to the purchase of additional insurance, or else paid in cash at fixed periods."

"Do profits apply to other Mutual policies?"

"Certainly. The ten, fifteen, twenty or twenty-five year policies, the endowment policies—all the standard plans except term policies are issued under the profit-sharing plan, unless the insured wants a non-participating policy."

"What are considered to be the leading Canadian mutual life insurance companies?"

"There is only one, but it has over 80,000 policyholders and is regarded as one of the strongest institutions of the Dominion—The Mutual Life of Canada."

Children of Wealthy Poorly Nourished

In the Journal of American Medical Association, Nov. 12th, Dr. Carter, associated with Hoover in distributing American food to starving Austrians, shows that 49% of the children of well-to-do Americans would, if in Austria, be forced to eat State food, because they are undersize and under-nourished.

Our ancestors ate whole grains and milk, rich in lime and growing materials. We eat refined, devitalized foods, and then wonder why children have adenoids, tonsilitis, small bones, stringy muscles, poor teeth and pale faces. Roman Meal made of three whole grains, retains the essential lime, phosphorous, potassium, sodium and iron. Improved Roman Meal porridge with milk is the best food for growing children and corrects deficiencies in modern diet. At all Grocers. 35

PRESENTATION TO CHURCH BY MATTHEWS FAMILY.

In the Baptist Church at Lindsay on Easter Sunday morning, the congregation was presented with a handsome Communion table, the gift of the four daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Matthews. Mr. George Matthews was brother of Mr. T. F. Matthews, now of Toronto, but resident in Peterborough for many years. The gift, a beautiful substantial walnut table, to be used for Communion services, was put in place last week and the presentation was made by Mrs. J. P. Ryley, on behalf of Mrs. Wolverton, Mrs. Arthur Stuart and Mrs. Harold Stuart and herself.

PLAYGROUNDS OF ONTARIO

Nature, who ordained that man shall earn his bread by the sweat of his brow, also endowed him with a capacity for play. She further provided him with playgrounds wherein he might exercise that natural instinct. Canadian National Grand Trunk Railways have issued a booklet that provides an introduction to some of Nature's finest playgrounds, set down in the Province of Ontario. In these vast playgrounds of Ontario, Nature is at her best. Ages ago, giant glaciers from the north carved out the beds of Ontario's rivers, lakes and valleys with prodigal profusion and in splendid disarray. To such an ideal setting for a summer sojourn, Nature has added yet one boon more, that of a perfect summer climate. The air is pure and bracing, laden with the scent of the pine. A very brief sojourn in these delightful altitudes brings sure relief to those afflicted with hay fever. To all—old and young, the strong, the weak—this beautiful land, where summer lingers long with its cool nights and halcon days, brings rest and vigor A handsomely illustrated booklet entitled "Playgrounds of Ontario" may be had for the asking by applying to any Grand Trunk Agent or C. SPLENDID WORK OF LAKEFIELD CHOIR.

A Concert By Methodist Body Showed Talent.

LAKEFIELD, April 20.—Easter Monday evening was made the occasion of a splendid concert in the Methodist Church and given by the choir. Lakefield has long borne the reputation of having unusually fine musical talent, and the programme executed by the choir is an unassailable proof of her right to the claim, and, furthermore, that the Methodist Church possesses over an average share of this same talent.

The choir was made up of fifteen ladies and eight gentlemen, presided over by Mr. Kenneth Madill, the accomplished organist of the church, who likewise directed the entire programme, and his patient, painstaking training was plainly manifest in the results achieved by his choristers. Amongst these it was a pleasure to notice a goodly number of those who have been identified with the musical department of the church for years, notably the father and mother of the organist; also Mr. Alf. Higgins and Mr. John Botterill. Nor should we forget Miss Doidge, though she, through some years absence from town, was not continuously a member, as were the others mentioned. All indicated their ability to sustain the reputation of former years.

One of the new stars in the firmament was Miss Mildred Watley, whose clear, even, well-rounded soprano was well displayed in a duett with Mr. Hilliard Payne, one of the many whom Nature endowed with vocal qualities of a high order. Mr. and Mrs. Burrows, an acquisition of the last year, add greatly to the strength of Mr. Madill's organization, and Mrs. Burrows' beautiful contralto was acceptably heard in solo several times; also Mr. McMillan, Miss Webster and Mr. Milburn, all old-time favorites—but one must not further particularize since all did so well.

The assemble work displayed a musical body of voices well balanced in quality and volume, with the parts well sustained and the enunciation clear and distinct, a most desirable feature of choral entertainment. From the opening number, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," to the last notes of 'God Save the King" the singing went with a swing, purity, resonance and evenness that left nothing to be desired, except, perhaps, a larger audience to enjoy the musical treat presented to markedly appreciative listeners.

Rev. Soford Dixon presided during the first part of the programme, and announced the cantata, "Redemption's Song," in words appropriate to the season.

Following is the programme to which is appended the names of the choir:

Organ prelude—Mr. Kenneth Madill.

Choir—"All Hail the Powers of Jesus' Name."

Prayer—Rev. Soford Dixon.

Chairman's address—Rev. Dixon.

Male quartette—Messrs. W. Madill, Higgins, Ralph and Hilliard Payne.

Solo—Miss Effie Webster.

Duett—Miss Mildred Watley and Mr. Hilliard Payne.

Solo—Mr. Elmer Milburn.

Quartette—Messrs. Burrows, Higgins, Ralph and Hilliard Payne.

Solo—Mrs. Burrows.

Cantata—The choir; Mesdames Madill, McConkey, McMillan, Burrows and Purdy, Misses Doidge, Webster, Milburn, Walden, Botterill, Watley, Doris and Mary Hill, Anderson and McIlmoyle, Messrs. W. Madill, Higgins, Burrows, Botterill, Milburn, Ralph and Hilliard Payne and Stanley Richardson.

The threatening weather, bad condition of the roads and other attractions in town militated against the attendance, which would otherwise have been deservedly a capacity house.

Stoney Lake Rises 7 Inches Since Tuesday and Reservoirs Are Full

Kawartha Sector of the Trent Has Been Most Active While the Otonabee Has Advanced Only One Inch and is Now at 16 Feet 8 Inches-Lakes Are Sloughing Off Ice.

While the Otonabee River below the Peterboro lock stood at 16 feet 8 inches yesterday morning, an increase of one inch above Tuesday's level, Stoney Lake had risen seven inches during the same time from 10 feet 8 inches to 11 feet 3 inches. The record of the Peterboro lock at its lower level is 17 feet 1 inch, the high mark of the Spring of 1913 the last year in which Peterboro had a Canadian League ball team. This detail is mentioned because at that time Riverside Park was almost completely flooded and the ball players worked out at Nicholls Oval.

Buckhorn Lake Thursday morning recorded 9 feet 5 1-2 inches as against 9 feet 3 inches on Tuesday. Hastings still stands at its summer level, although a correct reading of the guage was out of question this morning because of the high wind from the west that drove the waves down the river.

Most of the upper lakes are clear of ice. Chemong was freed last week, Balsam Lake above Fenelon Falls reported the ice gone this morning, but there is still large floes drifting about Clear Lake.

Mr. A. L. Killaly, superintendent of the Trent Canal, said yesterday morning that the upper lake reservoirs were virtually full and instead of retaining some of the surplus water would now be contributing to the freshets flowing into the Trent course. All the dams are holding firmly, and of the 132 of them in the Trent system not one of them has reported any damage from the high water.

The chart line on Mr. Killay's maps have been moving upward all week, some sections advancing sharply one day, and others pushing up the next. The head of the Rice Lake section of the Otonabee is at the Peterboro lock southeast of the city. The water at that point has gained only an inch in two days but is now so high that the dam has been merged into the main stream in which there is practically no fall. But the upper lakes, as indicated above, are the active section of the Trent, Wednesday and Thursday have been making up by rapid risings for the comparative quiet on the local section.

WIRELESS CONCERT

and the minstrels had good-sized audiences for their three shows. They get in some good local hits in their performance, there is among other numbers a marvelously rendered bone duet, a rollicking 'Irish Ragtime Band" chorus, and the music of their excellent little orchestra to make a performance that no patron of the show should miss.

Wireless Concert

Over at the other end of the hall, Mr. Walter Smaill once more came to the rescue of a committee that lacked a wireless outfit for the radio concert. Lost somewhere in transit, the outfit had not appeared yesterday, but the gap was admirably filled to the satisfaction of all by a series of boxing bouts, arranged at the last minute.

However, the dilatory outfit arrived this morning, in plenty of time for installation for to-night's concert, and patrons for this, the last evening, will be assured of a brand new sensation at the Motor Show's wind-up, in an opportunity of hearing the demonstration of the latest wonder of the age, the wireless telephone which brings music from over countless miles of intervening space.

P.A.A. and Holy Name Society boxers assisted in the boxing programme at the Motor Show last evening, with a good crowd witnessing the different bouts, as follows: Woodchuck vs. Jackson; Sturgeon vs. McGill; Houghton vs. McAuliffe; Simmons vs. McMahon; Sturgeon vs. Woodchuck (blindfold); Woodchuck vs. Rex.

Mr. Walter Smaill acted as referee, and W. E. Jackson, as timekeeper.

With an exceptional list of prizes on admittance and raffle tickets, a morning promise of good weather, and an added attraction in the radia concert for to-night, the committees in charge are looking forward to a monster attendance this evening as a wind-up to the 1922 effort to swell the funds of the Peterboro Health Association.

Producers Sales

That the Peterborough Motor Show is one of the best held in Ontario this year from the standpoint of producing sales is the opinion of Claude Sanagan, Advertising Manager of Willys-Overland Limited. "The arrangement of the various motor exhibits', he said to the Examiner, "is much better than where cars have been shown exclusively. In those places where the space is so divided as to require cars to be placed one behind another, there isn't a sufficient proportion of frontage. Here exhibitors have one continuous line of frontage and all the companies seem to have made special efforts to make their exhibits attractive.

"The result is that citizens attending with a view to inspecting the cars seriously are afforded the very best opportunity and from talks I have had with representatives of different manufacturers I am satisfied most dealers have been well repaid for their co-operation.

"Of course, more actual sales at a Show like this, are expected than from the openings in January, for we are now almost into the real selling season. So far as the Overland company is concerned, the business started early in March. Toronto retail sales last month, exceeded any March in the company's history there. Our outside sales rush did not start until three weeks later and even yet road conditions are holding back drive-aways, particularly to the northwest of Toronto. However, the orders are in marked contrast to last year and if it is true that the automobile industry is a barameter, then business generally is due for healthy improvement this spring.

"At the Peterboro Show, Mr. Banks has arranged a Willys Knight Sedan, an Overland Sedan and an Overland Touring car to advantage and we are glad his efforts have resulted in quite a number of good sales. It is interesting to note what a growing proportion of sales, there is in closed models".

Willys-Overland Limited is also represented at the Show by Mr. L. M. Robertson, Eastern Ontario representative, who is taking advantage of the opportunity of meeting visiting dealers from this part of his territory as well as of co-operating with Mr. Banks in increasing the Overland population of Peterborough.

NOT RELIEF BUT WORK

Mr. Hudson continued. "Then if our applicant is willing to go there we forward word to that effect. When jobs are filled, the bureaux are notified, and the cards on which they are temporarily filed are of course cancelled."

Supplies Information

Asked as to whether this system worked satisfactorily Mr. Hudson affirmed that it did, and he also pointed out that it was obviously fair to both the workingmen and employers. On the card shown above the information is given that the shop is open. If applicants prefer not to work in an open shop they needn't go. But it is felt that they are entitled to that information. Similiarly if a strike is on or is threatening at place calling for men that fact is mentioned on the card that is put on file in the Employent Bureau.

Department Is Natural.

Mr. Hudson declared that the Department desired to be neutral in order that is should receive the confidence and also patronage of employers and workingmen alike. The large number of men who had passed through the employment offices during the last two years testified to the success of its operations, and offered an assurance that the Employment Service securely and permanently established.

The fact that so many jobs are listed with the Service by employers is cited as proof of satisfaction.

Preference to Canadians

How the Department strives to give every preference to Canadian workers is illustrated by the following experience:—

An Ontario shipbuilding firm applied recently to the Immigraton Department for permission to employ, for a period of six months or more, two American workmen who had been admitted into Canada on bond for a month. This firm stated that the moulders are required to do heavy machine work in connection with building a large engine for lake freighter were not available locally. The employer was requested however, to complete form of application for admission of labour furnished him by the local employment office. This office was not able to supply the workers but the order was at once circulated to other offices of the Employment Service through the clearance bulletin, and, as the case was urgent, the Dominion Clearing House also notified the order by wire to several offices where workers seemed to be available. Though these efforts of the Employment Service, five suitable applicants were found within a few days, two in Nova Scotia and three in Ontario. Information regarding the qualifications of these different workers was submitted to the employer by the local superintendent and two of the applicants were chosen to fill the vacancies. The order was, therefore, cancelled in the clearance bulletin and the Department of Immigration was informed that suitable Canadian workers had been secured.

Co-Operation Here.

Mr. Hudson said he was gratified with the harmony that apparently existed between the provincial and city relief officers in Peterboro, Mr. Robertson and Mr. Miller. There were so many possibilities that it was pleasing to know these officials had no disagreements. This condition reacted favorably upon the relief work they had charge of and contributed to the efficency with which it had been conducted.

Mulcted by Gypsies.

On Good Friday, a band of gypsies passed through this village, and the ladies followed their usual occupation of gathering a few shillings by fortune telling. Business not being any too brisk; one woman went in the pocket of one of our prominent men and lifted his "wad" and it was some time later that he missed his roll and notified the constable, who gave chase overtaking them near Keene.

After a good deal of persuasion they returned the money, some fourteen dollars and expenses.

DECIDE CITY IS MORE DEPENDENT ON COUNTRY THAN COUNTRY ON CITY

Summary of Interesting Debate By Farm Folk Organizations, Decision of Which Went to Rush Point.

On Thursday evening, April 18th, the debaters from Rush Point U.F.Y.P.O. met the members of the Peterborough U.F.Y.P.O. at their rooms on Simcoe street. After the opening and the reading of the minutes, it was decided to adjourn to the Woodmen of the World Hall, where they had been invited as guests of the U.F.O. and to hold the debate there.

After a fine programme had been rendered, the debate was held. The subject, "Resolved, that the city depends upon the country to a greater degree than the country depends upon the city," was ably handled by Messrs. Pethick and Chas. McCutcheon, on the affirmative side for Rush Point U.F.Y.P.O., and Messrs. Garnett Brown and Arthur Simpson on the negative side for Peterborough U.F.Y.P.O.

The Affirmatives.

The debaters for affirmative first pointed out that [illegible] received their wonderful inspirations from the country. "Any attempted comparison along any lines between the city and the country," said the first debater, always brings to my mind the line written by William Cowper, "God made the country, but man made the city." These words are being quoted more to-day than they were when he died in 1806. He was a child of nature, who put all the beauty of what he saw into his poetry. Who could begin to estimate the value of such nature-loving writers as Cowper, Wordsworth, Lampman and many others who have handed down through the ages such a wealth of aesthetic, moral and intellectual influence.

Country Inspires.

They received their wonderful inspiration from the country, and the city must always depend to a very great extent upon the country for such inspirations in poetry, and for most great inspirations in painting. The majority of the beautiful paintings displayed in art galleries, public buildings, and in homes, are subjects inspired by, or copied directly from, the beauties of the country. Who dare to under estimate the influence of a poem or painting of the right type, upon the souls of men? And, after all, should not this side of life be considered of the greatest importance? And the country exerts, in this way, the greater influence.

An editorial taken from a magazine of 1914 says:

Doubtless, in your reading and associations, you have often been reminded that most of the really big things, the great ideas and immortal thoughts, were born close to nature—that is, in the country. Most of all progress had, and still has, its root in rural life. So, here too, we find the conditions of saner living."

From a magazine on rural sociology, they quoted the following:

"Country home life offers a saner and more practical training for children than does the city home life. City homes do not yield the necessary practical training that later life demands. Outside of school hours, there is very little for the city child to do, where as, in the country chores, etc., keep them busy during spare time and holidays. All members of the country family have divisions of farm labour, and from this primarily, has come the idea of co-operation. This training in the country home is one great feature in the development of practical, progressive, self-controlled, unselfish men and women, capable of filling the positions of the greatest responsibility in the world, and for which we are largely dependent upon the country.

Lauds Agriculture.

Agriculture is the greatest industry in Canada. In Canada, with 300 million acres of land fit for farming, agriculture must always be the chief factor of wealth. Only one-sixth of the tillable land is as yet under cultivation, so what limit is there to the future of rural Canada?

Man's primary need is for food and shelter. Materials for both come from the country. Food stuffs are grown on the farm, and materials for housing, wood and minerals, etc., are found in the country, as are also materials for clothing, wool, cotton and flax for linen. You may claim, that as these are raw materials, manufacturing cities are necessary to change them into form for consumption, building and wear., but in pioneer days our ancestors had shelter and clothing independent of cities. If every farmer was driven on to his own resources as in pioneer days, he would provide for himself and live reasonably and comfortably.

Thus, the country might be quite independent of the cities, if necessary, but the cities could not exist without the country.

Depends on Country.

All materials for manufacturing is grown in the country, so that the city would have nothing to manufacture if there was no country. All economic activity is based upon the activity of the primary producer, who is either a farmer, fisherman, miner or lumberman, at work in the country. Agricultural values in Canand taken altogether, are almost one and a half billion dollars over and above combined values of invested capital and production in the manufacturing industry. The importance of agriculture has always been recognized, and we know that it is the basis of the prosperity of the country. It is so absolutely, for the maintenance of all industrial production. The manufacturers are alive to the fact that the farmer is the best customer, and that agriculture is their only asset. If the farmer is compelled to lessen his operations, the amount of farm produce will come down. He will buy less, and the manufacturers will be the first to suffer. The cultivation of our farm lands means increased business for merchants, manufacturers and railway companies, and therefore, it is to the best interest of the Dominion to frame laws which will encourage people to go on the land.

The cities depend upon the country people to buy a large portion of their manufactured goods. If there is a depression in agriculture, the demand for manufactured goods decreases; hence, we have seen that makers of agricultural implements may have to close down as in the case of the Massey-Harris Company. When the man in the country ceases to produce raw materials, we find business at a standstill in cities, and if the farmer cannot buy the goods which are made in cities, then business in factories must cease to a great extent.

Take wheat, corn, hogs and cattle out of Chicago and you have left merely a shell of a great metropolis. Chicago is great, because behind her are the agricultural regions of the north, and north-west.

Workers From Country.

The city even depends upon the county for its working population, for the majority of those working in cities came either directly or indirectly from the country. The city-born are, in many cases, neither willing nor able to work in factories. Great numbers of the most influential business men, the most skilful professional men, and the most progressive educationalists, go from the country to the city in answer to the call for leaders in the city.

In conclusion, one debater quoted a paragraph from the Girls' Own Magazine: "In the country there is constant action. The continuing miracles of the seasons with their crops and blooms, and all the lovely appeal to the best within human appreciation, weave themselves into the lives of the country people, and invite the weary, city dwellers to think of the time when they may have their own gardens, raise their own fruits and vegetables, and be away from the sounds of striving and the roar of the city streets."

The Negatives.

The negative debaters then tried to prove in a most convincing manner than this was wrong, and tried to assert the independence of the cities.

"It may be said, they urged, "that the pioneers did without cities, but, they did not. Though the city may only have consisted of a grist mill, yet to them it was a city, and the distance at which it was located from them, only added to the hardships of their lives. Practically everything the settler used in the way of tools, implements, house supplies, come from a town or city, and when they were so far away, it only emphasized their importance. If he could have gotten along without the things manufactured in the towns, he would not have driven or walked so many miles through trackless forests.

Living conditions of to-day have become very complicated. Many things that a man requires to have done, he does not do himself, because he can have it done for him, better and more profitably by others, while his own time is devoted to his own special business. In rural life, at present, all implements, tools, harness, stoves, furniture, dishes, clothing etc., are made in cities. Many may say that this is not necessary, but while the farmer is manufacturing articles for his own use, he is not attending to his own busi-

NO MORE BLACK LEG

Mr. Lynch informs us that already a great many farmers are buying Blacklegoids preparatory to vaccinating their cattle this spring. There is no question but that this is a good move; something that every owner of cattle ought to attend to before it is too late. Veterinarians are agreed that there is little use trying to treat a case of Blackleg. It is almost invariably fatal, and a single case is likely to so inoculate the soil with germs that the infection will linger for years to come.

Since it is a well established fact that vaccination will protect against the disease, no one ought to neglect this prevaution. The next time you have an opportunity, ask for information, booklets, etc., at Lynch's Drug Store, 168 Hunter Street, Peterborough. 3d 18-20-21 fats, with a certain addition of creamery butter and fresh milk, a little salt, and vegetable oils, either of the peanut, cocoanut or cottonseed variety. In 1921, in Canada, 3,780,392 pounds of manufactured oleomargarine and 2,057,035 pounds of the imported product were absorbed, proving that it has become an inexpensive and staple article of diet in many homes. From a public health standpoint, it bears the stamp of approval of many authorities, including Dr. Hastings, of Toronto, and is said to contain all necessary growth accessories.

To Boost Lecture.

Rev. Harold W. Young was a visitor yesterday afternoon, for the purpose of requesting the co-operation of the Council in making the forthcoming visit of Dr. Chas. E. Barker to Peterborough a success. Dr. Barker, for many years a prominent medical practitioner in the United States, and still medical adviser of late ex-President Taft, gave up his practice some years ago to devote all his attention to lecturing tours. His appearance here on the 3rd of May includes a three-fold lecture, one to the pupils of the High school in the morning, on "How to Make the Most Out of Life," an evening address to the men, on "A Father's Relationship and Responsibility to His Son," and the afternoon meeting, at which the women will hear the address on "A Mother's Relationship and Responsibility to Her Daughter." The Grand Opera House has been engaged by the Rotary Club, who are bringing the speaker here, and all lectures are free. The co-operation and help of the Local Council of Women was requested by Rev. Mr. Young in making this afternoon session a success, and he was assured of the warm support in every possible way of the ladies, Mrs. Mowat remarking that an adress of this sort had been the object of the ladies of different societies in the city for some time past.

The suggestion was made by Miss Lancaster that the Otonabee Chapter, I.O.D.E., be asked to postpone their regular meeting from the 3rd of May until some other time, so as to enable the members to attend the address. The secretary was instructed to write the Chapter and inform other societies of the projected lecture, to secure their co-operation.

Paper Concluded.

Miss Hazel Moffat, whose illuminating paper on the bill for the Protection of Children of Unmarried Parents was begun at a previous meeting, concluded her discourse yesterday, setting forth in a clear and concise fashion the different aspects of the legislation in this regard.

Explanation was made of the different provisions of the Act, which places the child almost entirely under the control of the Provincial Officer and the presiding judge. Provision for the mother must be made by the father of the child for a certain period before and after birth, and the child itself supported until the age of 16, in the same manner as if it had been born in wedlock, the judge taking into consideration always the worldly means of the father. One of the most interesting and troublesome clauses in the Bill is the one which refers to the effect of the death of the father. In this event, unless a lump sum has been paid by him, discharging his obligation in full, the suport of the child or children becomes a charge on his estate, until it or they have attained the age of sixteen years. The Brantford Local Council, at a recent meeting in Woodstock, took exception to this clause, as being detrimental to the interests of the lawful widow and family, but the Act expressly states that the lawful widow and children shall have precedence for necessary maintenance in every instance, the upkeep of other children coming as a later charge upon the estate.

Discussion of the Act brought out conflicting opinions from different members, a final stand on the matter being held over for the next meeting, whe the Council will decide to vote for the Bill as it stands, or in favor of the Brantford resolution, which protested against certain clauses in the Act.

HAD BAD COUGH AND SORE THROAT

Never neglect a cough or cold however slight. If you do it can have but one result: it leaves the throat or lungs, or both, affected. A single dose of will help to stop the cough, soothe the throat and if the cough or cold has become settled on the lungs the healing virtues of the Norway pine tree along with the soothing and expectorant properties of other excellent herbs, roots and barks, promptly eradicates the bad effects, and the persistent use cannot but help to bring about relief.

Mr. Albert Marsh, Lower L'Ardoise, N. S., writes: "About a year ago I contracted a cold accompanied by a very bad cough and sore throat. I sent for the doctor but what he prescribed did me so little good I became discouraged. A friend came to see me and asked me if I had ever used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I told him I had not and sent him away to get me a bottle. I started using it, and after a couple of days I found that I was getting relief, and after taking two bottles the soreness in my throat seemed to be leaving me, so I resolved to continue its use, and after I had used five bottles both my sore throat and the cough were gone. I would not be without "Dr. Wood's" for any money."

JUST FIVE INCHES OF FROST THIS MORNING

First the rain, and now the frost, is holding up the city's grading programme on Armour's Hill, according to Street Commissioner Harry Evans. On Wednesday they got in the only good day's work so far, and had five teams drawing earth away, and dumping it in the pit at the east end of the Hunter street bridge. Yesterday it was too cold to get any results; to-day showed no rise in the temperature, and it is likely that the work will be held over until Monday.

Despite weather handicaps, the Western Clock Company, however, is going ahead. Angus Richardson had 8 teams on the job to-day and although it was bitterly cold on the hill and the men had to face the full sweep of the wind, an appreciable cut in the hill was being made. This work is being done on the crown of the hill, and the present lay out will be entirely changed. When the grading is complete the land on the south side of the road will not be higher than the roadway and to do this a cut of ten feet is necessary. Mr. Richardson said that the job should be finished in about three weeks.

There were five inches of frost when the teams arrived this morning, Mr. Richardson said, and it was difficult to break the surface. "You would have thought there was a frost if you were over here early this morning," he told the Examiner. The road over the hill has been closed with a "No Thoroughfare" sign at the Armour Road.

"Everything depends on the weather," said Mr. Evans. "We want to get our job done as soon as we can but the frost was pretty deep in the road to-day. I thought we might get at it to-morrow, but it looks like another frost to-night. I guess we won't be able to make a real start until Monday."

CREMATION ON INCREASE

LONDON, April 21.—(Associated Press)—Cremation in increasing in Great Britain, according to figures given out at the annual meeting of the Cre ation Society of England. For the first time in its history of over 50 years, the meeting was presided over by a woman, Ms. Spencer Graves.

Last year 1922 cremations took place at the 14 Crematoria in that country, that of Golder Green, in London, heading the list with 893. Among those cremated last year were judges, bishops, surgeons, peeresses, members of parliament, jounalists, artists, soldiers, sailors and eminent women social workers.

The cremation of the late Duches of Connaught by her specific instructions was an innovation in royal obsequies, but the reform has always had strong supporters among English nobility. The Duke of Bedford, son of one of the founders of the society, has erected a crematory for the sole use of his ducal house.

The present cost of crematon in England is roughly $30. Urns to hold the ashes are rarely used, the general practice being to scatter the ashes in the so-called "Gardens of Rest" adjoining the crematoria.

CELEBRATION OF JEWISH PASSOVER IS ENDED.

The Jewish community of this city, made up of twenty-seven families, last night concluded the celebration of the feast of unleavened bread, otherwise known as the Passover, that commenced a week ago at sundown. The observation of the holiday in Peterborough was carried out on the same lines as in other parts of the world, but was of course not of such a pretentious character as the celebrations in larger cities.

During the week's holiday the Jewish families ate Matzoth, the unleavened bread, now a commercial product of Cincinnati, U.S.A. China used at no other time of the year was on the tables, and grape wine that forms part of the ceremony, despite certain legal restrictions, was on hand as plentiful as in pre-O.T.A. days. The entire holiday was a joyful one, in which the keynote of spring was carried out. The Passover celebrates the many miracles by which Jehovah delivered and saved His chosen people in the days of their Egyptian bondage.

DECIDE CITY, ETC

ness, which is of vital importance to the country. At present, all industry, including farming, has become specialized, and competition is keen. Labour is expensive and in the country hard to get.

Looks to the City.

It would be impossible, in these days of scientific farming, to use the crude implements and tools of pioneer days. Life would not be worth living, and could hardly be lived, for any man, attempting under present conditions, to get along without using modern, city-made things. Also, it is more economical to buy things in the city, as they are made in larger quantities. Any man, who attempted to compete with these crude implements, etc., would soon be hopelessly out of the race. The country depends on the city to buy all surplus grain, vegetables, live stock and dairy products. If there were no cities to take his surplus supplies, where would the farmer be Farmers are no longer independent, for the dealers in the cities set the price for the farmers' commodities. They sell their surplus stock to cities and buy manufactured clothes, etc., with the money. It is cheaper to sell his raw materials and ship them to other countries and then buy manufactured goods, even at the exchanged price the farmer finds.

Food Variety.

The country depends upon the city for variety in food. Country people no longer live on salt pork and potatoes, but demand variety, and so they buy the fruits of other countries such as oranges, pineapples, all tropical fruits and spices, etc., sold in cities. The city is the great exchange that makes it possible for people in some parts of the world to enjoy the things that are brought from other parts.

The country depends upon the city to manufacture their cement, brick, steel, and wood for building purposes. If some city man had not invented tractors, separators, milking machines, reapers, movers, binders, etc., the farmer would still be toiling along in the slowest way, and not earning a living.

The Decision.

Five minutes was given the leader of the affirmative for rebuttal, and then the judges pronounced their verdict in favour of the affirmative, thereby giving the victory to Rush Point.

NAME "MARY" LOSES FAVOR WITH BRITISH.

It Sounds Too Much Like Servant, They Think.

LONDON, April 21.—Mary, one of the prettiest names, typically English, and hallowed by many beautiful associations, is now falling under a cloud and lovers of old-world names and places are distressed.

The unpopularity of the name has only been evidenced lately, when one of the organizers of the English Marys tried to collect together all those named Mary, Marie, Maria, Marion or Marianne and subscribe a wedding present to Princess Mary. They searched the registry offices and, to their chagrin, they made the discovery that, although the name is the favorite with the Royal Family, it is not by any means so with the rest of the inhabitants of the British Isles.

There has been too few heroines of late for their Christian names to be passed on to the girls of the succeeding generation. Grace Darling, the lifeboat heroine, left an army corps of Graces behind her, while Florence Nightingale popularized the name Florence for many generations.

Nowadays, however, there has been no indication that the old English names of Mary, Sarah, Alice and Anne have any vogue.

But Mary, never. Mary, of course, suffers from being so often coupled with Jane, the double name typifying the domestic servant of the Bloomsbury district. Most servant girls are dubbed Mary, and if that is not their baptismal name they will be doomed to answer to it.

HEENAN WAS FINED $100.00, AND COSTS.

Vincent Heenan, found guilty of assaulting a ten-year-old girl, was fined $100.00, and costs, by Magistrate O. A. Langley, this morning.

It has developed that the Belleville man taken into custody by the police the other night as a vagrant is a well-to-do resident of that town, and what he told the police at the time was strictly true. He had come here to spend a few days, and for this reason had considerable money with him. Through publicity being given the case, the family in Belleville were notified, and this morning they cleared him of the charge of vagrancy.

When he arrived here on the evening train he checked his grip, and when he went back to get it, could not get in the station. He wandered the streets until arrested about 3 a.m. He decided to go to Toronto in the morning, he said, as soon as he secured his bag from the locker, but the police intervened.

MR. D. W. DUMBLE AT MARK STREET CHURCH

Gave Excellent Address on Book of Jonah

Last Sabbath evening, Mr. D. Dumble, K.C., of this city, gave an excellent address in Mark Street Methodist Church on the Book of Jonah. For nearly an hour the speaker held the undivided attention of the congregation, and his address was clear, logical, forceful, and convincing.

This subject was handled by the speaker in such a manner as left no doubt in the mind as to the authenticity, credibility, and genuineness of the Book; nor did he leave any doubt in the minds of the congregation as to the reality of Jonah himself. Jonah's mission to Nineveh, his bolt from duty, the voyage to Tarshish, the storm and its results, the white shark of the Mediterranean prepared of God to receive the prophet, and his expulsion by the monster on the shore next to the city of his mission, were set forth by Mr. Dumble in the most interesting and forceful manner. He will be welcome at Mark Street Church again.

FAST MILLING FEATURED ONTARIO BOXING TOURNEY

Peterborough Boxers Put Up Clever Exhibition of Art of Self-Defence.

HONOR FOR FIFIELD.

TORONTO, April 21.—(Canadian Press).—Hard and fast milling featured the Ontario boxing championships last night. George Fifield, after winning the United States championship, looked good in the 125-pound class against Neish, and had the better of the bout throughout. One of the best bouts of the evening was provided by Willie Wagman, of the Broadview Club, and Jack Johnston, Riverside's star, whom the former nosed out of the decision over the Canadian champion at 115 pounds.

Peterborough Boxers.

In the 108-pound class Alex. Burlie, Riversides, beat W. Cutt, Peterborough, and Armstrong, Peterborough, won easily from Chadwick, Riversides, only to be defeated by Burlie in the semi-finals.

In the 135-pound class R. Chartren, Peterborough, was given an unpopular decision over Baillie, St. Catharines. Both were overweight at the 125-pound class.

On First Floor and First Balcony When the City Championships Are Decided.

All seats on the first floor and first balcony of the Grand Opera House may be reserved for the city boxing and wrestling championships on Monday and Tuesday of next week. The seat sale is now open.

Much interest in the tournament is being aroused, not only in the city but throughout the local district, and boxing fans from nearby towns will be here to help swell the attendance.

The splendid showing by the local boxers at the Ontario championships will add to the local championship bouts. There's a big entry list to go before Referee "Bill" Turley, and the tournament should be a big success.

Rookie Twins Join Majors

The Jonnard twins are trying to win their spurs in the major leagues.

Claude Jonnard, with the New York Giants, is hailed as one of the best pitching prospects of the year.

Clarence Jonard, with the Pittsburg Pirates, is a catcher and hopes to stick in the big show.

Hughey Jennings, right-hand man to John McGraw, says that Jonnard is certain to be carried by the Giants.

CLARENCE JONNARD (ABOVE). CLAUDE JONNARD (BELOW).

He is a big husky right-hander, well over six feet, and is said to have an unusually good fast ball.

Clarence Jonnard seems to have enough ability to stick under ordinary conditions. Unusual conditions exist on the Pittsburg club this year, which should help his chances to win a regular berth.

Walter Schmidt, star catcher of the Pirates, refuses to report because of a salary difference with Owner Dreyfus. This insures Jonnard a real trial.

Claude and Clarence started their careers in 1916 as the battery for the Nashville high school team.

If they manage to make good in the majors, it will be the first time in the history of the national pastie that twin brothers have so delivered.

Fred Haney, recruit third sacker with the Detroit Tigers, is a fine fielder, but no Ty Cobb at the bat.

Yet Haney enjoys the uique distinction in baseball of being the only man who was ever passed by a pitcher so that the pitcher could work on Cobb.

This stunt was pulled in an exhibititon game on the coast two years ago. Of course no other than Nick Altrock could be the author of the stunt.

Cobb and Haney were on the same team and Cobb followed Haney in the batting order. Altrock was pitching for the opposing side.

The game was close and with on on when Nick purposely passed Haney. Ty didn't appreciate the situation and proceeded to smack the first pitch against the fence, breaking up the ball game.

However, Nick had made history. It was the first time any pitcher had ever had the nerve to pass a batter to take a chance on Cobb.

CHAMPION DEMPSEY SAILS FOR EUROPE

JACK DEMPSEY AND HIS MANAGER, JACK KEARNS, BIDDING FAREWELL TO FRIENDS ON THE PIER BEFORE SAILING FOR EUROPE.

Before Jack left he bought a complete set of new togs.

Morning togs, afternoon togs, evening togs, togs for any occasions.

When I asked him "Why all the glad rags, Jack?" he whispered.

"Listen, I a going to England hoping to get a crack at some of their heavyweights over there. But if I can't knock 'em out in a ring I'll knock 'em cold with the clothes.

JIM CORBETT ON PRESENT DAY CHAMPIONS

Says Jack Dempsey is Not a Great Fighter—Has Kind Words for Benny Leonard

BY TOM LAIRD.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 21—Jim Corbett, former heavyweight champion, now touring the Pacific Coast in vaudeville, has some interesting angles on the present-day fighters.

In an interview he unburdened himself of the following highlights on the pugilistic game:

Jack Dempsey is not a wonderful puncher. He has yet to knock out an opponent with a single punch.

Benny Leoard is the only present-day champion who is in a class with the fighters who reigned supreme 20 years ago

Jack Dempsey will never fight Harry Wills. He and his manager are too smart to take a chance with the big black.

Most of the present-day fighters need boxing lessons. They know little or nothing about the fundamentals of the manly art.

Benny Leonard would make a real opponent for Joe Gans or George Lavinge. He would have stopped Battling Nelson.

Fred Fulton is the nearest approach to the heavyweigths of other days. He is fairly fast, can hit and is clever, but lacks courage, a most necessary asset.

Jack Dempsey is shoulder bound and would tire in a long fight. Opposed by a shifty shrewd fighter, one who would keep him moving, he would wear himself out. Dempsey is always taut, never loose and would tire quickly.

Harry Wills, is a real fighter. He has everything. However, I cannot vouch for his gameness.

Thy tell me he doesn't like punishment. I don't know whether he does or not. I do know he would give Dempsey the time of his young life if he entered the ring confident in his abitlity.

Dempsey is the peer of the present-day fighters. However, he would have fallen a victim to Fitzimmons, McCoy or Jeffries. They would outbox, outsmart and outpunch him.

Dempsey is far from the greatest fighter America has ever known. He is a good fighter and would be a much better one if he learned how to box.

Lacrosse

Riversides are reported to have several "dark horses" for their city league team. The Asl.burnham outfit hasn't been saying much, but Johnnie Sufserland is a good forager of material, and may be depended upon to uncover players that have been overlooked by other teams.

One of the purchasers of a boy's stick at LeBarr's was a youngster of five years. That's breaking in early enough.

Practices have been held up by April's copious showers, and yesterday's snow brought back thoughts of hockey.

Havelock's intermediate sweaters are a neat black and white symphony now being mongramed. They will have the team name on a white background with a white beaver on black.

The Athetics' sweaters, purple and white, are finished, and will look as good as any in the local league. They were supplied through the Lebarr store.

Crescents are talking of their juvenile prospects, and from all accounts the southend team is attracting a lot of youngsters who are taking to the game with exceptional apitude Some of them have had slight experience and the others are picking up stick handling with surprising skill for beginners.

Lloyd Harte of last year's Campbellford team is reported back in the Trent town. He and Bernie Gannow who has been working all winter with the Hydro at Rainey' Falls were a nifty pair on Dick Cole's district winners.

GIRLS' INDOOR LEAGUE.

4:15 p.m.—Auburn vs. Quakers.

WHEN YOU SCORE A BALL GAME.

Remember——

A passed ball is a legally delivered ball that the catcher should control or stop with ordinary effort, but his failure to do so enables the batsman who becomes a base runner on such a pitch to reach first base or a base runners to advance.

DO YOUR BOWELS MOVE REGULARLY, OR DO THEY BECOME CONSTIPATED

There is no medium through which disease so often attacks the system as by allowing the bowels to become constipated, and there is no other trouble which flesh is heir to that is more liable to be neglected, because material inconvenience may not be felt at once from irregular action of the bowels. When there is not regular action the retention of the decayed and effete matter, with its poisonous gases, soon poisons the whole system by being absorbed into it, causing violent sick and bilious headaches, internal bleeding or protruding piles, heartburn, jaundice, etc.

MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS

will regulate the flow of bile to act properly on the bowels, thus making them active and regular, and removing the constipation and all of its allied troubles.

Mr. Samuel Bulmer, Tatamagouche, N.S., writes: "For over a year I suffered with constipation. I took several different kinds of medicines, but could only get temporary relief. I was told to try Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I procured two vials of them, but after I had taken one I found that I was relieved of my trouble. I do not hesitate to recommend Laxa-Liver Pills for any kind of constipation."

JACK DEMPSEY TO MEET BOB MARTIN.

Conditional on the Latter Winning Scheduled Bouts

TERRA ALTA., W. Va., April 21. — (Canadian Press). — Jack Dempsey will meet Bob Martin of Terra Alta heavyweight champion Brooklyn, N.Y., on Labor Day, in event Martin defeats, Bob Roper and Bill Brennan before that time, according to Dr. S. M. Scott, Jr., a friend of Martin.

Dr. Scott said yesterday that he had been advised by Martin that Jack Kearns Dempsey's manager had agreed to the bout and that Charles H. Ebbets would promote it.

NEW RULE GETS FIRST TRYOUT.

Coach Rockne of Notre Dame Tries Out Scrimmage Play.

What are the possibilities of the new rule in football, that puts the ball into scrimmage on the five-yard line?

This is the rule that has been substituted for the goal after touchdown, which was recently abolished.

There is no more progressive coach in football that Knute Rockne the Notre Dame mentor. It was Rockne who developed the forward pass a little better than any other coach in the business.

In a recent spring try-out by the Notre Dame football candidates, the scoring team was successful in adding the extra point in three out of four tries.

Two attempts at drop kicking proved successful. One forward pass succeeded, while the other one was knocked down.

Rockne is of the impresion that the forward pass and drop kick are the two methods that will be most generally resorted to.

THE Y.M.C.A. 5-PIN LEAGUE

The majority of the singles have been rolled off in the 5-pin tournament at the Y.M.C.A., but some of the players have failed to roll in the first round. In order to give every player a chance who wishes to qualify for the second round, it has been arranged that all matches not played to date will be scheduled for next Monday night at 8 o'clock, and players are requested to be on hand at that time. In the event of one player being present and his opponnet absent after 8.30 p.m., the former will be awarded the match by default.

In order to finish the first round of the doubles competition, unplayed games are all scheduled for Tuesday night of next week at 7.30. Teams not on hand at or before 8.30 will not qualify.

Every player in the Business Men's League just concluded who has not yet played in this tournament is asked to keep these dates in mind next week.

MANVERS LEAGUE TO HOLD MEETING

The proposed Manvers Baseball League, which will include Bethany, Millbrook and a number of others, will hold an organization meeting on Thursday evening next in Bethany, commencing at eight o'clock. Prospects for this league are very promising.

COLLEGE RECRUIT IS A REAL FIND

Norman McMillan Promises to Figure in the Big League This Season.

In the winter it is pleasant to be regaled about the greatness of this or that recruit. But in spring it is very often a much different story.

Manager John McGaw of the New York Giants took an even dozen college recruits south. Most of them were highly touted. None, however, will break into the regular line-up of the Giants.

When Johnny Mohardt of Notre Dame was signed by the Detroit Tigers it was heralded all over the country. Manager Cobb of the Detroit Tigers, thinks Mohardt has shown enough to justify his keeping him.

The New York Yankees boasted the much heralded Glenn Killinger and Hinkey Haines of Penn State.

It is doubtful if any collegian was ever more widely exploited than Kilinger. A star on the gridiron, one of the greatest running backs of all time, he was touted to go as big on the diamond.

Hugo Bleizdek, former Pittsburg manager, now coach at Penn State, a man who knows a ball player when he sees one, pronounced Killinger ready. Bezdek was positive his protege would make good from the start.

Every major club numbered four or more collegians on its roster when the spring training trip was started. The above are just a few of the highly touted "Rah" "Rah" athletes.

Yet it appears that a youngster who seldom broke into print, whose college deeds were entirely overlooked, has the best chance to win a brth on a major league club.

I have in mind Norman McMillan, who is certain to break into the box score of many a New York Yankee game this summer.

Down south no one knows McMillan as Norman. He has acquired that form of recogition since going to the majors. Through the south McMillan is just plain "Bub."

McMillan, by the way, is an all-wool collegian. He is a graduate of Clemson College. Through the south Clemson means something in an academic as well as athletic way.

For three years McMillan starred on the varsity baseball team at Clemson, which is coached by Vedder Sutton, former big league star.

Clemson hopes to cut quite a swath in southern football circles the coming season. D. E. J. Stewart was recently appointed athletic director. He will coach in football Stewart is best known as the head of the old Massillon (Ohio) Tigers Later he coached with success at University of Nebraska and Oregon Agricultural College.

Plans are now on foot to take the 922 Clemson football team to Honolulu during the Christmas holidays.

The south is naturally proud that "Bub" McMillan has shown the way way for the other collegians in the majors. Clemson College, of course is more proud and rightly so.

McMillan has proved that ability, not press agenting, is the stuff that makes good.

As a matter of fact overtouting is the biggest handicap most youngsters have to overcome. McMillan was not so hampered.

Football

Football fans and everybody interested in good, clean amateur sport, should turn out to-morrow to witness the football games. Those who have the time to spare will be rewarded by having a good afternoon's entertainment, at the same time giving encouragement to the city clubs, who are trying to gain the honour of being champions of the Peterborough and District League.

C.G.E. meet Canadian Woollens at the King Edward Park. Neither team has suffered defeat yet, nor been scored against. This should be a very exciting game, with C.G.E. starting as favourites. But favourites don't always win.

Comrades are at home (Exhibition Grounds) to Canadian Packing Co. This is Comrades' first game, but the Packers have played two games, and have yet to register a win. Their best, so far, has been a draw. The chief part of this game to-morrow is to get a line on the dark horse (Comrades).

The Owls travel to Lakefield, and although the latter team has been beaten twice, the visitors will have to work the whole ninety minutes to get two points from them.

The following Comrades' players are requested to be at the Exhibition Grounds to-night at 5.45 for final practice: Fenner, Hill, Mattison, Blackwood, Brown, Anderson, Thorpe, Dingwall, Shaw, Hopkins, Hanson, McDougall, Sayers, Abrahams, Williams.

BOB CHARTREN TWICE WINNER

Alex. Armstrong Wins and Loses and Ed. Dugan Gets Bye.

IN SEMI-FINALS

Two wins for Bob Chartren, a win and a loss for Alex. Armstrong, and a bye for Ed. Dugan, represents the performance of the local boxers at the Ontario Boxing Championships at Toronto last night. Chartren and Dugan qualified for the semi-finals, and will be boxing to-night, when the championships will be decided.

Alex. Armstrong won easily in his first bout with Chadwick of Riversides, but was outpointed when he met Alex. Burlie, another Riversides entry, who is a choice for the honors of the class. Armstrong gave a good account of himself in both bouts.

Bob Chartren, who entered at 125 lbs., was forced by overweight into the next class of 135 lbs. He first disposed of Bailey of St. Catharines, and next fought and outpointed Dutton of the Royal Canadian Dragoons. H. Ellerton of the Classics, who took part in the competitions conducted by Jerry Coughlin here, recently, will probably meet Chartren in the semi-finals to-night.

Ed. Dugan may have developed trouble with his right wrist, which might account for his getting a bye. His right hand caused him some pain during his training early in the week.

The local lads have done remarkably well, and to-night's results will be awaited with interest.

TENDLER CLAIMS LIGHTWEIGHT TITLE.

Leonard, World's Champion, Evades a Match.

PHILADELPHIA, APRIL 21.—(Canadian Press)— Declaring that he and Phil. Glassman, his manager hade done everything in their power to arrange a match with Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, without success, Lew Tendler last night issued a statement claiming the title and challenging any lightweight in the world to a match Tendler declared that his name had been omitted from the list from which an opponent for Leonard was to be elected for a fight at Michigan City, Ind., on July 4.

"This", the statesman said, "shows beyond question that Leonard has deliberately sidestepped the logical contender".

HOT WATER FOR SICK HEADACHES

Tells why everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it before breakfast.

Headaches are caused by auto-intoxication—which means self-poisoning. Liver and bowel poisons called toxins, sucked into the blood excite the heart which pumps the blood so fast that it congests in the smaller arteries and veins of the head, producing violent, throbbing pain and distress, called headache. You become nervous, despondent, sick, feverish and miserable, your meals sour and almost nauseate you. Then you resort to acetanilid, aspirin or the bromides, which temporarily relieve but do not rid the blood of these irritating toxins.

A glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, drank before breakfast, will not only wash these poisons from your system and cure you of headache, but will cleanse, purify and freshen the alimentary canal.

Ask your pharmacist for a quarter pound of limestone phosphate. It is inexpensive, harmless as sugar.

If you aren't feeeling your best, if tongue is coated or you wake up in the morning with bad taste, foul breath or have colds, indigestion, biliousness constipation, or sour acid stomach, begin the phosphated hot water cure to rid your system of toxins and poisons.

AT THE THEATRES

ROYAL— Specially selected Fox feature night. Tom Mix in "Chasing the Moon," Maurice Flynn in "Bucking the Line." Also comedy, "Small Town Stuff" and "Mules and Mortgages."

CAPITOL—"Find the Woman," with Alma Rubens in leading role. Also balance of first class show for anniversary week.

REGENT—Frank Mayo in "Tracked to Earth" and Douglas Maclean in "The Rookie's Return." Also comedy and western feature.

AT THE ROYAL.

There is possibly not one amongst regular patrons of the Royal who does not know Tom Mix, thought by many to be the most perfect screen exponent of Western and ranch life. Still among the thousands of our regular customers, how many have seen Tom take a leading comedian's part? In the wonderful Fox comedy romance called "Chasing the Moon," Mix plays a part in which high-class artistic comedy vies with his death-defying acrobatic stunts. His comedy is of that spontaneous refined character that recalls the elder Southern. In this play he takes the part of Dwight Locke, a wealthy young man, who has exhausted all the usual pleasures of the adventurous rich. The picture here shows him in some hair-raising stunts of the past. He takes his $20,000 car out West and meets the cowboys of a ranch he owns. Locke, the hero, telegraphs a theatrical manager to send out a consignment of beautiful girls, and to his New York tailor for dress suits for the cowboys. A grand ball is given by him. "And then the fireworks start!" His New York fiance arrives unexpectedly and attends the festivities incognito. What she says to Locke about the festivities would fill a library. He accidentally cuts his hand in a friend's laboratory with broken glass of a jar containing an Indian poison, which would prove fatal in thirty days unless the only known antidote is applied in that time. The antidote is in the sole possession of a professor who had just gone to Russia. The picture shows his adventures with Bolshevik leaders in Russia, who try to block his entry and rapid progress through their country. The whole story is replete with bright comedy and startling situations of romance and adventure. Maurice Flynn, the new Fox star, appears in his first picture entitled "Bucking the Line." Mr. Flynn has proven as brilliant an actor as he was an invincible leaders when captain of the Yale University football team. "Bucking the Line" is a society and also a railway construction story of great interest. In "Small Town Stuff," Al. St. John is a whirlwind of fun. His adventures in a haunted house would have kept that Boston doctor who investigated the Nova Scotia ghost mystery pretty busy to explain. This haunted house comedy is a crackerjack. Then we have Jimmy Aubrey, next to Chaplin, the world's greatest comedian, in "Mules and Mortgages." These two comedies we consider the best we have had for weeks.

Capitol Entertainment

"Find the Woman," with Alma Rubens, the star of "Humoresque," in the title role, is the feature attraction at the Capitol Theatre for this week-end, with Larry Semon in his latest comedy, "The Show."

"Find the Woman" is a thrilling mystery play which holds the interest of its audiences from start to finish of nine enthralling reels. Eileen Huban, as Clancy Deane, the stage-struck girl, who goes from Maine to New York in search of a career, shares honors with Alma Rubens, as Sophie Carey, "who gambled love against career and lost both." Clancy becomes involved, through her quest for success on the stage, in a mystery that includes a ghastly murder, a blackmailing gang, and the heart troubles of her patroness, Mrs. Carey.

There is a packet of old love letters that cause all the trouble, an unscrupulous villain, and scenes of thrilling horror where the murder occurs. And up to the final moment, its onlookers speculate on the probable murderer of Morris Beimer.

In sharp contrast is the comedy, with Larry Semon in "The Show," one of the most hilarious of his many successful productions. The heights of ludicrous humor are reached in the scenes in the vaudeville theatre, where Larry is the property man; where living statues are treated to a wind-storm by the mixed-up 'prop' tender, and turned into caricatures in B.V.D.'s; and where a misguided patron mistakes a lady's hat adornments for living birds. The giant enters here; the elongated gentleman who buys one ticket for a box, concealing within his garments his entire family of five people, and a box containing their combined lunches. Their attempt to partake of a light meal causes several complications, and the picture ends with a fast and furious dream, following a stunning blow on Larry's head, a dream in which the comedian gets mixed up with several hundred policemen and a runaway train.

A Nick Carter detective story, Screen Snapshots, Pathe Review, and Miss Flora Shaw's vocal numbers, are included in a well-balanced programme.

AT THE REGENT.

SATURDAY EVENING POST STORY IN FILMS

Universal Presents Frank Mayo in Celluloid Version

The Saturday Evening Post supplied the story for "Tracked to Earth", the Universal Special Attraction starring Frank Mayo which comes to the Regent Theatre today William J. Neidig wrote it and Wallace Clifton prepared the continuity. William Worthington directed the filming with Virginia Valli, Harold Goodwin, Buck Conners Duke Lee, Lon Poff, Jack Walters, Percy Challenger and Arthur Millett in the principal supporting characterizations.

Remembering the wide circulation of the Saturday Evening Post, it is safe to say that thousands will be interested in the showing of this production. A smooth talker, but honest —that is the hero of the drama. If he doesn't win admiration from men and woman alike, it is not because of his "line" which is irreproachable in its finesse and polish.

He goes into the lonely wastes of the sand hills to find and capture, single-handed, a bandit gang. He traps them in the desert by stealing their horses. But he is seen doing it and the next thing he knows he is the center of a posse which is hunting for a convenient tree limb. He is convicted by taciturn incurious Westerners of being a horse thief, without any judge, jury or other legal hindrances.

That sounds good. If the rest is as good, it ought to be a knockout of a plot as far as holding the interest is concerned.

AT THE GRAND.

"IRENE"

Next Wednesday evening will witness the first engagement in Peterboro of the perennial wonder of th musical comedy world, "Irene" at the Grand Opera House. The Vanderbilt Producing Company presenting James Montgomery's delightful musical play, with music by Harry Tierney and lyrics by James Montgomery, which is in itself a guarantee of the high standard of entertainment to be expected.

While "Irene" is on of those plays which hapen in a lifetime wherein a poor company would appear good and pleasing, and many play brokers made enticing offers for the road rights, the original producers have never entertained any proposition of this sort, preferring to organize and equip their own companies and keep them under their personal supervision and control, thus giving an unlimited life to the attraction which not only brought them fame and fortune, but established them in the theatrical world, as a firm whose attractions would always be a welcome visitor to any city, theatregoers realizing any production bearing their trade mark to be of the most excellent and wholesome quality.

At the ROYAL—To-night and To-morrow.

The company which will be seen in the phenomenally successful musical comedy "Irene" which the Vanderbilt Producing Company will present at the Grand on Wednesday evening, next, is positively the same as that which made theatrical history last season, in Chicago, where it ran for over 14 months.

James Montgomery's clever play with music by Harry Tierney and lyrics by Joseph McCarthy has never had a better interpretation than that which will be seen in this city, and amusement lovers certainly have a treat in store for their delight.

As always has been the custom with this firm, the attraction will be presented with an entire new dress both from a costuming as well as scenic standpoint, and Lady Duff Gordon, who has all contracts for the costuming of attractions travelling under their banner, has designed and built many wonderful new creations.

The Company's own symphony orchestra adds much to the interpretation of Mr. Tierney's entrancing score.

CONDITIONAL RECOGNITION SOVIET GOVT.

Is Now Offered By France to Russian Bolshevik Delegates at the Genoa Conference.

THE STATEMENT.

(By Henry Wood).

GENOA, April 22. — (United Press).—France to-day offered conditional recognition to the Russian Bolshevik Government.

Louis Barthou, chief of the French delegation to the Genoa Economic Conference, announced willingness to extend this recognition, provided Russia carries out its promises made in its reply to the Allied demands. But first, he said, Russia must be put on probation.

Recognition was one of the counter demands made by Russia in its reply to the Allied note. The Soviet Government agreed to acknowledge its debts, provided recognition was accorded it.

France heretofore has been bitterly opposed to admitting Russia to the family of nations while the Soviet regime remains in power.

Barthou's statement was made after a long conference with his colleagues and after he had communicated with Premier Poincaire in Paris.

Carry Out Promises.

"We shall recognize Russia if she will carry out her promises," he said, "but the Soviet Government first must be put on probation. The situation is more promising to-day, but we must wait and watch."

Thus France inaugurates a policy of "watchful waiting" which may take place in history alongside the watchful waiting policy of the United States toward Mexico.

Whether Barthou is speaking more optimistically with regard to Russia than he is justified in doing remains to be seen. It is understood that Poincaire is not so enthusiastic about recognizing the Russian Government and it was reported to-day he might himself come to Genoa and take a hand in the negotiations.

No Evasion.

Advices from Paris were that Poincare would not consent to the reduction of the Russian war debts, as desired by the Soviets, and that he would insist that the Bolsheviki assume the responsibility for the debts beyond the possibility of misunderstanding or evasion before De Jure recognition is recorded. These difficulties, however, are expected to be smoothed out even if it is necessary for Poincare to come here.

Experts Met To-Day.

The committee of experts met to-day to take up the Russian matter. The Soviet reply having proved acceptable, the next step is the working out of details. First, the committee considered the claims of foreigners upon the Russian Government for destruction of property during the revolution. This meeting was the chief event of the day.

King Victor Emmanuel arrived here this morning aboard a warship. He entertained the delegates at luncheon, and later many of them were his guests on the war vessel.

RECOVER TWO HUNDRED DEAD

Hurrying Doctors, Nurses and Medicines to Scene of Terrible Explosion.

BRIEFS FROM WIRES

MONASTER, Jugo Slavia, April 22. — (Canadian Press). — Salvage work in the section of the city laid waste by Tuesday's explosion is being carried on with great difficulty. The lack of water handicaps the fire-fighters, while gas fumes are hindering the soldiers in the search for victims.

Two hundred bodies have been recovered, and there is little likelihood that any more persons will be rescued alive.

It is still impossible to estimate the number of persons will be rescued alive.

It is still impossible to estimate the number of persons killed, as several hundred were hopelessly injured. The executives of the American women's hospitals have brought coats and blankets, and the American Relief is hurrying doctors, nurses and medicines to the scene of the disaster.

WAGES MUST DROP.

NEW YORK, April 22.—(Canadian Press).—Anthracite operators, who had announced that yesterday they would submit to the miners' terms upon which they would sign an agreement ending the strike, contented themselves with the reiteration that wages must come down.

ONE MORAL LAW.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 22. — (Canadian Press).—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, speaking as President of the Social Hygiene Movement in Canada, before the Pan-American Conference, yesterday declared the world stood urgently in need of both social and moral reform, and that stringent legislative enactment should be obtained to stop the traffic in human lives. There must be one moral law for men and women alike, she urged.

CHARGE VIOLATION OF ACT.

HAMILTON, April 22.—(Canadian Press). — The Trades and Labor Council last night, after discussion of the threatened strike situation, decided to lodge a protest with Hon. James Murdock against the action of the Dominion Power Company, it being charged that the company had violated the Industrial Disputes Act.

GREAT TIE-UP ALL INDUSTRY DUBLIN CITY

The First Anti-Militarism Strike in History—Workers Tired of Grenades, Explosions and Firing.

ENFORCE PEACE.

(By Charles O'Donagh).

DUBLIN, April 22. — (United Press).—Thousands of Irish workers as they quit work to-day planned to remain idle until next Tuesday in the first anti-militarism strike in history.

The great tie-up is not directed at any party or faction, but is in protest against the continuation of civil war. The workers are getting tired of being awakened in the middle of the night by explosions of grenades and the rattle of machine gun-fire. They want peace.

The Labor party to-day announced the final plans for the strike, which becomes effective Monday. The customary week-end idleness will prevail over Sunday, but on Monday trains will stop running, street cars will halt, newspapers won't publish, the post office and the telegraph system will be dead, doors of business houses will remain closed and hotels won't serve meals. Many people were buying extra supplies of food to-day to last until Tuesday.

Lord Mayor O'Neill of Dublin, at a Council meeting yesterday, challenged the militarists when he said: "We've cleared out the British army, now we've got to clear out the rival Irish armies. They may knock me out, but by God they won't knock out the will of the Irish people."

As preparations for the strike went ahead the rebels under Rory O'Conner continued to hold the four courts and defy the Free State troops to eject them. There was some talk of blowing them out with dynamite, but this might precipitate general bloodshed and throw Ireland into chaos.

LADY M.P. HAS NEW AFFLICTION

Prefers Pastoral Scenes to Brilliant Tartans and Chin Whiskers.

OTTAWA, April 22.—(Special)—"In the spring a young woman's fancy turns to thoughts of green fields, babbling brooks and budding trees"

How has spring affected Canada's first woman member of the House of Commons. Has the gentle fervor resulted in anything more than indulgence in smart blue mohair chapeau circled with tiny tea roses.

Yes it has. Miss Agnes MacPhail has blossomed forth as a connoisseur of fine art. She has started a collection of paintings.

"I bought these five landscapes—because I longed for the meadows and streams of the Ontario meadows side' Miss Mac Phail explained when we commented on the splendid nucleus of an art gallery which had been added to her private room in the House of Commons since our last call.

"These grey walls and gloomy gothic arches depress one.—If there isn't something colorful to rest the eye occasionally. Of course, there are the potraits of all the grand old statesmen in the main corridors", the lady M.P. continued. "But one can't stand in those drafty passages gazing on the old getlemen in their brilliat tartans and chin whiskers all he time. I had to have something of my own. So I went over to the studio of a Caadian artist, J. H. Dering, on Bank street, and chose these water colors. Aren't these birches drooping over the brook lovely? Here is an ancient elm beside a lake. Aren't the shadows wondrful"

Murray Street Baptist Church

The Murray Street Choir has been asked to repeat three portions of "Hail the Victor" at the service tomorrow evening.

Mr. Huycke will take the solo, "From the Sixth Hour," followed by Miss Florence Scott in "At the Ninth Hour." The full choir will present the chorus, "Behold the Veil of the Temple was Rent in Twain."

"He Was Wounded For Our Transgressions" will be taken by Mr. Huycke, while the solo "He is Risen" will be sung by Miss Florence Harrison, Miss Scott taking the obligato. The chorus, "Tell it Out," follows.

The subject of the sermon will be "Olivet." The pastor is preaching at both services.

WOMAN'S CLOTHES AN EVIL AND CAUSE OF IMMORALITY

Knickers Are Horrible and Ladies Not Built For Them, Declares Lady Astor in a Final Interview—No Sex War

NEW YORK, April 22.—(Canadian Press.) — Women's clothes are an evil and an impediment, and the cause of immorality when they obsess the female mind. So said Lady Astor yesterday in her final interview before she departs to-day for Baltimore to address the Pan-American conference held by the National League of Women Voters.

"In England women are not as keen about clothes as here," declared her ladyship. "They are not eternally running after the latest fashion. Knickers are horrible and women are not built for them."

"Bobbed hair! It's not pretty, but if I were 18 I'd bob mine," exclaimed the distinguished visitor.

"Will there ever be sex war as forecast in Revelations?" was the next question asked of the Viscountess.

"Oh, never! never!"

PETERBORO'S PROGRESS IN ELECTRICITY

History of Development From First Introduction of the Arc Lamp on May 23, 1884.

TOLD BY MR. FISK.

Early in 1884 negotiations between the Dickson estate and the Royal Electric Company, Montreal, resulted in a contract, signed May 10th 1884, which brought about the introduction of the arc light into Peterborough. T. G. Hazlitt, Wm. Walsh, Richard Hall and members of the Dickson family were behind the scheme. About three miles of wire running from the little saw-mill at the foot of London street, down the raceway, up Murray street to Dickson, along Dickson, down Brock to Water and thence to the corner of George and Hunter streets and down George to Simcoe. It was erected by W. H. Baisfeuillet of the Royal Electric Company, assisted by Mr. Smith of the local Bell Telephone Company. A 25-lamp arc machine set under the little saw-mill, under the supervision of F. W. Mont, completed the installation, and the energy was turned on May 23rd, 1884.

The Review of the day comments as follows:

"Like a flash the bright lights shone their radiance on the streets and in places of business. A large number of people were on the streets at the time and expressions of approval were on every tongue. The light was clear, steady and beautiful and the unanimous verdict was that the electric light was a complete success."

Had Opponents.

However, every new innovation has its opponents, and this was no exception, for three days before any light appeared in the town, the following letter appeared in the local press:

"Sir,—

'Scarcely do we get the unsightly telegraph poles off one of our principle streets when a net-work of electric wires are stuck up all over. Edison, I understand, intends to exercise his right under a Dominion charter and is shortly to favor us with more poles, but this unpleasant feature is not by any means the worst. These wires have been the means of killing many persons in the United States by coming in contact with them when within reach, as they are in stores and close to first-storey windows. This danger was the cause of a bill being introduced in New York State Legislative that companies should place them underground, for contact in any way means certain death. I am in favor of progress, but this seems rather a dangerous and useless advance. The whole apparatus for 75 lights would cost $10,000.00 at the outside, and at fifty cents a night for each light the profit is the moderate sum of 100 per cent. Therefore, I protest against the introduction of this light for three reasons—danger, unsightliness and expense. In no place has it met with popular approval on account of the danger.

'RATEPAYER.

"May 18, 1884."

First One Hundred.

The arc lamp was becoming popular in Peterborough, and by 1886 about 100 arc lamps had been installed in the shops, public buildings and on the streets. The arc machines, four in number, had been installed in the building formerly used as a pulp mill at the east end of the Dickson dam.

In June, 1887, a great display was made on account of the Queen's jubilee. A 75-ft. tower was erected

Crystal Anniversary Knox Church Sunday

Rev. H. J. Keith, First Pastor, Will Preach.

At Knox church to-morrow, the fifteenth anniversary of the raising of Knox church to the status of an independent charge, and the induction of the first minister will be fittingly observed.

It is a particularly happy arrangement by which Rev. H. J. Keith, M.A., of St. Andrew's church, Winnipeg, who was the first pastor of Knox, will be present and preach at both services.

Mr. Keith has been in Toronto this week, attending the meeting of the Foreign Mission Committee of the Presbyterian Church of Canada. His many friends, both in Knox church and in the city at large, will welcome this opportunity to see and hear him again.

On Monday evening he will be present at the Crystal Anniversary Supper to be given under the auspices of Knox Ladies' Aid in the lecture hall of the church. This event will give an opportunity to the many people who are interested in the growth of this young congregation to assemble and hear the story of what the passing years have meant to them. Mr. Keith will be one of the principal speakers at this gathering.

It will be of interest to many to know that Mr. Keith will be accompanied by his youngest daughter, Margaret. During their stay in the city they will be the guests of Dr. and Mrs. J. M. McCulloch, 312 Charlotte street.

PRICES CHANGE ON FARMERS MARKET

Change in the Weather Brought Out a Large Flock of Buyers'

There was a busy market, both above and belowstairs, this morning. Although the farmers are rather gloomy-minded over seeding operations being held up by late frost and wet weather, most of them bore cheerful faces for the Saturday trade.

The basket section was overflowing with eggs and butter. Quantities of both were on view on every side at a late hour. Prices on butter opened at 45 cents, and declined steadily to 40c, with plenty of the golden product still visible, and eggs, starting at 30 cents, were down to 25c later, with prospects of another cent being dropped from the dozen.

There were a few fowl on the long tables; chickens at 35 cents per pound, and older birds at 30c, with a monster turkey, described as "a very young bird, weighing 23½ lbs.," demanding only 30 cents per pound. Its owner surveyed its noble legs with a rueful expression, as she considered the possibility of taking it all the way home again. Another turkey was being held at 50 cents per pound. This was a curiously-depressed looking fowl in spots, and a young man, who evidently mistook it for a chicken, was objecting loudly to its shape.

Here, there was a vendor of honey, the light variety, at 85 cents for a five-pound pail, and little green onions, fresh and glistening, for a nickel a bunch. There was an admiring, smiling crowd around the lady whose large basket contained dozens of little black and yellow chirpy chicks, sent out into the cruel world in lots of five for a dollar.

There was a fire in the stove this morning to take the chill off the air, a convenience with its usual circle of stationary attendants.

There were plenty of potatoes on the open market this morning, at a general price of $1.25 per bag, with variations of $1.30 and $1.40. Small lively porkers were present in two active lots, at $14 per pair, with the dressed variety at 20 and 22 cents per pound. Several dealers had maple syrup in cans, 70 cents per

EXPOSITION OPERATIONS WAGE BOARD

Interesting Address Given Last Evening by Dr. J. W. MacMillan, Chairman of the Board.

NEED FOR BOARD

A small but very appreciative audience at the Collegiate Institute Hall last evening listened to an interesting exposition of the workings of the Minimum Wage Board, given by the chairman of the Ontario Board, Dr. J. W. McMillan, of Toronto, by Mrs. H. Parsons, secretary, who is one of the representatives of capital on the Board, and by Mr. H. G. Fester, one of the Labour representatives.

The Board is composed of five members, a man and woman to represent employers, a man and woman representing Labour, and the chairman, who "sits on the fence," or as Dr. McMillan phrased it, "rides the storm and controls the whirlwind."

Dr. MacMillan.

Dr. MacMillan, in pleasant, conversational fashion, made a brief speech, explaining the major workings of the Minimum Wage Act.

"Since its inception about fifty years ago," he said, "it owes its success to the fact that it is based on a sound, moral principle, not policy nor political philosophy, but the principle of the sacredness of human life." This principle, when applied to the industrial order, declares that an individual who expends his energy on behalf of humanity should receive at least enough to support his life. The saying of St. Paul that 'they that preach the Gospel shall live by the Gospel" applies in like manner to the man who digs the ditches, and another saying of the Apostle of the Gentiles, that "they who will not work shall not eat" was regarded also as applicable.

"That is a wise law," said the speaker, "and is one of the essentials of the administration of relief, for instance, or of the organisation of industry. Those who will not work should be allowed to starve a little, and the converse is true, that those who will work shall eat, and get from their work the bread of independence and self-respect."

Dr. MacMillan declared that the Minimum Wage Law, which is chiefly concerned with fixing wages of women in industry, was not a Fair Wage Law, in fact, it was not a wage law at all, because it did not fix wages. It just draws a line, saying that above that line, competition of any sort may exist, but below it, the necessities of life must be provided for.

The Law came into existence in New Zealand and Australia, from there to Great Britain and the United States, and finally to Canada, where it is now operative in every Province except Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick. Dr. MacMillan's connection with the Board was first established in Winnipeg, and he reported co-operation among the opposing elements of the Board and employers in every instance, because of universal recognition of the "validity and the force of the great moral principle on which the Act is based."

Need for Board.

The need for a Board of this sort was explained by the fact of the great variation in wages paid. "All the boot and shoe factories, all the laundries, all the retail stores, do not pay the same wages. In our year and a half in Ontario, we have found hundreds of differing wage scales. Two factories, with the same machinery, buying and selling their product in the same market, and employing labour from the same market, will show average differences in wages of from ten to fifty per cent., and usually it happens that the man who pays the higher rate is the more prosperous of the two."

Mrs. H. Parsons.

Dr. MacMillan was followed by Mrs. H. Parsons, who is one of the representatives of the employers on the Board—a lady of clear, concise speech and forceful delivery. Saying that the National Council of Women, who had done so much to further the cause of Minimum Wage legislation, only claimed that they had accomplished most of the "spade work" for the Act, Mrs. Parsons gave a comprehensive review of the movement, from the time when their slogan was "equal pay for equal work" to the present, when it was worded "equal pay for equal value of work."

The method by which the Board determines a living wage was explained. A budget is prepared of the necessities of ordinary comfortable living for a girl in industry, by recourse to questionnaires sent to women working in the industry under investigation and to leaders of women, to determine what is paid for clothing and the incidentals of life.

Keep Off Signs in Park Ignored By the Public

Requests Fail to Save the Grass, Prosecute Trespassers.

If the public will not respond to polite requests not to trespass on the grass in Victoria Park, should sterner methods be adopted to preserve the lawns from the disfigurement caused by short cut paths? The caretaker, Mr. Frank Wise, has informed Ald. Gainey, chairman of the Parks committee, that the "please keep off" signs are ignored, especially during the winter and spring, when broadways are worn so deeply that it is doubtful whether they can be reclaimed this summer. Should notices be posted warning the public that trespassers will be prosecuted henceforth, and the committee determine to carry out the threat without fear or favour

What's the use of spending money on Victoria Park if the public, or that part of it living in the upper east end of the city, nullifies the work of the caretaker? That is Mr. Wise's enquiry, and Ald. Gainey sees no other recourse but an appeal to the authorities. The path worn across the lawn this year is exceptionally deep, and it is felt that some action should be taken to prevent a recurrence of this defacement of one of the city's central beauty spots.

HEAVY RAINS ARE HELPFUL

What the Farmers Think of the Rainfall — Help Hard to Get.

The opinion that the heavy rains have been good for the land rather than damaging, was expressed by farmers on the local market to-day. Only one man was of the opinion that serious damage had been caused the fall wheat and an irreparable loss caused in holding up the spring work. While other farmers felt that so far the rains had been helpful, they considered that if Jupiter Pluvius continued to send down showers there would be too much moisture in the ground for the good of the land and the fall wheat and clover would be damaged.

"What leads me to think the rain has done a lot of good is the way the ground has soaked it up. There are hardly any ponds, and in view of the large number of wells that went dry in the country this winter, I think the rain has done more good than harm," said one farmer, with very decided views on the subject. "The land must have been unusually dry. I noticed where rivulets ran down the hills, the water was soon soaked up," he said.

The rains, conceding that they have been helpful, have held up spring work. "Last year we were ploughing the first week in April, and had our sowing done by this time," said one farmer. "This year we have only worked a little on one field. The season is certainly late." Another farmer from Cavan said that out his way there had been only a few farmers started work. A few fields favorably situated on the hills had been ploughed, but so far as he knew no spring work was done. "A few days of sun, like to-day, would dry things up fine and we could start to work," said a Smith Township man.

The Clover Crop.

The clover is looking fine, The Examiner was told, but "scalding" has killed sections of the fall wheat on the low lands. On higher ground the fall crop is looking splendid and the early growth has been fine. In some well-fertilized fields the wheat is standing three and four inches.

"I never had so much trouble to get a man as this spring," was the rather astonishing statement of a Cavan farmer. "I put an advertisement in the paper about a month ago and received about 13 replies. When I went to see them they all held off, saying they were looking for something better. There was one man I thought I could get, but the people he was working for raised his wages. That is something the farmers are up against. At the prices they get they cannot compete with manufacturers. I lost this man, but finally have got one now, an experienced man."

"What are you paying him?"

"Thirty dollars a month," he replied. "Some of the men who answered my ad. wanted $55, but they knew I couldn't afford to pay that. It seems to me there are a great many men who are not anxious to work. I know three or four farmers out our way that are looking for men and can't get them, and they are making good offers too."

ADMIRAL NELSON'S GRANT.

LONDON, April 22.— (Canadian Press.)—The grant of 5,000 pounds made to Admiral Grant after the Battle of Trafalgar and extended to his descendants, is still continued, Chancellor of the Exchequer told a questioner in the House of Commons. This grant thus far has cost the government 585,000 pounds.

RAT HARVEST LIGHT WITH SEASON OVER

Price of Pelts Quoted Up to $2.25 For First Quality—So e Trappers Sold at $2.05.

MUST SELL BY MAY 1

The season for trapping muskrats closed yesterday. From the Kawartha and Rice lake trappers it is reported that the catch this year has been much lighter than the average. The late breaking of the ice was an early drawback, and, followed by the rapid rise in water formed a combination that prevented the Indians ad others from working as freely as usual. As result prices have reacted upwards. Fred Jopling is said to have paid $2.20 at the Chemong reserve yesterday and the price is anywher from $2.10 to $2.25.

"Hiawatha sold too soon" was one of the remarks heard. The first part of the Rice Lake catch was disposed of at $2.05, according to these reports, which at today's price as quoted by a trapper who had sold was a loss of twenty cents for first quality pelts, and 15 cents all around icluding culls.

The trappers have until May 1st to sell their catch, but those who are now unloading feel that the range of from $2.15 to $2.25 is a fair offer and unlikely to be increased, There may be a tendency on the part of others, however, to hold on to the end but those who several years ago had to take a loss by that bit of commercial strategy are probably satisfied to take what they consider a reasonable price.

Farmers Like Good Highways

The Repair Gangs Are Cetting Busy on the Gravel Road.

According to North Monaghan and Cavan farmers, there is only one bad spot on the Gravel Road, and that is at the hill at Springville. The repair gang are now laying gravel here, filling in the holes, and that section will soon be fairly passable. According to one farmer, a great many cars got lodged in the bog there. The Provincial Highway work has not advanced that far, the work when winter set in being completed to Robert Fowler's, about four miles from town. One farmer at least has something good to say for the highway. "Whatever it costs, it is a splendid road, and as time goes on I think the farmers will appreciate it. While the other roads are being dragged and repaired there has not been a cent put on the Gravel Road, and I think that while it costs more in the first place it is economy in the long run. It's costing five dollars a day to keep men on the township roads fixing them up, and what better are they? Every year they have to go through the same performance and the roads never get any better."

PRICE THREE CENTS — PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, APRIL 22, 1922 — PRICE THREE CENTS

QUESTION IS ASKED ABOUT R. C. LARKIN

The Threat That Canada Would Secede From the Empire Attributed to High Commissioner.

CATTLE EMBARGO.

OTTAWA, April 22.—(Canadian Press) — Further consideration of agriculture estimates in the House yesterday gave rise to a sharp discussion on the Hon. P. C. Larkin, of Toronto, who recently was appointed Canadian High Commissioner in London. It was in reference to the British embargo on Canadian cattle.

Had Mr. Larkin, as reported in special cable despatches, it was asked, represented to members of the British cabinet that failure to remove the cattle ban "would place a potential weapon of considerable power in the hands of annexationists of the prairie provinces."

Hon. W. B. Metherwell Minister of Agriculture, was frankly sceptical that Mr. Larkin had ever made any such statement but eventually intimated that he would make inquiries. Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, observed that simliar sentiments had about a week ago been attributed to an unnamed Canadian. Now they were being attributed to Mr. Larkin and perhaps without Mr. Larkin's knowledge.

While on the question on "annexatioists", Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the oppositon, took occason warmly to deny that he had at any time ever said anything reflecting on the loyalty of westrn Canada.

SMYRNA WILL CAST OFF THE TURKISH YOKE

Two-Thirds of Army Won Over to Movement of Greek Nationals to Oust the Turks.

THE OBJECT.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 22 (Canadian Press). — The Greek National movement in Smyrna is now considered to be a reality. Two-thirds of the army has already been won over by the Defence Committee, which will proclaim the independence of Smyrna the moment the Athens Government orders the evacuation of Ionia.

Volunteers are leaving daily for Smyrna in great numbers.

The movement is described as not annexationist, its object being to obtain guarantees for the lives and propertise of minoritis in Anatolia.

GUTHRIE WANTS ALL SURVEYING TO BE STOPPED

Says That It Is Unnecessary to Spend $600,000 on Surveys at Present Time.

PARTIES ARE OUT.

OTTAWA, April 22 (Canadian Press).—A holiday in surveying Dominion lands was suggested in the House yesterday afternoon as a means of reducing expenditure. The vote under discussion was one of $600,000 for such surveys.

Hon. Hugh Guthri asked if any injury would result through taking a "survey holiday." He believed that the survey territories in Western Canada were now so vast that they would not be settled for possibly a hundred years. If that was the case, it seemed unnecessary to continue the work. He thought the whole amount might be stricken out.

Hon. Charles Stwart, Minister of the Interior, agreed that it was a mistake to go on with indiscriminate surveying in unsettled territories, but pointed out that miners going into new country applied to the Department for locations, and unless the base lines had been put through, these could not be given. If a policy of settling immigrants in surveyed country along the railways was adopted, much might be saved on survey work. If the natural resources were returned to the Prairie Provinces, this surveying would be unnecessary. Every dollar of the vote had been allocated, and survey parties were now on their way West.

He urged that he be given a chance to find out if any of the survey crews could be dispensed with. It would not be fair to the staff, especially those who had been with the Department since 1905, to chop them off at a moment's notice.

E. J. Garland, Progressive, Bow River, strongly supported the criticism made by Mr. Guthrie, and moved that the item be cut in two—that is, reduced by $300,000.

CONDUCTOR IS NOT A TRAFFIC OFFICER.

TORONTO, April 22.—(Canadian Press).—The fact that a conductor has no right to direct a motorist to pass his car was brought out in Police Court yesterday afternoon, when James A. Ross offered this as a reason for passing a standing car on Dundas street. The car had reached the end of its route, and the accused had to pass alongside when there was no room to back up.

Magistrate: "A signal from a conductor is no excuse for violating traffic regulations."

Drury Tells Provincial House Not to Meddle With Dominion Affairs—Soldiers' Pensions

TORONTO, April 22.— Premier Drury took the position in the legislature yesterday afternoon that it was bad form or bad manners for the house to pass any resolution calling upon the Dominion government to deal in a particular way with any matters which are exclusively in the federal field of activity. The point came up when the resolution of J. McNamara (Riverdale), was pressed, which would put the legislature on record as endorsing the demands of war veterans for increased pensions, asking that returned men be given preference in appointments to the Dominion civil service and requesting that the House of Commons appoint a joint parliamentary committee or Royal Commission of Inquiry to reach a satisfactory decision in regard to requests for the returned man for more generous treatment for themselves, dependents and widows.

Mr. McNamara's resolution has been on the order paper since the session began and yesterday afternoon he explained that the premier had told him he would not support it until it had been altered. The member for Riverdale maintained that he had good precedent for such a resolution from the provincial house to the Dominion house in a resolution against reciprocity passed in 1911 by the legislature of this province.

Premier Drury said the resolution was no doubt constitutional, but it was bad form for the province to interfere with questions that were exclusively in the federal field. The constituencies of this province have direct representation in the house of commons and there was no need for the provincial house to take any action. The legislature would resent, he said, any memorial from the federal parliament on purely provincial affairs. It should work both ways. The action of the legislature in regard to reciprocity did not alter his opinion as to the advisability of provincial interference. He therefore, speaking on behalf of the government would not support the resolution.

Hon. Howard Ferguson said that Alberta had passed a resolution which might be interpreted the same way as this one in regard to interference with federal jurisdiction, but he did not think it was being viewed that way by the federal parliament. The question was somewhat lengthily discussed when the reciprocity resolution was up, but it was a far more political resolution than this and he did not think the federal house would resent a provincial resolution regarding returned soldiers. He asked why was Hon. Manning Doherty sent to Britain to get the embargo lifted. That was interference with the rights of the British parliament.

"I went over as a private citizen and I brought home the bacon," interjected Mr. Doherty.

"Not yet," Mr. Ferguson replied.

M. M. McBride referred to the legislature's resolution asking for lower freight rates which was introduced by the minister of agriculture was on the same basis as this one, Mr. Doherty said his resolution was addressed to the Dominion Railway Board.

The resolution was not called and therfore no action was taken on it, Mr. Drury explaining that he would support it if differently worded, but Mr. McNamara declined to change it.

RUSSO-GERMAN TREATY CONTROVERSY SETTLED

Russia Will Recognize Debts of Previous Governments But Needs Financial Aid From Other Powers.

AID FROM U. S.

GENOA, April 22. — (Canadian Press.)—The Economic Conference yesterday made a great stride forward. The elimiantion of the Russo-German Treaty from the controversy, and Soviet Russia's acceptance of the Allied conditions concerning foreign debts and confiscation of property of foreigners, produced a very definite hope that the greatest European statesmen have ever held will accomplish something real and tangible for the reconstruction of Europe, including Russia.

The demands of the powers which have been accepted include the waiving by Russia of her counter-claims, based on military intervention; recognition of war debts to the Governments, with the understanding that they will be considerably scaled down; recognition of debts and financial obligations due to foreign nationals and the right of foreigners to have confiscated property returned to them or to be given proper compensation for it.

The conciliatory nature of the answer of the Soviet Government contributed to the optimism that the Bolsheviki earnestly seek an arrangement with the Powers by which Soviet Russia will be permitted to enter into the comity of nations. The clear and brief demands of the Allies, which afford a concrete basis for discussion, are compared here by the observers to the concrete United States proposals for naval limitation which was introduced at the outset of the Washington Conference and which gave the delegates to the Washington gathering an opportunity to concentrate discussion on something tangible and constructive.

The insistence of the Soviet on foreign financial aid as a necessary condition to Russia's salvation serves to direct attention toward the United States, for it seems to be recognized that effective succor for Russia is impracticable without participation of American capital. Allied representatives are hinting that they would like to see Richard Washburn Child, the United States Ambassador to Italy, attend the discussions on Russian affairs.

The sentiment regarding United States finnacial support was summed up to-day by former President Motta of Switzerland, who said that without assistance from the United Sttaes it would be very difficult for Europe to win out.

"We do not believe that America willl forget the ties binding her to Europe," he declared.

Simultaneously with yesterday's developments here, prominence was given press despatches frod the United States asserting that public opinion there did not expect any assistance would be given Europe until Europe put her house in order and really got to work, settled the problem of German reparations and reduced her armies.

Signor Facta, Chairman of the Conference, last night officially voiced the hope for the success of the conference which the Soviet reply of yesterday is considered to justify. A committee of seven experts, representing Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, Japan, Holland and Czecho-Slovakia will meet the Soviet experts to-day to inaugurate a practical discussion of the entire situation. Rumania was assinged a place on the board of experts, but withdrew in favor of Czecho-Slovakia.

JOHN A. COPELAND IS KILLED BY LIVE WIRE

Widow Was Former Resident of Peterborough.

Peace Officer John A. Copeland of Geneseo, Livingston County, New York, was electrocuted Monday night, April 17, while attempting to remove a 2,200-volt live wire from off the sidewalk. He took hold of the wire with two sticks, but it flew back, the insulated portion striking his naked hand, inflecting almost instantaneous death.

The tragic fate of Mr. Copeland has interest in Peterborough from the fact that his sorrowing wife was Susan Renwick, formerly of this city, but resident in Geneseo the past 26 years. He is also survived by two daughters, Ruth and Alice, and three sons, Renwick, Niel and Donald, all at home. Deceased had a splendid record as a police officer and was candidate for the Republican nomination for Sheriff of Livingston County, N. Y.

WHEAT BOARD WAS UNFAIR TO ONT. MILLERS

R. A. Thompson Claims That Millers in This Province Were Unjustly Treated.

BEFORE COMMITTEE.

OTTAWA, April 22. Canadian Press. — "The Canad. Wheat Board was unjust, hard and arbitrary in its manner toward the Ontario millers. It is a fact, and I cannot say anything else," stoutly asserted R. A. Thompson, President of the Dominion Millers' Association, in giving evidence before the Parliamentary Committee on Agriculture yesterday afternoon. "I am opposed to a compulsory wheat board," he said.

Mr. Thompson informed the committee that a member of the board told him that the object of the board was to secure the best possible price for wheat without regard to other industries. This interpretation of the duties of the board had been denied by Sir Geo. Foster, the Minister of Trade and Commerce, when the millers pleaded their case before him.

Under the board the mills were sometimes compelled to grind wheat without receiving pay for milling costs.

Mr. Thompson went to Winnipeg and appealed to the board to give the millers some share of the profit on flour ground under these conditions back, he said, "their ears were closed to my appeals." The board had made a profit of $6,297,000.

"Who would have made that profit if there had not been a board," queried Thomas Sales (Progressive, Saltcoats.)

"There was never a milling concern made $1.43 a barrel profit," the witness retorted.

Mr. Sales asked if the board had not asked the millers for a statement of their costs and made offers to include this in allowances to the millers.

Mr. Thompson declared that the board had not lived up to its agreement.

Further the board had informed a milling company that it would not believe its records.

"The miller has had a bad reputation since Chaucer's day," remarked A. B. McMaster of Brome humorously.

"They say," said Mr. Thompson, "that there is a hair growing on the palm of an honest miller's hand."

"Let's see your hand," Hon. H. H. Stevens demanded.

"The trouble is it takes an honest man to find it," was the retort from the witness.

The committee roared with laughter.

Injustice to the millers was a result of the arbitrary outlook of the board, Mr. Thompson proceeded. It did not follow that a new board would repeat the practices, but Mr. Thompson was arguing against the reconstitution of the board with its previous powers. Mr. Thompson's company had made a profit under the wheat board.

"Why shouldn't we?" he demanded.

The troubles of the millers included high freight rates and the demand from the Canadian shipping companies for a higher rate than the American companies.

A complete inquiry into the whole grain business was necessary and it should be investigated by a royal grain commission.

A. C. Hogg, representing the grain section, Toronto Board of Trade, said that his interests were opposed to the establishment of a compulsory wheat board. The Federal Government had already invested more money in aid of the grain growers than for any other branch of the Canadian industry.

The Wheat Board could control in Canada but could not control the price in the world markets. This fact might result in a board operating at a loss. There was no more reason why special arrangements should be made for marketing grain than for marketing lumber, ores, or the products of the basic industries. There was no need for a compulsory board, Mr. Hogg argued, because of the existing marketing facilities.

The committee adjourned till Monday morning.

DISCOVERED A NEW YORK IN SWITZERLAND

GENEVA, April 21.—(Associated Press.)—A peasant handed in a telegram of a few words at a branch telegraph office for his wife in New York, and placed a franc on the counter for payment. The clerk asked whether the wire was really meant to be sent to New York, and proceded to make the calculation. When the comparatively large sum required was announced to the peasant he protested loudly and insisted that New York was in Switzerland.

And so it was found to be, but it took long and patient search through a large ancient volume to discover that there is a New York in Switzerland, a little Alpine hamlet of 50 inhabitants not far from Lucerne.

LONGER TERM RECOMMENDED SOLDIER LOANS

A Four-Year Extension Asked For Repayment of Money Borrowed For Stock and Equipment.

IMPERIALS.

OTTAWA, April 22.—(Canadian Press.) — A recommendation that there should be an extension of the four year term for the repayment of loans on stock and equipment to settlers under the Soldiers' Settlement Board was made by Major Barnett, Chairman of the Board, at the meeting of the Pensions and Re-establishment Committee yesterday.

Major Barnett also expressed the opinion that there should be some relief provided for the soldier settlers in connection with the amount of the loans. He did not, however, favor the revaluation of the lands.

Alfred Speakman, Progressive, Red Deer, suggested that instead of revaluation, there should be an allowance made for deflation. He thought it would be well to divide the land into three classes according as they were purchased in 1919, 1920 or 1921; and that a different allowance should be made for each of these years.

Chairman Marler asked if Major Barnett thought that a time limit should be placed on settlement.

Major Barnett thought not. More applications were being received this year than last.

T. W. Caldwell, Progressive, Victoria and Carleton, N.B., asked how many Imperial veterans had come over to take advantage of the settlement plan.

Major Barnett replied that about four hundred had been obtained by the board's office in London. That had been closed, and Imperials had now to come out on their own responsibility and have to provide for twenty per cent. of the cost of the land, stock, improvements and equipment.

Allentown Man Buys Lumber Yard After 34 Years' "Vacation"

ALLENTOWN, Pa., April 21. — Ninty-four-year-old Andrew Keck, after a thirty-four-year "vacation", is back in the lumber business. On Saturday, at an executor's sale he bought the lumber yard which he established in 1851 and conducted for 37 years before retiring.

His sons, William G. and S. Henry Keck, then became the owners. The latter died in 1903, and William became the sole owner. He died within the last year, and in settling up the estate the lumber yard was sold to his father, who said today he planned to resume his business career.

Mr. Keck is one of the most active and well-known figures in the city. Hardly a day finds him missing from the principal business section of the town.

NO SALARY GRAB.

The people of Ontario surely cannot be held responsible for the manner in which the present session of the Ontario Legislature is being protracted. How then can a demand that the people of the Province should pay their legislators a bonus in addition to their sessional indemnities, because of the length of the session, be justified? That is the question that naturally suggests itself in view of the report that there is a strong agitation going on, especially among private members on the Government side of the Legislature, for increased allowances. The Province is emphatically apposed to another salary grab. There is difficulty in understanding why the Government, which cannot now be excused under the theory that it is new in office, has not been able to present its legisative programme in such shape as to expedite the proceedings of the House, and to use that failure on the part of the Government as a lever with which to lift the lid off the treasury and grab off $600 for each member of the Legislature is an undertaking that would be resented by citizens of all shades of politics. Premier Drury will lose ground, even among those who have hitherto strongly supported his administration and himself, if he fails to show sufficient back-bone to put the salary-grabbers in their places. They should be told plainly and emphatically that an increased sessional allowance is impossible.

FIRST THINGS FIRST.

One of the unfortunate weaknesses of our self-conscious generation is its tendency to confuse its values and, forgetting the weightier matters of life, centre its desires upon things of secondary importance. We have all felt this tendency in many phases of our living, but in nothing has it been so sadly evident as in the way in which multitudes of our fellowmen have allowed religion to die out of their lives.

The most cursory glance over the pages of history should be enough to warn men of their mistake. The path of the years is strewn with the wreckage of commonwealths and empires whose fall was due in large measure to the moral decay and spiritual degeneration resulting from the abandonment of the ideals and standards for which, in our conception, religion stands. And not less impressive is the long roll of individuals whose best possibilities were all unrealized for the same reason. Underlying the old word, "Them that honour Me I will honour, and they that despise Me shall be lightly esteemed," there is more than the arbitrary will of an arbitrary Deity. Moral and psychological issues which we can only dimly see are involved.

What our world needs is a generation of men who have found God. It is of secondary importance by what path we find Him. Each one of us—Jew, Greek, Protestant, Catholic—will have his own way of approach, which, if only it bring him to the Eternal none can question. It is not so much the road as where the road brings us that matters. But if by some road or by all the roads one whole generation of men could find God and be found of Him the new richness, life would have for the individual and the new promise that would color the future of mankind, only the Christ has dared to dream.

THERE SHOULD BE NO DISTINCTION.

At the recent celebration of the battle of Vimy Ridge in Toronto it is declared—and perhaps with more than a grain of truth—that the Ontario Temperance Act was ignored to a considerable extent, and that liquid refreshment was present in quantities. With a thousand guests from all over the country, it is not to be wondered at that some of them at least were fortified in this respect. Now the officials of the License Department are investigating with a view to prosecuting some of the offenders. That, of course, is their duty; if the law was broken the officials must carry out the work they were sworn in to do. But there will be many people who will wonder why they were not equally as keen in investigating the "last-night party" which marked the closing of the Legislature last year. There seems no doubt that the Ontario Temperance Act was violated on that occasion by men who were responsible for passing some of the provisions of that Act. Yet no prosecutions followed, and the incident has been officially dismissed. It will be difficult to convince a large section of the public that the Act is being impartially administered if proceedings are taken against men who fought for Canada, and who in the exuberance of a re-union of comrades of the Great War violated a measure that was passed during their absence from the country, and at the same time official action is withheld in the case of a similar violation of the Act by legislators, who, above all people, might be expected to show respect for a law for which they are responsible. The charity shown to the offending legislators should be extended to the erring veterans, or any punishment enacted upon the soldier offenders should be inflicted in the same measure upon the members of the Legislature who ignored the law of the Province and their own responsibility.

BARBARISM POSES AS ESTHETICISM.

One of the queer delusions that find a place in human minds is the belief that the picking of wild flowers evidences a love of "nature" and an appreciation of beauty, and that to do it gives evidence of culture, refinement and virtue, says The New York Times. Children not only are allowed, they are encouraged, to utilize every opportunity thus to despoil the fields, and fond parents are proud of the success their offspring achieve in this highly deplorable form of destructiveness. Since the automobile came into such general use, the extermination of the wild flowers has been greatly hastened, for now the ravagers are not limited to the fields and woods close to towns, as before, but the whole countryside has been made accessible to them, and, as if they could not do enough harm themselves, they are paying the rural children—who, if left alone, would rarely indulge in this kind of vandalism—to bring the flowers to the roads.

The season when the most mischief can be done is just beginning, and already there can be seen cars heavily loaded not only with blossoms gathered one by one, but also with great branches ruthlessly stripped from spring flowering trees and shrubs. Very little of this loot is carried home, or can be. Most of it withers within an hour and is thrown away, but apparently no compunction is felt.

Instead of showing delicacy of sentiment and a well developed esthetic sense, the wild-flower pickers and buyers reveal that they are utter barbarians. They do not hate the blossoming plants, but the effect is exactly the same as if they did, for these frail products of rain and sun lack the fighting power of the so-called weeds, and if not allowed to live their highly specialized lives in the places that suit them, they give up in despair and vanish forever. Thus went the fringed gentian, and thus is going—is almost gone—the arbutus, or Mayflower. The latter is eagerly bought by country-born city folk as reminders of youth, but if they were wiser and more considerate they indignantly would refuse to foster a trade quite as vicious as is that in the egret's nuptial plumes.

THE CALL FOR THRIFT.

An authentic story is going the rounds of the financial press which has in it a lesson of value to practically everybody, says The Ottawa Journal. In 1855 a Belgian deposited $45 in the Seamen's Savings Bank in New York. He neither added to it nor subtracted from it; but saw to it, year after year, that the interest credits were duly entered in his passbook. Thus he left it for nearly 67 years, and when he died the other day there was to his credit $1,062. Thus the original $45 had been increased nearly 24 fold within the lifetime of this remarkably patient and far-seeing man.

The lesson which such an experience teaches is the amazing fruitfulness of sound and systematic investment. The world needs to learn that lesson today as perhaps it never did before, for the simple reason that the "get-rich-quick" virus has just about inoculated the entire human race. The plain and indubitable teaching of experience is that not more than one per cent. of the countless thousands who try the short road ever reach the status of winners, whereas success invariably comes to the plodding saver. The risks are too great for those who are not content to wait.

This is a period rich in opportunities for those who desire to make investments. Scarcely a day passes but desirable securities are put on the market bearing a reasonable rate of interest, and to the thrifty that means Fortune knocking at their door. Such chances were not always available. Today the thing is so simple and free from complications that no one who wants to get into the habit of making their savings work to the best advantage need hesitate. To those who are in doubt as to the character of any particular investment, the advice of a banker may be had for the asking. It is usually prudent to seek such counsel. The main point, however, is to make the purchase, and then lay it by. In time other bonds are added to the store, and in that way a sure foundation is laid for provision against the days of inactivity which inevitably come.

There have unquestionably been many conspicuous instances of men who have won a fortune by some daring speculation; but the losers outnumber the winners by a hundred to one—perhaps more. The investor never loses. His return is modest, and it is only by the slow process of adding to his principal that he ultimately finds a competence in the yield of interest. It may be a tedious way of getting along in the world; but, as an accompaniment to home buying, it is an absolutely sure way. It is perhaps the only 100 per cent. successful way, and for that reason it is to be preferred. The fever for speculation is too infectious and too rampant in our time. It is wrecking altogether too many lives for the well being of the country. The soundness of good, old-fashioned thrift can never be called in question, and it would be a salutary antidote to the tendency of our time if a simple but effective course in financial economics were made a part of our school curriculum. The time to get sane and solid notions about money into the minds of the people is in childhood. If the lesson is well learned then it need not be repeated at the hands of experience later, with the misery of loss and disappointment added.

SUMMER TIME IN WINTER.

Opponents of "summer time" have certainly scored in the circumstances of its introduction this year, says the London Daily News. Few of us, one imagines, took breakfast by it yesterday, and to-day it may be warmer. Till it is we shall certainly feel the extra daylight at the end of the day dearly purchased at the cost of the extra chill at the beginning. We know, of course, that His Majesty in Council could not foretell ten days ago that March, still leonine then through half its passages, would remain so un-lamblike to the end. We plunged very sharply from summer to winter a few months ago; let us hope our discontent will be gloriously transmuted as quickly a day or two hence. You never know in England. Brrrh!

"Our First Year"

(By a Bride.)

START THIS TODAY—

Marriage should have no shackles in the opinion of Jack and his bride. They're trying out the theory. Now she's about to help him in business by employing her social talents.

CHAPTER XVII—THE WIFE AND THE OFFICE.

And now I have made Jack late to the office two mornings in succession! I'm terribly sorry because Jack hates it so. He's punctual by nature; never too early, never too late at any engagement.

Unfortunately, there's a staff meeting the first thing each morning. And the "boss' has a horrible habit of pointing out tardy individuals for reprimand, and making them feel like small boys late to school.

This morning he pointed a forefinger straight at Jack when he walked in eight minutes after 9 o'clock. And he fairly yelled out: "Late again, Madison! You were late yesterday! Why? Explain!

And after storming so that almost everpbody turned around to see how Jack took it, the "boss" went right on with a business and never gave Jack a chance to say a single word.

Perfectly maddening! . . f

And it was my fault that Jack had to endure this humiliation. Bue he didn't tell me about it. Jessie Langdon did. She had lunched with her husband down town and then she phoned me.

"I thought you ought to know", she said, "so you can get the poor boy off earlier in the morning!"

"So sweet of you to tell me, dear! Jack never would!" I answered. As I hung up the receiver I was reminded of what Jack had often said, that business and society mix about as well as oil and water.

I think Jack is wrong. I think a wife can help a husband wonderfully by being friendly with the office. But Jack insists that he doesnt like cliques, and that just as soon as the wives get friendly the cliques are sure to form and create jealousies and rivalries.

I'm hoping it won't happen in our case. For Jessie Langdon added an invitation to her phone talk. Or rather, she said that she called me to invite me to a morning bridge. It's a progressive party, from 10 to 12, with breakfast at noon.

A brand new idea in this town. I think I'll give one. I want to go to Jessie's to meet the wife of Jack's "boss." I am convinced it will be a good thing for Jack if I am on friendly terms with Mrs. Boss.

I'm happy because I have my lovely pearl beads to set of my black crepe when I go to the morning bridge. But I came close to losing them the other day on the street car. Across from me I noticed a strange looking man, dark, thin, a reigner, was watching me. He was rude. I was annoyed.

In the crowd on the platform as we left the car this man stood close to me. As I stepped out he was higher than I and at the moment I thought I felt a touch of warm fingers on the back of my neck.

I shiver when I think of it! I put my hand suddenly to my collar and my precious beads, unclasped, slid into a heap into my palm!

I'd weep if I lost those silly beads bought with the first money my husband gave me.

I took them to the nearest jeweller. The cerk said the clasp was all right. He suggested that somebody had tried to steal them, and we laughed together.

Who would risk committing a crime for a string of false pearls

MOTHER GIVES LIFE TO SAVE HER CHILDREN

Heroic Woman Allowed Herself to Burn to Death Rather Than Endanger Lives.

CLOTHING ON FIRE.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 22.—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. Catherine Enon, 23, farmer's wife, near Nelson, Mo., allowed herself to burn to death yesterday rather than endanger the lives of her two children with her flaming garments. Her clothing ignited from a stove. Just before she died she told her husband she ran to a room to get a blanket to smother the flames, but was afraid to take it from the bed where their two children were sleeping.

FIERY, ITCHING SKIN IS QUICKLY SOOTHED WITH THIS SULFHUR

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

A small jar of Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any drug store.

ANOTHER STORY OF THE "UNKNOWN."

Retold During Antigonish Spook Investigation.

HALIFAX, April 22.—(Canadian Press)—One of the stories of the "Unknown" which were retold during the recent Antigonish manifestation at Caledonia Mills and while Dr. Franklin W. Prince, New York, of the American Society of Physical Research was conducting his investigations into the mysteries, was that which concerned Captain George A. Hatfield, well known deep-sea mariner of Parrsboro, N.S.

In the spring of 1876, Captain Hatfield left Cienfuegos, Cuba, in the barque J. T. Smith, bound for Boston with a load of sugar. One the night of April 20, with the weather clear and the wind favorable, Captain Hatfield retired leaving the mate in charge of the ship. He had been sleeping for some time when he was suddenly awakened by what seemed to be a man shaking him by the right shoulder and telling him to keep the vessel of one quarter of a point. Aroused from his slumber the Captain saw a man disappearing through the cabin door. Thinking it was the mate he went on the deck and questioned him, but the mate, expressing much surprise, assured him that he had not been in the cabin.

By this time a thunderstorm had suddenly broken, but wind still blew from a favorable quarter. Captain Hatfield went below and was soon asleep. The same messenger as before awoke him and he was able to distinguish, before the visitor disappeared on deck, that he was dressed in a gray suit and wore a white straw hat. When the Captain went again on deck no sign could be seen of the stranger.

Captai Hatfield went below determined to watch, but tiring, fell asleep. Again he was awakened by the apparition. It was about midnight and the storm had abated. The skipper determined to heed the thrice given message and had his vessel's course changed one quarter of a point, and gave orders for a sharp lookout, as the Florida coast was being neared.

On the following day at noon the lookout sighted what he thought to be a lighthouse. Captain Hatfield thought that none should be near and ran for the object. It was soon seen to be a schooner waterlogged and sinking, on closer approach was found to be the American schooner T Talbot. A boat was sent to her and Captain Amesbusry of the distressed vessel, his wife and young son and several of a crew were rescued. Within a short time the disabled schooner sank.

When Captain Hatfield told of his dream to Captain and Mrs. Amesbury, the latter confidently stated that she believed the apparation to have been that of her father. As a memento of the rescue. Captain Hatfield carries a valuable gold watch with the following inscription:

'Presented by the President of the United States to Captain George A. Hatfield, of the British barque J. T. Smith, Parrsboro, N.S., for humanity and courage in the rescue of the crew of the sinking American schooner, D'Talbot. April 21, 1876."

FOUND LETTER AND CAME TO CANADA.

Soldier Found Note in Bag of Oats Sent From Canada to the British Army in Mesopotamia.

CHESLEY, April 22.—(Canadian Press).—James Crerar, who lives in the township of Elderslie, in 1916 contributed several bags of oats as part of a gift by the township for the British Army. In one of the bags he put a note asking the received to write him under what circumstances the bag came into his hands. In December, 1917, he received a letter from Private W. E. Pattle, who was with a camel corps in Mesopotamia, that, following the engagement with the Turks, he opened the bag to feed his camel, and there, like Joseph's cup as found in days of old, he found the note.

Some correspondence has passed between Mr. Crerar and Mr. Pattle since then, and it has resulted in Pattle coming, with his wife, to Canada. He will likely become a resident of Chesley.

CONCERT AND TEA HELD IN HAVELOCK.

HAVELOCK, April 22. — The ladies of the Anglican church, Havelock, held a very successful sale of work. In the evening an excellent supper was held in the town hall followed by a concert consisting of community singing and two short playlets, "The Ideal Husband" and "Burglars."

CAMOUFLAGE SAFE TO ROB SHOE STORE.

Burglars Roll Property Strong Box Into Lighted Window As They Loot Real One.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Detectives of the safe squad were sent out from Police Headquarters last night in search of scene-painting burglars who substituted a dummy safe near the front door of the Beck-Hazzard store at 547 Second avenue between Thirtieth street and Thirty-first street, while they cracked the real safe, which they had wheeled to the rear of the store and stole $700 from it.

C. E. Townsend of 326 Lafayette street, manager of the store, rolled the safe to the front of the store, where it stood a few feet from the glass doors and in full view of the shop windows. It was specially lighted with electric bulbs.

The safe was put in the spotlight in the front of the store, pursuant to broadcast advice by Police Commissioner Enright, who pointed out the difficulty of robbing safes if they were placed where policemen, watchmen and passers-by could see them easily.

Mr. Townsend put the safe in the position of highest visibility in spite of the fact that a safe so placed in the Beck-Hazzard store at 490 Fifth avenue, Brooklyn, had been carried to the rear of the store and cracked a week ago. This was the safe which was robbed of $1,900 after a Police Lieutenant had refused to protect the money at the Fifth Avenue Police Station on the ground that bandits might hold up the station.

The second avenue store fared no better than the Brooklyn one. Burglars got in through the grating in the rear of the store. After studying the pitiless publicity which had been prepared for them if they attempted to crack the safe in the front of the store, the scenic artist who belonged to the gang was called on.

He found a large card-board packing box. They painted this black with the shoe store's own shoeblacking. For the round disk of white metal which forms the dialplate of the combination, they placed in front of their card-board box the round top of a tin can. For the handle of the safe, they inserted in the tin an old siver umbrella handle.

Probably using the services of a lookout to find the moment when the street was the most deserted, the burglars lifted the store safe and carried it to the rear. In its stead they planted under the blazing lights their device of paper and tin.

The safe was drilled through by hand and ripped open with the jimmy, an operation which must have required nearly an hour, in which time scores of pedestrians, including patrolmen and watchmen, must have passed the window.

The dummy went unchallenged until employes of the store arrived in the morning. Manager Townsend refused to discuss the crime, saying:

"I would not give out any information which might in any way hamper the police."

Other employes of the store said they had been strictly enjoined by the detectives to keep their lips sealed about the robbery.

THE MONOCLASS CABIN SERVICE C.P. STEAMERS.

Provide Popular Accommodation at a Moderate Price.

To better describe the accomodation, first made popular by its "M" steamships, the Canadian Pacific has coined the phrase "monoclass cabin service." "Mono", long used denote "single" or "one" as in words monogram, monologue, monotype, monilith, monograph, and monline designates.

These monoclass cabin steamships carry but one class of cabin passengers, providing popular accomodation at moderate price, instead of first and second class.

Monoclass cabin steamships are essentially comfortable ships. The drawing room or lounge, the smoke rooms, and other "community" rooms, around which centers the aboard ship, are bright attractive and spacious. Passengers have the full use of all the upper promenade decks. The staterooms are particularly comfortable, well furnished and well ventilated.

All Canadian Pacific monoclass cabin steamers sail from Montreal. Within recent years, especially during the 1921 season, it has been evident that the fame of the St. Lawrence route and the popularity and efficiency of the Canadian Pacific service had become known not only throughout Canada but in the States as well, to such an extent that large parties of American tourists and families come to Montreal in preference to using the American Atlantic ports. For instead of a passage between an American port and Europe, which was merely a vast expanse of ocean, during which interest in the progress of the ships is varied by amusements devised aboard ship, or the occasional passing of a ship, it was found that the St. Lawrence Route offered many features of attraction, apart from the comfort, courtesy and service of the Canadian Pacific steamships. Perhaps the principal attraction is the charm of an inland voyage on the picturesque St. Lawrence River and Gulf which shortens the ocean trip by nearly three days. This alone insured is popularity with even experienced travellers.

STONE CONTRACT WENT TO HANEY.

Committee Brings Out Fact That the Recently Appointed Chippawa Commissioner Received Crushing Stone Contract

TORONTO, April 22.—(Canadian Press)—That M. J. Haney, one of the commissioners appointed to investigate the Chippawa expenditures received from the Government, according to the admission of W. A. McLean, Deputy Miister of Highways, $10,816.77 in payments for crushed stone, through his connection with the Point Anne Quarries, Ltd., was one of the flashes of information before the Public Accounts Committee yesterday.

Mr. McLean stated that the amount included in the accounts was the lowest tender received within the the freight rate district at that point. He promised to produce the tenders at the next session of the committee.

WIN This Real-Gasoline Auto for Boys and Girls

$150.00 in other Prizes

SOLVE THIS PUZZLE

Teacher put 20 squares on the blackboard and in 15 of the squares she put figures. Then she said to the class "These figures can be made to spell out three words. The three words will tell you who is going to be first this month. It's a hard puzzle but it can be done and there are wonderful prizes for the boys and girls who can solve it. Now what is the answer?

20	5	8
19	13	18	1	5
20	19	20
21	16	9	16	12

HOW TO SOLVE IT

Each figure represents a letter. The number in each square indicates the position of that letter in the alphabet. For instance "A" would be represented by the figure 1, because it is the first letter of the alphabet. "B" would be indicated by the figure 2, because it is the second letter of the alphabet. "C" would be indicated by the figure 3, and so on. Look at the figure 20 in the first square. It represents "T" because "T" is the twentieth letter of the alphabet. Now get a pencil and paper, figure out what letter the number in each square stands for and when you have them all, arranae them in their proper rotation, so as to spell out the three words called for. It is not an easy puzzle, but with patience and diligence it can be done and if you can solve it correctly, you may win this real Gasoline Driven Motor Car, or one of the other fine prizes.

Copy your answer upon a plain sheet of paper as neatly as you can because neatness, spelling, your writing, punctuations and general appearance of your answer count in the final awarding of prizes, if more than one is correct. Put your name and address in the upper right hand corner of the paper. If you write a letter or wish to send anything else besides the answer to the puzzle put it upon a separate sheet of paper. We will write to you as soon as your answer is received and tell you if your solution is correct and also send you a complete illustrated prize list of the grand prizes that you can win.

PROFOUNDLY DISTURBING.

LONDON, April 22.— (Canadian Press.)— Replies of the Germans and Russians to the Allied demands are variously commented upon in news, and the predominatnt view regards the German note as in accord with that of Premier Lloyd George, that it is a closed incident, although some hostile critics are dissatisfied over the note and greet with apparent satisfaction France's reported protest. The Russian reply receives stronger criticism, and the Times calls it profoundly disturbing.

PETERBOROUGH'S PROGRESS

in Victoria Park carrying a battery of 10 arc lamps. The effect of this was very striking and ordinary printed matter could be read over in Ashburnham, now East City, without any difficulty. A 50-ft. pole was also erected in the centre of George and Hunter carrying 7 arc lamps. This was done to eclipse the effect of a gas arch across the street, about where The Examiner office now is, which, needless to say, it did to a finish. The above-mentioned arch only lit up one night, that one June 21st, whereas the centre pole was lit up every Saturday night all summer. The next innovation in the lighting field was the series incandescent lamp, taking the arc current of 9.5 ampere at about 22 volts. These lamps were well received and displaced to a large extent the arc lamp for interior work. The arc lamp still held its own in the street lighting field. During 1890 there was an amalgamation of the electric light and gas light interests under the name of Peterborough Light and Power Company. In 1891 the incandescent light was first introduced into Peterborough. A 500-light Royal Electric alternating current machine was installed. This was a 1,040-volt primary, 52-volt secondary and 133-cycle outfit. The energy developed by this new generator fully loaded would have run just one-half of the lamps in the Peterborough Exhibition last fall. Two No. 4 rubber-covered wires were string from the power house to Hunter and George streets. The first residence to be wired was that of Wm. Walsh. In this house was installed the first meter. It was a 10-ampere form that J. Thompson imported from Lynn. The first stores using the new light were Andrew Mercer, now the Royal Bank; Taylor & McDonald, now W. Kent, and George Scoffield, now Miller boot and shoe store. The company had to wire and equip these places and guarantee that no danger would result from the use of this new force. The first house wired during construction is situated on Reid street and belongs to D. W. Dumble.

During 1896 the first synchronous motor operated in this vicinity was put into operation. The same little 500-light generator which had the honour of producing Peterborough's first incandescent electric light. It had been replaced by an S.K.C., 180-K.W., 2 phase, 133-cycle generator, manufactured by the Royal Electric Company, weighing about 7,000 lbs. It might be said in passing that some of the directors felt that the town would not need any more generator capacity for the next twenty years. The little generator above mentioned was retired from active service, and it was suggested to the man in charge the possibility of converting it into a synchronous motor, as power was urgently needed at the Norwood road bridge by the contractors of this section of the Trent Canal for stone crushing. It was also necessary to have a motor to start and bring up to speed the generator so that it could be synchronized in with the one at the powerhouse. Another line was built with the wire that was on hand to carry 550-volt current for this purpose, but the line loss was so great that only 350 volts out of 550 got there. This voltage trouble was gotten over by placing 240-volt armature in the 550-volt field. This turned the trick and the machine was synchronized, which resulted in 28 cords of crushed stone at the end of the first day's work.

The Nernst Lamp.

In 1902 the Nernst lamp was brought into Peterborough by the Light and Power Company to offset the inroads in their business made by the Otonabee Power Company, which at that time was just coming into the field. It consists of 1 to 6 glowers, which were made of clay and which had the property of being high resistance when cold, and becoming lower in resistance when the temperature was raised. It was only necessary to have heat around these glowers, which raised them to a low red heat, when they became sufficiently conductive to allow the current to pass through it, which immediately made it glow, producing light very similar to the tungsten lamp we have today.

In 1903 60-cycle frequency was substituted for the old 133-cycle, which resulted in the throwing out of all old transformers and generators.

First Motion Pictures.

In 1904 the street railway, which had been dormant for several years, was resuscitated, and in order to make it pay they had to resort to a skating rink in the winter time and moying pictures in the summer, which, by the way, was the first moving pictures shown in the city.

In 1905 a toboggan slide, which was a great attraction for a number of years, was constructed at Jackson Park, which proved a great drawing card for a great number of people.

In 1910 Peterborough Lighting plant was absorbed by the Seymour Power Company, and in 1911 the present Auburn power-house began to deliver energy to the system.

1912 an agitation for Hydro was commenced in Peterborough, which finally resulted in the city taking over by arbitration the physical assets of the Peterborough Light and Power Company on October 1st, 1914.

In 1916 the Ontario Government took over all the Seymour Electric Power Company's system, known as the Central Ontario system.

The question frequently asked by the layman is, where does Peterborough's power come from. This is fairly well shown by the following table:

Particulars of Generating Stations on Central Ontario System.

Operating head—Trenton (dam 2), 19.5; Frankford (dam 5), 17.7; Seymour (dam 11), 22.2; Heely's Falls (dam 14), 74; Auburn (dam 18), 17.2.

No. of units—Trenton, 4; Frankford, 4; Seymour, 5; Heely's Falls, 3; Auburn, 3.

Rated capacity—Trenton, 3,000 K.W.; Frankford, 2,600 K.W.; Seymour, 3,000 K.W.; Heely's Falls, 9,000 K.W.; Auburn, 1,500 K.W.

Flow for rated capacity—Trenton, 2,460 C.F.S.; Frankford, 2,350; Seymour, 2,160; Heely's Falls, 1,950; Auburn, 1,400.

Total capacity as above, 19,100 K.W.; Campbellford town plant, 1,150 K.W.; Fenelon Falls, 700 K.W.—gross capacity, 20,950 K.W.

In addition to the above, Raney Falls is just about completed, which will add 10,000 K.W. more, and then there is still Meyersburg, with a possible development of an other 10,000 H.P.

The foregoing paper was read before the local branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada by H. O. Fisk, manager of Peterborough Utilities.

WAS TROUBLED WITH HER STOMACH FOR FIVE YEARS

Mrs. Samuel Ward, Millerdale, Sask., writes:—"I feel that I must write to you before another day passes I am so happy and so grateful for your splendid medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, for after an illness of five years I am better.

I had stomach trouble so bad, I could not bear the smell or taste of food of any kind, and got so thin and weak I could not work. I was in pain, but felt so ill, at times, I thought I would die, in fact, all my friends were sure I could not live many weeks.

This time last year I saw where a man was relieved of stomach trouble by Burdock Blood Bitters, so my husband got me two bottles, but I had no faith in it after all the different medicines I had taken, however he insisted, and after the first two days I must say I began to feel better, and after the first bottle I felt so much better I went out every day, but I soon got so I could walk and eat and have got quite stout.

I am nearly seventy years of age and I feel better than I have for years, and can now do all my housework.

You may make use of this letter if you wish, as it may be the means of making others as well and as happy as I am."

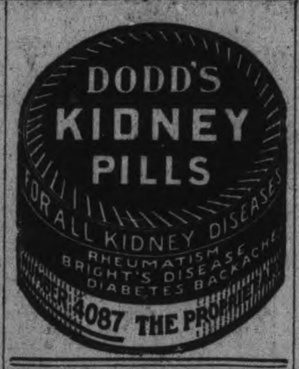
DATE ROYAL MARRIAGE.

BELGRADE, April 22.—(Canadian Press).—The marriage of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia and Princess Marye of Roumania has been definitely fixed for June 1.



EXPOSITION OPERATIONS

Variations in the desires of different individualities are noted, as in the case of one girl having a strong liking for hats, another for shoes, etc. No allowance is made, for instance, for silk stockings or for furs, and the Board was also reluctantly compelled to eliminate the item of insurance, after discovering that the majority of girl workers made no provision whatever in this regard. The two women members of the Board then verify these lists and prices by visits to different stores in the locality they are desirous of bringing into line, and variations in towns and cities are always taken into account. There is allowance made for amusement, for church giving, and for reading, with an average sum allowed for the medical or optical treatment which may be required some time in the future. Board rates were discovered in Toronto by a series of advertisements in the press, which brought hundreds of answers, the rates ranging from $5.00 to $12.00 for girls. Finally, the rate was settled on as $7.00, allowing $6.00 for board itself and $1.00 for lunches at the factory. Special investigators are employed in smaller places.

A Flat Rate.

The contention that a flat rate would be a better system of reckoning instead of dividing industries into different groups, has been answered by the experiments of the different Provinces in this regard, notably in Alberta, where it proved an absolute failure. Conditions in factories differ. In some, girl workers are eighteen years of age or under, in others they are older workers, and the learning period for different classes of industrial work varies considerably. The legislation covers activities of all girl workers, except those in domestic service or on farms. A repeated warning given by Mrs. Parsons was the complaint of many of the employers, justified, the speaker asserted, in many instances, that some of the girl workers would loaf on the job, secure in the belief that their employer was compelled to pay them a living wage. "The girl must play the game. She has a right to live, but only by her work. It would be but a poor return for the women who have striven so hard to procure for other women recognition and equality with men in the industrial world to have these workers hampering the efforts on their behalf."

H. G. Fester.

Mr. H. G. Fester, the male representative of Labour on the Board, with forceful directness, spoke briefly. Occupying, as he said, "the unfortunate position of being the last course of a sumptuous meal," he could only re-echo the former speakers, saying, however, that one salient point must be noted. That was the thought in the minds of many working girls that the Act tended to lower the existing rates of wages. This was erroneous, he declared, because, by raising the lowest wages of girl workers to a standard of decency, the tendency followed to lift the scale for all. Girls in a certain chain of retail stores in a large city of Ontario formerly receiving an average of $7.00 weekly, now received anywhere from $9.00 to $12.00 for the same period, and the girl managerresses of these stores had their rates increased from $11.00 and and $12.00 to $15.00 per week.

The minimum wage scale was a potent factor in the protection of women workers, but there is no guarantee given for procuring jobs for them. "You have to deliver the goods. If you fail and are discharged, we cannot help you."

One other thing the Board also does is to provide for reasonable promotion for women workers. Formerly, girls could be taken into "blind alley" industries, promised promotion which never eventuated, and finally let out if they became troublesome.

The Minimum Wage Act provides for promotion within a certain period of time, if same is deserved. It does not set a minimum wage for beginners in industry, regarding them as as part worker and part pupil, and considering that the employer should not pay for the learning portion of the workers' time. It also enforces its rates by law, with a penalty of fine or imprisonment, or both, where the law is infringed upon, once it becomes operative in any community.

In Peterborough.

In reply to questions from the floor, Mr. MacMillan said that industries in Peterborough which were under the operation of the law at the present time included laundries employing women, factories engaged in the manufacture of paper and candy making, and in retail stores. The telephone rates would go into force here on 15th May, and the Board was now engaged in the consideration of textile factory rates. The women worked at a certain rate for the first eighteen months, with increases every six months, at the end of that period receiving the full minimum rate.

A hearty and unanimous vote of thanks was tendered the Board for its comprehensive exposition of the Act.

Mrs. A. Mowat, in the chair, introduced the several speakers of the evening, and Mrs. A. Stevenson also occupied a chair on the platform.

A sweet vocal solo by Miss Ina Allen, "Dream o' Nights," received a rousing encore, which was followed by a lovely little number, "Mother, My Own," with Miss Charlotte Layton as accompanist.

NEW METHOD FOR TALKING MACHINES

Lee De Forrest Claims to Have Perfected New Idea For Talking Movies

NEW YORK, April 22. Canadian Press. — Talking movies with the "lines" recorded on the film instead of on phonograph discs, have been perfected by Leo De Forrest, pioneer in the wireless telephone field, announced yesterday upon his arrival from Germany, where he has been experimenting for the past six months. Mr. De Forrest came in on the liner Mauretania.

He said that he had perfected the talking motion picture so that the human voice was "photographed" on the film at the same time that the picture was taken. The impressions are taken electrically, through the action of light on a sensitive cell, he explained.

GRANDMA NEVER LET HER HAIR GET GRAY

She Kept Her Locks Dark and Glossy, with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.

Lebel Lode, Limited

(No Personal Liability)

IN KIRKLAND LAKE GOLD AREA

Offers for Public Subscription 300,000 Treasury Shares at 15 cents per share.

Head Office, 8 Silver St., Cobalt, Ont. P. O. Box 271, Cobalt, Ont.
Authorized Capital, $2,000,000. Divided into 2,000,000 shares, $1.00 Par Value. Issued for Property and Promotion, 500,000.

LEBEL LODE, LIMITED, LOCATION

Draw a line west along the strike of the Kirkland Lake Central ore zone for a distance of a little over two miles from the Tough-Oakes, the pioneer mine of Kirkland Lake, and your line will intersect the vein-systems of the Sylvanite, Wrigut-Hargreaves, Lake Shore, Teck-Hughes, Kirkland Porphyry and Kirkland Gold Mines. If you extend this line east for two miles your line cuts the vein-system of the Lebel Lode, which shows all the favorable characteristics and geological structure found on the older developed mines to the west. Extend this line for ten miles east of Lebel Lode property and your line intersects the vein-system on the Argonaut Mines, one vein of which has been proven to contain $4,000,000 in gold. The Government is building a good road right through this section to the Argonaut for the sole use of the important mining development taking place all along this strike and beyond. (They don't build roads through the wilderness until they are sure of their ground.)

WHY LEBEL LODE NOW?

Lebel Lode has the only rock outcropping along this strike for two miles—one mile west is solid swamp and a mile east is solid sand-plain. This will all come under development eventually through use of diamond drills—merely a matter of time.

WHAT PART HAVE YOU TAKEN?

What part have you taken in the important development of the gold fields in Northern Ontario? Are you winning any part of the 1,000% profits made from early financing issues, or are you the class of Canadians that are willing to "Let George do it" (foreign capital), like most of our Canadian manufacturers, jumping over $100 bills to pick up penny profits on merchandise? Are Canadians content to be merely "hewers of wood" (shoppers) and incapable of appreciation of the real importance of her mineral resources?

YOUR OPPORTUNITY PRESENTS ITSELF

Lebel Lode offers you a bona fide development proposition, in a proven and producing field, on a proven vein-system, moderately capitalized, honestly and fairly promoted, backed by an executive that commands your respect. Over sixty shareholders have appreciated this opportunity—mostly local—and every day brings in its grist of applications and cash to swell the number. Your chance at 15 cents is rapidly slipping away; 300,000 shares at 15 cents in a proposition such as we advertise will not last long. The last sale of 100 shares out of this issue, and the first day of May is not so very far away, whichever comes first, closes your opportunity at this price. Of course, you can get some after first day of May—we will offer another small issue—but you will pay at least 60% advance on the present price; figure out what your bank will give you for a month on your spare dollars.

HARD TIMES FOR BALKAN CANDIDATES

Must Hire Husky Body-Guards and Bouncers For Protection at Election Speeches.

MANY FIGHTS.

BUDAPEST, April 22.—(Associated Press)—A new occupation, open only to young huskies not afraid to fight at the drop of a cabbage has come into being here as a result of intensive campaigning for the pending elections.

Candidates opposing the government have met with such pronounced hostility that they now employ as many athletic young men as their campaign funds will permit to act as bouncers, body guards, spotters and shields for the speakers.

Opposition candidates decide to by protection after dozens of their meetings had been broken up by hands of the notorious "Awakening Hungarians", who acquired remarkable skill at heaving cabbages and soft tomatoes, ill-smelling bombs and occasionally bricks during fits of political enthusiam.

The bouncers are stationed at various points throughout the hall and galleries and on the speaker's platform. Those in the audience attempt to quell disturbances at the source, but should a stray vegetable break loose and head for the stage there is always some of the hired help ready to jump in front of the speaker for an instant.

On the rare occasions when ther are no disturbances the huskies act as claquers. In many of the gatherings this is said to require almost as much courage as speaking for an outburst of aplause from any section of the house is sure to bring a collection of missiles.

IRISH COURTS DON'T AGREE

The Existence of Two Sets of Laws Causes Some Peculiar Situations — Bookmakers' Case.

DUBLIN, April 22.—(Canadian Press)—Existence in Ireland of two sets of judicial tribunals the Republican courts and the old courts of the King—has resulted in some queer legal anomalies, as both courts are recognized by the government as valid, and their decisions do not always coincide.

One of the most notable of these "double action" cases concrned a book-maker who entered suit in King's Court against a man who refused to pay his seasonal losses, said to exceed his winnings with the same book-maker by 20 times. The defendant pleaded the Gaming Acts, prohibiting legal proceedings to act or to collect gambling debts, won his case, and the book-maker added counsel fees to his other losses.

Hardly had the case been decided in King's Court when the defendant entered suit against the book-maker in a Republican court, demanding judgment for the amount of his winnings. The astonished book-maker realizing that he could not afford to jeopardize his trade of betting by taking refuge under the Gaming Acts as client had done, found that the question before the court was merely whether the horses named in action had won. When due proof of this was submitted, judgment was again entered against the book-maker.

NOTHING TO EQUAL BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Mrs. George Lefebvre, St. Zenon, Que., writes: "I do not think there is any other medicine to equal Baby's Own Tablets for little ones. I have used them for my baby and would use nothing else." What Mrs. Lefebvre says thousands of other mothers say. They have found by trial that the Tablets always do just what is claimed for them. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach and thus banish indigestion, constipation, colds, colic, etc. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CHEQUE ARTIST AT HASTINGS

Business Men Mulcted to the Tune of $100 — No Arrest Yet.

HASTINGS NEWS.

HASTINGS, April 22.—On Saturday last a young man by the name of Pickle, who was employed by a farmer in this neighborhood, worked the old game but ever new, of passing worthless cheques.

His mode of operating was to call on business men, making a small purchase and offering a cheque for a larger amount, and obtaining the difference in cash.

Cheques were all drawn on the Bank of Toronto, Havelock.

He left on Sunday to spend the holiday, and it is needless to say he has not yet returned; but the cheques came back, as in usual in such cases, refused.

The loss is estimated at something over $100.

The police have been notified, but small hopes are entertained for the recovery of the cash or arrest of Pickle.

Children's Stockings that stand the wear

THERE is no need to tell Canadian Mothers anything about quality of materials in Mercury Hosiery for children—the name "Mercury" is recognized as the mark of quality—

But we do want to emphasize their wearing quality. They are reinforced where wear comes most—dyed with fast, non-running colors—knitted so that washings do not change the shape. Reinforced parts carry all the extra strains. Mercury Hosiery stands the wear.

RUSSIANS CUST GERMANS FROM PORT OF BERLIN

Influx of Refugees is Causing Much Concern Among German Citizens.

KEEP TO SELVES.

BERLIN, April 22.—(Associated Press)—Hordes of Russian refugees are flocking here on every train. The arrivals have settled themselves in a section of the city which they occupy almost to the exclusion of other nationalities, and have opened their own restaurants, clubs, saloons and theatres. Some of the Russians are wealthy, but most of them are penniless.

The police have found them a problem as they insist upon their customs, and have little commerce with the Germans. The greatest difficulty is found in compelling the immigrants to observe the one o'clock closing regulations. They follow the Russian custom of beginning dinner after midnight and continuing their eating and drinking until daylight.

In several of these restaurants former weathy Russians are working as waiters, cooks, or entertainers. A prince and his wife, a baron, and another of their countrymen constitute the orchestra in one small eating place. They were bankrupted by the revolution and must work or starve.

Profiteers who made fortunes out of the Russian revolution frequent the cafes in this quarter, where they have become conspicious figures in the night life of their lavish expenditures.

The German newspapers complain that the great influx of easterners has deprived Berlin of its' "German character". One paper asserts Germany's capital city has become a foreign colony, as surely as it would have become if our enemies had marched in and taken it. Another declares Germans have become "guests in their own homes."

Government quarters which have shown little concern for the financial status of the refugees, have suddenly become intensely interested in the new arrivals, particularly from Poland and Russia, fearing an epidemic of typhus and cholera. German Red Cross physicians have warned the government that unless closer border control can be maintained an epidemic in the spring is certain. The German Red Cross has also notified the government that there is dangers of Russians carrying the plague to America unless precautions are taken, for scores are seeking admission to the United States.

WOUNDED BY HIS WIFE EX-SOLDIER WANTS PENSION

Claims That His Wife's Insanity Was Caused By Wrong Reports Sent Out By Militia Department.

NOW BLIND.

OTTAWA, April 22.—(Canadian Press.)—Special investigation is being made into an unusual claim for pension by the sub-committee of the House on pensions. This claim is for total blindness. The wife on account of her husbad's absence overseas and conflicting reports regarding his safety forwarded, became temporarily insane. After his return in one of these fits she shot him and blindness is due to the injury then inflicted.

The man claims that his wife's insanity was deu to misleading telegrams forwarded to her by militia headquarters. The sub-committee found that there was no claim for pension under the existing law but decided to secure the telegrams sent by militia headquarters and consider the case further.

"It's Surprising How Little It Cost To Run"

AVERAGE OUTLAY FOR RUNNING AN OVERLAND 100 MILES:—

GAS - 4 Gals.	$1.60
OIL	.25
DISTILLED WATER AND GREASE	.8
TIRES	1.00
INCIDENTALS	1.07
TOTAL	4.00

That's what many a new owner says, for the New Series Overland is a particularly inexpensive car to operate. Owners everywhere tell of getting 26 to over 30 miles to the gallon and 10,000 miles and more on the original tires, with proportionately high oil mileage.

In the figures to the left, gas consumption is estimated at only 25 miles to the gallon, so that the total of $4 is the outside expense needed for driving an Overland 100 miles—an average week's use of a car. What greater combination of utility and health and pleasure can one get for $4 a week than the daily use of an Overland!

Speaks Highly of This Home Made Cough Remedy

Says it Aids with Unusual Speed — Loosens the Mucus—Relieves the Irritation and Stops the Cough.

Costs next to Nothing—For a Big Supply.

Whenever any one in my family catches cold and begins to sneeze and cough, and hawk and breathe heavily it does not take me many minutes to fix up a remedy that will drive away all such troubles in double quick time.

It's no secret—anyone can make a half pint of the finest cough medicine in the world for a trifling sum.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make a half pint—that's all there is to it.

But now you've got a real medicine—mind you—the first spoonful you take acts directly on the membrane of the throat, and nose, the tickling ceases almost instantly—the inflammation begins to disappear—up comes the stubborn mucus and often in 24 hours every trace of the cough that frightened you is gone.

It's really remarkable how this home made remedy acts on the mucous membrane and that is one reason that it is so helpful to thousands of catarrh sufferers.

GREASE.

It is much easier to wash a greasy pan if you heat it slightly before appyling soap and water. This loosens the grease.

SEVERAL MINOR BILLS BEFORE THE HOUSE—RULES OF CONDUCT

TORONTO, April 22.— Yesterday was private members' afternoon in the Ontario legislature and a large number of bills were dealt with. The introduction of six insurance bills by the attorney-general, which are to be incorporated into one bill before third reading, brought a vigorous protest from H. H. Dewart to this method of procedure as "tinkering" with legislation. This brought on a clash when Premier Drury said it was the exact procedure Mr. Dewart had agreed to Thursday night, "but the honorable gentleman has a very hazy recollection of what occurred Thursday night." This brought Mr. Dewart to his feet demanding a retraction. "No member," he said, "has a right to say I have a hazy recollection of what occurred last night."

Speaker Parliament held that the reference was contrary to the rules of the house, and the premier withdrew the words complained of.

Speaker Parliament announced that from this time he intended to rule with greater firmness in the conduct of debates and warned the members accordingly.

Second reading was delayed on the bill of F. Rennis (South Bruce), which will enable judges to relieve persons convicted during the war of being defaulters or of using treasonable or seditious language, from being deprived of the right to vote for the remainder of the ten years. It is provided in the bill that a man so convicted may apply to a judge and if he can show that his offence was minor and that he had subsequently shown himself to have been a loyal British subject, the ban against his exercise of the rights of citizenship may be removed. It met with some opposition by members who thought it was forgetting too soon what some of these men had said and did.

H. H. Dewart supported it on the ground that the judges could be depended upon to act wisely and that trend of world events was towards unity and good will which this bill would promote. It was held up until the Attorney-General could ascertain its relation to the power of clemency on the part of the crown.

The bill to give the wife or husband or an owner of land the rights to vote in municipal elections but not to be counted in county votes, was introduced by Provincial Secretary Nixon.

The bill to protect municipalities from damage when water overflowed from highways into private lands, was given a second reading on the understanding that it would be limited in committee so that it would not allow municipalities to neglect highway drainage.

Hon. F. C. Biggs refused to answer a question in regard to the initiation of a publicly owned cement plant. In view of a million dollars being in the estimates for such a project, he considerd it was not in the interests of the province that facts obtained by the department should be made public. Hon. Howard Ferguson announced that he wished debating this question and it was adjourned.

The second reading was given the bill to enable all stores to sell hydrogen peroxide.

After Ten Long Years of Suffering

HE SINGS THE PRAISES OF DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Jules Labrosse, who had Bright's Disease, Gravel Dropsy and Diabetes Tells of Benefit he got from Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Papineauville, Labelle Co., Que., April 21.—(Special.)—After suffering for ten years from various forms of kidney disease which included Bright's disease, gravel, dropsy and daibetes, Mr. Jules Labrosse, a well known resident here, is now so far recovered that he is singing the praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

'Dodd's Kidney Pills have rendered me an immense benefit for which I am happy,' Mr. Labrosse says in telling his story. "I suffered for ten years and am now very well. I went down in weight to 125 lbs. Now I weigh 160 lbs."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are purely a kidney remedy. Healthy kidneys strain all the impurities out of the blood. Pure blood carries new strength to all parts of the body.

Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills do not make healthy kidneys.

WHITE FLAG IS NOT RECOGNIZED. DUTCH AID RUSSIA.

BELFAST, April 22.—(Canadian Press.)— Members of the Border Liason Commission were held up yesterday afternoon on the Clogher-Monaghan Road. Their motor cars were stolen and driven into County Monaghan. The Commissioners were left at the roadside.

Colonel Sutton, representing the Northern Government, and Colonel Motague-Bates, representing the Free State Government, were conferring a few miles from Clogher at the time. The stolen cars were flying the white flags, indicating they were being used by the Liason Commission.

MORE FISH SPAWN THAN EVER KILLED THIS YEAR.

Such is the Opinion of Local Fishermen.

Owing to the unusual height of the water in the Trent system this spring, in the opinion of fishermen there will be more spawn killed than ever through the recession of the water. President R. J. Soden of the Game and Fish Protective Association places the loss at 90 per cent. The loss through spawn being killed is undoubtedly depleting the lakes of their fish, but comercial demands have to come first. Under the present system of water storage there is no way to avoid it except as the association has suggested that is build dams across the heads of some of the creeks and bays for spawning grounds.

Mr. Soden declared that a hatchery has been under consideration but would cost about $30,000. It had never been demonstrated that lunge could be hatched. The Ontario Association figured that for $10,000 three of the suggested dams could be built. After full consideration they asked the government to experiment with several dams, and to show their faith and to erect a house offered to pay the salary of the man in charge and to erect a hose for him, if they would try one out a the head of Chemong Lake. This offer has never been taken up and the Provincial government has taken no steps to better the serious situation resulting in the term "fine fishing" as applied to some of our lakes becoming a paradox.

The Ontario Game and Fish Protective Association is confident that the erection of the dams at the head of creeks and bays is the logical means to protect the spawn. These dams would be closed at this time of the year, and the water would be kept up. The young fish when hatched in June and July would be released through special chambers As it is now, the spawn is left high and dry in fields and woods two or three feet from the water, for once the spring runoff is complete the water is let down to meet the power demands.

TERRIBLE CONDITIONS IN THE CAUCASUS

LONDON, April 21.—(Associated Press).—Advices received here from the American Near East Relief organization at Tiflis depict terrible conditions in the Caucasus, where starvation, overcrowding in the towns, severe weather and attacks by wolves, are causing great distress.

The central government is making efforts to secure food supplies from Persia and Turkestan, and several small shipments have arrived from Persia, but the difficulty is to find a medium of exchange which the Persians will accept.

Migrations of starving peasants from the villages owing to the exhaustion of food stocks, are causing acute embarrassment in the towns. Fifteen hundred of them have arrived at Alexandropol, where the Near East Relief organization is already feeding 5,000 refugees and 20,000 orphans.

Severe temperature and heavy snowfall are threatening to delay the spring farming. The snow is now six to nine feet deep in the eastern districts, where the villagers are terrified by incursion of wolves. Two soldiers on outpost duty near [illegible] were eaten by wolves after a desperate fight. Near Alexandropol two peasants lost their lives when a band of wolves attacked their village.

THE MOTOR SHOW WAS SUCCESSFUL

Good Attendance Last Evening — The List of Prizewinners.

The 1922 Motor Show closed last evening with a burst of last-night patrons that brought the attendance total up to a goodly figure. From point of view of attendance and of exhibits, this year's show outranks previous annual events, according to the committees in charge, who report enthusiastic co-operation all along the line from the different workers.

The crowd patronized the various attractions last evening, with the refreshment and flower booths, the dance hall and the minstrel show doing good business. A disappointing feature to those in charge was the failure of the radio concert. Arriving yesterday morning, the apparatus was installed in the lecture room, but, owing to the absence of a small important part, it was impossible to do more than allow several interested persons an opportunity of hearing a projected concert by way of the ear receivers.

How I Earn $15 to $25 a week at home in my SPARE TIME

By Wm. S. Coulthard

I needed more money.

I had a lot of time on my hands in the evenings. Saturday afternoon, etc.—for I had no hobby—and besides my expenses had been mounting fast—so you will see the receptive mood I was in when I saw your little ad. "MAKE MONEY AT HOME."

I sent for your free booklet.

I read it.

Your plan looked good to me—your guarantee so liberal—and on investigation I found you were reliable, so I accepted your offer. If others could make money by your plan, I could.

That was less than a year ago.

Now I am earning $15.00 to $25.00 a week, each week, writing show cards in my spare time. In addition to this, I still hold my regular job, and my salary has been increased there, too. I believe my spar time work has made me better satisfied with life, and so I'm doing my regular work better.

I have been offered positions writing show cards, but I am not interested, as my present position is perfectly satisfactory, but I certainly am glad I enrolled in your school—my spare time money is exceedingly attractive. Besides, I find show card writing an interesting occupation that fills in those evening hours that used to drag so. In fact, it is really a hobby now with me—and a profitable one, as you can well imagine. Only last week I received a check from your school for $70.00 for work done over the last three weeks. Of course, you'd have paid me regularly each week if I'd bothered about it, but I was too busy to tell you the amount of work I'd finished.

There are times, however, that I feel show card writing by your simple method is almost too good a thing—that's when I have so many orders ahead that I cannot see my way clear to finish them—and have to turn down work.

Your system of supplying work to your students has certainly helped me, but sometimes you send too much—I'm only working at it in my spare time, you know. Please note this, and don't try to overload me too much.

By the way, I think you'll be interested to know that previous to enrolling in your school I had never tried my hand at any work of this nature.

I'm glad to thank you for what you've done for me—and you can certainly use my name and tell prospective students, for I'll be doing anyone a real good turn if I can help them get started in this profitable work.

Yours sincerely,
WM. S. COULTHARD.

NOTE:—The above is the story of Mr. Coulthard. It tells of facts, for Show Card Writing offers a marvellous opportunity to both men and women, either for spare time or full time work. What Mr. Coulthard has done and is doing, you can do. Colbran, Duesenberry, Wendt, Blade, Penison, Charles, Wright, Babieau and many other men have proved it. Mrs. Litherdale, Mrs. Lush, Mrs. Le Moine and dozens of housewives have added to the family income in this way. Girls like Misses MacDonald, Clegg, Bordeau and Boyle are but a few of those who have bettered their positions in this pleasant way. All these owe their success to the American Show Card School method of training—the old established school which has trained hundreds to make money in SHOW CARDS. The American Show Card School will gladly send you full particulars if you but send your name and address to them. Use this Coupon.

TEAR OFF HERE AND MAIL TO-DAY.

NO MILITARY TREATY.

LONDON, April 22. Canadian Press. — M. Give Your Children Plenty of Pasteurized Milk

Good Pasteurized Milk is superior to every other food. It is essential to the proper growth of children and the health of adults.

Milk is Nature's food for the young. The mother who does not give her children plenty of good Pasteurized Milk is depriving them of the one food that Nature has prepared for them.

We live and learn—and in no way is this more striking than the change in our viewpoint of certain foods, in the light of constantly increasing facts concerning them.

Pasteurizing Milk a Life Saving Measure

We know from sad experience attested to by statistics gathered in every large city, that the infant mortality rate has been enormous wherever raw milk as commonly sold has been used. We have come to know that pasteurization is a life-saving measure in so far as concerns infants and children who depend upon milk as their chief food. Everywhere the introduction of pasteurization has resulted in an almost immediate and most striking reduction in the infant mortality rate.

WOMEN ARE AS GOOD CAR DRIVERS AS MOST MEN

Learn Quickly and Have Little Difficulty in Mastering the Intricacies of Modern Automobiles.

THEY OBSERVE TRAFFIC RULES.

In the opinion of experts, who have daily opportunities for making comparisons, some women make much better and more careful drivers of motor-cars than the majority of men. Of course, there are exceptions. One sage gentleman remarked, with a shake of the head, "Some of them like to hit it up," and the Police Department has its official eye on at least four of the lady drivers of the city, by order of the powers that be.

Women learn quickly, so it is said. They have little difficulty in mastering the intricacies of the modern automobile, but, here again is the extreme that one does not encounter in records of men's activities, for the wise ones say that some women are "impossible, and would never learn in a hundred years." A woman's tendency is to take a corner at a sharp angle. However, she watches traffic pretty closely and is usually up on traffic rules. In getting through tight corners, they "seem to have good luck," as one authority cryptically remarked, with a rider to the effect that "if all the men were as good drivers as most of the women we would have little trouble with motorists."

A woman likes to "step on it," occasionally, and, at a critical moment, is liable to lose her head, perhaps more quickly than a man would do in the same circumstances. She may wilt and become absolutely useless, but, as one man says that the best thing to do in a difficult motor situation is to stop dead still, perhaps her method is just as effective in the long run.

Some Can Repair

There are many of the women motorists of Peterboro' who are able to do most of the minor repairing of their cars. Several young ladies can fix up their machines without any trouble, and one fair 'chauffeuse' takes her engine to pieces and puts it together again with the greatest of ease. They can replace tires also and are considered to keep better watch of car and engine conditions than many of the masculine drivers. In starting a car, they have an almost universal habit of keeping the foot longer than necessary on the starter, thus using up the batteries in undesirable fashion. A woman will tinker and oil and clean her car, but there is one thing she won't do. She very seldom consents to crawl under a car on a dusty road and spend an hour or so exploring its vitals with a heavy wrench. She usually deserts the machine at once, telephones the nearest garage, and leaves the final rescue to the most convenient male.

Useful in Garages

Peterboro' has not yet attained to the dignity of feminine garage attendants, those spick and span young females who make such a trig accessory to Toronto service stations, with their khakki 'breeks' and general air of detached, businesslike efficiency calculated to disarm the most determined motor-masher.

In Toronto, too, and other big cities, one sees wonderful motor outfits which are conspicuously lacking here. The stores report very little demand for motor accessories in the way of feminine furnishings. An odd leather coat and a few caps are sold, but the majority of lady drivers use a utility garment of some sort, and a small, close-fitting hat with veil.

Have Business Acumen

The general consensus of opinion seems to be that women are just as good drivers if not better, than the majority of men, that they do a great deal of the actual looking-after their own cars, and one dealer asserts that women would make splendid demonstrators and sellers of cars, if they would turn their attention to it as a business. A young lady in the employ of this gentleman sold several cars during her residence in the city, owing to her popularity with the customers, and her knowledge of the general workings of the machine.

Cars used by female owners are manifold. For the weekly marketing, for jaunts to bathing-beaches, for picnics in the afternoons, for driving hubby home from the office, for trips to town, they are invaluable. One young lady drives to business every morning in her little car, nurses fly about the district on motor-driven wheels, in fact, perhaps women get more use of their little machines than many men with big cars.

Toronto Wash Ladies

However, we have not yet discovered a parallel to the Toronto wash-lady who calls for and delivers her customers' clothes weekly in her spick and span flivver, several of her customers, by the way, possessing no further conveyance than their own two feet of the nearest street-car, and being compelled to weekly vizualize rather sadly the results to be derived from steady application to the wash-board and the blue-bag.

Women Will Take Hand In Campaign

A legislative measure in which the Local Council of Women is interesting itself just now is the proposed bill to come up for consideration in the fall, regarding a rigid ban on oleomargarine. According to this bill, the importation of this product will be forbidden in Canada, and the manufacture of it within the Dominion, thus banishing without any possibility of recourse a article of diet which features to a great extent, not only the tables of the poorer classes of this country, but in the larders of the thrift-minded well-to-do section.

Ntarly six million pounds of oleomargarine were consumed in Canada last year an argument strongly in its favor as a popular staple in any household. No other country in the world, so it is claimed, has banned oleo in this way, and the bill is asserted to be directly traceable to the dairy industry of Dominion, whose control of the butter market and its prices would be absolute with the competition of this product removed.

Made from the purest of beef and pork fats, with fresh milk and creamery butter added, oleomargarine is produced only in factories where the most rigid inspection is enforced, thus eliminating any trace of tubercular bacilli, a guarantee which is not always obtainable, even from the best buttermakers. A method in common use with many patrons of oleo is to mix a pound of it with a pound of creamery or dairy butter, thus getting two pounds of an inferior grade of butter at much less cost.

It is claimed that the Retail Grocers' Association is also protesting against the ban on oleomargarine in Canada.

SMOKE

In frying many housewives are annoyed by the smoke from the frying pan that enters the room. If the kichen window is opened at top and bottom a draft will carry out this smoke almost as fast as it is produced.

Mme. Calve Will Tutor Girl With "Most Wonderful Child Voice"

"The most wonderful child voice I have ever heard!"

Mme. Emma Calve, noted singer of the title role in "Carmen", said it, at Wichita, Kan.

And the praise was prompted by one little song sung by 13-year old Kathleen Kerstring a high school girl of Wichita.

As a result Kathleen and her mother are to accompany Mme. Calve to her castle, Le Cabrieres in southern France. Then the noted singer will see to the proper voice education of her little "find."

Miss Kersting first attracted more than local attention when Edoardo Sacerdote, noted voice specialist of Chicago, called the girl a "wonder child', after hearing her sing at the Kansas Music Teachers' convention.

Then Mme. Calve gave a concert in Wichita. Music critics induced her to visit the Kersting home.

Kathleen san "Rose in the Bud"

That was enough. The trip to France was immediately planned.

And what does the little singer think about it?

"Just think what a wonderful teacher I'll have" says she. "And naturally I'm tickled with the idea.

"I wil pursue my regular course of studies in addition to my vocal lessons. A person doesn't get very far nowadays without an education."

Mme. Calve paid high tribute to Mrs. Martin Flanagan, Kathleen's singing teacher. "There is not a single thing to be undone", said she.

DIGESTIVE TROUBLES CAUSE MUCH DISTRESS

Are Nearly Always Due to Thin, Watery, Blood

Do not think that because your stomach is easily upset you are the victim of some serious malady. One of the most common causes of indigestion is anaemia, or thin, watery blood. In fact it has become generally recognized that healthy activity of the stomach is impossible unless the blood is rich and red.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been found valuable in cases of indigestion, nervous dyspepsia and stomach weakness just because they are a blood builder and nerve tonic. The rich, red blood following their use not only imparts a healthy digestion but carries color to the cheeks and lips, and gives vigor to the muscles. One important point to remember is that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain no harmful drugs or opiates and are thus to be preferred to preparations that merely stimulate for a time. Before you begin worrying unnecessarily about your stae of health, try the tonic treatment of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You will be surprised to see how rapidly your appetite returns and your debilitated system revives. Miss Sarah Farquhar, North Brookfield, N.S., who has proved the value of these pills in cases of this kind says: "For a long time I was a sufferer from indigestion, which seemed to carry with it a complication of other troubles. Every meal brought misery with it, as the eating was followed by severe pains in the stomach, causing at times nausea and vomiting, and at other times an accumulation of gas that caused severe palipation o the heart and a smothering sensation. The result was my general health was seriously affected and the least exertion would tire me out. I had taken much medicine, but did not get more than temoprary relief until I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Fills, which I took for a considerable time, with the result that I am no onger distressed after eating. I find myself in every way enjoying better health, and I cheerfully recommend these pills to similar suffrers."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Horticultural Society Needs Aid

Reasons why you should become a member of the Peterboro Horticultural Society, which apply equally to women as well as to the men of the city, are advanced by those in charge: (1) Because in your choice of a spring option and fall bulb premium you get a full return for your one dollar. (2) Because through you membership you directly assist the Society in securing a larger annual grant from the Provincial Government. (3) Because though this increase in the Provincial Grant the Society can improve more unsightly corners throughout the city. (4) Because you will encourage the improvement of home, factory and public grounds. (5) Because you will encourage the holding of meetings for the hearing of lectures on subjects pertaining to the theory and practise of horticulture. (6) Because you will assist the Society in holding the annual Lawn and Garden Competition and flower exhibits. (7) Because you will assist in making Peterboro "The City Beautiful."

How To Prepare Prune Dishes

Use plenty of prunes during these early spring days. From breakfast to dinner there is a place for them in every menu.

Stewed prunes for breakfast may pall if served as plain stewed prunes too often, but if lemon juice be added and the prunes carefully removed from the stones and the whole served in glass as a fruit cocktail the family won't object to the "same old prunes."

Prune whip is a delicious and nourishing dessert. It can be varied in several ways—the sauce can be boiled custard or whipped cream, nuts can be added to the pudding itself.

Children and invalids may be served prune whip quite as happily as well persons.

Prune Whip.

Five eggs (whites), 1 cup mashed stewed prunes, 1/3 cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon cream of tartar, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

It will take about one-third of a pound of uncooked prunes to make one cup mashed and stewed prunes. Wash prunes carefully through several waters. Cover with one cup of cold water and let stand an hour. Cook in same water till tender.

Remove stones and rub prunes through a colander. Add sugar and cook till the mixture begins to thicken. Remove from fire and let cool. Add salt, cream of tartar and vanilla to prunes. Add gradually to the whites of the eggs beaten till stiff and dry.

This means absolutely "stiff and dry." The whites must stand up. They should be beaten on a large platter with a wire whisk. Put pudding mixture in a buttered pudding dish. Set in a pan of hot water and bake 25 minutes in a moderate oven.

Serve cold with boiled custard or whipped cream. One-half cup of English walnuts may be added the last thing before baking.

Cornstarch Prune Pudding.

One-quarter cup cornstarch, ½ pound prunes, 2 cups cold water, ¾ cup sugar, 2-inch piece stick cinnamon, 1 1/3 cups boiling water, 1 lemon.

Wash prunes through several waters. Add the two cups of cold water and let stand an hour. Boil until soft in same water. Remove stones from prunes and return prunes to the water in which they were cooked. Add sugar, cinnamon and boiling water and simmer 15 minutes.

Mix cornstarch to a smooth paste with a little cold water. Stir into prune mixture and cook, stirring constantly for five minutes. Remove from fire and take out the cinnamon. Add the juice of the lemon and turn into a mold to become firm and chill. Serve with whipped cream. This is a simple delicious dessert.

Rice Border With Prunes.

Eighteen large prunes, 4 tablespoons rice, ¼ cup sugar, 1/3 cup shredded pistachio nuts, 2 cups milk, ¼ gill whipping cream, 3 eggs (yolks), 2 tablespoons peach marmalade, ½ lemon, grated rind and juice.

Cook the rice in the milk until tender. Add lemon rind and sugar and let stand in a warm place uncovered for 15 minutes. Stir in the yolks of the eggs and the lemon juice. Put in a buttered ring mold, set in a pan of hot water and bake half an hour.

Remove from mold when cool. Cover with the marmalade, sprinkle with the blanched and shredded nuts and fill the centre with the prunes. The prunes should be carefully stewed and stoned and kept as perfect as possible.

Garnish with whipped cream to serve. This is a rather more elaborate dessert, but wholesome and easily digested.

Household Suggestions

Radishes.

Radishes will be much fresher if allowed to stand in cold water for a short time before serving.

Bread.

Don't throw crusts of bread out. They will answer for breading meat, etc., if you will let them dry thoroughly and then roll fine.

Rubbers.

Drain your rubbers after you have worn them out in the rain. Letting water stand in them will eventually bring about rotting.

Eggs.

After hard boiling eggs, leave the shells on until you are ready to use them. They keep much better in the shell.

Pink Eye.

When a member of the family has pink eye he should use a separate towel and wash rag always. This aids in preventing the trouble from spreading.

Lemons.

When it is necessary to use but half a lemon the other half will keep much longer if turned, cut side down, in the ice box. Leaving the cut side up dries the lemon out.

Plants.

When branches of a house plant start to die clip them off. This aids in keeping the plant in best proper shape.

Garden.

The best gardens are those without weeds. Keep your garden weeded. When stray plants are allowed to grow they take up the moisture and thus rob vegetable or flower plants of it.

Cellar Light.

When there is no upstairs connection to the cellar light, you will make it easier to enter the cellar at night by running a cord from the switch chain to the head of the stairs.

MOPPING.

When mopping the kitchen floor don't let small puddles of water stand. They cause the wood to become soft, which makes it splinter easily.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED—

You will not expect a gentleman to pay your carfare when you happen to meet him just before entering the car.

You will avoid scenes with your children in the presence of company.

You will, when travelling, not act over-restless, and walk up and down the train aisles

The Swimming Pool Opens Next Monday

The opening of the swimming pool at the Young Women's Christian Association takes place on Monday next, April 24th, with swimming classes commencing on Tuesday. The swimming instructress for this season is Miss Hazel Jesimane, of Toronto, who received her eary training in swimming at the Toronto Technical School, and later received the silver medal, award of merit, from the Royal Life Saving Society, at the Toronto Y.W.C.A. This spring, Miss Jesimane secured the highest award of the Society, its diploma for swimming, a higher award than has been held by any previous swimming instructress at the local Association.

Life Saving Classes were inaugurated two years ago at the 'Y' by Miss Payne, followed by Miss Carroll last year when eight local contestants received the bronze medal of the Royal Society, and will be continued this season.

The Y.W.C.A. pool offers a splendid opportunity for would-be swimmers to become proficient in the art before the arrival of the hot weather. Both the pool and the water are heated, with the top of the basin flushed off every day, and completely drained and cleaned once a wek. An advanage which will be enjoyed by bathers this year is the filtered water, a pure element which is surprisingly clear in contrast with other seasons of murky baths.

On Monday evening next, the Board of Directors of the Y.W.C.A. will be at home for a social and musical evening, to the girls who helped in the recent campaign for funds for the public department.

SONG FROM GITANJALI.

Where the mind is without fear and the head is held high;
Where knowledge is free;
Where the narrow world has not been broken up into fragments by narrow domestic walls;
Where words come out from the depths of truth;
Where tireless striving stretches its arms toward perfection;
Where the clear stream of reason has not lost its way into the dreary desert sand of dead habit;
Where the mind is led forward by thee into ever-widening thought and action—
Into that heaven of freedom, my Father, let my country awake.
—Rabindranath Tagore.

CELLAR WINDOWS

The cellar windows should be opened regularly every day, so that cellar odors be eliminated as much as possible. Two open windows—one at each end of the cellar—will allow a draft to purify the atmosphere.

Princess Zara to be Produced Here

The production of the operatta, "Princess Zara" by pupils of the Peterboro Collegiate Institute, at the Grand Opera House, on Friday and Saturday next, April 28th and 29th, promises to be a dainty dramatic event. Mr. M.Chenhall is director and experience of his capabilities along this line will lead the public to expect something exceptional. Mr. Chenhall trained the choruses and the orchestra which added so much to the attraction of the recent opening exercises at the Collegiate, the latter organization in particular eliciting enthusiastic applause wth every soft-toned beautifuly-executed number, and receiving much favorable comment from different sources.

Daily rehearsals are being held, and the pupils are most enthusiastic over their venture. There are choruses, prety dances and drills for Maids of Honour, Nobles, Butterflies, Fairies and Witches, which will include a large number of the boys and girls.

The plot of the airy, fantastic production centers about the adventures of the lovely Princess Zara. Her father, the aged King Buonocore, is about to resign the throne in her favour. Butterfly, Queen of the Fairies, warns the Court of disaster should the Princess come to the throne, but her warning goes unheeded. The King, a senile humorist and anti-superstitions, the Witches foretell a dreadful retribution on him for his incredulity.

Act Two shows the working of the Witches' curse:

Zara has forgotten everything that hapened before her coronation the King, her father, and the Prince, her lovers have been sent to the kitchen to be cooks, for Zara thinks they are intruders, and half the household is sentenced to death. Despite these distressing circumstances, however, the story has a happy ending.

CHARTREN WAS OUTPOINTED IN THE SEMI-FINALS

Peterborough Boxer Suffered Defeat by Walter Newton in Ontario Boxing Tourney.

THE RESULTS

TORONTO, April 22.—(Canadian Press)-Only one boxer, F. Campbell 18 pounds of Hamilton, outside of Toronto fought his way to victory in the semi-finals and finals of the Ontario Boxing Championships here last night. He knocked out Price of Toronto in the final bout.

Bth were featured by six kavos, and the fight fans were on the whole satisfied with the evening's sport.

The finals were: 108 pounds—Alex Burlie beat Clay; 115 Pounds—Christenson beat Rivers; 125 pounds—Miller beat McDonald; 135 pounds—Newton beat Ellerton; 145 pounds—Lewis knocked out Shaw, 158 pounds—Campbell knocked out Price.

Heavy-weight—Gains was given the bout in the second round after McDoulton had shown a greater desire to lie on the floor than to stand up and fight Gains is colored. Chartn of Peterboro was knocked out by Walter Newton in the semi-final 135 pounds bout.

BOXERS MADE GOOD SHOWING

Ed. Dugan Unfortunate in Third Round When Victory Was Near.

Boxing Instructor W. Jones, who handled the local entries in the Ontario boxing championships at Toronto, returned home at noon, hugely pleased with the showing made by Alex. Armstrong, Bob Chartren and Ed. Dugan in the tournament. The Peterborough squad are being entertained by Mickey Murray this afternoon and will come home this evening.

Instructor Jones was warmly congratulated by A.A.U. of C. officials, who expressed the hope that the Peterborough boxers would compete in the championships next spring when, with more experience, they should make a strong bid for first honors.

As previously stated, Willis Cutt did not take part in the tournament. His name appeared in the results given by one Toronto paper, but this was an error. Alex. Armstrong won his first bout handily, and then lost to Burlie, who won the championship of the class. Bob Chartren, with two victories, encountered Newton in the semi-finals when he was defeated, after putting up a game battle. Newton won the championship.

Dugan looked to be the winner of the bout with Shaw, a negro boxer, until Shaw caught him off his balance in the third round and a lucky punch by the colored man brought him a win.

LEAVE FOR PARIS.

LONDON April 22.—(Canadian Press)—Jack Dempsey, with Jack Kearns, his manager, and Teddy Hayes his trainer, and two other members of his party left today for Paris to begin a tour of the Continent which will last for about a fortnight.

Hayes declared that when Dempsey returns to London, which certainly will be before the Carpentier-Lewis bout on May 11, he probably will give an exhibition, though no arrangements have been made.

Goes Abroad After Court Tennis Title

Walter Kinsella Will Meet the Best in England — Arrangements For Match

By BOB DORMAN.

NEW YORK, April 22.—While Dempsey was sailing on the Aquitania to England, willing to risk his title, another passenger was on board, going abroad in search of a world's championship.

Walter A. Kinsella, the professional court tennis expert, left for England to meet George F. Covey, present holder of the world's professional title, in a match to be held at the Prince's Club, Knightsbridge, England.

The match will be played on May 15 and 17, and if necessary to reach a decision the finals will be played on May 20.

The championship will be decided by the best seven in 13 sets. There will be no deuce and vantage sets, the player first taking six games being the winner in each case.

WALTER KINSELLA.

Four sets will be played on the first day and four on the second, unless one of them should take seven straight. On the final day as many sets will be played as is necessary to reach a decision.

Kinsella is confident that he will bring home the title.

"If the fact that I feel in the best of health and that my stroke is as good as it has ever been have any bearing on the result, then I surely ought to win.

"The old injury to my leg doesn't bother me at all, and I will have fully a month to become acclimated and to practice.'

"If I should win the title I shall return immediately to America and hope to meet Jay Gould, the American amateur champion, in a match for the open championship."

Gould formerly held the world's open title, which he won from Covey in Philadelphia 10 years ago, but later allowed the title to return to Covey by default.

McGRAW HOLDS TRADE RECORDS.

The New York Manager Leads in Pulling Off Big Deals.

Connie Mack is a developer of ball players. Connie is also fairly strong on selling them for real cash.

John McGraw of the Giants is a "go get 'em" manager. When he wants to strengthen his ball club he puts over a trade.

McGraw is generally regarded as the champion trader of all times. No less than 92 ball players have been involved in his so-called big deals.

Charley Herzog has been McGraw's most traded ball player.

In 1909 he traded Herzog to Boston for Beals Becker. In 1911 he sent Britwell and Hank Gowdy to Boston for Herzog. In 1914 he traded Herzog and Catcher Hartley to Cincinnati for Bob Bescher.

In 1917 he decided he again needed Herzog to bolster up his infield and sent Roush, McKechnie and Mathewson to Cincinnati for Herzog.

In 1918 he traded Herzog to Boston for Larry Doyle and Jesse Barnes and cash.

TURLEY WILL COME MONDAY

All Set for Boxing and Wrestling Championships at Grand Opera House.

The P.A.A.A. committee in charge of the city boxing and wrestling championships received assurance today from W. E. Turley that he will come to Peterborough to referee the boxing championships on Monday and Tuesday at the Grand Opera House. Mr. Turley has been in Ottawa this week attending the convention of the Provincial Command, Great War Veterans' Association.

H. B. Cowan of this city, has kindly consented to referee the wrestling championships.

Everything points to a successful tournament. A big rally of the friends of amateur sport will encourage the athletic association to promote other big sport events. The prices for the tournament are very reasonable and all seats may be reserved.

The draw will be published on Monday.

PROSPECTS FOR OUTCOME BRIGHT

Plans Started for Re-construction of Russia.

GENOA, April 22. (Canadian Press.) — Actual work on a plan for the reconstruction of Russia was started to-day by experts representing the Soviet Government, Britain, France, Italy, Japan, Belgium, Czecho Slovakia and Holland.

The heated politics surrounding Russian problems have been cooled by M. Chicerin's note accepting in the main the allied formula.

The question is thus suddenly changed from the political to the economic as far as the conference is concerned, and there seems to be bright prospects for a successful outcome.

Sir Edward Grigg, the private secretary to the British Prime Ministe and othes, have made it clear that no propostiion has been put forward for government loans to Russia. The idea of financial and economic experts is that when Russia reaches a position where she can give investors assurance that there will be a legal basis for undertakings in Russia and that foreigners will have protecton under proper courts, abundant credits will be forthcoming fo rthe development of Russian resources.

TWO PITCHERS WITH GREAT FUTURE

By BILLY EVANS.

Pitching is a problem that confronts practically every major league manager.

A good many of the major league leaders are pretty well satisfied with their ball clubs, pitching excepted.

The lament of a majority of the managers is, "If our club only had a little more pitching we would make lots of trouble."

John McGraw of the New York Giants and Miller Huggins are about the only two managers who seem pretty well satisfied with their pitching staff.

Despite this McGraw is carrying a number of recruits who have promise. Likewise, Huggins is hopeful that Lefty O'Doul and a right-hander by the name of Murray will be of help in the campaign of 1922.

Pitching is a peculiar proposition. Sometimes a youngster who appears to have great promise is a long time arriving. Occasionally some pitcher little considered develops into a star inside of a season.

In the American League today there are two pitchers who have every chance to reach stardom. I have in mind George Uhle of the Cleveland club and Wilkinson of the Chicago White Sox.

The season before Uhle joined the Cleveland club I saw him work in a game in the fall of the year against a team composed of big leaguers.

Uhle Has Great Chance.

Inside of a couple of innings I made up my mind that Uhle was a real big league prospect. Before the game was over I learned he was the property of the Cleveland club.

I ventured the prediction that the sand-lotter inside of three years would be a sensation in the American League. While Uhle hasn't quite lived up to my prophecy he has demonstrated that he is a great pitcher.

I haven't weakened on him in the least. Unquestionably there is still some little thing lacking. One of these days he is going to find himself, correct that fault, whatever it may be, and then look out!

A pitcher with the speed, fast breaking curve, nice change of pace and free delivery that Uhle uses, should have no trouble winning from 20 to 30 games every year with a club that is up in the race.

Roy Wilkinson of the Chicago club has had a similar experience to that of Uhle. In fact, he has never been nearly as successful as the Cleveland.

In the final game between the Giants and the White Sox, on their recent spring training trip, Wilkinson stood the Giants on their heads. He pitched the kind of a game you always expect him to but seldom does.

Gleason believes he has discovered Wilkinson's fault, working too hard on every batter. Certainly he has the stuff to be a consistent winner.

Few American Golfers Will Enter British Open

English golfers are not going to be bothered by an American invasion this year unless there is a last-minute change of plans.

At this time a year ago preparations were being made to send an amateur and professional team to compete in the big English tournaments.

Right now it looks as if Walter Hagen would be the only American representative in the British open this season.

Hagen is a free lance, has the time and inclination to go across, and has the desire to win the British open.

Jock Hutchison has practically decided that he will not defend his title as British open champion.

Hutchison and Barnes have just finished a jaunt of 10,000 miles.

During the trip they played 40 matches at 36 holes. This means they walked about 1,000 miles in addition to the 10,000 spent on Pullmans.

The upshot of it is that neither Hutchison nor Barnes is very keen for the trip. They feel that they have been overgolfed and travelled. In addition, there is considerable expense entailed in making such a trip.

While neither of the two champs have definitely decided not to go, the odds are against their making the trip.

Lacrosse

Some idea of the assistance to lacrosse which Joe Lally has rendered by selling his sticks to boys may be gathered from a look at the figures. The sticks which are selling at $12 per dozen actually cost to make $13.70 per dozen, plus overhead expense. The cost of lacrosse sticks, like most other things, has soared. The hickory groves, from which wood alone serviceable lacrosse sticks may be made, are disappearing: Lacrosse makes a big cut in the hickory trees from the fact that only the butt of the tree next to the ground is of any use for sticks. All the upper tree and branches is waste for that purpose. So that hickory, which once sold for twelve dollars a cord, now costs, brought from Mississippi, well over one hundred dollars a cord.

* * * *

The Indians, too, who do the stringing, in keeping with the times, demand a wage three times that which they used to work for. There are at present in the Lally factory at Cornwall thirty-four hands working ten hours a day, and they are all making boys' sticks. So some idea may be gained of the gift Joe Lally is making to lacrosse when it is stated that this output of boys' sticks is taken out of the factory as rapidly as manufactured. Joe's idea of strengthening the game by planting it among the boys has met with most encouraging results not only in Ontario and other parts of Canada, but in Australia and England. Tom Lally, Joe's son, whom so many met at the O.A.L.A. convention, will carry on the good work when Joe sits back and sees the thousands of boys playing in a few years in whose hands he has placed sticks this and next year.—Toronto Telegram.

CANADIAN WOMEN LED.

BALTIMORE, April 22 (Canadian Press). — Resolutions embodying in concert form the work of the American Conference of Women, which will end officially this afternoon, will be brought in at the closing session by a committee, which includes Mrs. Sidney Small, of Toronto, Canada.

The sessions to-day dealt with the civil and political status of women in the various countries of the American Continent. Again the Canadian and South American delegates led in the discussions.

PLANTATIONS FLOODED.

NEW ORLEANS, April 22 (Canadian Press). — A levee on the west bank of the Mississippi River at Myrtle Grove, about thirty miles south of New Orleans, broke to-day, and the neighbouring plantations are being flooded.

STRATHCONAS WON MILLBROOK RACES.

Quintette of Local City Lacrosse League Gave Proof of Their Condition in Distance Events.

Five members of the Strathconas lacrosse club showed the results of their spring training at the field day of sports in Millbrook on Thursday afternoon. They were Dick Bates, Stan Stacey, Bob Miller, Johnnie Ward and Jack Thornton, most of whom were prize winners in the Examiner's Thanksgiving Day races last fall.

Dick Bates won the three mile event, and was second in the mile and Stan Stacey was second in three mile. The Strathcona team won the relay race handily. This comprised the open events. Bates performed in great shape in the three mile contest which was run in a blizzard and under trying road conditions. Bates went the route in 18 minutes. He lost the mile by a nose, and lacked only a stiffer sprint at the tape to have won first position. The man who beat him collapsed at the finish and was nearly an hour recovering from the effort.

The Peterboro boys demonstated that their hearts are in the running game, and their condition will be a valuable asset to them in the city lacrosse league.

By the way some one should top off those younfsters on at least one or two of the other teams who are biting the fags, that smoking is bad medicine for training either in lacrosse or road work. They may get away with it, but if the managers will ban cigarettes some of the youngsters will find their athletic efficiency considerably improved by abstinence from the weed.

All the senior sticks recently received from the O.A.L.A. have been taken and distributed and most of the boys sticks have been sold. The demand for the smaller sticks took a spurt during Easter week, and other boys have become interested by the introduction of the sticks into corner lot athletics.

WHEN YOU SCORE A BALL GAME.

Remember—

If a base runner is called out for running out of line or for interference, assists should be credited to every player who handled the ball prior to the umpire ruling the runner out. Only one assist is given each player no matter how often he handles the ball.

SCHOOL LEAGUE LACROSSE SURE.

Walter Smaill Is Busy Organizing For Saturday Morning Games at the Central Park.

At the Lacrosse executive meeting last night, Dr. Sutton reported that Walter Smail is looking forward to arranging school league games at Central Park on Saturday mornings as soon as his organization work is completed and weather permits. It is likely that three games will be played each Saturday morning between nine o'clock and noon. If this scheme materializes, and it looks promising right now, lacrosse will be given a big start in Peterboro among the school boys. That work alone will be a big contribution to the sport and the executive feel more confident than ever that Mr. Smaill will pull it off success fully.

Fred Goodfellow reviewed the outstanding details of the annual meeting of the O.A.L.A. on Good Friday, and his report was received with a vote of appreciation.

The schedule for the city league games was tentatively drawn up last night, but no dates were set. Nothing will be done in that particular until the local O.A.L.A. group dates are determined.

Bert Todd stated that the Athletics have been given permission to use King Edward Park on Friday and Saturday afternoons.

The financial report will be presented at next week's meeting, and it is also expected that a list of references will be ready for approval. The Lacrosse Club will appeal to some of the older retired players to assist in this important department of the game. To give it the supervision that is desired the city league will require competent referees, men who have played the game and who are impressed with the new spirit in the O.A.L.A. of making lacrosse what it should be and what it can easily be made—a game for gentlemen. Some of those who will be requested to act as arbiters for one or more of the games are Dr. A. W. McPherson, Alex Kay, R. M. Glover, E. S. Martin, J. Skinner, C. S. Cummer, George Robertson, Jack McCabe, C. G. Graham and others.

The city league games will be played in the evenings on grounds that will be chosen later.

CORNS
Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit. Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

JOHNSON STARTS FIFTEENTH YEAR.

Great Pitcher Hopes to Equal Cy Young's Record.

The season of 1922 marks the fifteenth campaign of Walter Johnson as a member of the Washington club of the American League.

Unless it is Christy Mathewson, no pitcher in the history of baseball is a greater favorite with fandom.

In every year that he has been connected with the Nationals the work of Johnson has been the outstanding feature of the team's showing.

Two or three years back it looked as if Johnson was slipping. Trouble with his arm robbed him of some of his old-time speed. Many of the experts said he was through.

Johnson, however, has come back strong, and expresses the belief that he has at least five years more of service as a big leagoer.

During his connection with the American League Johnson has chalked up 320 victories. He would like to eclipse the record of Cy Young, but has his doubts as to his ability to turn the trick.

The pleasing thing about Johnson is that success has in no way changed him. He is beloved by every ball player, the highest tribute that could be paid a player.

THE MARKETS

NEW YORK, April 22 (Canadian Press). — Final session of the week in the stock market began with the continuance of the recent advance. Steels were strongest feature. Slosh Sheffield and Republic soon rose 1 point or more. Oils also were very strong, especially Standard Oil of California and Royal Dutch. Studebaker, which led yesterday's market, rose a fraction at the outset to the new high level record of 124 3-8.

IF THIS PLAY COMES UP. Here's Your Decision.

If a batsman bat out of order, and the mistake be discovered before a ball has been pitched to the succeeding batsman, the umpire shall declare the proper batsman out. If the improper batsman has reached first base or any other base, he shall be removed. No base runners can advance on any act of an improper batsman. They are entitled to return to their bases without liability to be put out.

DO YOU SMOKE TOO MUCH?

There are many men on whose heart and nervous system tobacco produces the most serious results. It causes palpitation, pain in the heart, irregularity of its beat, makes the hands tremble, sets the nerves on edge, causes shortness of breath and loss of sleep.

To counteract the demoralizing influence on the heart and nerves there is no remedy to equal

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

They make the heart beat strong and steady, restore tone and vigor to the nerves, and remove all the evil results caused by tobacco.

Mr. Frank Lutes, 71 Grace Hill St., Brantford, Ont. writes:—"I had been troubled with palpitation of the heart for a number of years, and by spells it would bother me a lot. The doctor told me it would stop sometime if I could cut out tobacco. When I would get a spell my heart would pound and would break out in perspiration, and get so weak I would have to sit down and quit my work; also in the night I would wake up and my heart would be going, I should say, about 120 beats a minute. About three years ago I got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, took them, and found that they did the job. I am feeling fine and have gained over 20 pounds in weight."

HOW M'GRAW TELLS WHEN BIRDS DONE

Considers Player Through When a Double Chin Makes Its First Appearance.

Eddie Collins is generally considered baseball's greatest second baseman.

The White Sox and Giants played a spring series of 12 games prior to the opening of the season.

The Sox surprised the world's champs by breaking even. The work of Eddie Collins featured every game in which he played.

Prior to one of the final games, John McGraw and Kid Gleason were watching the White Sox indulge in fielding practice.

"Collins is slipping," remarked McGraw to Gleason.

"How do you figure that?" asked Gleason, who rates Collins so far ahead of all other players there is no comparison.

"Why, look at him, he's getting a double chin," answered McGraw. "The double chin is a sure sign of going the other way. Once it makes its appearance they fall off in fielding and hitting."

At this juncture Collins made a long dive and speared a liner back of second base with his gloved hand.

"Wish all my athletes would hurry and develop a double chin," lazily replied Gleason.

The most talked of musical comedy of the past decade, "Irene" will come to the Grand next Wednesday, April 26, for an engagement of one night, after crowding the Vanderbilt theatre in New York to capacity for two whole years, to say nothing of the American companies playing the same business at the Empire theatre in London and in Melbourne, Australia.

The company is under the direction of the Vanderbilt Producing Company, its owners and producers, who have provided it with the same lavish investiture of scenery and effects, and a new edition of the famous Lucille—Lady Duff Gordon's latest creations, the bewitching costumes now being illustrated by almost every fashion magazine on both continents.

"Irene" was written by James Montgomery and the lyrics and music was furnished by Joseph McCarthy and Harry Tierney respectively; it is a love story with scenes laid in New York; it has twenty genuine song hits. The cast is composed of representative metropolitan artists, and the chorus is noted for its youth, comliness and ability to sing and dance.

FOX PRESENTS GREAT MARK TWAIN STORY.

Mark Twain's masterpiece, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," has been made into a motion picture by William Fox on a scale worthy of the subject. Issued as a special production, it will open an engagement at the Capitol Theatre on Monday.

Known to the multitude of Mark Twain lovers as "The Yankee," this story is regarded not only as a great classic of American humor, but also as a forceful satire directed against those who sigh for the "good old times." Mark Twain set out to show that the world we live in is the best of all possible worlds, and the time we live in is the best of all possible times.

This he did by taking a typical young American, bright as a new penny, filled with smart, up-to-date ideas, and setting him down in a medieval court, where he could judge for himself whether the knights of old were more courageous than the men of to-day, and whether life as a whole was more comfortable then than now.

The result is exquisite fantasy and delicious fooling, with a sharply drawn conclusion, "The Yankee" is rated high among Mark Twain's books. Certainly it is one of the funniest.

The picture was directed by Emmett J. Flynn, noted for his skill in fidelity to detail. The Yankee is played by Harry C. Myers, a well-known light comedian.

Authorization for strike ballots was voted at the sixth biennial convention of the department, which has been in session here two weeks, and which concluded its sessions today.

BANK WAS ONLY WHARF FOR GENEVA THIS MORNING

The "Geneva" in its market trip from Rice Lake this morning was a trappers' special. It carried a considerable cargo of muskrat pelts, and also quite a number of passengers, including Hiawatha trappers. There was no wharf available at this end of the river, but a natural landing place was found below the Street Railway wharf, which is lost from view by the depth of water flowing over it. Passengers from the Lake said there were many ducks in the lower sections.

AT THE ROYAL.

FIRST NATIONAL LTD. FEATURE DAY.

For Monday the Royal has one of those exceptional programmes that are only presented in the large metropolitan theatres and at high prices for admission. Our Monday's programme has been personally selected from the choicest productions of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit. To begin with there is the seven reel feature called "Two Minutes to Go," that starts with a laugh, runs into romance and ends in a succession of thrills that come with a hard fought football game in which the biggest players in the United States participate. The story is that of an ambitious young man who, to pay his way through college, took a milk delivery route. He is in love with a society girl and fears she will hold him in contempt for working at a humble job, but hopes as his delivering milk is done at night she will not find out what he is doing. He is a crack football player, but his work at night prevents his playing for his college team. A rival for the girl's hand finds out what the young man is doing and tells her. However, he "makes" the team and leads it to victory and the girl to the altar. The leading role is taken by Charles Ray. Then there is the superb Vitagraph spectacuar feature in six reels entitled "Received Payment," with Corinne Griffith in the leading part, supported by an all star cast. It is an unusual story of life as it exists. It is a combination of love, emotion, pathos, suspense, humor and spectacular scenes. The Vitagraph Company describe this production as one of their most successful efforts. It is a story of aristocratic life in New York against a background of the theatre. It is a play in which a favorite actress is brought close to the hearts of an audience. It is a picture that will live because of its human interest element. It is the story of a proud aristocrat who disowned his daughter because she went on the stage and who even covered her portrait which hung in his library. However, he found out that his old-time narrow-minded bigotry born of pride was to undergo a complete change. A charming plot and a wonderful picture. Then there is another of the very funny Toonerville comedies in which "The Skipper Gets a Surprise." There will be many in the audience who would welcome the same kind of surprise. A well selected and well balanced programme that is sure to please.

WHAT HAPPENED? THINGS APLENTY.

Any One Who Follows Mabel Normand is Bound To See Real Action.

"What Happened to Rosa?"

This is the title of Mabel Normand's latest Goldwyn picture, and indeed plenty of things did happen to her. Among them—

Fate put her in the basement of a large department store under the cruel hand of a modern Simon Legree.

She was "stung" by a fake trance medium for every dollar of hard earned savings.

She became possessed by the spirit of a long passed Spanish ancestor, and her friends called her crazy.

She fell in love with a prominent young physician.

She jumped overboard from a fast travelling river steamer, and swam —nobody knows how far—to shore.

She was given up as lost, but was not.

She "snatched" the clothes off a backyard neighbor boy, after engaging in a hand-to-hand combat and falling down the coal chute en route.

She emerged like unto a lump of coal, only to be knocked down by a vegetable cart and carried in a "fainting" condition to "her doctor's" office.

It was the office of her doctor hero, which was just what she had planned, and she told him she was hit on the left temple.

She was not, according to the explanation of the vegetable man, she was hit somewhere else. Also she was hit—bad hit in the place where Cupid sends his arrows.

Anyway, she got to see the doctor. "What Happened to Rosa" after that is a secret which the Regent Theatre will reveal when it shows the picture, for 3 days, commencing Monday.

AVERT OPERATIONS FOR APPENDICITIS —INTERNAL BATHS

Hundreds of surgical operations for appendicitis have been avoided by the timely employment of the J. B. L. Cascade. Most troubles arise from the accumulation of waste in the colon, or lower intentine, from which poisons spread.

Cleansing of the intestinal tract with pure warm water, applied with the J. B. L. Cascade, removes the causes of a large number of common ailments—constipation, indigestion, headache, loss of energy and rheumatism.

Mr. James McLaughlin, 91 Evanston Street, Winnipeg, writes:

"I bought a J. B. L. Cascade for the cure of a bad case of appendicitis. My doctors told me I must have an operation at once. I had spent more than fifty dollars in doctors' bills, but the Cascade completely removed in a few days every trace of soreness and pain. I eat and sleep well now, and have regained my former weight, and am now in perfect health."

The J. B. L. Cascade is being shown at the Warne Drug Company, Peterborough, Ont., who will gladly explain to you its simple operation, tell you why it is so certain in its results and give you free an interesting booklet by Dr. Charles A. Tyrrell, who was a Specialist on Intestinal Complaints for 25 years. Ask for booklet or write Dr. Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 163 College St., Toronto.

Do You Suffer From Neuralgia?

Neuralgia, as the name indicates, is a pain in the nerve. It is really an inflammation of the sheath enclosing the nerve and is due to a pressure on the nerve as it leaves the spine. Experience shows that Chiropractic Vertebral Adjustments given at these points relieve the impinged (pinched) nerve and give relief.

Health Conditions

The tree first blossoms, then it bears fruit. A perfect tree will, under normal conditions, produce perfect fruit. If under such conditions the fruit matures imperfectly, it is due to some outside agent. Should one injure the tree when the fruit is developing, the effect will be on the ripening process and will show in dwarfed and withered fruit.

In man, health is the normal condition. Where there is less than perfect health the source of health has been interfered with. The source of man's health is his nerves, as over the nerves the life principle courses. To impinge the nerve interferes with the source of health to the part it supplies. Chiropractic Adjustments have the effect of releasing the pressure on the nerve, which is the cause of ill-health. To release such nerve pressure affords health conditions. As Chiropractic Adjustments go directly to the cause of ill-health and result in restoration of normal condition to nerve structure, their value is clear and cannot be disputed.

FUNERAL A. COONEY.

The remains of the late Alf. Cooney, who passed away in Toronto yesterday, were interred in Little Lake cemetery this afternoon. The funeral took place from the home of his son here, Edward Cooney, 301 Bethune street, to the Salvation Army Temple, where an impressive service was conducted by Commandant and Mrs. McElhiney, of Toronto, in the presence of a large congregation.

Unfortunately, the announcement of the late Mr. Cooney's death, yesterday, seems to have conveyed the impression that he died in the S. A. Industrial Home as an inmate. This was not intended, as Mr. Cooney, night watchman of the Home in question, passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Fran Bond, Baston avenue, Toronto, despite the best of medical attention and nursing. His illness, from pneumonia, only lasted three days.

Female Voice Choir Concert

The Female Voice Choir put on a concert in Reid street hall last evening in aid of the Misionary fund of Trinity Sunday school, with a good attendance. Rev. Mallott occupied the chair. The Choir, which is composed of lady vocalists of the city, all possessing excellent voices, repeated the success last evening which it achieved at its first appearance in the G.W.V.A. hall, and received enthusiastic applause for its different numbers.

Part One of the programme was composed of choruses and solos by the choir in sentimental songs for former days, with humorous additions, parodies and medleys. Soloists in this section were Mesdames Scholey, McKinstrey, Robertson, Rathbone and Miss E. Chandler, with a song by Miss Barbara Massey-Cooke, and two splendidly-rendered readings by Mrs. Fred McNeeley.

The Choir opened the second part of the program with two numbers, and solos given by the following artists, representing England, Miss Wade; Scotland, Mrs. McKinstrey; Ireland, Miss M. Allen; The Army, Capt. Hartshorn; and The Navy, Miss Barbara Massey-Cooke. A solo by Mrs. Rathbone and the Choir and the singing of "God Save the King" and "The Maple Leaf" concluded a very enjoyable entertainment, following which a vote of thanks was moved to the Choir by members of the 'Service for Others" Class, and refreshments were served to the Choir and their friends.

Members of the Choir are as follows: Mesdames Sharpe, Biggs, Wiggins, Hughes, Clarke, Paterson, McFarlane McKinstrey, Monk, Roberston, Scholey, Porter and Miss E. Chandler. Mrs. R. Bugg is the conductor of the bright musical organization and Mrs. Massey-Cooke plays the accompaniments.

Nervous Women Destroy Happiness

Weekly Health Talk No. 16 By A. P. Rogers, D.C.

Uncle Ben Says:

"If any o' your women folk say she doesn't care how she looks, and y' know she means it, telephone for the doctor, 'cause she's sick."

Women apparently are more given to "nerves" than men, though women have no monopoly of the trouble. The woman who has suffered a nervous breakdown is irritable, lacking in strength or reserve, and apparently always about to give out. The condition is often the cause of much family discord, for which disease rather than the woman should be blamed.

A nervous breakdown often is directly due to irritating pressure on spinal nerves to the stomach and the solar plexus region. Other points of irritation are usually found. The chiropractor adjusts the joints of the backbone that are causing this irritating pressure back to their normal position, and the relief that is experienced enables the victim to relax and sleep, often this sleep is the first really restful sleep since the inception of the disease. Recovery is always slow, but with the irritating pressure removed, there is a chance.

SUFFERED WITH "NERVES" FOR ELEVEN YEARS.

"About fifteen years ago my health broke down completely. I gave up school, in fact everything. Every doctor of medicine within twenty miles was consulted and treated me. But I remained a nervous wreck. Four years ago I tried chiropractic. There was a change from the start. To-day I am enjoying work and health. I want to commend chiropractic."—Miss Emma Johnson, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1512H.

Pay Tribute To Memory War Heroes

Local Ex-Service Men Parade Two Hundred Strong to All Saints' Church For Memorial Service.

BATTLE OF YPRES.

Two hundred ex-service men turned out yesterday for the annual church parade of the local branch of the Great War Veterans' Association. The service, which is in commemoration of the second battle of Yyres, was held at All Saints' church. The parade fell in in front of the G.W.V.A. building on Murray street at 10.30 o'clock. A short and stirring address was given by Captain S. Whatley, after which the Last Post was sounded and wreaths in memory of the soldier and sailor dead of the nation were placed on the base of the cenotaph. Captain Whatley's address was as follows:

Keep Day Sacred.

Mr. President and Comrades:

We have met to-day on the 7th anniversary of the 2nd Batle of Yyres to pay tribute to the memory of those of our comrades who paid the supreme sacrifice.

This is a day that should be forever set apart and kept as sacred, not only here in Canada, but wherever across the whole wide world the British flag salutes the sky.

On that day the British Empire stood in deadly danger, and it was saved from that danger by the heroism of her sons hailing from across the seas.

On tht day thousands of our men laid down their lives, building of their bodies a barricade, launching with their last breath as that deadly poison gas crept through their lungs, a superb defiance to the grey clad hordes that outnumbered them with overwhelming odds.

So to-day we meet once again to pay a tribute to the undying memory of those comrades who gave up their lives, and we bare our heads and thank God that by their courage and fortitude they saved the day, yea, and saved the Empire.

I think there comes a time in the lives of every one of us when mere words appear to be utterly inadequate to properly express our sentiments, and to-day is—such a time, and I am sure we are fully conscious of the fact.

If one were an historian he might perhaps write a glorious page in the history of this great commonwealth of nations, to which we have the privilege to belong, if he tried to portray that which our comrades did for the world of to-day and to-morrow from those early days when they endured their baptism of fire in the begining of 1915, down to the great hour of the 11th of November of 1918, when Mons was occupied.

If it were possible to embody in the hand and brain of one the gifts of all the great painters, past and present, that one might succeed in producing a canvas that would breathe a living spirit that was, and ommittee of the Whole Council Reported to Have Bulky File of Applications.

FORTY AFTER POSITION OF FIRE CHIEF

RESULT IN DOUBT

The Council goes to the mat with the Fire Chief problem to-night. Forty applications for the position will be set before the Committee of the Whole which Mayor Taylor has called for the specific purpose of opening and disposing of these applications.

Among the Aldermen doubts are expressed as to whether any change will be made in the leadership of the Fire Department. Its affairs have been running along tranquilly and smoothly as though no clouds had crossed its sky or were looming in it. Alarms have been responded to promptly, and there are all the pleasant sounds of harmony and understanding that are heard in a dovecote.

Members of the Council on the whole probably stand in the same positions they adopted when this question was in its preliminary stages several weeks ago, and if any were disposed to change their minds they would be open to a charge of not having given the matter the fullest and fairest consideration previously. It is generally understood that the most promising applicants must give evidence of experience and abilities that would warrant a change. Small town aspirants for the position will likely get short shrift from the committee, and it is possible that none of the entire forty will be accepted.

GIRLS MAY TAKE UP FIELD HOCKEY

Proposals for the introduction of field hockey into Peterboro's athletics for girls have been put forward of late, and although the idea has not yet passed the discussion stage three or four teams are in sight and may be organized before lon. Field hockey is quite popular among English girls, and since their Canadian sisters have shown a fondness and aptitude for ice hockey it is confidently believed that they would be equally attracted by the summer game which can be placed on a soccer pitch.

The Bonner-Worth section of the Canadian Woolens Athletic Association are reported to have two teams in sight now, and the Auburn branch would turn out another. If C.G.E., Quaker Oats or any other athletic associaton would be represented a local league could be easily formed. The proposal has been suggested to Mr. Walter Smaill, and further negogiations may be carried on right away with a view to considering the possibilities of introducing field hockey to Peterboro.

ONE KILLED, THREE HURT IN AUTOCAR SMASH.

BUFFALO, April 24 (Canadian Press). — Michael Zitzler, Buffalo, was killed, and William Meyers and Charles Kayser, Buffalo, and Carlton Bartlett, Brooklyn, wer injured when an automobile carrying a sightseeing party from Niagara Falls to Buffalo, collided with an automobile bus on the River Road this morning.

The Patron Saint of England Was Toasted Here on Saturday Evening

Over fifty members of Lansdowne Lodge, S.O.E., with guests from Cobourg, joined in celebrating St. George's Day on Saturday evening by a supper and programme of sports and music in their hall. Coleman's had charge of the refreshments.

The Patron Saint of England was toasted in a fitting manner, the president, R. Starr, proposing the toast, which was responded to by the singing of "The Red, White and Blue."

A splendid musical programme was given, embracing banjo solos by J. Parkins and his son, vocal numbers by F. Heafield, recitations by J. Runnett and R. T. Ivey, who was the oldest members in attendance, and numbers by Cobourg members.

During the evening W. G. Shiner referred to the fine showing Lansdowne Lodge made in the City Billiard League by winning the championship, and the efforts of Captain F. Joyes in this connection were highly eulogised.

Friendly games of carpet ball and billiards provided an interesting time. The carpet ball games ended with two wins to the credit of both Peterborough and Cobourg, although on points the lakeshore team won—44 to 42. In the billiard tourney F. Joyes won from all comers.

On acount of the condition of the roads, Millbrook and Lindsay lodges were unable to attend, and various speakers regretted their absence.

The visitors passed a vote of thanks to Lansdowne Lodge for the enjoyable entertainment, and an invitation was extended to visit Cobourg in the near future.

A Conference With The Coal Operators

NEW YORK, April 24.—(Canadian Press). — The Anthracite Coal Miners' Committee here in conference with the operators on the new wage scale will be reinforced by the presence of John L. Lewis, president of the United Miners Workers. They go into direct conference with the owners' committee tomorrow.

The anthracite miners here state that they will not accept a wage reduction.

IMPOSED FINE CHIEF WHETUNG

Case Decided in Favor of the Black Bass—Police Court News.

That Chief Dan. Whetung, of Curve Lake, had bass unlawfully in his possession on Friday, 31st March, was the finding of Magistrate O. A. Langley in the Police Court to-day, and the Indian chief, who was not present, but was represented by his counsel, J. F. Strickland, was fined $10.00, or given the alternative of two months in jail.

Magistrate Langley, reviewing the evidence, found that there were black bass in the lot of 29 found in Whetung's automobile by Inspector M. J. Woodcock, of the Game and Fisheries Department.

Whetung's own admission to the inspector 'that he knew he had no license to have the fish" he considered important. On acount of the difficulty over the colour of the bass, the Magistrate said the case had given him considerable worry, but considering all the facts, he had come to the conclusion that there were some black bass in the lot, and Whetung had committed an offence under the Act.

Magistrate Langley rated the inspector severely, however, for not getting more exact evidence in regard to the colour of the fish, which allowed a controversy on points of the law. He said Woodcock should have had experts see the fish before he sent them to the Protestant Home, and then there would have been clear, positive evidence for the Crown. He characterised Woodcock's evidence as unsatisfactory.

In imposing a fine upon Whetung, he said he was considering that fact that he was an Indian without any plenitude of money. The evidence of the Indian chief was that the fish were for his own use, and had not been discovered in the automobile until it was impossible for him to return to the Reserve, as he was bringing in a lady in the car to catch the morning train.

Lectured Boy.

With a sharp lecture on the observance of the game laws, the Magistrate allowed Walter Johnson, a twelve-year-old boy, to go, on the charge of taking a 'lunge out of season.

"You mustn't think because I'm letting you off that I'm not upholding the inspector. You must be careful, and if you get fish it is unlawful to keep, you must throw them in, but you must see that you do not use hooks that are apt to catch fish that it is unlawful to keep," His Worship said.

On Tuesday, 18th, Inspector Woodcock arrived at the Locks Dam just in time to see the young boy and other boys taking out a five-pound 'lunge. The fish was at Johnson's feet, so he believed he was responsible. The young boy, however, said bigger boys he did not know had assisted in the catch.

The 'lunge had a great wound in its side, and Woodcock said had he thrown it in it would have died. He gave the fish to the House of Providence. The Inspector stated that there was no law against gaffs, but a great many other fish besides suckers —which are legitimate prey—were caught.

J. W. Stevenson, through the Children's Aid Society, appeared for the boy as he was under sixteen.

Paid the Fine.

Mat.thew Edwards a resident of Lang, blamed a Saturday afternoon inebriation on a bottle of beef, iron, and wine. He drank it about ten in the morning, and dodged the police until four o'clock, when he was led into the Police Station. So he wouldn't be back again for some time, the Magistrate set the fine at $20.00, and costs, or two months

Strange as it may seem, there were a couple of men around in a few minutes ready to pay the fine, for Edwards is said to be a hard worker.

Women Run Town

STANWOOD, Mich., April 24.—Women are running this town.

And it's at the men folks' request!

There was no bitter battle at the polls. Instead, some 300 husbands and bachelors cast their votes for a petticoat government, and just three votes were cast for male candidates for office.

It is the first time any of the women officials have dabbled in politics. Mrs. George W. Reed, vilage president explains it this way:

"When the men asked us to run we naturally asked them why they wanted women in office

"We're going to turn the town over to you women and see if we can't get rid of those infernal slot machines', they told us. 'Boy's fingers seem to itch for those machines and we look to you women to do some housecleaning.

"Then we decide that if mothering was needed, we'd do he mothering.

During the campaign the candidates stayed at home while the men voted them into office.

FRANCE MAY WITHDRAW FROM THE CONFERENCE.

BAR LE DUC, France, April 24 (Canadian Press). — Premier Poincare announced here to-day that if the French delegation at Genoa could not go ahead with its work under the agreed conditions, France would regretfully have to cease participation in the Conference.

ANNIVERSARY OF YPRES IS CELEBRATED

Local Members of 2nd Battalion Hold Dinner in Commemoration of Famous Struggle.

RECALL OLD DAYS

Memories of the outbreak of the war, of the mobilization camp at Valcartier, of Salisbury mud, and more particularly of the night march up the Brilen road and the early morning charge that marked the entrance of the 2nd Battalion C.E.F., into the second battle of Ypres, were revived on Saturday evening when the surviving local members of the Iron Seconds observed the seventh anniversary of that battle by a banquet at the Empress Hotel.

The affair was a splendid success from every point of view. Nearly every original member of the 2nd Battalion living in Peterboro attended and there were others present who did not go to France with the 2nd but were sent to it afterwards, so that the reunion was a thoroughly representative one.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P., Mr. T. Tooms, M.P.P., and Mayor Taylor, were guests, and participated in the toast list.

Lieut.-Col. Jos. Mills, the 2nd Battalion's first quartermaster, was chairman, and he discharged his duties very acceptably. Incidentally he made his comrades live up to the motto of their unit, "Semper Paratus," for many of them were called upon without warning for speeches. And they all made good.

A most excellent repast was served by the Empress staff, and the veterans who entered the room to the strains of "Come to the Cook-House Door, Boys," carried out an attack that took every objective without casualties. Then came the toast list, Cl. Mills first reading messages of regret at their inability to be present from Major Garnet Greer of Kingston, the Battalion's first medical officer, and From Col. McLaughlin of Bowmanville, the last commanding officer of the unit. Secretary Whatley of the G. W. V. A., also sent a message expressing the hope that the reunion would be a happy success.

After the toast to the King had been honored in loyal fashion, Col. Mills proposed the toast "Our Fallen Comrades," paying an eloquent tribute to the memory of Major G. V. Bennett and the other members of the Battalion who made the supreme sacrifice in the second battle of Ypres. The toast was honored silently.

To Lt. Col. Clegg fell the responsibility of proposing the toast "Canada." In doing so he referred to the Valcartier history of the 2nd Battalion and also took advantage of the occasion to congratulate Mr. G. N. Gordon upon his elevation to the position of Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons.

Mr. Gordon replied to the toast in an eloquent speech in which he referred to the gratitude that should be accorded the men who fought for their services and in which he also reminded the members of the 2nd Battalion that they still had a responsibility here at home in keeping British institutions and ideals before those newcomers to Canada who were not of British descent.

"The Old Battalion."

Captain Winterbottom was called upon to propose the health of "The Old Battalion." In doing so he urged the desirability of the members of the 2nd Battalion forming an organisation so that they could frequently have re-unions.

Lieut.-Col. Chas. Ackerman, in responding, gave some interesting reminiscences of early days in the 2nd Battalion.

Mr. Heber Rogers proposed the toast to "The Ladies," and Messrs. W. A. Wood and Ernie Nicholls were asked to respond on behalf of the fair sex. All the speakers emphasised the value of the work done by the women during the war.

The next toast was to "Ontario," proposed by Major Gifford, who referred to the splendid support the people of Ontario had given their soldiers at the Front.

Mr. Tooms, M.P.P., in reply, also emphasised Ontario's war effort, and quoted some very interesting figures to show that Ontario was indeed the banner Province of the Dominion.

"A Company."

The toast to "A Company, 2nd Battalion," was proposed by Sergt.

Oddfellows Extolled by Dr. Blagrave

Attend Divine Service at St. John's Yesterday in Goodly Strength of Both Sex.

A BRIEF HISTORY.

Established in British North America, at Baltimore, on April 26, 1819, next Wednesday will be the 103rd anniversary of the birth of the Independent Order of Oddfellows on this continent. And in commemoration of that event the members of the three local lodges I.O.O.F.—Peterobrough, Otonabee and Rebekah (the latter a ladies' affiliation)—attended divine service at St. John's church last evening in goodly strength. The men turned out some 175 strong, the women to the number of about 100, and the church-like old sacred edifice was crowded to overflowing. A festival atmosphere marked both the service and attendance in that the opening processional was effected by the main entrance of the church, the choir marching up the centre aisle to their seats in the chancel, singing in well trained voice, "Onward Christian Soldiers," the service itself was choral, and both visiting Oddfellows and choristers wore floral buton-holes of red roses in honor perhaps of England's patrons saint, St. George.

A peculiar coincidence of this Oddfellows' anniversary of the inception of their Order in the British colonies of North America was that yesterday was not only St. George's day, that Saint with whose people Oddfellowship originated, but it was likewise the seventh anniversary of the second battle of Ypres in which so many Canadian Britishers, and Oddfellows, too, gave up their lives. And so as a fitting tribute to that stupendous sacrifice by Canadians, including Major G. W. Bennett, of this city, in that memorable strategic armed resistance for home, country and Empire, the large audience stood with bowed heads in silent prayer for a few moments.

The Rebekahs did not march from their lodge rooms, but assembled in the school house adjacent to the church.

A Brief History.

In a brief history of Oddfellowship, it might be in place here to refer to the inception of the Mother Order from which the Independent Body sprung. The name Oddfellowship is assumed by one of the most extensive self-goverened provident associations in the world. It originated in Manchester, England in 1812, and spread with amazing rapidity all over England and Scotland, also gaining a substantial footing in the British Colonies, and even in Constantinople (organized in 1862.) Independently—that is as the present I.O.O.F.— Oddfellowship is firmly established on a flourishing and growing basis in America, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, West Indies and other British countries. In connection with the Mother Order it is interesting to note that an early number of this magazine described an Oddfellow as "like a fox for cunning; a dove for tameness, a lamb for innocence, a lion for boldness, a bee for industry and a sheep for usefulness."

Principles of Humanity.

The principles of the I.O.O.F. are those of humanity, its object being to promote the general good of mankind, and to spread abroad the light of morality and fraternalism. Also to relieve the sick, bury the dead, educate the orphan, for which latter purpose, as well as in aid of indigent and aged members, there is a beautiful and commodious home in Toronto. Six million dollars are now expended annually in their fraternal work.

Origianted in Baltimore.

The I.O.O.F., originating in Baltimore in 1819, with a lodge of five members who had imbibed the principles of Oddfellowship in England, has now expanded into tremendous proportions, with a memership of over 2,125,000 in the world and 100,000 Oddfellows and Rebekahs in Canada. And its memebrship comprises some of the best people in communities wherever established—statesmen, professional lights and merchant princes and naval and military leaders. In this city Peter-

ROTARIANS HEAR ABOUT THE INDIES

Reg. H. Turner Gives Report of Recent Trip of Canadian Manufacturers

SPLENDID PAPER

The installation of the new officers for the ensuing year, and a splendid report by Rotarian Reg. H. Turner of the recent trip of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to the British West Indies, were outstanding features of to-day's noonday luncheon at the Empress, which was very largely attended. The guests included Rotarians Herb. Hall, of Toronto, and Billy Doyle, of Belleville. New members who were introduced into Rotary were F. A. Hodgson, Hugh Bertram and R. A. Browne.

Past President Fred. L. Roy occupied the chair during the early part of the luncheon until the new officers were installed, Rotarian H. R. H. Kenner performing the duties of installing officer in a manner that drew mingled laughter and applause from the gathering. The new President, John Crane, then took charge of the luncheon. The other new officers are: V. J. McElderry, vice-president; Douglas Lawrie, secretary; Frank Linton, treasurer, and C. H. Rogers and J. W. McDermid, directors.

Rotarian Chris. Graham introduced the speaker of the day in a speech that threw some new and striking sidelights upon the history of Rotarian Turner.

The story of the Canadian manufacturers' visit to the West Indies was related in a most interesting manner by Rotarian Turner, who told of the various points of interest visited, and emphasized the wonderful hospitality accorded the visitors at every hand. After relating the details of the trip, the speaker dwelt for a few minutes upon the question of the development of trade between Canada and the West Indies, giving his opinion as to what steps should be taken to foster and encourage trade relations.

The Examiner hopes to be able to publish the report in full in the near future.

Rotarians Walter Smaill, Jas. Hamilton and Gerald Wood were added to the Entertainment Committee, and Rotarians Reg. Turner and Rollie Denne were appointed a committee with power to add to their number to arrange for a big field day of sports under Rotary auspices on Victoria Day.
